Floracita, by Red Cloak, son of Red Wilkes, has no mark yet, but she was a close second to F. W. in 2:12¼, 2:15¾ and 2:18¼. She will get in some day.

Eureka, by Ira, son of Piedmont, is one of the finest trotters out this year. He earned a record of 2:15¼ in the second heat of a race at Chico, August 17th.

Harry E. Wise, owner of Lena N., 2:13¼, is reported to have made $75,000 in the recent wheat deal. He is one of the shrewdest business men in San Francisco.

Fantasie is the pretty name of Ed Witherill's bay mare by Ranchero out of Lady Kate that is winning races at Montana, and got a record of 2:17¾ there last week.

Marcus Daly's pacing mare India Silk, by Prodigal, out of Brown Silk, by Baron Wilkes, won a three-heat race at Old Orchard, Maine, in 2:14¼, 2:12½ and 2:14½.

W. W. Whitney, of Los Angeles, has in training the pacer, Bernard, having purchased him from W. H. Smith. Bernard is entered in the 2:17 pace at Los Angeles.

The four fastest harness horses by the records are: John R. Gentry, 2:00½; Robert J., 2:01½; Joe Patchen, 2:01½, and Star Pointer, 2:02½—three stallions and one gelding.

At Chico, last Thursday, the thermometer registered 110 degrees in the shade, and the races passed off smoothly without a horse or driver being seriously affected by the heat.

There will be a race meeting at Salinas this year that will eclipse any heretofore held there. Salinas was the first city in California to feel the effects of the wave of prosperity.

Hijo del Diablo, 2:11½, as a three-year-old, has a better mark than his sire Diablo got at that age, 2:14½; the Diablos will be in evidence on our California tracks hereafter.

If the Oakwood Park Stock Farm had not disposed of so many of its best trotters and pacers this year they would have been seen at all our circuit meetings. Everybody misses them.

Send in your subscriptions. The Breeder and Sportsman is worthy of the support of every horse owner and trainer on the Pacific Coast, for it accomplished wonders for them this year.

The name of Mrs. Callendine's handsome chestnut two-year-old that won a race and got a record of 2:22¼, pacing, at Chico is Diawood. He was sired by Diablo, 2:09¼, out of a mare by Nutwood.

The skeleton of Reavis' Blackbird, sire of Mamie Griffin, 2:12¾, and Vic H., 2:15, is mounted at the State Normal School, Chico, Cal. He died in the same pasture the old campaigner Monroe Chief, 2:18, did.

Tommy Britton, the champion two year-old of 1895, made his appearance in the 2:15 trot at Fort Erie after a year's let-up. He trotted the third heat in 2:12¾, which is the best of the year for a four-year old colt.

The Rancho del Paso will not campaign any of its trotters this year. Some may be leased by trainers but none will be entered by the farm. There are some of the finest and most promising horses in California on this great place.

The two-year-old John A. McKerron, sired by Nutwood Wilkes, is liable to get a 2:20 mark this season. He is one of the smoothest-going horses in California. He and Prince Ansel will have many a hard battle on the circuit.

The idea of having a parade of all trotting stock on the track during a race meeting is a popular one, especially when their names, pedigrees and performances are so distinctly announced as they are by Starter F. W. Covey.

The following horses lowered their records to the following marks at Chico in one race last week: Bay Rum, 2:17¼, by John Sevenoaks; Clay S, by Grover Clay, 2:17½; Faro Bank, by Don Marvin, 2:16½, and Nina L, 2:17¼, by Echo Royal.

There is a brother to Welcome, 2:09 and Wayland W., 2:12, at L. A. McIntosh's farm near Chico that bids fair to be faster than either of these illustrious campaigners. He is a well formed two-year-old, and knows nothing but the trotting gait.

Our Lucky, by Rajah, is sound this season and going fast in his work at Los Angeles. He trotted a mile last week in 2:15; last half in 1:05½. Mr. Starr has a full sister to Lucky that is working miles in 2:20, the stable is being handled by Chil Sanford.

Ben Benjamin, the well-known sporting writer, complains of the lack of interest secretaries of race meetings in California have taken in the light harness horse owners in Montana, many of whom never received an entry blank. This is a serious omission.

Patchen Wilkes Farm's great stallion Onward now has five of his get in the 2:10 list, and is a close second to Altamont, who has six. Onward's 2:10 list consists of Beuzetta, 2:06¾, and the pacers Pearl Onward, 2:06½, Colbert, 2:09½, Gazette, 2:09¼, and Col. Thornton, 2:09½.

The three-year-old bay colt Anselor, that won his first race at Chico last Thursday in 2:22½, 2:21½ and 2:22, was sired by Electricity, 2:17¾, out of Anselma, 2:29½, by Ansel, 2:20; second dam Elaine, 2:20. He traces three times to Green Mountain Maid and will get well inside the 2:20 list this season.

Secretary C. M. Barney, of the Woodland Association writes: "Our track is in better condition this year than it has ever been and the talk among horsemen is that when the 'campaigners' get here there will be records to record. The prospects for a good meeting are excellent, much better than for several years."

The two-year-old pacer, I Direct, that was defeated by Diawood at Chico, August 18th in 2:24 and 2:22½ is by Direct, 2:05½, out of Francesca, by Almont; second dam, Frances Breckenridge, by Sentinel, and so on to the 20th dam (thoroughbred), and is liable to get a very low mark this year. He is one of the best-bred and most highly-formed colts in this State.

Miss Margaret, by Direct, 2:05½, is another good one to the credit of this great little horse. She started in the 2:24 class pacing race at Fort Wayne August 13th, and got a record of 2:13¼. Miss Margaret belongs to one of the most highly respected citizens of Livermore, Alameda county, who owns her dam, and has always taken a great interest in the "Direct" family.

H. Smith, of the Buffalo Association, has taken four Chimes offsprings to Vienna, to-wit: Charming Chimes, 2:17¼, stallion, by Chimes and Charmer; Fanny Bug at two years old, 2:17½, by Chimes, dam Lady Bug; Three Bells, brown horse, by Chimes, dam Arleen, and Sitka Chimes, dam Arleen, and Sitka Chimes, by Chimes, dam Electra; the last two have no record.

F. H. Burke, the well-known horseman, arrived from Butte last Friday. He says the meeting there is a splendid one and money quite plentiful. He also added: "That three-year-old pacer Searchlight is the greatest colt I ever saw, and I look for him to lower the world's record for pacers." Mr. Burke's horses, in charge of Ed Lafferty, will arrive at Woodland next Saturday.

The greatest three-year-old that ever appeared on the turf is the chestnut colt Cresceus, by Robert McGregor, out of Mabel (dam of Nightingale, 2:10½). At Fort Wayne, Ind., August 10th, he won the fastest eight heat race ever trotted. He equalled Directum's record of 2:11¼ in the seventh and eighth heats. Fifteen thousand dollars would not buy him from his owner, Geo. H. Ketcham.

Everyone around Petaluma remembers Lee Shaner's little bay stallion Sidmoor (Jack Dempsey). He was by Sidney, out of a mare by the Grand Moor, and was only bred to a few mares. One was a well-made roan, sired by Dawn, that belonged to a prominent physician there. The result of this union was a roan colt, which was named Teddy the Roan. He is a pacer, and at Chico got a record of 2:17½.

Chanty (2), 2:24½, by Guy Wilkes, dam Chantilly, by Nutwood, and that stepped a mile recently over Readville in 2:15¾, last quarter in 32 seconds, is owned by James Hanley of Providence, R. I., who bought him at the Corbitt sale in New York last winter for $1,550. Demarest says that he will give the colt only one or two races before starting him in the Futurity, as he is giving him special preparation for that event. Previous to the mile in 2:15¾, he worked three miles in 2:32, 2:22 and 2:18.

The green four-year-old pacer, Dan M., by Prodigal—Maggie McDowell, 2:21¼, by Sidney, who was in Knap McCarthy's Grand Circuit string, has been sent home. He has a world of speed, but is too high-strung and nervous to race. He can pace miles in better than 2:10 in his work, but as soon as he knows he is to race he becomes excited and over-anxious. In all of his races he showed great speed, but Knap was continually fighting the flag, because of his unsteadiness. He may be tried again later in the season.

Talk about aged campaigners! Montana has her share of them just at present. At Butte, August 2d, sixteen year-old Fantasia reduced her record to 2:19¼, and four days later eighteen-year-old Meteor trotted in 2:17¾. Strange as it appears, both of these antediluvians are in Jeffries' stable. When it comes to aged records, however, there is not much danger of the record of Goldsmith Maid ever being surpassed. She trotted in 2:17½ when sixteen; in 2:14 when seventeen; in 2:14½ when eighteen; in 2:14 when nineteen, and in 2:14½ when twenty years old. There will never be another Goldsmith Maid.

Osito, by McKinney, came near dying on the track at Chico. He was affected with the thumps and the judges advised his driver, Chas. A. Durfee, to withdraw him as they, being practical horsemen, saw the horse was suffering. Mr. Durfee said he would not unless he got his entrance money ($20) back. So the horse started and in going up to score reeled and fell down on the track. For a few moments it was thought he would die, but by bleeding him he recovered sufficiently to stagger back to his stall where he received every attention and was soon out of danger. It was a very close call for this splendid son of McKinney.

L. Rockman is making great preparations for the five days' fair and races to be held October 5 9 and from the encouragement already received is sanguine of success. He calls special attention of farmers and fruit growers to the liberal premiums that will be paid on farm products and hopes that the pavilion display will be a credit to the county. Entries to this display will be free of charge and a gold medal will be awarded to the handsomest individual display in the pavilion. The fair is advertised in another column of this issue and full particulars may be had on application to Mr. Rockman at the fair grounds or by mail.

One of the few two-year-olds to beat 2:20 thus far this year is Lady Moyra, 2:18½, a product of Gretna Farm, Wheaton, Ill., the property of Frank S. Gorton. She is a rarely bred one, being by Saccharine, son of Director, 2:17, and Sweetness, 2:21½, the dam of Sidney, 2:19¾, by Volunteer. Her dam, Alice Rider, is the first producing daughter of Judge Rider, 2:26, and her grandam is Fashion, the dam of Campwood, 2:29, by Blackwood 74; third dam Montezuma's dam, by Alexander's Abdallah. George West is handling the Gretna Farm horses this year, and is meeting fast company wherever he starts, but with more than customary success.

Panado, son of Pancoast, 2:21¾, and Tallulah, by Hero of Thorndale; second dam, Edith Carr, dam of Campbell's Flectioneer, 2:17¾, died at Rushville, Ill, August 9th. While not particularly prominent as a sire, Panado has done much for the stock interests of Schuyler county, Ill, having been owned at Rushville since 1886, by Rodewald Bros., who bought him at the Glenview dispersal sale for $900. His fastest performers are the pacers J. W. Goodwin, 2:15½, and Vestell, 2:19½. When taken to Illinois Panado was the only standard bred horse in Schuyler county, and there were few mares of the trotting breed in that section of the State. His death, just as he was demonstrating his worth, is a misfortune not only to his enterprising owners, but to the light harness interests of his section as well.

Secretary Smith speaks in glowing terms of the races at the State Fair, and says that so great has been the demand for accommodations that it has been found necessary to build 100 additional stalls at Agricultural Park. Men have been at work there fixing up the grounds and, when the fair opens, they will never have been in better shape. Among the directors the opinion prevails that this is to be one of the greatest years in the history of California's State Fair. There have been during the past twelve months no counter attractions to divert the public, and people have been looking forward to this as the event of the year. In addition to this good prices have been realized from farm products and the directors confidently expect an immense coming together of people in Sacramento during the first two weeks in September.—Record Union.

Mosul, the five-year-old son of Sultan and Virginia Maid, that trotted his record of 2:09¼ at Columbus during the Grand Circuit meeting there, was bred by William Ellison, Richmond, Va., and placed in the stud at Glenlea Farm when two years old, was kept entire till the summer of his three-year old form, and then gelded. During the fore part of 1896 Mosul was used around the streets of Richmond as a buggy horse and then sold to his present owner, W. M. Parrish, who drove him to a carriage. Soon after he was placed in training, and with three weeks' work started in the 2:35 trot at the summer meeting of the Lee Pleasure Park Association and won the first in 2:32½, but was not prominent afterward and stood for fourth money in the summary of the race of six heats, which went to Marian Craig, son of Nuthurst. He was not started again till the fall, when at the State Fair meeting he won the 2:30 trot, after dropping the first heat to Majel, and went into winter quarters with a mark of 2:29¼.

By. Holly cleaned up over $600 over the win of Fortunate. He lost something like $75 on I Don't Know, as he was a little timid about beating the Oregon sprinter.—Anaconda Standard, Aug. 20th.

W. ("Butch") Fisher has thirteen or fourteen gallopers in training at Ingleside track, and the course presents a lively appearance these mornings, there being in the neighborhood of 125 race horses stabled there.

W. Knight, the young turfman from Eureka, Humboldt county, is at Ingleside track, He has Mamie Scott and two others in training, one being Dr. Posey's three old colt Marmion, by Three Cheers, dam by Gen. Harding, Hamburg won the Electric Handicap at Brighton Beach last Saturday, carrying 132 lbs. He ran the six furlongs in 1:14¼. The Friar won the Brighton Cup, two and one-quarter miles, in 3:56½—a quarter of a second behind the record.

We acknowledge receipt from The Easton Company of sales catalogues of the Elmendorf Stud of C. J. Enright, Willamette Stud of Messrs. J. B. Ewing and J. B. Malone and the Hurricana Stud of S. Sanford & Sons. They are all very complete, especially the latter.

Barney Schreiber's Siva won a five and one half furlong race at St. Louis on Monday last, while his crack little rider, Johnny Woods, put Depending (3 to 1) and Tradition (7 to 5) first over the plate at Harlem. Besides, litttle Woods was second on Evanatus and third on Ursula.

The Prince of Wales' br f Mousme, winner of the July Stakes at Newmarket, is by St. Simon, dam Fanchette, by Speculum; second dam Reticence, by Vespasian (sire of the dam of imp. Maxim); third dam Seclusion (dam of Hermit, winner of the Derby), by Tadmor. Royal breeding this, surely!

T. Murphy, who rode out here last winter for Ed Corrigan, is piloting horses with considerable success. He put two winners over the plate on the 19th inst—Komurasaki at 6 to 1, and Wilson at 4 to 1. Piggott rode a winner, a second and a third the same day. The winner was old Don Fulano.

Senator S. N. Androus, President of the Pacific Coast Jockey Club, was at the Harlem (Chicago) track August 20th. He, with Richard M. Johnson, was the guest of genial Barney Schreiber. The Senator is East in the interest of his club and is also looking out for the Los Angeles Association, in which he is a director.

Charley Walters, the well-known bookmaker, was in Cincinnati the other day, having come down from Chicago on a matter of private business. He reports the game good at Harlem. There were 18 books on Saturday, and big crowds are at the track every day, and there was plenty of money in the ring. Mr. Walters has been booking up there since he left Oakley. He says he thinks the meeting will continue until snow flies. There does not, he says, appear to be any opposition whatever to the meeting. On the contrary, the business men and others who are prominent in affairs want it.

Speaking of some ponies in India, the last Asian said: "They are very breedy looking, with lots of bone and strength, and range from 12·2 to 13·3. Tory, a 12-hands racing pony, has a wonderful record. She has been racing nine years, and one fails to find a blemish on her, and this after winning over one hundred and forty races!"

George Frederick, the Epsom Derby-winner of 1874, who died in Canada recently, was the oldest Derby-winner alive. He stood in France for many years. The best representatives of George Frederick were Frontin, Beau Brummel (sire of Miss Brummel) and Colorado. George Frederick was by Marsyas from Princess of Wales.

James Woods, of Emeryville, father of the exceedingly clever little rider, Johnny Woods, now with Barney Schreiber, left last Saturday for Chicago, where his son now is. Mr. Woods is an enthusiastic turfman and generally owns a few flyers himself. Lady Gray and Mollie Bawn were raced by him, as well as Silverado and Juan Bernardo.

Kansas City, August 24.—Thomas Carey, one of the proprietors of the Derby poolroom, which was raided by the police last week, was tried before Justice Krueger to day for maintaining a public nuisance, and was discharged. As a result of the decision the poolrooms which have been closed since the raid will be opened for business tomorrow.

The broodmare La Paloma, foaled 1886, by Jils Johnson, dam Thunder Cloud, by imp. Thunderstorm, out of Ballet, by Planet, and her suckling colt, by imp. De Beauvoir, the property of T. J. Clay, Lexington, Ky., were killed by lightning in her paddock recently. The name of her dam and dam's sire, together with the killing by lightning, is a rather strange coincidence.

Free Will, the Brown Fox mare in R. Hughes' stable, won some good races at the Glenbrook Park meeting, one being at five and a half furlongs, run in 1:08½. Emma D. beat William O'B. and Grady six furlongs in 1:15 on the 20th inst., and won on the first day of the meeting also. Riot and Myron, supposed to be "has-beens," managed to finish in front of their fields.

It is proposed to hold four days' races in Hollister, from October 20th to 23d, providing sufficient encouragement is given by our business men. The fair will follow that of Salinas, and will bring a lot of high class horses here. The track is in good condition, and a successful meeting is within the possibilities. A committee will take the matter in hand shortly and canvass for subscriptions—San Benito Advance.

A good attendance was present at South Park Sunday afternoon to witness the running races. The first event, three-eighths of a mile dash, brought the following horses to the starter: Nela Clan, Mabel C and Lulu S. They came under the wire in the order named. Time, 0:37½. The second race was a quarter-mile dash between Johnny D. and Pearl S. Johnny was ridden by Mrs. Jas. A. Connors and won easily in 0:26½ —Humboldt Times.

Rancho del Paso-bred horses were very much in the hunt at Brighton Beach August 18th, winning three of the six races on the day's card. Talisman, by Fitz James—Nonage, won the first race, mile and a sixteenth; Junior, by imp. Sir Modred—Nonage, therefore half-brother to Talisman, won the second event, for two-year-olds, defeating a field of thirteen, while Salabar, by Salvator—Bavaria, annexed the fifth race, five furlongs, beating a grand field.

T. McHugh has been given leave to resume riding for his stable (Tully Coulter's) only. Bozeman is still under the ban, and, according to the judge, will remain so, though it seems curious justice that acquits the alleged criminal and convicts the accessory.—Chicago Inter-Ocean, August 20th. "The alleged criminal" mentioned is Louis Ezell. He has been racing his horses at Kansas City of late, and with fair success. Bozeman is a California lad and rode for Ezell.

Among the strings of gallopers now at Ingleside might be mentioned those of Matt Storn (six head at present), Sam Hildreth (seven), Ed Corrigan (six or seven head), Plunger McManus (seven or eight, managed by Hugh Henry, trained by Charley Pleasants, formerly of the Baldwin stable), W. ("Butch") Fisher (thirteen or fourteen belonging to Joe Harvey, Jimmy Conway and himself), W. Knight (three) William Dixon (three or four) and R Hughes (seven or eight).

A curious deduction has been drawn by the Government veterinarian in New South Wales, as a result of his investigations on stringhalt in Australian horses, as he has formed the opinion that it is caused by the irritation of the bowels produced by sand, which adheres to the grass consumed by them. He bases his views upon the intimate connection which exists between bowel affection and spinal cord affection in a horse, and assimilates the state of an animal which eats sand with that of one which suffers from the presence of intestinal worms.

G. P. Schafer, Commissioner for the German Savings and Loan Society of San Francisco, sold the Dorsey tract of land near Oakdale north of the Stanislaus river to satisfy a judgment for $65,434.30, which included all costs and interest up to date, Wednesday forenoon, at the courthouse.—Stanislaus County News. This property belonged to the estate of the late Col. Caleb Dorsey, who bred many noted racers in Stanislaus County. The Colonel was an honorable gentleman much beloved by all those having the pleasure of his acquaintance.

Capt. Ben E. Harris, of this city, has invented a jockey board that we predict will soon be in use on every first-class race track in America. It contains the numbers, corresponding with the numbers on the programme, painted on the outside of a frame, within which the names of the jockeys appear. The strip of wood on which is painted a jockey's name has a clasp which fastens to a peculiarly-constructed chain, and the board can be turned, in any manner the operator sees fit, within the frame. The other side of the board contains the names of the jockeys engaged in the next event, and at the conclusion of a race the board is turned around in an instant, displaying the jockeys' names (with number on the programme opposite), doing away with the tantalizing waits that one is subject to under the plan now in vogue. When a horse is scratched a blank space is left opposite the number.

Jockey Jesse Clutter was killed on the Exposition race course at Kansas City last Monday afternoon. He had the mount on Dazzle, an odds-on favorite, in the second race. The horse went down and the boy's skull was fractured by the fall. He died in an ambulance en route to the hospital. In the first race, Sir Archer and Lulu S. fell. Jockey Joe Weber, who went down with Lulu S., was carried from the track unconscious. He is badly hurt, but will recover. The bookmakers at the track have secured a temporary injunction in the State Circuit Court restraining the police from interfering with them.

Said Jack Burns: "A friend of mine stood behind Riley Grannan during the progress of the Navarre-Domino dead heat, and he told me that the young Kentuckian was so wrought up over the contest that he couldn't bear to look at it. Bookmaker George Wheelock was standing alongside of Grannan and described the race for him. Grannan looked straight ahead, with one hand fumbling at his watch chain and the other holding a pair of field glasses at his side. He seemed to be completely unnerved and was unable to screw up courage enough to watch the race, the result of which meant the gain or loss of a fortune to him. On the other hand, another friend of mine happened to be standing alongside of Pittsburg Phil the day he made such a tremendous killing with King Cadmus. Phil watched the race through his glasses and never uttered a murmur when Cadmus and two other horses finished heads apart on the post. 'You win, Phil,' said my friend to the great plunger, and sure enough he did, as King Cadmus' number was hung out as the words were uttered. 'Well, it's a good thing for me,' said Phil, as he exhibited a bunch of winning tickets on King Cadmus calling for $80,000."

The following dispatch was received from Sacramento last Monday night: "The State Board of Agriculture this afternoon let the pool privileges of the State Fair to Leach & Co. Ayers & Co. bid $9,000, or 75 per cent. of the gross receipts. Al. Leach & Co. bid 80 per cent. of the gross receipts; W. J. Killip bid 75 per cent. and Wm. Fitch, of Montana, 67½ per cent. The scalping privilege was let to Mulholland and Corbett for $25 a day." What caused the directors to let such a "privilege" is an unfathomable mystery, in view of its manifest unpopularity of "scalping" wherever tried. What is to prevent the lessees of the privilege from hiring a number of stout, bullet-headed obstructionists with the aim of keeping people holding winning tickets away from the cashiers' windows? And who would grumble at the men who pay $25 per day for the "privilege" from trying to "get their money out" in this way? The directors will be the ones to blame if any trouble is fomented, not the lessees of the peculiar privilege—a privilege that should never exist. However, if Leach & Co. have three "pay windows" and will resist obstruction, they will render the privilege almost valueless. The lessees are friendly to us and we wish them well, but it is the letting of such a privilege that is to be deplored.

The readiness with which the word is given to the bunches of runners now performing at Glenwood Park is a matter of marvel to old horsemen who have not heretofore had the privilege of viewing any of the mechanical devices which have been introduced into speed contests within recent years. To see a galaxy of ten or a dozen impatient and in many instances erratic equines sent off with so little scoring is a revelation indeed. It is a pleasant one to the spectators, who in years gone by often often took on some of the impatience of the animal before a start was made. The contrivance which the Glenbrook patrons had the satisfaction of witnessing in the mile dashes is the patent of Captain Ben E. Harris, one of the best-known horsemen and students of equine life on the Pacific Coast. He has made an improvement over all the patents which have sprung up as racing gates, in that his affords safety to horses and mounts. Every element of danger has been eliminated, the action is the most rapid and its portable character makes it advantageous to race course owners on the ground of economy. The springs, clasps and the netting, which constitutes the gate, are of the very best material. There is nothing about it to confuse by reason of complicated construction, and in its use nothing but good judgment on the part of the starter is required. Captain Harris' gate is destined to take the lead over all others. —Grass Valley Union.

A correspondent of the Asian speaks as follows of the Newmarket (Eng.) sales this year: "Owners and breeders of blood stock took an earlier departure than backers and bookies the next week to Newmarket, for Messrs. Tattersall's sales commenced on Monday, and there was rather a big catalogue, which included the late Mr. Fulton's stud. Of this lot the highest price was paid for the handsome Laodamia, Lord Marcus Beresford going as far as 3,000 guineas for the daughter of Kendal, said to be in foal to Isinglass. The produce here may turn out worth the money, at any rate I personally think the Prince got a bargain. Of the other brood mares submitted, Crystabelle (with a foal by Cherry Ripe) fell to Mr. C. Webly's bid of 1,450 guineas, and Comedy became the property of Mr. T. Lewis for 1,150 guineas, her yearling filly going into the same hands for 410 guineas. St. Michael, among the horses in training, was bought for 1,400 guineas by Mr. Clayton, and the two-year old filly by Surefoot from Loversall went to Mr. Heaton for 810 guineas. The attendance was large Tuesday evening, and all the half-dozen sent up by Mr. E. A. Woolfe changed hands at the satisfactory average of 399 guineas. None of those from the Yardley Stud found buyers, and only seven of the Heather Stud consignment were disposed of. Wednesday the Prince of Wales was an interested spectator of the proceedings for some time. The yearlings sent up by Lord Londonderry attracted most attention, and one of them, a colt by St. Simon out of Daisy Chain, named Simonside, realized the highest price, going to Capt. Machell for 2,000 guineas. At the evening auction twenty of the forty-two lots on the catalogue failed to reach the reserves placed upon them, and the longest figure was reached for a colt by Sir Hugo from Ice, obtained by Mr. W. M. G. Singer for 1,350 guineas, after a spirited competition with Sir W. Ingram, Mr. W. Lambton, Mr. L. Brassey, and E. C. Clayton. Then on Thursday some excellent yearlings changed hands during the proceedings. The four sent up by Mr. Daniel Cooper all found fresh owners at an aggregate of 2,450 guineas, the highest price being forthcoming for a colt by Sheen out of Footlight, taken for 1,400 guineas by Mr. E. C. Clarke. In the evening another large company assembled. For a filly by St. Simon out of Hampton Rose Mr. Larnach gave 1,350 guineas, and at 1,100 guineas a colt by Crafton out of Hampton Agnes was knocked down to Sir J. Miller.

A Pleasing Outlook for Horse Breeders

From every quarter comes news of an increased demand for good horses of all descriptions, and, with the demand, prices are steadily advancing. It is not "a boom," for there will never be another of these. The aftermath of a boom in real estate or horses will not be hurriedly forgotten, for "a boom" always develops into a boomerang that hits hard enough to knock thousands "out"—in a financial way. The law of supply and demand is everything. The "short" wheat crops of India and other countries causes a call on America for all the wheat she can sell, and the price for that cereal will transform many wheat farmers from virtual bankrupts into men of means.

After the "boom" in harness horses collapsed and prices reached bed-rock, breeders all over the country said to themselves: "It didn't pay to breed all the 'scrub' mares in creation to well-bred stallions that never won a race, tincup records are not worth the paper they are written on, and we believe we won't breed anything for at least two years." Then came a wonderfully increased demand from Austria, Italy, France, Germany and England, for American trotting-bred horses, and it is no exaggeration to state that ten animals of this description are being sent abroad now to one ten years ago. And such prices are being realized, too!

The decrease in the number of mares bred during the past four years, together with the number sent to other countries, will make the prices of horses climb to stupendous heights, just as we have seen that for wheat, and the breeder of trotters and the farmer will be observed basking on the sunny side of Easy street, in all probability, for many years to come. Well-matched bay carriage teams, of fair breeding and individuality, sixteen hands in height or over, can be sold in San Francisco for from $700 to $1,500, and from what we can gather, good prices can be realized for such animals in any part of the United States.

France sent representatives to this country to secure cavalry remounts 15 hands 2 inches in height or over and weighing 1,100 pounds. Only a few were secured, and $125 to $250 was paid for such horses. For thoroughbreds the market is better than it was in 1895 or 1896, and the outlook is for even better prices, on account of the interest being taken in racing all over the country and the increase in number and value of stakes offered by associations throughout America. To sum everything up, the outlook is decidedly pleasing to the breeder of good horses of all types.

Big Money at Los Angeles!

Los Angeles has had some excellent race meetings in years agone, but the one of 1897 bids fair to cast all others in deepest shade. There are no less than six $1,200 purses for light-harness horses and six of $800 besides others well worth winning. Entries in several of these events close Sept. 6th. The advertisement appears in this issue.

In the line of stakes for gallopers, which by the way also close on September 6th, there is the Citrus Belt Handicap, one mile, $1,000 guaranteed; Van Nuys Hotel Handicap, six furlongs, $1,000; the Los Angeles Futurity, five and one-half furlongs, with $300 added; the Southern California Stake, one and one-eighth miles $400 added; the Los Angeles Derby, one and one-fourth miles, $300 added; the Main Street and Agricultural Park Railroad Handicap, six furlongs, $700 guaranteed; the Maiden Plate, five furlongs, $250 added; the Santa Monica Scramble, five furlongs, $400; the Blue Ribbon Hurdle Race, one and one-half miles, over six hurdles, $350 added; the Western Sprint, half mile, $600 guaranteed; the Santa Catalina Slide, five and and one-half furlongs, $500 guaranteed and the Pasadena Handicap, seven furlongs, $800 guaranteed. Besides, there will be from ten to fifteen over-night events, with purses ranging from $300 to $400.

The track is one of the fastest in America, Howard breaking the five and one-half furlong record over it and Alix trotting a mile in 2:05½. Send in your entries at once to Secretary L. Thorne. See the ad in this issue.

An effort is to be made to bring all the fast three-furlong horses in the West together at Los Angeles. It is reported that Leora is coming from Montana to measure strides with the cracks around Fresno and Bakersfield. The half-mile dash for a purse $600 will also bring together a speedy field.

Imported Devil's Dream, a Los Angeles Derby candidate, can be expected to arrive from Butte in the course of a day or two.

Everybody points to the conclusion that the coming Los Angeles meeting will eclipse any ever held in the Citrus Belt. Entries close Monday, Sept. 6th.

The Chico Meeting.

There need be no unnecessary doubts about collecting funds hereafter at Chico with which a race meeting can be given, for the light harness horse industry has been revived through the splendid success of the meeting just closed. Previous to the day of opening those who were actively engaged in creating an interest in the meeting had many abstacles to overcome, but they triumphed. The track was covered with growing grain which had to be plowed under, harrowed and rolled, the old stalls needed repairing, and many new ones had to built, but everything done was well done.

A review of the races and the records made therein proves that this track is entitled to be called one of the "fastest" in California. The records made by Goldsmith Maid on this track on that eventful day in May 1877, has never been forgotten by those who attended Wonderful time was made then, and the attention of every horseman in America was called to Chico through the published account of this race. From that time, Chico became famous, and in sustaining that reputation the meeting just ended will be a powerful factor.

The meeting opened by F. W. going the fastest mile ever seen up to that time in Butte county, and it ended with the greatest seven heat race ever decided in California, it being won by a Chico-bred mare, Mamie Griffin. During the meeting there were twenty-three heats trotted and the average was 2:18 4-5, and there were thirteen heats paced, averaging 2:15 4-5. Not a shadow of anything wrong was observed; the starting was excellent. F. W. Covey being the right man in the right place; the judges, Messrs. A. L. Nichols, D. E. Knight and L. H. McIntosh thoroughly understood the rules and enforced them. Not a decision was disputed nor a complaint made. The other officials performed their duties well, and the citizens of Chico did all in their power to make the visitors happy.

Fresno Fair.

The attention of our readers is called to the change of dates claimed by the Fresno Association. The meeting will commence Tuesday, October 5th, and end Saturday, October 9th. Entries to the races close September 15th. Secretary Rockman, who has been visiting the city this week, informs us that trains will stop at Fresno and horsemen who intend to go to Los Angeles will not be charged anything extra for the "lay over." And as the racing at Los Angeles does not commence until Thursday the horses can rest three days at the lovely track before being sent there. The track will be placed in splendid condition; there are plenty of box stalls, the climate is lovely, people enthusiastic and everyone comes to the races there. Remember Fresno and the date of the closing of entries, September 15th.

PRESIDENT ENGEMAN, of the Brighton Beach track, called a halt on the Western Union Telegraph Company on the 16th of August. The first thing he did was to notify the company that if it did not cease furnishing the results of races to pool-rooms in and around New York he would not allow its representatives on the grounds of the course. The marked decrease in the attendance was the reason he assigned. Mr. Engeman also shut off the sporting and news "tickers," as many handbooks" are made on "ticker" odds. The pool-room people thought they would only be knocked out for a day, and so announced, but the Western Union Telegraph Company notified the keepers of rooms that they would not be in a position to furnish the intelligence by wire that was desired, and that settled it. Mr. Engeman carried the day. He found that within a radius of six blocks of the track thousands of dollars were wagered daily. It would be interesting to know whether the Sausalito pool-room keepers will shut up shop next winter or not. If they fail to, the racing associations here could adopt Mr. Engeman's plan and carry the day in short order. There is no doubt that pool-rooms running in close proximity to race tracks lower gate receipts materially.

IT is exceedingly gratifying to note that the safeguards suggested by the BREEDER AND SPORTSMAN will be thrown around the sales of Paris mutuels at the coming State Fair meeting—the wire screen shutting off all betting, pressed by an official in charge of the speculative affairs, the presiding judge, or, better still, the ring superintendent. Another good feature that is certain to prove popular will be the sale of $1, $2 and $10 tickets, straight and place, the value of tickets in each box being figured separately on a blackboard in plain view of the race-goers. Now, if every horse is sold out in the running races, straight and place, we will be able to chronicle the fact that the Paris mutuel system is more popular with the general run of speculators than the bookmaking plan and does away with nine-tenths of the crooked work on race courses.

THE Easton Company, of New York, will sell on the 4th of September, at public auction, at Sheepshead Bay paddocks, the Preakness Stud yearlings, by Linden and Belvidere, and also the yearlings bred at McGrathiana Stud owned by L. Elmore & Co., by Hanover, Strathmore and George Kinney. On the 6th of September the same company will sell the Williamette Stud yearlings, sired by imp. Top Gallant, Bishop, imp. Loyalist, etc. On the 21st, 22d, and 23d of October comes the dispersal sale of the Brookdale Stud and stable. As L'Alouette, bred at the Brookdale Stud, won the Futurity last Tuesday, there will be some lively bidding for the horses in this sale, especially for Kinglike and his sons and daughters. See the advertisement in this issue.

Mamie Griffin, 2:12 3-4.

There are few mares that ever appeared on the California turf that has improved as this mare (whose picture appears on our front page) has during the past year. She has been on the turf continuously since a three-year-old and is without a blemish. In appearance, Mamie Griffin is a black mare about sixteen hands, three inches high. She is so well formed that one would not think she was so tall. In action she is remarkably pure-gaited, wears no boots, but scalpers. She has an iron constitution, is always ready for her feed and never had an ailment in her life. When Col. Park Henshaw, her owner, purchased her as a three-year-old she was very erratic, but in Jas. Sullivan's hands she soon overcame this nervousness and to-day is as level-headed as any trotter in the country. She started in the 2:18 class race at Oakland this year and got fourth money. At Marysville she won fourth money, being beaten by Zombro, Jasper Ayers and Ethel Downs, best time 2:12. At her old home, Chico, on a track that two weeks ago a crop of hay was harvested from, she seemed to be at home, and the remarkable victory she won over Zombro, 2:11, Helena, 2:11¼, Jasper Ayers, 2:11¾, Ethel Downs and Margaret Worth. The time of each heat being as follows, she winning the last three: 2:11¼, 2:11¼, 2:11¾, 2:11, 2:12¾, 2:13 and 2:16; average, 2:12 3-7, is one which has never been excelled on the Pacific Coast. After this hard race she did not seem to be a bit distressed; in fact, an hour after was playing in her stall, proving that she was in excellent condition. [illegible] reflects great credit on her trainer and driver. Mamie Griffin was sired by Reavis' Blackbird, 2:22, out of a mare by Aldius Morrell, son of Old Morrell, one of the famous Morgan horses. There is not a drop of Hambletonian 10 nor Mambrino blood in her veins.

Time by quarters of the 2:13 trot won by this mare was:

First Mile	0:33½	1:04¼	1:39	2:11¼
Second Mile	0:33½	1:05	1:38	2:11¼
Third Mile	0:32½	1:04¼	1:39	2:11¾
Fourth Mile	0:34	1:05	1:38	2:11
Fifth Mile	0:33	1:05¼	1:41	2:12¾
Seventh Mile	0:34	1:07½	1:42	2:16

HOOF-BEATS.

We look for Zombro getting a mark of 2:08 now that Chas. Durfee has taken charge of him.

D. E. Knight, of Marysville, was in attendance during the entire week the Chico meeting was in progress.

Star Pointer defeated Joe Patchen at Chicago last Saturday in straight heats. Time, 2:02, 20:4¼ and 2:04.

The people of Chico should purchase the track there, it is the fastest in California and the easiest to keep in order.

The time by quarters made by Hijo del Diablo in the race at Chico, in which he paced in 2:11½, was 0:32½, 1:03¼, 1:38½, 2:11½.

Horsemen will find a cordial welcome at the Byrn's Hotol, Woodland. Dave Halsey, the proprietor, is a whole-souled fellow and one whom everyone likes.

The last of the L. U. Shippee trotting horses sold very cheaply at the salesyard in San Francisco, last Tueseay. Nearly all those disposed of were unbroken.

At Middleton, N. Y., last Saturday, Ella T., 2:08¼, established a new record over the half-mile course there, the grey daughter of Altamont pacing a beautiful mile in 2:09¼.

Dave Ryan, 2:17¾, by Anteolo—Network, by Algona is one of the most sluggish pacers ever seen in California, but he is dead game and can pace miles all day inside of 2:20.

If you have a horse that you wish to start at the fall meeting of the Breeders' Association, see the advertisement of the Nomination purses published on another page of this issue.

We have received No. 9 of Goodwin's Guide, a book invaluable to race-players. It contains summaries of all the races run at the principal tracks from July 1st to August 11th.

Count Clay, who earned a record of 2:24¼ at Warren, is owned by J. S. Brady, of that place. He is six years old and by Clay, 2:25, out of Mathilda, dam of Egelbert, 2:29¼, by Almont.

A consignment of trotting stock will be shipped East in October from Palo Alto. There are some Dexter Princes there that include many that will be holders of world's records.

Anyone in need of a very fast, reliable pacer will be suited by buying Pomona, 2:15. He is all the advertisement in this issue says, and a better race horse would be difficult to find anywhere.

Just as soon as the farmers and fruit raisers receive money for their products we shall see them aimed to pick up a better class of horses than they have had. In consequence thereof prices will take a "leap."

Ben Benjamin writes us from Butte, Mont.: "By. Holly did not have a dollar on Cavallo the day he won at Butte at such long odds. Gus Wilson has improved a whole lot in his riding and was one of the best boys at the Anaconda meeting."

The victory of the Chico mare, Mamie Griffin, at Chico last Saturday was a most popular one. It was a fitting ending to the best race meeting ever held in California, that is where the fastest time was made.

John A. McKerron, the famous horse boots and turf goods manufacturer, has just supplied F. W., 2:12½, and Searchlight, 2:09½, with new sets of harness and clothing. They are A No. 1 in every particular.

From letters received from the East it seems as though every high class thoroughbred there will be shipped to California this fall. In response to inquiries about the stakes at local tracks we will state they will be published in the Breeder and Sportsman next week.

The attention of all our breeders and turfmen is called to the advertisement of the National Stallion Race for $20,000 offered by the Westchester Racing Association. To neglect to enter is to put aside an opportunity to win a snug fortune and to lower the price of your [illegible]ers. We have entry blanks and will send them upon application.

Casey Winchell, who rode El Rio Rey in all his races, died in New York City August 24th. He was assistant trainer with W. M. Murry, and formerly worked in the same capacity for A. B. Spreckels and J. Naglee Burke. He was honest, popular and well behaved, and took good care of his parents, giving them thousands of dollars when he was riding so successfully. His loss will be deplored. He was about 28 years old.

AMERICA'S RICHEST 2-YEAR-OLD STAKE.

The Futurity of 1897 Won by L'Alouette, of the Thompson Stable—Ridden by "Dick" Clawson, of Woodland, Cal.

New York, August 24.—The unexpected happened at Sheepshead Bay to-day, and the filly L'Alouette of the Thompson string, with 115 lbs. up, won the Futurity with something to spare. Her backers were happy, for although her victory was a surprise, she was coupled in the betting with her stable mates, Gibraltar and The Huguenot, and as the stable was the favorite for the race, the ring suffered. The other unexpected thing was the running of Lydian, who got the place. He carried 115 lbs. and was at 50 to 1 straight. The track was in anything but satisfactory condition, the heavy rains of last night and this morning having turned it into soft mud, which had dried out sufficiently to make the going heavy and sticky when the race was run.

Not more than 12,000 were present at 4:45 o'clock, when the bugle called to the post the eighteen starters for the richest stake of the year.

Backing and filling, the line soon swept away. It was a fine start for all but Previous, who was left standing still in the first break, to the great surprise of his owner and most of the older race-goers. Grand Sachem and Amazonian were quickest on their feet, with Oriel and Cock Robin close up. L'Alouette was next, and the others were not far away. So close together were they at the first furlong that a dozen were not more than heads apart.

At the quarter pole the line of advancing racers was almost like that of a cavalry charge. They rushed past the post with Cock Robin, L'Alouette, Gibraltar, Gala Day, Howland, Uriel, Plaudit and Lydian heads apart, and short ones at that, in the front rank, while others were lapped upon the in the second column.

Now they were at the three-furlong pole and were beginning to play for the best place for the run into the stretch. Cock Robin was then a neck in front of L'Alouette, she a length in front of Gibralter, he a length in front of Gala Day. Uriel was next, and then came Lydian, Plaudit and the others.

Around the turn they rushed, only a quarter from home, and still Cock Robin led, but "Skeets" Martin was urging him and he was beginning to falter. Right at his throat was L'Alouette, banging on much better than her owner had any idea she could, and right at her tail was Gibraltar's head and Gala Daly was pegging along at his heels, but the boys were driving the colts, while Clawson was sitting still, waiting for the final rush, which was bound to come. Sloan dug his heels into Uriel's side and he went past the others like a flash and poked his nose into first place, while his stable companion, Cock Robin, with his bolt shot, fell back rapidly to the rear. Clawson looked in surprise at the change in horses, but not in colors, but got to work at once to ride a finish with Sloan.

Uriel's effort was his last, for a furlong from home Clawson had got him and was drawing away, when a new competitor loomed up in the despised outsider, Lydian, who had come from the rear under the vigorous urging of Thorpe, and, with Sloan on Uriel (115 lbs.) a head behind, was making a bold bid for the stake. The distance was a little too short, however, and as L'Alouette passed the wire Lydian was at her tail, a head in front of Uriel, who was a head in front of Plaudit, while the others were strung out through a sixteenth of a mile. Time, 1:11.

THE WINNER.

The winner, a bay filly bred by the late Col. W. P. Thompson at the Brookdale Stud, had started in seven races previous to the Futurity, winning three, running second three times, unplaced but once. Her victories were in the Vestal Stakes at Brighton Beach, half a mile in 0:49, 119 lbs. up; the Spinster Stakes, six furlongs at the same place, time 1:16½, 122 lbs. up, and in the Fashion Stakes at Morris Park, 115 lbs. up, time 0:47½ for the half mile. L'Alouette was beaten a nose by Juda for the Distaff Stakes at Brighton Beach, conceding the winner three pounds; beaten a head by Handball for the Expectation Stakes at Brooklyn and a head by Kitefoot for the Gaiety Stakes at Morris Park, time 0:55 for the four and a half furlongs. In looking over her performances, all of the most excellent character, she certainly should have been conceded a royal chance in The Futurity. Her pedigree follows, and it will be seen that her sire, King like, winner of the Nursery Stakes and Harvest Handicap, is of the great Hennie Farrow family, the dam a sister to Marsh Redon:

L'ALOUETTE
- Kinglike
  - Imp. King Ernest — King Tom, by Harkaway; Ernestine, by Touchstone
  - Mimi — Imp. Eclipse, by Orlando; Hennie Farrow, by imp. Shamrock
- Juliette
  - Imp. Stonehenge — Blair Athol, by Stockwell; Colmbra, by Kingston
  - Julietta — Censor, by Lexington; Julia, by imp. Glencoe

Fourth dam, Sally Ward, by John R. Grymes; fifth dam, Lisbon Maid, by Napoleon; sixth dam, Fanny Maria, by Pacolet; seventh dam by imp. Stirling; eighth dam by imp. Medley.

The dam's pedigree is not a long one, but it is good as far as it goes. Kinglike has little but "sire blood" in his veins, Touchstone, Stockwell, Harkaway, Orlando, Blacklock, Tramp, Whisker and Whalebone cutting a prominent figure in his pedigree, backed up by good "running blood" like that of imp. Eclipse, and Glencoe. In the dam there is such good "broodmare blood" as Kingston, Glencoe, Lexington, Melbourne, Venison, Sir Archy and Muley.

THE RIDER OF THE WINNER.

Richard Clawson was born in Missouri, but his family moved to Woodland, Cal., when Dick was very wee lad. His riding career has been a short one, (two years) and that he should reach the pinnacle of fame as a jockey in that time is nothing short of phenomenal. His first mount was August 29, 1895, at Woodland, on Frank Strong's two-year-old Red Iron gelding Brother John, who won in 0:57¼ for the four and one-half furlongs. Later the lad came down to Bay District track, San Francisco, and the first time "Overcoat Jack" Atkin ever saw the "green" boy throw a leg over a horse he declared he would make a jockey of note. He engaged Clawson, and in 1896 he went to the Indiana tracks, Milwaukee and Detroit with the Atkin & Lottridge string, steadily improving and making quite a reputation. Last winter and spring he did such good work in the saddle that he was regarded as the best feather-weight (he rode at from 85 to 87 pounds) around the tracks. His most notable work was on the back of Double Quick, Little Bob and Lucretia Borgia, he piloting the latter when she broke the four-mile record of Ten Broeck, which had stood for more than twenty years, to the extent of 4¾ seconds, putting the mark at 7:11 flat. At the far East, where he went the latter part of June, little Clawson has ridden with such skill as to be regarded as the best boy of his weight in America, and he has piloted considerably for such wealthy turfmen as the Fleischmans and the Thompsons. He is under contract to John Atkin for the seasons of 1897, 1898 and 1899, and when he shall have fulfilled that contract we will be greatly disappointed if the honest little rider does not stand in the very highest niche of Fame's pinacle.

President T. H. Williams Jr., of the C. J. C., was shown on last Wednesday a model of Capt. Ben Harris' newly invented jockey board, described in another column, and it did not take him two minutes to decide that it was a good thing and to give an order for the manufacture of one. "Cap" Harris was the exhibitor of the model, and was naturally well pleased at President Williams' admiration of his most excellent board. The leading official of the C. J. C. is a gentleman of quick perception, and has always shown a disposition to lead all others. His adoption of this invention is in line with his actions all through his career as a racing official, and it would not surprise us in the least if the Pacific Coast Jockey Club would follow his example in getting one of this quick-changing boards in place.

Thursday Notes.—Bernardillo, H. Martin up, won the Dolphin Stakes, one and one-eighth miles, at Sheepshead Bay, and La Goleta, also of the E. J. Baldwin string, won over the Futurity course in 1:11 1-5. Presbyterian won a five-furlong dash in 1:01 flat at Harlem. The winners at Butte were Black Cloud, Viking, Fortunate, Lou Watkins, imp. Missioner and All Smoke. The mile and seventy-yard record was broken to the extent of half a second at Harlem by Dunois, he running the distance in 1:43½.

One half of fine payable to informer, within thirty days from date of conviction.

Salaried game wardens appointed upon application to the county commissioners.

Sheriffs, deputy sheriffs, constables, city marshals and police officers are ex-officio game wardens, whose duties are to inspect warehouses, cold storages, hotels, markets and restaurants, and enforce the game laws.

CARTRIDGE AND SHELL.

The grouse season opened in Washington on the 15th.

Doves were reported to be still plentiful in Niles canyon.

The Lefever Arms Co. will shortly place a single trigger gun on the market.

Ed Tufts and John Hauerwaas of Los Angeles are matched for a 25-bird race for a purse of $50.

The day before the grouse and pheasant season opened in Washington, 5,000 loaded shells were sold in Seattle.

Santa Barbara county has passed an ordinance prohibiting the killing and shipping of game outside of the county.

J. A. R. Elliott defeated S. Glover in a 100-bird race for the Kansas City Star Cup on the 14th. The score was 92 to 84.

C. R. Yates, B. Palmer, John F. Towle, Dr. Weston and Walter G. Manuel of Oakland are hunting for big game in Trinity and Siskiyou counties.

Doves were plentiful enough last week at Lodi. Frank Peach and Fred Sollars killed 95 on Sunday week and C. H. Nevin and C. M. Ferdun, 105.

The Yuba City Farmer joins in the general cry against the hunters who are killing the young ducks in the marshes of Yuba county. An active game warden is what is wanting.

Duck shooting has commenced in Washington and Judge Robertson and Ike Dornberg of Spokane are credited with fifty-five mallards and seventeen chickens for opening day.

The bag of pheasants in Washington is limited to ten for one day's shooting. A man can easily hide a couple or so over the limit but the slaughter of 100 to a man will be effectually stopped by the new law.

Three ladies participated in the the tournament at Duluth, Minn., recently. Mrs. Shattuck broke 182 out of 225 birds in the two days shooting, landing 20th in the list of averages "Duchess" broke 163 and Mrs. Johnston 154.

The system of protecting game and fish by county game wardens, which, by the way, was first advocated by this paper, has proven very satisfactory in this State and we are pleased to see that Oregon will probably follow our example.

W. E. Carlin is credited with having shot a large grizzly with the 30 calibre soft-nosed bullet. Only three shots were fired, one shot smashed both shoulders to atoms and another shattered the bones of the skull U. M. C. ammunition did it.

The Recreation Gun Club is making extensive improvements on the grounds in the vicinity of Ballona. Steam pumps have been put at work filling the various ponds with water in anticipation of the duck season, which opens October 1st.

The Garden City Gun Club is comfortably installed in its commodious new quarters in the Druids Building on South First street and is now making arrangements for the representation of the club at the State Tournament at Monterey next month.

Byron Naylor, of San Diego, is credited with having killed a black tailed deer with a 38-55 smokeless at 300 yards with one shot. The bullet crashing through the animal's right shoulder and penetrating the heart. Many deer are said to have been killed at this distance but the majority are killed at 100 yards or less.

"Canoe Cruising and Camping" is the the title of a new work by Perry D. Frazer, published by the Forest and Stream Publishing Co. It contains more common sense to the square inch than any work we have ever seen. The authors advice, if followed, will insure any canoeist or camper a royal outing. It is well written and ably illustrated. It tells the novice what to take for camp use, for clothing and for sport. It is intensely practical. Price $1.00.

St. Louis has bobbed up as a "fence" for the receiving of stolen goods. Game killed out of season is property stolen from a State and the slaughterers are none other than thieves. The St Louis commission men, since Chicago has been locked up tight, have issued circulars to the market-hunting bandits in the western, south and northwestern countries to send their game to them, that their markets were open the year round. But, gentlemen, make most of the situation; your time is short. We may not reach you this year (but we will next. Please stick a pin there.—Sportsmen's Review.

The Lincoln Gun Club's annual picnic to be held at San Bruno to-morrow promises to be the best attended of any picnic given by this club in years. Secretary Forster has ordered 100 dozen birds for the day's shooting. There will be two events, the team shoot and a seven-bird match. Shooters may shoot in this for the price of the birds or in the pool as they prefer. There will be two moneys in each event. Shooters may provide their own lunch if they prefer, but a good meal at a reasonable price can be obtained at Masterson's hotel, near by. Trains for San Bruno leave 4th and Townsend streets at 7:30 and 9 A. M.

It having come to the knowledge of members of the Healdsburg Sportsmen's Club that more or less quail are being killed by hunters, it is probable that a private detective or game warden will be employed by the club to secure evidence to convict parties guilty of this crime. The close season for quail will not expire until October 1st, and the killing of this fine game bird should be prevented until that time. The young quail are far from mature, and no true sportsman would be guilty of shooting them at this early day. A few arrests and fines would have a very good effect, and we are pleased to learn that the club has taken the matter in hand.

The Sportsman at Hotel del Monte is the title of a neat little pamphlet that has been sent us by the author, Dr. C. W. Hibbard. It is handsomely illustrated, beautifully printed and contains a wealth of information regarding the resources of Monterey county from a sportsman-angler's standpoint. Written by a true sportsman, in sportsman's language, it tells in a clear, concise manner of the many streams that abound in trout, of the splendid fishing of many kinds in the bay, of the abundance of quail and deer and of the many other ways that a lover of nature can enjoy himself in the vicinity of Del Monte. As a descriptive writer, Dr. Hibbard takes first rank and we notice his little work with a double pleasure because of its true merit and because it is written by a true sportsman. To us that means a great deal. Send to the Passenger Department of the S. P. Co., 4 Montgomery St., for a copy of this work.

E. C. Sachs, the well known horseman and J. L. Hitchcock returned from Klamath Hot Springs the first of the week with the pelts of two bears as the result of their prowess. They were hunting for deer, but on finding the fresh trail of a big black bear they resolved to lie in wait for bruin and on the following morning when he came down to the creek to drink, a couple of well directed shots from their 32-40 rifles laid him out. This one weighed nearly 500 lbs. On Monday of last week they found a 300-pound brown bear and sent him to the happy hunting grounds also. Few hunters would care to lie in wait for bear with a 32 40 but these young men have not only done so but have killed their bear and their pelts are now being converted into rugs.

Henry Beeger, Robert Chatham, Nick Bozzo, Henry Dearborn, B. Ramos, A. Miramontes and C. Stafford spent six days last week in the Big Basin, near the Santa Cruz county line, and returned Saturday. The party went in search of the fleet-footed deer and met with good success, having brought home five. The largest, a seven-point buck, was shot by Robert Chatham. Deer in the vicinity of the Big Basin are quite numerous this year. A party of hunters that camped near the Redwood City markemen bagged thirteen in two days. A party consisting of George Uhl, Bob Chatham, Louie Genochio and H. S. Sears went deer hunting on the Weeks ranch Sunday. Bob Chatham proved to be the lucky man of the party, having killed a spike. Many deer were hunted from the gulches, but they managed to elude the bullets of the hunters.—Redwood City Times.

A story is told about three of the prominent sportsmen of Phœnix, as follows: During the irrigation congress last fall Mr. T. S. Van Dyke, a noted author of sporting works as well as an interesting writer of the different sporting papers, visited Phœnix and expressed a desire to have a hunt for Arizona quail, not only for the sport, but to learn the habits of our particular quail as well. The three aforsaid sportsmen expressed their willingness to accompany Mr. Van Dyke and borrowed a fine gun for his use. On arrival at the shooting grounds it was discovered that the case containing the borrowed gun was locked. After each one having a try at picking the lock, it was decided to open it by cutting the thread with which it was sewed. This was done and the sport proceded. On the return the case was immediately taken to a locksmith, who, after working half the next day, succeeded in picking the lock so the case could be repaired at the harness shop. When the gun was returned to the owner it was thought best to tell him of the circumstance. He at once stated that the gun was not locked at all. "See," and he touched a spring and the case at once opened. The result after paying the locksmith for the work was three wiser sports each accusing the other and each denying that he had locked the case at all.

The Advisory Board.

The Pacific Advisory Board met again on Monday evening at the Occidental Hotel. The members of the Board present were Messrs. F. W. D'Evelyn, J. E. de Ruyter, R. K. Gardiner, G. B. M. Gray, Dr. W. R. Cluness, Jr., W. M. Gibson and J. W. Keen. The fanciers of San Francisco were well represented; among those present were: P. D. Linville, E. H. Wakeman, C. A. Haight, J. G. Barker, F. E. Miller, J. R. Dickson, H. McCracken, H. Carlton, Wm. Greenbaum, T. H. Browne, J. B. Martin, T. J. Wattson, W. Wattson, A. B. Truman, Geo. Herrman, Geo. B. Debenham, W. H. Williams, E. P. Schell, Dr. A. T. Regensburger, C. W. Kyle, Geo. T. Allender, F. H. Bushnell, J. E. Cutten, Phil Wand, Dr. E. N. Lowry, H. White, Dr. C. M. Selfridge, M. C. Allen, L. D. Owens, J. P. Norman, Dr. I. W. Terry, A. Russell Crowell, S. F. Hughes, Jas. Duncan, I. Littrell, A. P. Vredenburgh, H. T. Payne and several others whose names we do not recall.

As soon as the meeting was formally opened, Mr. Gibson called for the reading of the instructions given the Board by the A. K. C. He then took the stand that the Advisory Board must investigate the charges and report its recommendations to the A. K. C. Chairman D'Evelyn stated that in his opinion the Board had no authority to find a verdict.

Mr. Gibson replied that if the members of the Board were only figure-heads and had no authority to act on anything that he for one would not stay five minutes and would withdraw from the Board.

Mr. de Ruyter stated that they could not render a verdict and did not want to.

Mr. Gibson appealed from the decision of the chair.

Dr. Cluness stated that the Board had a precedent in the action of the Board in former cases, in which they had made recommendations to the A. K. C.

Mr. Vredenburgh stated that his interpretation of the action of the Executive Committee of the A. K. C. was that the case of the St. Bernard Club vs. H. T. Payne should be investigated by the Board and that they should recommend action in the case, but in the case of H. T. Payne vs. Jas. Mortimer the Board had not the right to report a decision as Mr. Mortimer was not present.

Mr. Payne objected to Dr. Cluness sitting on the Board during the investigation as he was an interested party and Dr. Cluness replied that when the Board went into executive session he would withdraw.

Mr. Allen then spoke against the objection, claiming the right to represent Mr. Mortimer, and called for a decision in both cases.

Mr. Gibson moved that the Board proceed to investigate and report on all matters before it, and the motion was duly seconded.

Mr. de Ruyter spoke against the motion and Mr. Gray for it. Chairman D'Evelyn refused to put the motion and Mr. Gibson appealed from the decision of the chair. Mr. Allen called for a record of the vote and the decision of the chair was over-ruled by a vote of 5 to 2. D'Evelyn and de Ruyter voting aye and Cluness, Keen, Gray, Gibson and Gardiner voting no.

The original motion was then put and carried, de Ruyter alone voting against it.

Chairman D'Evelyn then called upon Payne for his evidence and he produced a demurrer citing instances where the A. K. C. had declined to notice utterances made in the public press. The amount of it all was that he denies that the A. K. C. has any jurisdiction in the matter.

Mr. Allen noticed that the demurrer was addressed to the A. K. C. and told Mr. Payne to file it with the A. K. C. and called upon the Board to proceed with the case.

Payne replied that the Board had not power to act until the demurrer had been acted upon by the A. K. C. and added that he was ready and anxious to produce his proof before a court of justice but intended that he would not before the Board.

Mr. Allen called for immediate action by the Board. In the meantime Payne changed the demurrer by addressing it to the P. A. B., and Mr. Gibson having noticed it echoed Mr. Allen's call for immediate action.

Chairman D'Evelyn said he was inclined to look into the rights of the A. K. C, to investigate the matter, and Mr. Allen, Payne, Vredenburg and Gibson argued the matter for a half hour or more. Payne claimed that the St. Bernard Club had only made one charge and to expedite matters, Mr. Gibson moved that the Board pass over the St. Bernard Club charges for the time being and take up the charges made by Payne against Mr. Mortimer. This was carried and the chairman called for Payne's evidence, not having any he produced another lengthy diatribe that he called a demurrer, the effect of which was, that in his opinion the A. K. C. had no control over the press. This demurrer was addressed to the A. K. C., and Gibson moved that it be referred to the A. K. C. and that Payne be called upon to supply the evidence in defense of his statements.

The chairman called for his evieence and Payne excused himself by introducing his attorney, C. W. Kyle. Mr. Kyle stated that they were not sufficiently advised of what they were called upon to prove and they were not prepared to answer anything. As it was very evident, even to Paynes very limited number of friends that he had no evidence and had spent the whole evening looking for a hole to crawl out of, Mr. Gibson offered the following resolution and it was carried unanimously:

Resolved, That the Pacific Advisory Board having called upon H. T. Payne to supply evidence to substantiate the public charges made by him regarding James Mortimer in accordance with the resolution and direction of the American Kennel Club; and the said H. T. Payne having refused to present and supply any evidence to substantiate said public statement,

Resolved, That the Pacific Advisory Board find as a fact that said H. T. Payne has failed and refused to supply the evidence which the American Kennel Club has called upon him through the Pacific Advisory Board to supply.

As it was then nearly 11 o'clock the Board went into executive session.

The third session of the Board was held on Tuesday evening. The same members of the Board were present. W. M. Gibson opened the proceedings with a lengthy and eloquent appeal to the fanciers present to forgive and forget the past.

Merton C. Allen replied in behalf of Judge Mortimer that he was perfectly satisfied to acquiesce in the wishes of Mr. Gibson, provided Payne would either refute his statements or bring forth the proofs to substantiate what he had published derogatory to Mr. Mortimer's character.

C. W. Kyle, representing Payne, argued that as Payne did not acknowledge that he had written the article referred to he should not be tried by any court of inquiry. Mr. Gibson interrupted him by stating that Mr. Payne did acknowledge at the first meeting of the Board that he did write the articles, and according to Kennel Club laws he must either retract or produce proof to substantiate his statements.

Mr. Gibson offered a resolution requesting Payne to file charges against Mr. Mortimer regarding alleged misconduct at the Oakland bench show, but he declined to file them.

On motion of Mr. Gibson resolutions were then adopted unanimously by the Board, declaring the charges against Mr. Mortimer to be untrue and without foundation in fact.

This resolution will be forwarded to the A. K. C. by Secretary Vredenburgh and acted upon by that body at the meeting of September 20th.

Merton C. Allen, representing the St. Bernard Club of California, then withdrew the club's charges against Payne, as they were virtually one and the same thing.

The charges against B. Strauss for selling a St. Bernard puppy with a false pedigree were then taken up. Mr. Strauss testified that he knew at the present time that the pedigree given was false, but that at the time he made the sale he did not know it.

Secretary Vredenburgh advised the Board to give Mr. Strauss a certain length of time in which to take back the dog and refund the purchase price. Wade Collins and Mr. Fife, the purchaser, were cited to appear before the Board on Wednesday evening.

A. B. Truman asked the Board if it had any authority to discipline trainers of field trial dogs. He named several instances where he and others had been "robbed" by trainers. Secretary Vredenburgh was called upon for an opinion and stated positively that every man who could be charged with fraud in connection with dogs was amenable to discipline by the Board.

Chairman D'Evelyn replied to Mr. Truman that any charges brought before the Board would be considered.

[The Pacific Coast Field Trial Club, not being a member of the A. K. C., the disqualification or suspension of a handler would not affect his handling dogs at the trials, but it would debar him from conditioning dogs for bench shows and handling dogs at shows. A considerable portion of the trainer's income would in consequence be effected.]

On Wednesday evening the chief matter of interest to the kennel world of San Francisco being over (the vindication of Jas. Mortimer) there was a very light attendance. The only members of the Board that were present were Dr. D'Evelyn, Dr. Cluness, J. W. Keen and J. E. de Ruyter. The others present were: Thos. H. Browne, H. McCracken, H. T. Payne, Chas. Feeny, Dr. E. N. Lowry, Wade Collins, B. Strauss and the writer.

There not being a quorum present, on the suggestion of Mr. Vredenburgh the members of the Board present considered themselves a committee and their actions must be ratified by the Board at the first meeting at which there is a quorum present. Mr. de Ruyter officiated as Secretary pro tem. Secretary Vredenburgh acted as chief investigator and questioned Mr. Strauss regarding the sale of a St. Bernard puppy to Mr. Fife. His answers were substantially the same as on Tuesday evening. He denied any knowledge of the false pedigree at the time the sale was made. And when asked the question if he would return the purchase price of the dog if Mr. Fife would give him back the pup, he said he would.

Wade Collins was then called and questioned. He told his story in a straightforward manner. Admitted that he substituted a puppy for the Victor Watch—Lady Mona puppy that he tried to get but couldn't, and positively declined to name the man who bred the puppy that Fife bought and who, he said, consented to the substitution. He furthermore said that Strauss knew nothing of it.

H. McCracken asked Mr. Strauss about the puppies sold by him as by Barry of Hauenstein and he replied that he sold those pups on commission as represented to him. Mr. McCracken told also of Mr. Collins' excellent reputation in the past and of the surprise his present action had caused his many friends.

A general discussion on shooting dogs found on the Presidio Reservation and other matters of interest to fanciers followed, but our space will not admit of our printing it all this week.

More Payne-Killer.

Hempstead, L. I., N. Y., August 19, 1897.

Editor Breeder and Sportsman—Sir:—I mailed Mr. Payne a reply to the irresponsible accusations which he made against me on the ground that my judging of the Oakland, Cal., show was dishonest, and dishonest only because Mr. Payne said that it was so. He seemed to have different opinions from me on the judging, and the explanation of this difference he seeks to find in my dishonesty. He, however, seems to have some trade reasons also for this difference of opinion, as will be touched on more fully hereafter.

My reply he refuses to publish, and for his refusal he publishes the following reasons: "As a copy of this peculiar literary effort has been mailed to the "Sandy Teapot," it would publish it in full were it not that our space is too valuable to waste on such long, drawn-out vaporings," etc. "It" and "our"—singular and plural—all in one line. And then by way of showing how valuable is his space he uses three columns—a full page—in a labored, irrelevant reply, totally foreign to the issue; and this reply is made to my article which he refuses to publish.

He also garbles my letter somewhat to give it a turn to fit his own purposes, and to illustrate probably his ideas of the "liberty of the press."

Notwithstanding his affectation of the value of space in his paper (which for the sake of convenience in referring to I will designate as the "Sandy Teapot)," he has devoted several columns to the subject in different issues, since charges were lodged with the A. K. C., and in the "Sandy Teapot" of July 31st he had a long article on "Press Censorship." No such sophistry as the "liberty of the press" will serve to cover up Mr. Payne's malice and malignings. The press has done a grand work in which he has had neither part nor lot.

Mr. Payne refrains, however, from informing the public that libels and other unlawfulness are abhorred by public sentiment and the laws of society, even though the unlawfulness appears in the "Sandy Teapot"; that some sheets published in the past were so libelous and contrary to public morals and public good that they were by law suppressed; that while there is a most commendable sentiment in favor of the liberty of the press and the freedom of speech, there is also a strong sentiment against its abuse.

And yet it seems somewhat inconsistent for Mr. Payne to prate of the freedom of speech as it applies to himself and then deny me the use of his columns to answer accusations which he made in them. He permits his readers to hear his side of the case only. It is palpable that he fears to have the case fully presented; and yet he is the man who boasts in season and out of season of the fearlessness of the "Sandy Teapot" and of its high standards, its accomplished editor, its unselfish efforts in the cause of the dog and—free advertising.

As a matter of principle, such refusal of a hearing is most grievously unfair and wantonly wrong. As a matter of fact, it is not of the slightest importance or the weakling called the "Sandy Teapot," with its handful of readers, bears about the same proportion to the sporting world that a drop of water does to the water in all the oceans.

Fortunately there are journals which will give a fair hearing to the man whose character is subjected to wanton and malicious attack.

Every word and phrase of Mr. Payne's latest attack shows, not a struggle for principle, but a bitter personal enmity and an unscrupulous use of any means to gratify it. All the broad ground of public zeal has gone; the personal anger and the personal enmity stand forth visible to him who reads. He is malignant and unscrupulous.

However, it was but common fairness and common decency that the case (after it had been taken up officially, as shown by the charges of the St. Bernard Club of California against him and in due form presented before the A. K. C.) should not be prejudged or prejudiced by him, but this he deliberately attempted to do in the "Sandy Teapot" of July 31st, in an article headed "Turned Down Again," in which he first endeavors to belittle and cast odium on the members of the St. Bernard Club of Californir, and then disclosed his real purpose as follows: "Now in their desperation as a last dying convulsion they have preferred charges against H. T. Payne for some strictures appearing in "Sandy Teapot" about some individual which was not just to their liking, and now the 'marble heart' has met them again; for the A. K. C. has very sensibly refused to proceed in the matter and has 'advised' the Secretary of the so-called club to present his charges to the Pacific Advisory Board. This simply means that if the Advisory Board wants to listen to them it may, but that the A. K. C. doesn't care to" etc.

There never was a more brazen, insolent and unscrupulous attempt to influence the action of a judicial body of men by misrepresentation than this, and there is not in it even the attempt to observe law or fact. As is well known, any matter concerning canine affairs on the Pacific Coast must first come before the Pacific Advisory Board, and its action is then subject to the approval or disapproval of the central body, the American Kennel Club. The charge was at the outset sent to the A. K. C. It was sent back to the Pacific Advisory Board because there was no other course to pursue under A. K. C. procedure, and "advising" the Secretary of the return of the charge is the term used in all such cases. It in no wise implied that the Pacific Advisory Board could do as it pleased in the matter. It must take cognizance of all such cases which come before it in proper form. It has no such arbitrary powers as Mr. Payne seeks to clothe it with.

It will be observed also that what Mr. Payne frantically called charges a few weeks are now merely called "strictures."

And now a few words by way of rejoiner to Mr. Payne's answer to my article which Mr. Payne refused to publish, and which he thereby also deprived his little band of martyrs, his readers, of the privilege of reading.

In the full-page of alleged reply, in the "Sandy Teapot," I note that Mr. Payne's name appears twenty-seven times, and that the name of "Sandy Teapot" appears twelve times, and as Mr. Payne and the "Teapot" are one and the same as will shortly be shown herein, he refers directly to himself no less than thirty-nine times, and I persume that that was what he referred to when he said that "our space is too valuable to waste" etc. He needs it all himself. An editorial with Mr. Payne's name in it thirty-nine times could not be otherwise than gratifying to himself and instructive to his readers. It is modest, tactful, erudite, pertinent and convincing. He mentions himself; his dogs; himself; his dogs; hisself; dog-trainer, hisself; exhibitor, hisself; his criticisms; experience; connection in the dog shows, his judgment, in repetition ad nauseam.

But this is as one might expect it to be, for Mr. H. T. Payne is the owner and editor of the "Sandy Teapot," and therefore he has a right to require his readers to read his name thirty nine times on one page if he thinks that it would be a benefit to them to do so. He is the whole editorial and business staff. One man is quite sufficient to edit the "Teapot," and to attend to its business affairs, with ample time also to breed dogs, sell them, purchase them on commission, and cultivate brawls so as to have something for the readers of the "Sandy Teapot" to read about. Two compositors are force enough to set up the type of the "Teapot," in which are the thoughts of the editor on such matters as he deems to be worthy of his attention. Therefore, when the "Teapot" belauds Mr. Payne's worth and goodness—his virtue, modesty, disinterestedness, expert knowledge, truthfulness, abhorence of roguery, high standards of action, etc., it merely set forth what Mr. Payne wrote of himself and what the two compositors set up in type, and what the bantling, the "Sandy Teapot," bore forth in its pages to a craving world. When the "Sandy Teapot" fearlessly proclaims that Mr. Payne is a great and good man, Mr. Payne should know that it is so, for he wrote it himself. When Mr. Payne quotes the "Teapot" as authority to establish a point, he surely should know the value of his own writings; when he produces its sayings as a matter of evidence to prove the truth of what he says himself, no doubt is left as to his correctness; and when he praises the "Sandy Teapot" with generous beslavering, there can be no doubt but that he feels that it fully deserves it.

But though it is pleasing to read Mr. Payne's name thirty-nine times on one page, I am constrained to believe that he has forgotten the subject matter in a contemplation of his own greatness.

It would be idle to attempt to follow Mr. Payne's three columns of irrelevant matter. The issue as he raised it at first is entirely abandoned by him. Of the three columns, about a half column is devoted to a eulogy of other judges whose doings are in no way related to the case, yet they are exalted that I may appear little; about a full column recounts Mr. Payne's canine and journalistic experience, enumerates the offices he has held in different bench show clubs, touches on the merits of his dogs (though he had the tact to refrain from quoting prices), and there is a general effort to give himself a genuine importance outside of mere pretence. The rest is mostly a personal attack upon myself on real lines. It does not seek to cloak the personal enmity and vindictive purpose of the "Teapot," or of Mr. Payne. If the "Teapot" were really a big teapot, it would be a most dangerous cauldron, but being a little teapot with very little in it, it can do no harm.

I challenged the proofs of his accusations and dared him to do his worst, all of which he avoids answering with studious care; this is a matter he should answer; he should do so, but "he cannot." He has overshot his mark and stumbled into a pitfall that he blindly overlooked. Still a man who is engaged in the multifarious business of dog-breeder, dog-broker, secretary, exhibitor, editor of the "Teapot," and brawler-in-chief to the Pacific Coast, cannot be expected to be precise in all things, nor be fair to a nicety in any.

My exposure of his incompetency and imposition on the kennel world in his assumption of expert knowledge, and his arrogant attitude toward everyone and everything, in his self-constituted position of expert critic, evidently went home to a weak spot, for he particularizes his educational experience as follows: "'The Teapot' (Mr. Payne) has a pretty clear knowledge of Mr. Payne's connection with dogs and dog shows, and knows that his first experience with dog shows began at Philadelphia in 1876, and that during the years of 1876, '77 and '78, he attended the St. Louis and Baltimore shows of '76 (sic), the first Westminster show at Gilmore's Garden '76, and the St. Louis shows in '77 and '78," etc.

Who can remember Mr. Payne on that straggling circuit? He was simply a spectator as were all the other spectators who attended these shows, and who would scarcely now claim that they acquired expert knowledge and high critical ability from attending them. But we have Mr. Payne's word backed up by the indorsement of the "Sandy Teapot" that he really did see those shows.

If the mere attendance at shows makes one an expert then we have thousands of experts here in the East who have seen many more shows than Mr. Payne ever saw. Let the thousands of experts now feel that they are duly qualified, for has not Mr. Payne said so? He claims that he has journalistic experience on the daily press before he recently plunged into the kennel world of journalism. Then all the other editors, reporters and writers of the daily press are likewise qualified to write on dogs. There are expert critics and kennel writers by the thousands, for if Mr. Payne can qualify as a kennel editor by experience on the daily press, why cannot all writers do the same? He also has had a long and varied experience in other callings during his chequered career which no doubt he could prove to be of value to himself were he not too modest to do so.

The "Sandy Teapot" (Mr. Payne) says: "Mr. Payne was breeding, breaking and handling thoroughbred dogs from imported stock more than a quarter of a century before Mr. Mortimer was ever heard of in the judges' ring, and this under the tutorage of one of the most thoroughly posted dogmen in America at that time." Again nothing but assertion. Name the imported stock and the posted dogman of that remote period.

The fact is, he is a cheap pretender, and only by the accident of his surroundings has he been possible. In the East he never would have passed the mushroom stage. As an expert in canine matters he is an impostor. At no time can there be found any of his writings in the "Teapot" which show an intrinsic knowledge of canine subjects, Let the reader of the "Teapot" look back and consider how much was knowledge and how much was brawling over personal matters, and he will find that the knowledge was little and and the brawling much. The life of the "Teapot" is its little sizzles. It is its policy. It brings the little journalistic bantling into notoriety.

As a matter of unwritten history, though well known history for all that, Mr. Payne promotes the dissensions on the Coast. While many of the fanciers of the Pacific Coast are unfortunately more or less identified with factions, I found they were nearly all generous, broadminded gentlemen, and I firmly believe that if there were a kennel journalist among them who had the good of the fancy at heart, instead of an ulterior purpose to foster dissension and make every wrangle a factor in furthering his own personal interests, there would soon be no bitterness. Instead there would be peace and common effort for the public good. A peace-maker could do it, but that is a role which Mr. Payne is unable or unwilling to assume.

After refusing to publish my letter and then garbling it to suit himself he asserts that my testimony is impeached. Testimony to what? He has not even presented any case. I ask him again to make his specification. After he has done that it will be in order to talk of testimony—not before.

He asserts that at the Oakland show I "turned down" Mr. Harker's fine bitch, and on looking in his advertising columns of that time I find that Mr. Harker was an advertiser in the "Sandy Teapot." He recentty ebuked me for not placing Pittsburgh Tommy higher than reserve, and on looking in the advertising columns of the "Teapot" I find that Pittsburgh Tommy was duly advertised therein. The Irish setter Chief Jr. was placed third. and this was another award which did not meet Mr. Payne's approval, and the "Sandy Teapot's comment was as follows: "In Irish setters by far the best dog in the class was given third and absolutely the worst one put to the front," and again on consulting the "Teapot's" advertising columns I find that Chief Jr.'s stud card occupied a prominent position therein.

I mentioned in my last letter that one element of Mr. Payne's moderate success was the absence of any serious competition in a journalistic way on the Coast. He immediately seizes this as a good thing to publish as a thrust at his contemporary, perverting it to suit his own inference. The Breeder and Sportsman, against whom he aimed it, devotes most of its space to horse interests, and when I said that the "Sandy Teapot" had no serious journalistic competition I meant a competition that was specially devoted to canine interests. There was no intention to reflect on any one personally.

Coming into the canine world we know not whence, we are told by him that he has knowledge, fairness, critical ability, etc., etc., and that there are dishonest men whom he does not like, and whom he names, and for it all we have to take his unsupported word.

The effort to prove that there was something wrong by associating a lot of circumstances together,—that such and such a man took such and such a dog into the ring, and that such and such a dog lost or won, is too despicable to treat seriously. Someone must lead the dogs into the ring, and as to who does so, is beyond the judge's control and is none of his business anyway.

Mr, Payne's criticisms (?) seem to be based largely on what others have told him (as in Mr. Harker's case and others) and the fury of his criticism seems to depend on whether the losing party is or is not, one of the "Teapot's" advertisers.

To sum up, Mr. Payne was a competitor at the late Oakland show, and therefore he was not competent to make an impartial criticism on the awards even if he had the technical knowledge necessary to do so. As a disappointed exhibitor he was qualified to be scurrilous as many others have been before, under the same circumstances. His charges of dishonesty are mere assertions. It is impossible to draw a definite specification from him. A libel suit would bring no redress. It would be impossible for him to give a true technical report of any show, but his reports such as they are, are founded on the sayings of the disappointed exhibitor, and the profitable advertiser—there were exhibitors other than these at the show but Mr. Payne is silent concerning them.

His charges, as he was pleased to term them, were largely a matter of hearsay; as he affects a smattering of law, he should know that hearsay is no evidence.

On his own declaration we know that he has had a vast experience; on what we know without his declaration he has been a common brawler in the canine world of the Pacific Coast.

He is a notoriety seeker on his own admission, unscrupulous in the use of means to attain it.

The charges against one which he was so hotly anxious to prosecute when there was no opposition in sight, are now wildly termed by him "strictures," and it is very likely that by the time he is done with it all he will be pleased to call them mistakes.

As Mr. Payne's purpose is to advertise his paper, I have referred to it as the "Sandy Teapot," not in any spirit of levity, but to avoid being made a catspaw of to subserve his purpose.

To such advertising as I have contributed he is welcome.

Florence.

On Sunday morning August 15th, between 8 and 9 o'clock, a young man who occasionally works for the Humboldt Kennels took three of the St. Bernards out near the Presidio for an exercise run. The dogs ran away from him and thinking that they might go into the reservation he ran to the gate but could not find them. Two of the dogs returned to the kennel but Florence, the pride of the kennel, did not come back.

A portion of the Presidio fence has been removed and Mrs. Geo. Sanderson, who lives on Jackson street near Cherry, says that she saw the dogs go through this opening in the fence and only two came out. She then saw one of the mounted guards driving the third one further into the reservation. A young man named Kelly, who lives on Washington street, near Maple, saw the guard driving the dog and heard three shots fired.

J. E Cutten, one of the owners of the kennel, reported the loss of the dog to Lieut. Powell in command of the mounted patrol but the bitch could not be found on the reservation.

In the meantime Kelly went on a still hunt for the bitch and found her body near a small pond within a couple of blocks of the opening in the fence where she went in. She had been shot through the neck.

Lieut. Powell states that under General Graham's orders all dogs found on the reservation were shot, but when Gen. Shafter took command the order was rescinded and the patrol acted on his own responsibility, consequently the only redress Mr. Cutten has is to sue the guard.

Florence was easily the best R. C. St. Bernard bitch in California. She was grandly-bred, being by Jim Blaine, out of Princess Hesper, by Champion Hesper, a sister of Champion Grand Master. She defeated Ch. Alta Berna under Mortimer at Oakland, and since her arrival on the Coast had won 1st Sacramento, 1897; 1st San Jose, 1896; 1st. Stockton, 1897, and 1st Oakland, 1897.

A New Pointer.

When it comes to a bird dog, give me a rat terrier every time," said a Chicago man, "a rat terrier makes the best kind of a bird dog. I have trained a rat terrier that can locate a covey of birds at any distance. Now, the minute he gets a covey located he begins tapping with his tail. We have a code arranged between us. He gives me the signals under the Morse system of dots and dashes. For instance, the last time I was out with him he stopped suddenly and began marking off dots and dashes with his tail. I kept count and read: 'P—C—30.' That meant 'prairie chicken 30 yards ahead.'

"'How many?' I whispered to him.

"He sneaked up a little distance and counted forty-three. I slipped in one of my special made cartridges, which are so flattened that the shot spread from side to side, but not up and down. By the use of these cartridges, when a covey of chickens rise in a line I can bag the whole lot.

"When the chickens lifted I blazed away, and not one of them fell—but I walked up to the place and the ground was literally covered with the feet of the prairie chickens. I had aimed just a little too low. I counted the feet and there were exactly eighty-six—two for each chicken. I did it merely to check up the dog's count. It merely shows how well the dog was trained."—The Current.

DOINGS IN DOGDOM.

One thousand and twenty dog licenses have been taken out in Spokane this season.

J. L. Cunningham of Los Angeles writes to the American Field that his Juanita is the only champion Great Dane in America. In this he is mistaken. There are several. Among them are Champion Juno 15,228.

Mrs. E. B. Grace has been very unlucky of late, her well known Yorkshire terrier Sallie VII died a few days ago. Several of her puppies have been sick but are now recovering. Dr. W. H. Jones successfully treated two of them, one with pneumonia and one with inflammation of the bowels.

The American Stock-Keeper, of Aug. 21st, contains an article signed Fred W. D'Evelyn, Chairman Pacific Advisory Board. We decline to answer the entire article as it would be exceedingly ill-advised to attempt the "mischief-maker's" tactics of stirring up more controversy the moment there is a prospect of peace. The chairman of the Board has been sat upon by both Secretary Vredenburgh and the balance of the Board for postponing the annual meeting and and we do not desire to "rub it in." His statements that "we, as a Board have suffered long and been kind" etc., are partially correct. The Board has suffered and we are proud of being the cause of it. It has suffered because it did not have the moral courage to oust from its ranks the cause of nine-tenths of all the contention that has existed here for the past few years. It has suffered by the contamination. We have stated that the Board's proceedings have been irregular and they have been proven such.

NOTICE TO ANGLERS.

Every angler is invited to drop us a line occasionally, telling us of the condition of the streams they have visited and the killing lure; of the number and size of the fish caught, or any other item of interest to anglers.

The Fly Casting Club.

The regular semi-monthly meeting of the San Francisco Fly Casting Club held on Tuesday evening last, brought out a good attendance. Vice-President J. P. Babcock presided. H. F. Muller officiated as Secretary pro tem. The other members present were: Messrs. Daverkosen, Lovett, Isenbruck, Reed, Finch, Turner, Miller, Crowell, Cooper, Siebe, Butler, Mocker, Young, Carman, Battu, Skinner and Golcher.

On motion of C. G. Young it was decided to give a dinner to President W. D Mansfield on his return from Chicago, in honor of his magnificent winnings at the Chicago tournament, and C. G. Young, A. B. Finch and H. F. Muller were appointed a committee of three to arrange for the banquet, with full power to act.

Mr. Mansfield's invitation to the banquet will be neatly engraved on a silver card, and the floral decorations of the table will be very unique.

On motion of Mr. Babcock the club adopted a club yell: "One-one-one-a quarter" (111¼), the number of feet made by Mr. Mansfield in his world's record cast.

The Fresno Exposisor prints the following article on Salmon in the San Joaquin. The Fish Commissioners should take notice of it:

It is only occasionally now that a good-sized salmon is caught in the upper San Joaquin, where they were once almost as numerous as the sands themselves. Justice St. John and party caught a large fish several weeks ago, and that is the only large one we have heard having been caught this season. Only a few years ago tons upon ton of fishes were taken out of the river, up into the very headwaters of the stream.

This food supply has now been cut off almost entirely. Large settlements along the river have something to do with the thinning out of the fish, and so have the use of dynamite and seines, but the greatest evil is the Miller & Lux dam, which has been thrown across the river between Mendota and Firebaugh. This dam was built and maintained in violation of law, and of course it is not provided with fish ladders or other appliances demanded by modern scientfic fish culture and fish dissemination.

Viewed from an economic or a sportsman's standpoint it is important that every obstacle to the run of the salmon should be removed. This might be accomplished by an association of sportsmen, through conferences with offenders, and if these should fail the law ought to be invoked. The subject is surely of sufficient importance to inspire our sportsmen to take some action in the matter.

J. W. Monroe, of Fortune, in a letter to John Butler, the well-known local angler, states that the run of salmon trout and steelheads in the Eel river is the largest for ten years. The river is full of fish. John Pollard caught nineteen trout and two steelheads in a few hours on the 21st.

F. Lippman caught seven trout and two black bass at San Andreas last Sunday. Frank Dolliver is said to have made an excellent catch of bass at Crystal Springs last Sunday. He showed two bass as evidence that weighed between two and three pounds each.

An unknown party caught a seven-pound trout last spring in the Truckee, and on opening his prize he found a whole chipmunk. Moral: Every angler should carry a chipmunk or two in his pocket for bait.

E. C. Sachs reports poor fishing at Klamath Hot Springs. The fish ladder at Pokegamo is broken and the fish cannot ascend the stream. They had better luck at Shovel Creek.

A record-breaking sturgeon was caught at Brookfield, Oregon, last week by a Russian Finn. It was 11 feet 6 inches in length and weighed nearly 700 pounds.

W. A. Cooper reports fishing at Boca very fair. The most successful anglers have found the grey hackle the best fly.

Quite a number af local anglers will fish the Truckee and the waters in the vicinity of Boca this coming week.

Yellow-tail and sea bass were so plentiful last week at Monterey that they were caught from the wharf.

Chico and Neighborhood.—A pleasant trip, in one respect, on the Oregon Express from the mole to Chico. In these days when the heat is somewhat fervent in the Sacramento valley, nightime is the most enjoyable part of the day, and the sleeping car, refrigerated by the cold current of air from the Golden Gate, just at the right temperature, retaining the comfortable degree until our destination was reached. A good sleep from 10 P. M. until 3:45 A. M., that being assured by hearty laughter, and as the old adage of "laugh and grow fat" has been sustained as "eminently true" for centuries past, it may also be classed as a promoter of repose. The editor of the Breeder and Sportsman has inherited the happy faculty of telling a facetious tale admirably, and there is something [connected with the smoking apartment of a Pullman that prompts recital after recital, and hence, whatever gloomy thoughts burdened the mind, these were dispelled and "tranquil sleep," or rather a buoyant, semi-dreamy existence for a few minutes, and then a complete surrender, as the arms of Morpheus are entwined around one, the embrace not loosened until the porter gives the order to get up.

Faint streaks of light in the eastern horizon when the bus drew up at the Park Hotel entrance. Much surprised when the portly form of "Rio Alto" filled the doorway as he reached his hand to welcome the arrivals, as that early hour seemed to preclude the idea of other greeting than that of the night clerk. Not entirely voluntary, however, on the part of our friend, as the heat had driven him from his room, and he had just finished the last of a pile of letters. The Examiner representative had not accepted the ordeal of endeavoring to sleep in a room that had been heated to over a hundred degrees of Fahrenheit, a chair on the porch being preferable and this, too, was the choice of an owner of horses, and from all accounts the selection was a wise move. After six o'clock breakfast Mr. Layng and I strolled towards the rancho of Mr. L. McIntosh. A short cut proved a roundabout way of getting there, though it gave us a chance to explore the bed of little Chico creek and clamber among the dense growth of vines on the banks. A streak of cemented gravel suggested prospecting, but even if pick and shovel had been a part of our equipment very doubtful if the temptation induced the striking of a single blow. Had the walk been ten times as long,and in place of being made when the cooler air of the morning inspired one with joyful feeling,"the sweet habit of existence" especially dulcet, though at a time when the God of the Fire Worshippers was near its meridian height, there would have been abundant recompense. In the first place the huge oak, with its covering of ivy, that graces the lawn is a "thing of beauty," and, to follow the quotation "a joy forever" or a least a gratification to the lover of nature so long as the present copartnership exists.

Such a thorough blending of the beauties of each, the "grand old oak with its hundred arms so strong," the bole encircled by such a mass of leaves, and these so closely interlocked that not an inch of bark is uncovered, an immense column of verdure, and above a spread of leaves that hides bough and branch. Strong arms needed to sustain the mammoth festoons which droop from the limits of the circle and sway in the slightest breeze, green stalactites with the charm of graceful motion added to beauty of form.

There is a variety of fruit trees in the immediate vicinity of the house, nearly every kind that is a habitat of temperate and semi-tropical zones, and the trees so heavily laden that the tips of the branches rest on the ground, many of the limbs unable to sustain the load and break on the upper side of the branch until the greater part of the weights rests on the earth.

I feel quite safe in asserting that the Garden of Eden could only secure a place were that and this part of the Sacramento valley competing for a premium. Had there been such peaches and pears as hang in rich profusion on the trees on this California rancho, "Auld Nickie-ben" would have known that an apple would not tempt, if even that one tree was forbidden.

The garden in the enchanted isle which held Rinaldo under the potent sway of Armida, might trouble California to parallel, though in one feature there is a resemblance.

"Midst the same leaves and on the self-same twig
The rosy apple with the unripe is seen;
Hung on one bough the old and youthful fig,
The golden orange glows beside the green."

From the standpoint of utility not even the fervid imaginings of the "divine Torquato" would excel the realty, as quality and quantity are combined in the orchards surrounding Chico. It was predicted that prunes would not do as well there as in the Santa Clara valley, owing to the intense heat which is sure to prevail during the summer season, but that has been found to be an erroneous prophecy, the thorough test of several years establishing the fact that this profitable crop can be grown in the greatest perfection. Thoroughly demonstrated, too, that California is unsurpassed in the production of fast horses, and were the prospects as favorable for remunerative returns in the future for horses as for grains and fruit, little room to hang complaints upon. All parts of the State have shown that whenever there was even small opportunities awarded the result has been good

A better illustration could scarcely be given than has been presented by Arthur Wilkes. With a limited number of mares, a very few having any pretentions to "class," he has shown remarkable "prepotency," and when it was apparent that his get were of a superior cast then the "hard times" came, and breeding in that section was almost entirely suspended. Hopes of revival, however, and with that will come a goodly share of patronage for the sire of Welcome, Wayland W., Hobo, and others of nearly equal prominence. Arthur W. is looking well and that was to be expected with everything so favorable to "the entertainment of man and beast," as the old-time country taverns had it on the signs. In addition to the contents of the equine larder, pears, apples and peaches, and he signified his approval of that part of his dietary by graceful bows when Miss McIntosh presented them. A heap of character in the head of Arthur W.

A casual observer, in fact, many who are credited with being "good judges of a horse" are prone to pay little attention to this part of the animal, further than to look for well known points, such as good eyes, wide between the jaws, tapering muzzle, "well set on to the neck," etc. But as the physiognimist gives close scrutiny to the human face in order to form a correct judgment in relation to the mental faculties, so the searcher for indications of temperament in the horse must look for them in the same place, eye, ear, forehead, and jaws rarely failing to tell a true tale, unless natural tendencies have been distorted by ill-usage or given a wrong bent by faulty education. It does not require an expert to discover that docility,good sense and determination are depicted in the countenance of Arthur W., and a majority of his colts give the same evidence of being endowed with like qualities. An extra fine lot the foals of 1897, though yearlings, two, and three-year-olds are of a high type. The brother to Welcome and Wayland W. is sure to gain distinction if form and kinship to good ones are to be relied upon.

Mr. McIntosh took us to the track in time for the racing. Twenty years ago my last visit to the course. Not a great deal of change, though a clubhouse had been removed, stables and stands the same, the racecourse proper—viz. the arena on which the horses strive for mastery is better than it was when Goldsmith Maid made the mark that has been lettered on the judges' stand for the fifth of a century, and after Mr. Layng and I made the circuit, both of us came to the conclusion that so far as safety and speed govern it can be rated A—1. Goldsmith Maid and Rarus, Occident and Bodine were the prime attractions at the May meeting, and Mr. Samuel Daniels, who organized and managed the "function" informed me that $7,000 was taken at the gate. Pleasant to me that first visit to Chico. The night of my arrival a genuine thunderstorm, and the music of the rainfall on the roof was more than welcome to one who had not heard it for three years. It will not be out of place, perhaps, to quote a few paragraphs of an article written at that time.

"Very early next morning we accompanied Mr. S. J. Daniels, superintendent of the track and landlord of the hotel, to the grounds, taking a situation where we could have a good view, and patiently awaited the rising of the sun.

"Beautiful is the country surrounding Chico. The Sierras in the distance, their summits scarcely discernible from the clouds that are piled above them, their undulating outline, broken into gaps where the streams come through, form merely a darker band against the sombre sky, for the sun has not yet dispelled the vapors of the night, and the foothills are still in gloom, the shadow of the mountains enveloping them in a dark mantle.

"But the grey of the morning is fast giving way before the rising luminary, and the wavy outline and the sombre clouds are tinged with glory. A golden aureole with a roseate hue and the sun, a huge mass of molten gold, rests for a moment on the highest peak and bathes the valley in a flood of light. The wheat and barley fields are as green as an English park in June, and the huge oak trees add still more to the park-like appearance of the country in the vicinity of the race course. So different from the scorched plains of the San Joaquin, in the intense green of the grain and the foliage of the trees, it seems as though it must be a different season of the year; the one, autumn, with its barrenness and sky of brass; the other, the merry springtime, with showers, rainbows and the song of the mavis among the rural flowers. More like springtime of 'back home,' for on Saturday night, just as the sun was setting, the forked lightnings were zigzagging through the black clouds to the north, there was the familiar rattle of distant thunder, and the gentle raindrops fell steadily for hours, pattering on the roof, and lulling into the sweetest slumbers, with dreams of the far off country where the same sounds were frequently heard. Dreams of the creek fringed with alders, where the trout would break the surface of the pools in dimples, rising at the gaudy insect which concealed the barbed hook; of the pasture fields—every grass blade, every leaf hung with aqueous diamonds—in which foals were gamboling, as graceful as Tuglioni in their movements."

A wonderful change these twenty years have wrought. No longer park-like, orchards on all sides of the race course, verdure of leaf, golden-colored, pink and scarlet fruit making a pleasing picture if even some of the grand old oaks have been sacrificed. Lady Amanda won a $500 purse for me at that meeting, and the following September I was again so fortunate as to win a few hundred dollars. Nothing then but pleasant recollections of Chico and its surroundings, and these heightened by later visits, also full of enjoyment.

The races on Friday were more than ordinarily good, stirring contests, sensational denouements. Not a favorite the winner, and not the smallest chance for questioning the honesty of the drivers, the only suspicious feature being the driving of Primrose, and a change of pilots did not sustain the charge. Fully described in another part of this paper, it is not necessary to enter into details of the racing, though to pass them without mention would be an injustice to the game horses and skillful drivers. In the first race of the afternoon Jaspine won first and second heats in 2:15¼ and 2:15, and then Joe scored 3d, 4th and 5th in 2:16½, 2:18½ and 2:19, showing marvelous improvement over his races in Oakland, especially the single-handed fight when he was beaten in 2:34¾ and 2:29½. That Joe is "more than likely" to prove a race horse, and that of a high class, is shown by a large endowment of speed and endurance, the only requirement needed steadiness, which he is likely to obtain under his skillful teacher.

Jaspine, too, and Osita have good prospects. The first-named will surely be heard from before the circuit closes, and Osita, if uninjured from the severe ordeal of the race under consideration, will be no discredit to his illustrious family. His driver cannot find fault with being harshly criticised for not accepting the permission of the judges to "draw him," as he was so palpably amiss that there should have been no hesitancy in retiring him from the hard battle. The pacing race for three-year-olds can safely be termed a great race. Victor and anquished alike entitled to warm encomiums.

Hijo del Diablo proved himself an antagonist well worthy of the famous colt that has gained renown on the Montana tracks, and when they meet the big, fine-looking son of a former champion will find supporters. The ease with which he won the first heat in 2:11½ led one to believe that the record for three-year-olds was within his reach, and quite likely that the mark will be made on the close of the circuit. The 2:17 pace was also an animated affair, and a fitting accompaniment to the other races of the afternoon.

Those who were at the races on Thursday had to bear the somewhat fervid temperature of 110 in the shade. Friday quite an improvement, though the mercury was still high in the tube and the red column in the spirit thermometers well up to the top. Pleasant, however, the evening at the rancho of Mr. McIntosh. Quite comfortable in the evening in a seat shaded by an immense fig tree on the opposite side of the lawn from the ivy-covered oak, and after the earth had turned the Sacramento valley well away from the source of life and heat, and a gentle breeze stirred the leaves,the temptation to enjoy was too strong to be resisted. Frogs and crickets joining in a pleasant chorus, from a distance came strains of melody, without any mistake a negro songster, and while there may have been some harshness in the sounds, when in closer proximity to the soloist that was modulated in passing through a furlong or so of atmosphere.

As Tam 'o Shanter was captivated by the stories of his companions to linger in Auld Ayr so long that the witches came very near catching him on his way home, the Keystone o' the brig only reached in time to save, so our associate kept extracting from his well-filled repertoire tale after tale, and that hearty laughter is a grand and potent panacea for insomnia I am ready to certify. The ancient mariner told:

"O Sleep! it is a blessed thing,
Beloved from pole to pole!
To Mary Queen the praise be given!
She sent the gentle sleep from heaven
That slid into my soul."

Perfectly proper for the slayer of the Albatross to acknowledge the favor to the Queen,but I thank the stories, and the response of the auditors for the sound slumber that followed.

A full chapter, and not a short one at that, to contain all that I saw and heard on this trip. And without over-coloring, a person who is not familiar with the country and the people would come to the conclusion that the picture was overdrawn, and that the pigments used were too bright. Those who suffered from the intense heat of Thursday might associate the discomfort of one day with the whole week, we, who were so fortunate as to escape that, and with Friday's and Saturday's temperature to recall, the climatic remembrances are pleasant.

Dress etiquette is not very rigid there, and if not prepared with full suits to accord with the caloric in the air one is freely pardoned for divesting himself of all clothing save trousers, shirt, light hat, low shoes and thin hose.

Well repaid for the journey,which entails a forced rising at 3 o'clock in the morning, to witness the array of beautiful and daintily clad damsels, and equally as attractive matrons, as were congregated in the grand and ladies' stands, and then the races of Saturday afternoon would also have been a full recompense.

One of them especially, the 2:13 class, trotting, resulting in a contest the like of which is rarely seen on any track. Everyone of the six starters entitled to high praise; all well worthy of the plaudits that greeted them. While the winner is rightfully credited with highest honors, Zombro and Jasper Ayres must be rated so closely after her that the distinction is merely a line. In fact had either Zombro or Jasper been out of the race, the one left in would have won. Reference to the summary will prove the assertion true: Zombro 6, 1, 2, 1—for four heats, Jasper 2, 2, 1, 2. Had Helena been free from lameness, the result might have been different. Then the time of these heats 2:11¼, which Helena won, 2:11½; Zombro, 2:11¾; Jasper, 2:11¾, Zombro, 2:11. Then a fifth heat in 2:12¾. Invincible, game, wonderful endurance in all three, and when I claim that Mamie Griffin is the most liberally endowed with these qualities, it may be that favoritism influences the award. A grandaughter of "old" Blackbird, the most resolute and untiring among all the harness horses I ever knew, and a daughter of one that came to California through my instrumentality, there is something more than being of the "old stock" to gratify, and I may be pardoned for exhibiting partiality, escape any harsh censure for predilections which others do not share.

When Mamie won the fifth heat a hurricane of applause for the "home horse." When she placed the seventh to her credit and the race was won the cheering was immense. A blind person would have thought there must be ten thousand voices to emit such a volume of vivas, and the ovation testified that the hearts of those who cheered had the right beat, manifesting a praiseworthy delight over the victory of an animal bred and reared in the neighborhood, and that owner and driver enjoyed the good will of their home folk.

From what I saw in the closing two days of the meeting, I am well pleased to state that the management was very good. The work of the starter could scarcely be bettered, and with nine horses handled so well on a track that is not more than two-thirds as wide as the Emeryville course, however large the fields, Mr. Covey will be sure to give satisfaction at the Fall meeting of the Breeders. I trust that he will occupy the starter's stand on the inside of the course, as that will be vastly better, in my opinion, than a place in the judges' "box," the adoption by all prominent racing associations a sufficient guarantee of its superiority.

MISSING LINKS IN A PEDIGREE CHAIN.

The Breeding of a Great Produc'ng Mare Kept Secret for a Lifetime—Will the Mystery Ever Be Unraveled?

There was a mare, "said to be by Glencoe," brought across the plains to California in 1854, when she was two years of age, that many breeders in this State are interested in—at least are anxious to discover her true pedigree. To this mare traced the very frequent winner, Revolver, the speedy Mt. Air, the excellent Bryant W., the crack Joshua, Belle Mahone, Blue Bonnet and a host of horses owned by G. W. Trahern of Stockton, besides the descendants of the famous Maid of the Oaks and her sister, Lady Hawkins. It is not altogether unlikely that a John A. mare now owned by M. Coffey, of Sacramento, traced to this mare alleged to be by Glencoe, who was brought to California at the same time as Jack Hawkins, the good son of Boston.

In a recent letter of G. W. Trahern to Judge J. H. Tam, of this city, Mr. Trahern, one of the oldest of the California turfmen, tells about this particular "Glencoe mare." She was purchased by Matthew Borland and his brother shortly after his arrival here, and eventually passed into the hands of Ross Sargent, of Stockton, Matthew Borland, through a misunderstanding or quarrel, withholding the pedigree from Mr. Sargent. However, Matthew Borland showed Mr. Trahern the pedigree (at a time when he was not interested in that family of horses), and he well remembers that the mare traced on the dam's side of the house to an imported mare from the stud of Harrison of Brandon. All the members of the great Hennie Farrow tribe go to the same source. Later Mr. Trahern became the owner of Belle Mahone, by Norfolk, who was from Maid of the Oaks, by Jack Hawkins, a daughter of the alleged "Glencoe mare." He met Matthew Borland one day, and the old gentleman told him the extended pedigree of the Glencoe mare was in his brother's house, and that he would send for it and let Mr. Trahern have it. Shortly thereafter he went insane, before attending to this matter, and died. The brother was killed two or three years ago at New Hope, Stanislaus county, and a letter to an old friend of his, A. Thornton (in whose house Matthew Borland's brother died), was received by us last week, which states that Mr. Borland had no pedigree of the mare, but R. C. Sargent should be able to furnish it, "as the pedigree went with the horse and mares to Sargent." The horse referred to is Jack Hawkins. Mr. Sargent did not secure the pedigree, however, we are informed by Dr. H. Latham, and here is an other stumbling block.

A horseman named Cole writes to Mr. Coffey, of Sacramento, who is trying to trace the pedigree of his John A. mars on the dam's side: "In regard to your mare would say that some time between the years 1872 and 1873 Mr. Williamson sold two Don Victor mares to Mr. Titus at Los Angeles. I saw them in 1880, in company with Mr. Williamson, on Mr. Titus' farm. I have not forgotten them. They were by Don Victor, out of a mare by Jack Hawkins, and they cannot be traced any farther. Frank de Poistre can tell you all about the Jack Hawkins mare. * * * I saw them on the island opposite Antioch in 1874. One was a suckling, the other one year old, and then they went to Mr. Titus, and I heard that Mr. Titus sold one of them to L. U. Shippee of Stockton. The man that took the Jack Hawkins mare to Henry [Williamson] got mad because Henry kept the mare [for the bill], and would never tell him how the mare was bred on the dam's side, but Mr. Williamson saw a man who worked on the place at the time the mare was sent to Belmont. He told Williamson that she was out of one of his best mares, and it was a known fact that the owner of the Jack Hawkins mare had two mares by imp. Glencoe. Mr. Williamson always supposed that she was out of one of them. I have all of this from Henry. You will see that it will be a hard matter to hunt it up."

After a close search through the American Stud Book, we find just one mare registered by imp. Glencoe and tracing on the dam's side of the house to the imported mare from the stud of Harrison of Brandon. That one is Laura Williams, registered in volume 1, page 640, and again under her dam, (Jane Watson, by imp. Priam) in volume 1, page 548. Now Jane Watson was foaled in 1842, yet Laura Williams, her only registered produce, was foaled in 1855, when the mother was thirteen years of age. Is it not possible, if indeed not probable, that the Borland mare that was sold to R. C. Sargent, a two-year-old in 1854, was an own sister to Laura Williams. The latter was, besides, brought from Tennessee to Kansas, where she died after foaling a number of good performers.

By the way, Mr. Trahern stated in his letter to Judge Tam that if he remembered aright Thomas H. Williams Jr., President of the California Jockey Club, had the extended pedigree of Bryant W., a horse he owned and raced, by Monday, dam Babe, by imp. Nena Sahib; second dam Lady Hawkins (sister to Maid of the Oaks), by Jack Hawkins; third the Borland-Sargent mare "said to be by imp. Glencoe." Judge Tam told us the other day that Mr. Williams had mislaid the pedigree and could not find it. Mr. Williams also owned Revolver, of the same family, who was a good "stayer" that certainly did not run like a half-breed.

The American Trotting Register's officials have accepted, with no "ifs and ands," the pedigree of this mare brought across the plains, and put her down as by imp. Glencoe. A few Palo Alto bred animals (trotters) trace to the daughter of Glencoe, and Voucher, a game light-harness campaigner, also traced, through Belle Mahone and Maid of the Oaks, to her. On the Miller & Sibley farm in Pennsylvania were several trotters from the family of this mare whose pedigree has been so strangely withheld from the public, and some day, ere long, we hope to be placed in a position to put together the missing links of a pedigree chain that would undoubtedly prove to be a long one. Ralph H. Tozer.

Answers to Correspondents.

C. F. A., San Rafael—Will you please give me the pedigree of the sorrel horse (four years old) Alesandro, a thoroughbred, raised by Baldwin? Answer—Alesandro is a chestnut gelding, four years old, by imp. The Hook, from Savannah (dam of Empress of Norfolk), by Grinstead; second dam, Josie C. (dam of Guadalupe), by imp. Leamington; third dam by Lexington etc. Imp. The Hook was by Fishhook (son of Fisherman,) dam Juliet, by Touchstone.

Australasian Turf Notes.

Five horses ran a dead heat for first in the Toowoomba (Queensland) Shorts Handicap. A handicapping record.

There are few more deservedly popular secretaries in Australia than Mr. Ted O'Mara, of the Rosehill and Kensington Clubs, and it is therefore quite proper that his name this year should be associated with one of the record fields of a record year. We refer to the colonial record field of forty-three, which started for the Rosehill Cup, a six-furlong handicap, on Saturday, June 19th. The race was won by Kelso (Kingsborough—Fop mare), carrying 8.4. The field is the largest that has faced the starter in Australia, and has only once been surpassed in England, when 45 assembled at the post for a race won by Broagh Patrick, a horse that subsequently was sent to Australia. Hitherto the colonial record was 42 for a Ladies' Bracelet at Caulfield, won by The Ghost, and Grace Darling's Caulfield Cup attracted a field of 41. Had the supply of riders been equal to the demand at Rosehill the competitors for the Cup would have been increased by at least three or four, but jockeys were not available, and, consequently, a world's record was missed. Tattersall's sweep considerations were mainly responsible for the great number of contestants. Kelso started at the remunerative price of 20 to 1.

During the past season the Auckland Racing Club established a record for New Zealand in the amount of money passed through the Totalisator. At the five meetings held the sum of £100,366 was handled as against £81,297 in the previous year. The Government benefited to the extent of £1,505 9s 10d, the tax paid into the treasury amounting to that sum.

Last year nearly $435,000 was put through the totalisator at the Canterbury (N. Z.) Jockey Club meetings.

The totalisator is responsible for a flourishing condition of affairs on the part of the Canterbury Jockey Club, New Zealand. The receipts for the year were £21,175 10s 5d. The expenditure included £13,110 paid in stakes, £835 0s 5d spent in permanent improvements, and £2235 1s 10d on a new grand stand. The club has £5,000 in reserve on fixed deposit.

The thoroughbred sire Skipper died at Mr. F. Tozer's place near Waranambool a few days ago. Skipper, who was by Boatman, from Topsy, sired some fairly good horses, and the most notable were the steeplechaser Floater and the hurdle racer Plunger.

Discussing the prospects of crack Victorian two-year-olds, the Australasian remarks: "The Royal Handicap served to show what a little wonder is Key, who not only gave weight away to every other horse in the race, but won handsomely. And a two-year-old, too! I do not remember another horse of the same age that ever won an open handicap under such disadvantages as regards weight. The Admiral, who had won the Maribyrnong Plate, and who afterwards carried off the Victorian Blue Riband, won this race as a two-year-old, carrying 7.12, but there is a good deal of difference between 7.12 and 8.13—the weight carried by Key. And the question again arises—Which is the best two-year-old of the season—Aurum, Fleet Admiral, or Key? Aurum has some doughty deeds to his credit, and Fleet Admiral has proved himself not unworthy of a great racing family; but if the three—Aurum Fleet Admiral and Key—were matched over a short course to-morrow, I fancy backers would 'hum' and 'ha' a bit before giving their undivided support to Aurum or Fleet Admiral."

Mr. R. B. Echlin, manager of Charleville (Queensland) Times, has invented a new totalisator and scratching board, which the Rockhampton Jockey Club, having tested, seems inclined to buy, says an exchange. The tote is on the "block" system, and the ticket-seller don't retain possession of the money, but, standing in an enclosure outside, merely receives it and passes it on to the man in the office, who immediately registers it on the board outside by means of a mechanical, automatic counting-machine. When a race starts, the board, by means of the window-weight system, is pushed up out of reach of anyone. The scratching board is so fitted that, as horses are scratched, their names are made to disappear without taking down the board.

The stylishly-bred Steelshot, by Foulshot—Voltarina met with an accident recently, the result of which necessitated the colt's destruction (writes "Sentinel" in the Hawera Star). Mr. Grant, Hawera (owner and breeder), went down the coast to see the animal, but as there was no hope of his recovery, it was destroyed. This is a serious loss to Mr. Grant, as inside twelve months he has lost Voltarina, and a colt bred on such lines as Steelshot was likely to become valuable. The animal was leased to Mr. Chitham, Palmerston North.

Speaking of tolalisators reminds me that, in view of the betting difficulties which are causing so much trouble in New South Wales at present, that certainty of the introduction of the machine in your colony sooner or later is more than ever apparent. Of course, it is premature to conjecture on what principle totalisators are likely to be worked on a big scale by the leading clubs of Australia when they become legalized; but I might just hint that a machine which is claimed to be a perfect marvel of speed and accuracy—something entirely different from anything yet turned out in the shape of totalisators—has been invented by a Brisbane genius, and is ready to be brought under notice when the proper time arrives.—Sydney Referee.

Letter From R. O. Newman.

Editor Breeder and Sportsman—I am so elated over the performance of De Bernardi Basler at Oakland in the three-year-old pace on Thursday, Aug 5th, that I must write you and ask you to let the people know more about him through the Breeder and Sportsman. I bred him, raised and developed him here at home; he is the colt I had advertised in your paper as Dave Basler. He is by Robert Basler, first dam Peerless Maid (her first colt), by Strathway, 2:19; second dam Susie K., grandam of Homeward, 2:13¼, by Aleric (son of imp. Hercules); third dam Fashion by Jack Hawkins (son of Boston). I own De Bernardi Basler. I bred him, also his sire, Robert Basler, his dam Peerless Maid, and own both his grandams (old Elizabeth Basler and Susie K.). That is a distinction few breeders can boast of. Robert Basler is the first producing son of Antevolo (if I mistake not), so you see I can claim the blood of Elizabeth Basler is being carried on through Robert Basler and is breeding on. De Bernardi Basler is Robert Basler's first colt to send to the races, and a very good representative of our family on both sides of the family. I have a number of good young ones coming along nicely, of the get of Robert Basler and Stoneway.

The California Horse Market.

The condition of the horse market, which has during the past few years been extremely poor, has of late improved considerably, and the demand for horses and mules is gradually increasing. During the last five or ten years the demand for horses gradually declined. This has been due to the introduction of steam plows, bicycles and cable and trolley cars in commercial branches in which horses and mules were formerly considered absolutely necessary.

The change for the better has been rather sudden. Local buyers and traders returning from their annual purchasing trips through the interior of the State report an almost insurmountable difficulty in obtaining horses and mules, even at fancy prices. The market seems to have gone short entirely, and good horses and mules can be had only in very small lots and for prices which would have turned buyers away in disgust a year ago.

Horses weighing over 1,600 pounds cannot be bought now for less than $150, and the best of this weight run as high as $200, which sum was recently paid in Sonoma county by the local draying firm of Gavin & McNab for good horses. Horses weighing from 1,000 to 1,500 pounds cannot be bought for less than $75, and more frequently command $125. A band of mules ranging from three to six years was sold in the San Joaquin valley for an average price of $60, and this notwithstanding that fourteen of the band were too young for regular work.

The advance in price is attributed by dealers to the fact that farmers and ranchers have given up horse-raising as unprofitable. The breeding of cheap stock—horses weighing under 1,000 pounds—has almost ceased. These animals do not bring more than $25 a head, and for this no one can afford to raise them.

Carriage and dray horses of the best grade are in considerable demand in this city at present. Sales which have been almost impossible for years have recently been made, and considerable stock is changing hands. A fair carriage team sold the other day for $375, and this was considered a sacrifice.

The increase in the demand for mules is to a considerable extent due to calls made by the buyers of Honolulu. Within the past few months between 800 and 1,000 head have been shipped to the islands, and in addition to this the San Joaquin demand has also been brisk.

The indications are that the farmer or rancher who starts in to raise horses now may find it profitable. The market is not extremely short at present, but it is growing shorter every year. Efforts to replenish it have apparently ceased, and that means that prices may continue to advance.—Chronicle.

The Pedigree of Direct.

A Missouri family named Barney came to the southern part of California in early days, remained there a short time, and then moved north to Yolo county. Among the fine animals they brought here was a handsome three-year-old mare of Blackburn's Whip stock. The people in Kentucky from whom the Barneys purchased this filly felt sorry after parting with her, tried to regain her by purchase, and one of the young men of the family rode for three days across the country after Mr. Barney, trying to repurchase her, but as one of the young girls was using her as a saddle mare it was deemed best to let her ride the filly to California, which she did. After arriving here this filly was bred to Jack Hawkins (son of Boston), and the produce was the "Young Mare," named after a Mr. Young, who afterwards owned her, and bred her to Echo, who was owned by L. M. Titus. The Young mare produced Echora, 2:23¼. Echora was bred to Director, 2:17, and foaled Direct, 2:05½ to high-wheel sulky, the fastest harness horse that ever lived. He paced a quarter (timed officially) at Richmond, Ind., in 1892 in 0:27½. This little horse founded a great family, and it is built on the thoroughbred filly of the Whip family that came across the plains.

Pedigree of Joe Wheeler.

In answer to our inquiry about Joe Wheeler's pedigree, Mr. Geo. L. Warlow of Fresno writes: "Joe Wheeler was bred at Wildflower, Cal.; sired by Sidney Arnett, dam by Grand Moor, second dam by Benjamin F., by Charles, son of Ethan Allen. Sidney Arnett was foaled May 31, 1889, and was sired by Sidney, 2:19¾, dam Sally, by Ben Butler, he by Hardwood, out of Mary Wade, by Woodburn; second dam by Blondin, son of George B. McClellan and Gray Nell, by the McNitt horse; third dam an Oregon mare, untraced.

The following dispatch came from Chicago, Ill., Aug. 25. "Al Hankins, the widely known sporting man, was killed today by the collapse of a folding bed at 3008 Cottage Grove avenue. He had just entered the apartment and seated himself on the edge of the bed when it unexpectedly closed, and his neck was broken. Persons in the place rushed to his assistance, but they were too late, death resulting almost instantly. Hankins is said to have conducted a gambling establishment at the number given." Al Hankins was one of the most popular sporting men in the country, a great lover of a good horse, and had owned not a few in his day, among the number Aristides, first winner of the Kentucy Derby. Mr. Hankins was in California about five years ago, and visited the leading stock farms of the State, in company with his wife. Joseph Cairn Simpson knew Al Hankins for about thirty-five years, as well as his brothers.

Lee Shaner, the California horseman, will probably concede that Friday is his unlucky day. He will also probably conclude that it pays to deal fairly and honorably, even in horse racing. By a determined effort on the part of Andy McDowell, R. Benson and H. R. Brown, Chris Petersen was defeated in the 2:14 trot. A little later in the day Shaner's Lady Hurst was made a big favorite against horses that had beaten her at the same distance and weights only a few days before. No one outside the Shaner clique could get a ticket. Lady Hurst won, but it resulted in ruling Shaner and his horses off the track for the remainder of the meeting.—Anaconda Recorder.

THE WILLOW RACES.

A Brilliant Wind-Up—How the Various Races Were Won.

THURSDAY, AUGUST 26.

The most encouraging assemblage of the week graced the grand stand and grounds this afternoon, and it was too bad that one of the events should have fallen through, leaving but the two-year-old trot and three-year-old pace down for decision. Prince Ansel was a 10 to 5 favorite over the field for the opening race, and he spreadeagled his four opponents in the first quarter, leading into the stretch by a city block and eased down to a walk in 2:27¼. All the others broke several times except Dr. Frasse, who only made one mistake, and by his steadiness he got second place. Prince Ansel made a similar show of his field in the concluding heat. John A. McKerron came fast in the stretch and got within two lengths of the Dexter Prince colt at the finish, the mile being negotiated in 2:25½. Dr. Frasse was a distant third.

Hijo del Diablo then came out and captured the three-year-old pace in apple-pie order. His harness and other gear was shipshape this time, and he never made a skip in the three circuits. Nothing opposed to him could give him the semblance of an argument, and speculation was restricted to guessing the second horse in each round. They were a bad lot, and soon got the wiseacres in deep water. The first heat Telephone and Majella fought out under severe punishment, the former getting the place by a head. Primrose acted so peculiarly and differently from her previous efforts that Durfee was substituted by the judges, but he could do no better than get third, Irvington Belle beating the little mare by a length. Reinsman Nash resumed his seat behind Primrose for the third heat, but after pacing well for half a mile she made a frantic break that nearly threw her driver into the ditch. Telephone secured the second place in this heat, a length in front of Irvington Belle, who came with a rush at the end and closed up a big gap, which she lost by a break in the early part of the journey.

FRIDAY, AUGUST 27.

There was a notable increase in the attendance this afternoon, it being ladies' day. The male element also turned out with greater force, too. The erratic Doctor J. threw his backers hard to-day. He had no control over his feet and Maben was unable to steady him in any of the four heats that were trotted. In the pools he sold favorite at $10, Lynall $5 and the field $5, the latter having strong support because it contained Cordray, a horse that was heavily played at Chico to beat Anselor and the same animals that appeared to-day. Cordray and Doctor J. both broke in the first heat after the word was given, and Central Girl and Lynall had the race all to themselves. The former led into the stretch by two lengths, but Lynall overhauled her in the last 100 yards, winning easily in 2:25.

The next heat furnished a pretty contest. At the head of the stretch all were bunched except the favorite, who was far in the rear, having made a series of disastrous breaks. Lynall broke about half-way down the stretch, and Cordray coming fast, landed the heat in 2:24¼. He led from end to end in the next heat, winning by six lengths in 2:25, Lynall again making a bobble at the same spot.

The last heat was the fastest of the race and also the prettiest. Cordray and Lynall all went out together from the start and were wheel and wheel as they headed for home. The Marysville colt passed Cordray a furlong from the wire and Donathan commenced to ply with the whip. He could not gain on Lynall until the latter stepped over the shadow of a pole near the barn and, becoming frightened, lost his feet. Then Cordray ambled by him and finished all out in 2:23¼. Doctor J. was not within telephone distance at the finish, having made four bad breaks during the journey.

For the district pace Arthur W. sold at $10, against $5 for the field, the short-end buyers being in the minority. The favorite's hobbles broke on the first turn and he lost ten lengths by his break. Gradually closing up the gap, he overhauled the leaders in the stretch and won by three lengths. The next two heats were simply exercise for him. Blue Bells and Teddy the Roan had a hard fight for second money, but the mare had the most speed at the end and beat the roan half a length.

SATURDAY, AUGUST 28.

The game Visalia horse, Jasper Ayres, by Iris, won a great six-heat race here this afternoon in the presence of about two thousand people. It was fully as exciting as the one won by Mamie Griffin at Chico one week previous. Though Zombro was conquered, his admirers think none the less of him, as he gave a remarkable exhibition of speed and gameness, and would probably have been the victor had Durfee not made the fatal mistake in the fourth heat of watching Helena, on the outside, while Perkins, with a desperation born of the situation, squeezed Jasper Ayres through an opening next to the fence, which was barely the width of his sulky, and won by half a length.

When the race was called the crowd was on the tiptoe of anticipation, and in the pools Zombro brought $10 against $6 for the field. The son of McKinney broke on the first turn, and Helena and Ethel Downs had the heat to themselves, the former winning handily by two lengths.

Jasper Ayres and Zombro reserved their effort for the next heat. A cheer went up as Zombro took the lead, and a gap of two lengths separated him from the San Jose horse until they reached the stretch, where Jasper got up. He could not overhaul the flying Zombro, who won by three lengths in 2:13¼. Mamie Griffin was fourth and close up.

The third heat was such a hot struggle that Zombro broke the track record. He and Jasper fought each other from wire to wire, and at no time was there over a length between them. With a superb burst of speed Jasper gained on the stallion in the last furlong, and in a whipping finish between the pair was only beaten a head in 2:12¼. On the Chico track the time would have been two seconds faster.

Opinion was now divided as to the outcome, good judges contending that Zombro was all out. He was tired, but that he was game was soon demonstrated. Again he sailed out in front, but could not maintain his advantage, Helena leading him by a head at the half in 1:05½, Jasper Ayers and Ethel Downs only a length away. As they swung into the stretch all except Jasper were abreast, and the sight moved the crowd to a roar of enthusiasm. Mamie Griffin was first to break and drop out, and later on Ethel Downs followed suit. Jasper Ayers was in a pocket behind Zombro and Perkins thought that there was no hope for him. Fate was with him, however, for Durfee was engaged in fighting Helena and swung out from the rail. He thus made an opening, barely more than the width of a sulky, and Perkins took advantage of the dangerous opportunity and squeezed through just in time to land the son of Iris a winner by half a length. Zombro finished under the whip and apparently distressed.

Excitement was intense and Perkins was accorded a prolonged ovation. Zombro led into the stretch in the fifth heat, but Jasper beat him out by two lengths. All now went to the stable except the heat winners, and Jasper Ayers annexed the sixth heat and race without being extended.

The opening event was won in straight heats by F. W., the favorite, and Joe landed the 2:30 trot in like manner.

THE WOODLAND MEETING.

MONDAY, AUGUST 30.

The sixth annual race meeting of Yolo county opened at the Woodland track this afternoon under the most favorable auspices. It is true the attendance was not as large as it has been on former occasions, but it is early in the week, and, considering that fact, the gate receipts were as satisfactory as could be expected. In the grand stand a number of ladies were seated, but the gentlemen seemed to prefer the betting ring, where the pool boxes and bookmakers were conveniently near. The weather was all that could be wished for as far as comfort was concerned. Betting was a little slow, probably due to the fact that the winners were easily picked, excepting the last event, a runnning race, in which an outsider, a 6 to 1 shot, captured the sack. In the second race, the 2:25 pacing, Arthur W. beat Hijo Del Diablo, who was slated for first money, but it was not so much a surprise to the talent as it was generally known that the latter was not feeling well, having been bitten on the lip previously on the circuit. Primrose took second money over Diablo, which was a little more than was expected. The track was in fine condition and compliments were heard upon every hand praising the associatinn directors for their successful efforts in this respect. In the judges' stand Frank Covey acted as started and L. B. Adams, T. S. Spaulding and L. A. Merritt as judges. The time-keepers were W. H. Robinson, of San Francisco, and W. Overhalser and De Fortin of Oakland.

Promptly at 2 o'clock the bell was rang for the first event, the pacing 2:13 class, for a purse of $500, three in five heats. The entries were Plunket, Arthur L., Roan Wilkes, Col. Benton and Our Boy. The latter was the favorite by long odds, with Arthur L. next. Prices were $10, $9 against the field for $4. Plunket took the first heat, Our Boy finished second, with Arthur L. close behind. Plunket came up in the pool boxes a little after the heat, but very few bit. The next heat was announced and the talent still preferred Our Boy. His odds remained about the same. At the quarter Plunket led, Our Boy next and Roan Wilkes third. The same order prevailed at the half, but Our Boy closed up closely. On the homestretch he led by a half-length and Roan Wilkes closed. They finished in that way, rather close together, Arthur L. fourth and Col. Benton fifth.

The third heat Our Boy led the whole distance, Plunket followed, trailed by Arthur L. and Roan Wilkes. The favorite won easy and the others maintained the same order. Time, 2:15.

The fourth and last heat was a repetition excepting that Col. Benton finished in the fourth place ahead of Roan Wilkes. Our Boy took the race and first money, Plunket second and Arthur L. third. Time, 2:15½.

The next event, the 2:25 pacing race, for $300 Hijo Del Diablo sold as favorite, even up, to win, Arthur W. was next favorite and Primrose brought a good price. The report that Diablo was sick caused a check in the money risks, and on the strength of it Arthur W.'s odds went up. The first heat showed the result. Arthur W. won handily, Primrose finished an easy second and Diablo fought for third place against Majella B., who was followed by Telephone and Irvington Bell in the respective order. The race then centered on the horse for second place. No odds were marked out for Diablo, and Arthur W. was at 1 to 2 and Primrose even up for a place. Some thought even then that Diablo would pick up and make play of the race, but the judgment was fatal.

The second heat resulted in the same manner, Arthur W. winning easily by two lengths, Primrose followed and the favorite came in third. The same order prevailed around the course.

Before the bell for the third heat sounded, Arthur's odds went up to 1 for 6. They got off well bunched but Arthur forged ahead after the quarter was passed. At that point Diablo led, Arthur, who was second, led at the half, Primrose saving herself, having a cinch anyway for second money. At the stretch Arthur still led, with Diablo second and away in the lead of Primrose. They finished in that order, Telephone coming in fourth, Majella B. fifth and Irvington Belle sixth.

The result of the last race, running, five furlongs, purse $100, was the one in which the talent was surprised. Kitty Brady was an even-money favorite. The winner, George L., was marked out at 6 to 1, and bettors overlooked him in placing their money. Some few dollars were won on Ricardo and Stormy for place and show, but on the whole the bookmakers made a good clean-up. The start was delayed for forty-five minutes, and finally when they did get off Soledad was left standing at the post. It was nearly dark and only the most enthusiastic remained to see the race. When the flag finally flopped, Stormy was in the lead, followed by a bunch, not easily distinguished on account of the gloom. The leader held his command until the band swerved into stretch, when George L. made a handsome spurt. He beat Stormy out at the wire, leading there by a length. Ricardo finished third and the others bunched.

TUESDAY, AUGUST 31.

There was quite a noticeable increase in the attendance at the races to-day, and a very good card was presented to those who attended. Quite a number of the fairer sex were present and could often be heard cheering the winners. The day was perfect and the programme passed off without a hitch.

There were one or two exciting finishes during the afternoon, but it remained for the last running race to produce the excitement. Sea Spray and Rapido came down the stretch at a lively clip, and when they passed under the wire the first-named won by only a head.

Frank Covey started the sidewheelers and R. Havey the runners. L. B. Adams, T. A. Spaulding and L. B. Merritt acted as judges, and W. H. Robinson, of San Francisco, and Mr. De Fortin and W. Overhalser as timers.

The first event on the programme, a pacing race, 2:35 class, three in five, had twelve entries. Anaconda was a hot favorite in the pools and remained so all through the race. He had a "cinch," as a result of which little money went into the pool box. Teddy the Roan gave him a hot brush on the homestretch, but was unable to head him. Joe Wheeler, owned by Hogoboom, was third. The time in this heat was 2:13¼.

The second heat was an exciting one. Anaconda led off and at the quarter was being pushed a little by Teddy the Roan, with Joe Wheeler and Wm. Harold close up. They remained in this position until they reached the homestretch, when Wheeler took second place, Harold third and Roan fourth. Wheeler beat Harold by a scant neck, and the finish between the two being very exciting. Time, 2:13½.

The third heat was conceded to Anaconda from the start. At the quarter Prince H. led Joe Wheeler and at the half Joe Wheeler and Wm. Harold were even, with Beau Brummel third. They maintained this position until they swung into the homestretch, where Wheeler took and held second position, with Fitz Lee third. Time, 2:13¾.

The second event was a pacing race, 2:17 class. Visalia led to the half, with Meridian a close second and Sophia R third. Meridian took the lead in the stretch and won easily, with Visalia second and Sophie R. third. Time, 2:15.

The second heat was a repitition of the first. Time, 2:13½.

The third was also a procession, the time being slow, 2:22.

The two running races furnished the sport of the day. The first was for two-year-olds, four and one-half furloogs. This caused some lively betting and considerable money changed hands. Magdaline led off but was soon overtaken by Uncle True, who finally won by a length. Time, 0:56½. Book betting—1 to 4 Uccle True, 5 to 1 Magdalene, 5 to 1 Soscol, 6 to 1 Lote.

The fourth and last event, running, all ages, seven furlongs, was the event of the day, judging by the intense interest manifested and the money wagered. Sea Spray was a hot favorite. It was though by many that Rapido would give him a lively brush and he did, only losing by a neck.

WEDNESDAY, SEPTEMBER 1.

The half-mile running race decided here this afternoon had a most peculiar appearance. The betting was not as it should have been, and the result of the contest was as indicated in the betting. Buckhorn and Soledad experienced no difficulty in beating such good sprinters as Emma D. and Stormy.

The trots furnished few surprises. The first was a two-year-old 2:40 class affair. Prince Ansel was conceded the victor, and only a few pools were sold. He won the first heat in 2:26, but was badly beaten in the next two, won by John A. McKerron in 2:24½ and 2:25¼.

The next trot brought out seven three-year-olds, of which Uncle Johnny, a clever son of Benton Boy, was made favorite. He sold for $10 against $6 for Cordray and $4 for the field, made up of Dr. J., Daymont, Central Girl, Joe Selby and G. W. W. Uncle Johnny lost the first heat to Cordray, owing to a break a sixteenth from the wire. He showed his racing ability by winning the next three in 2:20, 2:21¼ and 2:26¼. This is an excellent performance, considering that the colt has not raced since last year, when he forced Owyhee to go in 2:24. He was bred and owned by George E. Shaw of Hollister. Mr. and Mrs. Shaw and Gaston Ashe came up from Hollister to see the colt race.

The talent received a bad upset in the 2:17 trot. Margaret Worth was made an overwhelming favorite, but Humboldt Maid had the foot of her all through and won in straight heats. Her best time was 2:13½.

Star Pointer (1:59 1-4) is King

READVILLE (Mass.), August 18.—Star Pointer lowered the much-flaunted two-minute banner and created a new world's harness record of 1:59¼ for the mile, with the aid of a running pace-maker, in a trial against time here this afternoon. Every condition was perfect for the attempt, and the track, which will now rank as one of the fastest in the world, was in most excellent shape.

This wonderful performance was witnessed by about 8,000 persons. It was made more interesting by the fact that on Friday Joe Patchen, with Geers behind him, had made a shoot at the mark made by John R. Gentry last October, and had failed by a second and a half. Because of this it was not thought that his greatest rival in the race line would get down below the even mark. The day was perfect for record-breaking. Not a breath of air was stirring when, at four o'clock, the horse came out with a running mate to make the trial.

The first two scores were not satisfactory to Reinsman McCleary and he worked the horse way down below the turn. The second score was even worse than the first, for while moving at scarcely a two-minute clip, he went to a break right under the wire. This made the friends of the horse more than a trifle nervous. The horse was acting as if a little sore, and as though not up to the task. But the third time down there was no hesitancy. McCleary nodded for the word and off the pacer went. The first quarter was at an even two-minute gait, in thirty seconds, and then, as McCleary called on his pacer to move the second quarter there was a great cheer, for he was beating two minutes all to pieces and got to the half in 0:59¾, with the second quarter in 0:29¾. The third quarter was the fastest of the mile. The distance was covered in 0:29¼, a 1:57 gait.

Around the turn Pointer seemed to waver the smallest fraction of a second, but McCleary had him right almost before one could see it, and he straightened into the stretch, the runner moving up closer. Both pacer and runner were asked to step along. McCarthy laid his whip on the runner, but McCleary only spoke a word of encouragement to his horse. At the drawgate Star Pointer was reefed a little, and coming stronger from the distance the great pacing stallion appeared to freshen in the last few strides, gathering fresh strength and courage as he neared the wire, and finished like a lion in the record-breaking time of 1:59¼.

A mighty shout went up. Men yelled as though possessed. In the grand stand the owner of the horse had his hand wrung until it ached. Over the fence jumped men who knew horse and driver, or who were carried away with the enthusiasm of the moment. Hardly had McCleary gotten the horse to a standstill before they had him on their shoulders, and he was borne down the stretch to the judges' stand, and there, as the band played "Hail to the Chief," he was introduced to the throng. A tip of the hat and then renewed applause for the horse, owner and trainer rang out.

Not a watch in the stand but what agreed with the time announced, while on the other side of the stretch the watches in the grand stand caught it equally fast or better, not one slower. C. W. Marks, also of Chicago, the owner of the greatest rival of Pointer, looked at his watch earnestly, and then remarked: "If anything, the mile was faster rather than slower. It was a 1:59 performance."

Since 1884, when the game little race horse Robert J. paced a time mile in 2:01½, the horse world has been looking for the two-minute mark to be reached. In 1895 it looked as though the gelding John R. Gentry would get to it, but the season went by, and last year, even, the ardent were inclined, in the middle of the season, to think that it would be many years in coming, as the candidates then did not look promising. But in September Star Pointer forced John R Gentry to a race record of 2:01½ at Glen Falls, and then both horses were counted strong candidates.

Billy Andrews, with Gentry, got a chance at the mark at the Rigby track at Portland in October, but on Pointer's day rain interfered. Gentry came up very near it and took the crown which was to-day wrested from him. To-day was the first time that Pointer was really sent for the mark. His owner has been content to scoop in race honors, but after having defeated Joe Patchen twice out of three times and John R. Gentry every time he got a chance at him, and as no other candidates were in sight, the owner decided to take honors. Summary:

To beat world's pacing record, 2:00½, Star Pointer, b c, by Brown Hal, dam Sweepstakes (McCleary), won. Time, 0:30, 0:59¾, 1:29, 1:59¼.

Pace, 2:20 class, purse $1,000 (concluded)—W. H G. won, Lady Golden second, Jane third. Best time, 2:09¼.

Trot, 2:20 class, purse $1,000—Crescus won, Medium Wood second. Edmonia third. Best time, 2:11¼.

Pace, 2:11 class, purse $1,000—Dan A. won, Mignon second, Kansas third. Best time, 2:08¼.

Pace, 2:15 class, purse $1,000—King Egbert won. Claus Forester second, India Sull third. Best time, 2:10¼.

BOSTON, August 28.—Star Pointer and Joe Patchen, the pacers, were matched to-day for a mile race at Mystic Park on September 11th for a purse of $4,000.

Australasian Notes.

A Sydney writer states that a tug of war would never do as an additional attraction to a pony race meeting. It would never do unless jockeys were barred, and he pathetically asks, "Where, oh where, could a team be found that could pull over a band of well-educated pony jockeys?"

It is not long since the Racing Committee had to grapple with the incumbrance of £15,000, but so well have their efforts been directed that the club's indebtedness has been reduced to £6,500, and that highly satisfactory result has not been accomplished by cheese-paring economy. The prize money has been increased, and the splendid improvements to the course and buildings have been effected and paid for while the committee has been so materially wiping out the debt. The consequence is that the club is now in possession of a property of which all Auckland may feel proud. The totalisator receipts—£101,136—shows how sound the patronage of the public has been. This is the largest amount put through the machine by any one club in New Zealand, and is wonderfully good evidence that the presence of the bookmaker is not prejudicial to the machine, while the item contributed to the revenue of the club by the metallicians—£916—is no inconsiderable sum, and almost equals the amount received for members' subscriptions—£952 10s. A record attendance of members turned up on Monday to congratulate the committee, and very properly the five retiring members of the committee who had returned such a good account of their stewardship were re-elected. Mr. A. Clark, one of the old committee, did not stand, and there was, therefore, room for new blood. Members had excellent material to select from, but the choice fell upon Mr. Donald McLeod, whose party worked with such effect that he was returned at the head of the pool.—Auckland Sporting Review.

A pony mare thirty-one years old, the property of Mr J. Patterson, of Beechworth (Vic.), gave birth to a fine foal recently.

The Victorian sportsman, Mr. W. R. Wilson, who is at present on a visit to England, has bought a yearling colt by Amphion from Sandfly, by Isonomy from Sandiway, by Doncaster from Clemence (grandam of Carbine), by Newminster from Eulogy, by Euclid. This is a beautifully-bred colt, and should he never race a yard, he will be a valuable stud horse. It is not known whether Mr. Wilson intends to race the Amphioncolt in England or ship him out to Australia.

During the year the sum of £101,136 was passed through the machine, against £81,007 the previous year—the largest amount ever put through by one club in New Zealand.—Auckland Sporting Review.

An exchange states that one of the finest foals to be seen in England this season is by Carbine from Semolina.

The well-known Australian stallion, Glorious, sire of Cremorne, is dead.

SECRETARY ED SMITH writes us from Sacramento: "We have declared off the free-for-all pace and 2:10 pace. On Wednesday, September 8th, we give a 2:10 trot, purse $1,000. Entries to close Monday, September 6th, at 6 P. M. with the Secretary. Conditions same as regular programme."

HENRY FORSLAND, in Daily Racing Form foot-notes, calls La Goleta "a speed marvel." She belongs to E. J. Baldwin and is by Amigo—Rosebud.

THE winners at Woodland on Thursday were Iora, Jasper Ayres (Ethel Downs first heat in 2:11¼), Anaconda and Monitor.

AT St. Louis last Thursday Juanita, a bad actress barred in the betting, won all the way, time 1:15.

BUTTE (MONT.) RACES.

FRIDAY, AUGUST 20.

The opening event on the card at the race track smacked strongly of jobbery. Altoka, a second-rate trotter, won from Chris Petersen in two straight heats. Before the first heat Chris Petersen sold for $25 to $13 for Altoka, and $5 for the field. Altoka secured the first heat by a scant nose from Petersen. Notwsthstanding this fact, however, Petersen became a bigger favorite than ever. Altoka took the second heat and the race. Petersen had the best of it to the turn, when E. W. L. crowded him. After a lengthy discussion the judges gave the heat to Altoka, but imposed a fine of $100 on Benson, the driver of E. W. L. It looked as if a combination had been put up to beat Petersen and the people who had money up on the latter roared long and loud, but to no purpose.

Another suspicious feature of to-day's races was the running of Lee Shaner's mare, Lady Hurst. A few days ago the mare finished last in a poor field. Yesterday she was backed to the limit, selling for $50, $60 and $70, to $20 for Daylight, $15 for Allahabad and $15 for Benham. To-day she romped home four lengths ahead of Daylight. Her sudden improvement was called to the attention of the judges, who decided to accept no more entries from Shaner and reserved their decision against Jockey Holmes, who rode the mare.

He picked up 117 pounds and with ease beat Fortunate and Lena.

THURSDAY, AUGUST 29.

Marcus Daly's Missioner surprised the patrons of the race track to-day by winning the five and a half furlong race, with such animals as I Don't Know, Dora Wood and Plumeria to contend with. The race was a beautiful one from start to finish. I Don't Know was the favorite in the betting, selling for $100 against $50 for Missioner and less amounts for the others. Missioner carried only 90 pounds, I Don t Know 118, Dora Wood 110 and Plumeria 107. The time was 1:08, the best for this distance made in Montana this year.

The other races were as follows:

The 2:14 class pace was won by Black Cloud. Four heats were necessary to decide it. Mollie Nurse took the first, Glen Arthur the second and Black Cloud the other two. Time, 2:16¼, 2:17½, 2:23 and 2:22¼.

Five and a half furlongs—Viking first, Linville second and Alicia third. Time, 1:09¾. Mutuels paid: On Viking, $34 30 and $19.90; on Linville $31.10. Jack Hays, Irma, Red Bird and Emma Mack also ran in this race.

Seven furlongs—Vitringa first, Oak Leaf second and Lady Hurst third. Time, 1:09½. Mutuels paid $8.60 and $7.60 on Vitringa and $15.90 on Oak Leaf. Howard and Montallade also ran.

One mile—Fortunate first, Los Prietos second and imp. Butte third. Time, 1:43½. Mutuels paid $6.70 and $6 75 on Fortunate and $17.30 on Los Prietos. Lena also ran, but came in fourth.

Running, five and a half furlongs—Missioner first, Dorah Wood second and I Don't Know third. Time, 1:08. Mutuels paid $32.55 and $12.35 on Missioner and $10.45 on Dorah Wood. Plumeria was also in the race.

Three furlongs—Lou Watkins first by a nose, Red S. second and Tommy Tucker third. Time, 0:35½. Mutuels paid $6.80 and $5.85 on Watkins and $7.25 on Red S. Pat Tucker also ran.

Three-fourths of a mile—All Smoke first, Hanford second and Commission third. Time, 1:16½. Mutuels paid $18.70 and $10.15 on Smoke and $15.75 on Hanford. The other contestants were Hyman, C. M. C., Democrat, Chinook, Yreka and Clan Campbell.

Schreiber as a Breeder.

ST. LOUIS, MO., August 24, 1897.

I spent last Sunday afternoon at Schreiber's farm in St. Louis county, and made a tour of the paddocks where the Woodlands band of broodmares are roaming about with their suckling colts and fillies. Gratitude, the dam of Lottie Mills, has a perfectly formed colt by Foul Shot at her side. This youngster is the apple of Schreiber's eye, and well he may be proud of him. J. C. Cahn visited the Schreiber farm shortly before he went East with the great Typhoon II., and was so taken with this youthful thoroughbred that he offered Schreiber $1,200 for him on the spot. It is hardly necessary to add that Barney would not part with the baby for any kind of money. Caroline Hamilton, a good race mare in her day, is the mother of a racy looking bay suckling colt by the famous Lissak, the best three-year-old of his year barring the Foul Shot-Gratitude colt. This one is the most impressive looking youngster at the farm. Highland, the greatest mud mare of her day, had a chestnut colt by her side by Balgowan. The latest addition to the broodmares at the farm is Amelia May, who was turned out last spring. She is heavy in foal to Foul Shot, and I could hardly realize that she was the same Amelia that ran three-quarters of a mile in 1:14 flat at the Fair Grounds only last season. The transformation from the race track to the stud is sudden and beyond realization. In her racing days Amelia was as lithe and symmetrical as a greyhound. Now she looks like a country plow horse. Don Carillo was fired and turned out last Spring. He will be raced in San Francisco next winter. Schreiber is greatly gratified over the possession of a full sister to Tom Paxton, the sire of Watchmaker, one of the best two-year-olds turned loose in the West this season. If she is as successful as a broodmare as her brother has proven himself to be as a sire, it will be another instance of Schreiber's proverbial luck on the turf.—R. Collins in Chicago Racing Form.

Stockton Anti-Bookmakers' Ordinance.

STOCKTON, CAL., Aug. 25, 1897.

EDITOR BREEDER AND SPORTSMAN—Dear Sir: We enclose you copy of ordinance passed this evening by the City Council and will be signed by the Mayor. This will be a good news item for all horsemen and especially to those who were here last year. Yours respectfully,

J. W. WILLY,
Secretary Stockton Driving Club.

ORDINANCE NO. 196.

Repealing Ordinance No. 166, Prohibiting Persons From Engaging in Selling Pools or Book Making, or Making Bets or Wagers on Horse Races Wherein Money and Other Articles of Value Are Staked or Pledged, or in the Placing of Money for Such Purposes by Carriers, Agents, Brokers or Commissioners.

Sec. 2. This ordinance shall take effect and be in force from and after its passage and approval by the Mayor.

W. C. NEUMILLER,
W. B. HARRISON,
Ordinance Committee.

Passed to print this 25th day of August, 1897, by the following vote:

City Clerk of the City of Stockton.

Can Thrush Be Prevented?

If of long standing can it be cured? This is an all important question. Our experience prompts us to answer, positively, Yes! To accomplish this is very simple, too. Hard and brittle feet can also be prevented, cured and made as tough as whalebone. We have done it time and again, we have cured many cases where the horse was so lame that the owners would not hesitate giving him away, We used Tulol in each case, the result was astonishing. Three packings cured simple thrush, two week's use cured the most aggrevated case. It deodorizes the foul, sour smell and keeps the frog and foot elastic.

Please find draft for six bottles of your Gombault's Caustic Balsam. I find it to be the best liniment for bunches or blemishes. All my neighbors want it, but they won't send for it. They come to me when they want a bottle.

T. CLEARY.

THE owner of Hamburg, the great two-year-old, (J. E. Madden), let his colt go against Requital and Flying Dutchman in the Flight Stakes, seven furlongs, at Sheepshead Bay. The two-year-old was conceding Requital ten pounds, and was beaten two lengths by him in 1:26 3-5. Flying Dutchman ran third, Irish Reel unplaced.

TURF AND TRACK.

THE SULKY.

Star Pointer, 1:59½!

Entries for Santa Ana race meeting close to-day, September 4th.

Remember there are several classes still open for entries at San Jose.

Nana, 2:27¼, lowered her record to 2:23¼ in a race she won at Canton, Ohio, August 17th.

Athanio, 2:11¾, has lowered his record to 2:11¼ at Cleveland and is rapidly getting into form.

Antolout, a bay stallion, by Sidney, trotted to a record of 2:29¼ at Woodstock, Ill., August 26th.

Billups, by Boydell, is managing to win money every time he starts. He has a record of 2:20½.

J. D., by Alex Button, trotted a good race at Decatur, Ill. August 26th, and lowered his record to 2:17¼.

Dan B., by Simmocolon, is a 2:10 performer now, as he paced a second heat in 2:10 at Readville, Mass.

Drollery, by Norval, is quite a good green pacer. He got a mark of 2:21¼ at Jacksonville, Ill., August 17th.

Out of the five three-year-old pacers that are tied for the world's record Thomas Keating marked two of them.

Andy McDowell is to sell Gilpatrick before leaving Butte. He has a record of 2:19¼, and is ready to start.

Arthur W., by Wayland W., 2:12, lowered his record of 2:15½ to 2:14½ at Woodland in the race he won last Monday.

Belle Arris, by Electrotype (son of Electioneer), entered the 2:30 list at Madison, Ind., August 13th, getting a mark of 2:29¼.

Remember the Santa Ana meeting! It follows Los Angeles and is the last meeting on the California circuit. Let it be a whopper!

F. W. Covey has been engaged as starter at the Woodland meeting. He is the king pin of all the starters we have ever had on this coast.

Jeremiah, a black pacing colt by To Order (son of Thistle, 2:13¼, and Maude, 2:20½), entered the list at Cleveland, O., August 19th, getting a record of 2:23¼.

Nellie Bly, by Signal Wilkes (son of Guy Wilkes, 2:15¼), that got a record of 2:26 at Chico, is out of a mare by Ophir, sire of the dam of the great trotter Klamath.

Fanny Foley, by Redwood, son of Anteeo, is a good three-year-old this year. She won at Glens Falls, New York, August 17th, in 2:19¼, 2:19¼ and 2:21.

D. G. Brownell's bay gelding Jib, by Senator (son of Echo), has been a very consistent money-winner at Montana, this year. He got a record of 2:14¼ last week at Butte.

All the horses at the Oakwood Park Stock Farm are doing well. Ben Chaboya has been handling a number of the youngsters, and is delighted with the way they are moving.

Alexander Button has had three of his representatives on the circuit this season and they are winning races. J. D., 2:17¼; Doctor J., 2:21½, and G. W. W., 2:23¾ are among the number.

Thos. Smith, of Vallejo, has not appeared in the sulky this season; his place has been taken by his son, who piloted Columbus S. to victory at Willows Wednesday, sixth heat in 2:20½.

The bay filly Ida Sultan, by King Sultan (son of Sultan, 2:24), out of a mare by Reavis' Blackbird, won the Prospective Stakes at Butte, Mont., August 19, value $1,000; best time, 2:29¼.

Geo. H. Fox's horses are being worked by J. N. Nelson at the Alameda track. Silver Bow, 2:16, Hipponita by Silver Bow, Daedalion, by Diablo, and three other good ones comprise the lot.

Anita C. is the name of a new performer to the credit of Sable Wilkes, 2:18. She won her maiden race at Cleveland, Ohio, August 17th, getting a mark of 2:24¼ in the sixth heat, the fastest in the race.

Meridian, 2:12½, was retired from the circuit last year, and J. Moorhead, of the Green Meadow Stock Farm, said then that he would be a money-winner this season, and his words have proved true.

Elf, by Steinway, out of the dam of Diablo, 2:09¼, wins money every time she starts. She won the first heat of a race at Glens Fall, N. Y., in 2:14 and was second in the other heats in 2:13, 2:12 and 2:14½.

Hijo del Diablo, 2:11½, was bitten on the lip by a spider while at Willows, and his mouth became so badly swollen he was unable to eat, nevertheless he started in a race at Woodland last Monday.

What a good race meeting there will be at San Jose this year! Everybody owning a horse will be there, and as money is becoming more plentiful in that section of California, speculation will be lively.

Jay Beach reports every mare bred to Altamont this season in foal. The old horse never looked better in his life; the change of climate from Oregon to California seems to have been just what he needed.

If your horse is exhausted after a heat or two, try the celebrated Speed Sustaining Elixir. It cures thumps, and is in use by all the leading trainers and drivers on the Eastern circuit. J. O'Kane of this city is the agent.

Red Wilkes is now the sire of 105 trotters and 35 pacers with records of 2:30 or better. Six new ones, three trotters and three pacers, have been added to his list this season, and the three pacers have all made records below 2:19.

We would be pleased to hear from some one living near Rochester, N. Y., regarding a horse called Ripton; he was by Hambletonian 10. Several good mares in California are by him, and inquiries have been made at this office about his pedigree.

Galette's win at Willows on Tuesday was her fifth successive victory. She started out with a record of 2:15¼ and now has a mark of 2:12½. Maben says the new Toomey sulky she is hitched to has a great deal to do with her victories.

J. O'N. Reis, of Alamo, Contra Costa county, has a very handsome three-year-old filly by Monaco, 2:19½, out of a thoroughbred mare he purchased at one of the Palo Alto sales. She is a pure-gaited trotter and may be seen on the California circuit next season.

The fair and race meeting at Stockton this year will surpass all heretofore held there. The track will be made as near perfect as possible. It has always been known as one of the "fastest" in California and we look for some very fast records being made on it this year.

W. J. Kenney, the famous bike sulky manufacturer and repairer of tires, will be at Sacramento next week. He has had his employes busy manufacturing his special sulky wheels for Australia. His work is always well done, and we take great pleasure in recommending him.

Among the entries in the 2:25 class pace at San Jose is Nick Jessen's gelding Frank Murphy, by Brown Jug, dam by Tom Vernon. Frank Murphy is now being prepared at the Salinas race track for his engagements by Cavel Rodriguez. The horse is developing quite a turn of speed.

A number of race meetings East were declared off for of lack of entries. The scarcity of good trotting and pacing material is becoming more and more noticeable every year. Whenever a good horse appears he is immediately purchased at a high price and shipped out of the country early in the summer.

The Electioneer family had a successful inning on the opening day of the Grand Circuit meeting at Readville. The Abbott, who won the 2:30 race in 2:14½, 2:13 and 2:14¾, is by Chimes, and Chimes is by Electioneer, out of the famous Beautiful Bells, 2:29½. Jane T., who won the two-year-old trot and got a record of 2:22½ in the second heat, is by Bow Bells, a full brother of Chimes.

The idea of protecting those who bet in the Paris mutuels at the State Fair this year is meeting with universal approval. Every total will be figured in plain sight on a large blackboard and the association will see that every ticket is paid to the nickel. The wire screen is another improvement, and a careful, competent man to oversee the betting will do much toward silencing all talk of "crookedness."

Frank W. Covey made a record at Chico in starting on the opening day which is probably without a parallel. There were thirteen heats in the three races decided, yet only twenty scores were required to get them off—an average of about one and a half scores to a neat. Covey's work has given universal satisfaction, and he has been engaged in the same capacity at Woodland and at the State Fair.

"We shall have a race meeting at Salinas this year," is the message received from that thriving city. J. B. Iverson, C. Z. Hebert, J. B. Carr and all the other members of the Monterey Association are working hard for it. There will have to be a few more stalls built to accommodate the large number of horses that will be there to take part in this meeting. Everyone who has attended races at Salinas will be sure to be on hand this year.

The four-year-old black stallion Midnight, by Ellison 5387 (son of Electioneer and Lady Ellen, by Carr's Mambrino), dam Xerifa, by Regent 2681 (son of Onward, 2:25½), recently took a trotting record of 2:29¼ over a poor half-mile track. He is fast and will make a greater showing before the racing season is over. His second dam is Lorelle, 2:44½, by Almont Rattler 500; third dam Puss (grand dam of Vimont, sire of Vimo, 2:24¼, etc.), by Norman 15, etc.

Prince Ansel shows the benefit of his royal breeding. Woodflower, his dam, is by Ansel, a son of Electioneer, the dam also of Seylax, 2:15¾. His grandam threw Wildflower, who, as a two-year-old, got a mark of 2:21; and also Manzanita, a four-year-old, with a record of 2:16. The sire of this great colt is Dexter Prince, who is noted as a grand producer of speed and is owned by Adolph Spreckels of this city, but under lease to the Palo Alto Stock Farm.

This will be the last year racing will be given at Agricultural Park, Sacramento. As soon as the fair closes the buildings and fences will be torn down and the property, which is far too valuable for anything but residence purposes, will be cut up into streets and building lots. The State Agricultural Society has, we believe, decided upon a beautiful piece of land near Brighton, where there will be plenty of room to build barns, stalls, a race track, grand stand, etc.

It is especially requested by the public that at the State Fair meeting the pool-ticket scalpers, Messrs. Mulholland & Corbett place large signs over their boxes stating how much they will pay on every ticket at the end of every heat and race. They should take a stated amount. The late Jack Hallinan, who conducted this privilege for two seasons, was known to take $1.25 out of a $7.50 ticket, and if a ticket called for $1.65 he would take out the sixty-five cents every time.

Park Henshaw's black mare, Maude P., 2:27, hurt herself so badly in her stall at Marysville one night that she has been thrown out of training. The calk of her shoe broke in some unaccountable manner, leaving a sharp edge, on which she cut a deep gash in her other foot. She is by Idaho Patchen, and was able to travel close to 2:15.

Elance, the five-year-old gelding by Lancelot, 2:23, out of the gray mare Arrow's Sister, won a good race at the Saranac Lake Driving Park, taking a record of 2:27¼, and trotting the fifth heat in 2:28¾. He started in the 2:50 class. This is the horse that won a number of races on the ice last winter. He is a handy fellow and keeps going all the year round.

Jack W. and Eureka will not be started again until the State Fair, and probably not then, unless both improve. The son of Waldstein has a swelling as big as a cocoanut on one of his hind legs, and it has become so painful that he refuses to extend himself. When he made a mile in 2:12¾ on the opening day of the circuit, it was thought that he would be trotting in the free-for-all class before the leaves began to fall. Eureka has been raced too much and is sore in his front legs.

F. F. Moulton, of Redwood City, has an exceedingly well-bred trotter at his place. He is by Hart Boswell (son of Onward and the dam of Nancy Hanks, 2:04, by Dictator) out Silvery Bell, by Silver Bow, 2:16, second dam Young Fanny Wickham by Arthurton, third dam Fanny Wickham (granddam of Katie G., dam of Chas. Derby, 2:20), etc., by imp. Herald, etc. Silvery Bell is one of the handsomest mares in San Mateo county and can pull two in a buggy at a 2:30 clip with ease. She is an all-day traveler.

C. W. Welby, of Grayson, on Saturday last received from Haggin's Rancho del Paso, near Sacramento, a handsome young stallion which he calls Yukon. He is the property of Larabie Bros., the noted breeders and turfmen of Deer Lodge, Montana, and Mr. Welby has an option on him. J. B. Haggin owns his sire, Bay Bird, by Jay Bird, he by Geo. Wilkes. Yukon's dam is Blue Bells, by Algona; second dam, Mabel, full sister to Beautiful Bells. The youngster will not be two years old until next summer.

On Thursday the Board of Trustees of the Sonoma and Marin Agricultural Society by formal resolution sold the fair grounds of that association to Wm. Hill and F. A. Wickersham. The price to be paid is $11,500, only a few hundred dollars in excess of the mortgage under which the property was recently sold under foreclosure of mortgage. As yet the money and title has not passed, but it may be considered as a definite transaction. What disposition will be made of the premises by the purchasers is not yet determined.

Germany has 100,000 horses on the peace footing of her army, and would require 75,000 additional for war. France has 111,000 horses on peace footing and would require 80,000 more for war. There are 150,000 horses required in Russia on a peace footing of her armies and 50,000 more would be required for war. England and Turkey have 30,000 horses in local service. It would seem that the market for cavalry horses is quite extensive, and to that extent worth going out after. The only countries in the old world that have horses to sell—outside of breeding stock—are Hungary, Russia and Denmark; all others are buyers.

James Butler, president of the Driving Club of New York, and owner of East View Stock Farm, has under consideration the building of a mile track on his place. It would be situated within easy driving distance of a number of New York suburban towns, that range in population from four thousand up, and in addition to this would be within a half hour's ride from the Forty-second street station, New York, by express trains that could easily be arranged for. This course, should it be constructed, would not be intended to in any way conflict with the present Fleetwood track or the new one that seems an easy possibility.

In a winning race at Portland last week Baron Rogers reduced his record to 2:09¾ and by so doing elevated his sire, Baron Wilkes, to the rank of the greatest sire of extreme speed. At the close of last season Altamont and Brown Hal were each credited with five 2:10 performers, while Baron Wilkes stood next in the list with four. At the Columbus Grand Circuit meeting Oakland Baron slipped into the list with a record of 2:09¼, which placed Baron Wilkes on an equality with Altamont and Brown Hal, and when Baron Rogers entered the list he put his sire above all others in this respect. The six 2:10 performers to the credit of Baron Wilkes are: Bumps, 2:04¾; Rubinstein, 2:05; Rachel, 2:08¼; Oakland Baron, 2:09¼; Baron Rogers, 2:09¾; Red Silk, 2:10. The average speed of the six is 2:07 5 6.

Two great stallions have died at the Penn Valley Stud, in Pennsylvania, within the past few weeks. The better known of the pair was the bay horse Anteeo, 2:16¼, by Electioneer, out of Columbine. Anteeo was a good race horse in his day, and was twice sold for a very large price. He was the sire of thirty-one performers in 2:30 or better, including Eoline, 2:14¾, Abanteeo, 2:17½, and Anthelia, 2:18. He was also a brother to the two good sires, Anteros and Antevolo. The other sire was the bay horse Barnhart, 2:22¾, brother to Allerton, 2:09¼, by Jay Bird, dam by Mambrino Boy. Barnhart was still a young horse, and the first of his get appeared on the turf last year, the best one being the three-year-old filly Barnetta, 2:15. Anteeo's death was caused by influenza and inflammation of the bowels killed Barnhart.

The Pleasanton Stock Farm has been declared insolvent by Judge Hall of the Superior Court. The case was called up last week. The company was given until Monday to file its schedule of assets and liabilities. The petitioners were C. H. Wise, J. H. Neal, Cutler & Silver, the Chadbourne Warehouse Company and C. H. Dall. The company has been insolvent for the past year, with liabilities reaching $3,000. The petitioners feared that the company intended to remove its possessions out of the State in order to keep them from their creditors. The petition was bitterly contested. Salisbury and his wife, the owners of the stock farm, deny that the company is insolvent, although it is generally known that they are embarassed for ready money, owing to the recent failure of Salisbury. Julius Reis of San Francisco holds a mortgage on the property for $25,000. The creditors ask that an assignee be appointed in order to get hold of property which they claim the Salisburys have concealed and also that they have given the mortgage with fraudulent intent.

ED. CORRIGAN'S horses, The Bachelor and Geyser, won races at Detroit, Mich., last Saturday, the first-named at a mile and a quarter.

THE Woodland Mail is authority for the statement that little Dick Clawson received $10,000 for piloting L'Alouette to victory in The Futurity.

EARL COCHRAN and Siva, gallopers well known to our race-goers, won races at St. Louis, Mo., August 27th. Siva belongs to Barney Schreiber.

CASSEOPIA beat Typhoon II. and Howard S. for the Flying Handicap at Sheepshead Bay August 27th. The six furlongs were run in 1:15 1-5.

YANKEE HEIRESS, by Sensation—Magnetic, property of Barney Schreiber, beat a field of thirteen in a six-furlong race at St. Louis August 14th.

A BOOKMAKER at the Colarado Springs, Colo., meeting jumped the fence last Wednesday with about $100 of the public's money, drove off in a buggy.

ED CORRIGAN won the money at Detroit on Tuesday, The Bachelor capturing the Sensation Stakes, two and one-half miles, Indio a seven-furlong selling race.

WALTER WEAVER returned from Montana the other day and proceeded to Dallas, Texas. He has three horses—Cabrillo, Tulare and Charlemagne.—Denver Field and Farm.

GARNER is riding at Harlem now. Last Tuesday he won on Laureate and was second, beaten a nose, on Diggs. Little Woods rode Tidiness, a winner, Preston and Effie Cline, second, and Serrano, third.

AT the Onkaparinga (West Australia) meeting on Easter Monday, £21,835, constitutes a record for one day's turn-over in Australasia. No sum so great as the £6519 invested on Lady Zetland's Cup has been invested on a single race on the continent.

SIR WALTER defeated Free Advice, Ben Brush, Rey del Tierra, Howard Mann and others over a mile and a furlong of ground last Monday at Sheepshead Bay. The little Californian carried 117 pounds, Free Advice 118, Ben Brush 127, Rey del Tierra 90 and Howard Mann 124.

ANYONE desiring to purchase a first-class pony about 14 hands in height, a royally-bred one (thoroughbred), can do so for $200. Can show a quarter under 25 seconds with 130 lbs. up, with no preparation. Pony near Oakland track. For further particulars, address R. T., this office.

A RACE meeting began at the beautiful little city, Colorado Springs, Colo, last Tuesday. The winners the first day were Phil Pointer, Oakview, Han Ban and Silver Dick. As Phil Pointer ran half a mile in 0:50, Oakview four and one-half furlongs in 0:56½, the track must be a very good one.

AT Newport last year Jockey "Soup" Perkins was suspended for alleged suspicious relations with certain Kansas City bookmakers, who were ruled off at Newport for trying to fix jockeys. The suspension did not apply to Perkins' own stable, and the other day the ban was entirely removed by the Newport officials.

CHARLES OWENS, the well-known owner of race horses, left here yesterday to look after his string of racers in San Francisco. Mr. Owens will bring his horses back to this city, and their speed may be seen at the county fair spurts. He has a number of promising colts at his place near this city.—Fresno Expositor, Aug. 30th.

THE HUGUENOT, brother to Henry of Navarre, is looming up as a real good colt, about as good as his brother was when a two-year-old. Last Monday he won the Sapphire Stakes at Sheepshead Bay, carried ten pounds more than all the others, except one, and did the five and a half furlongs in 1:08 flat. The Baldwin colt, San Venado, ran second.

W. L. MCCRACKEN, Broadview, Canada, has purchased of Messrs. Beckton Bros, Covington Manor, Canada, the broodmare Gertie B., by Sayre, dam Annie Veto (dam of W. M. Murry's Belfast), by Veto, in foal to Jase Phillips, and has leased to J. A. Moody, Milto, N. Dak., Reveille, chestnut colt, 2, by imp. Derwentwater, dam Thankful, by Lucifer.

THE Atlantic Transportation steamship Mohawk, which left this port on Saturday, August 21, for London, has on board sixteen thoroughbred racehorses consigned to Mr. Pierre Lorillard. Twelve of these were bred at Rancocas and four by Louis Stuart. They are in charge of Dr. Carter, Superintendent of Mr. Lorillard's Rancocas breeding farm.

THE Fort Erie Jockey Club will give a fall meeting to commence on September 6, Labor Day, and continue until September 23. The purses will be $300, with a handicap or special race on each day, with $500 added. The meeting will be conducted under the rules of the Jockey Club.

IMP. MARINER traces seventy-seven times to Herod, Wild Oats, his sire, tracing thirty-four times to the founder of the great "racing" family, Miss Emma, his dam, forty-three times. Juding from this, mares by Mariner should be extra good, both on the turf and at the stud. He is now at Palo Alto, and it is quite likely to be purchased of the Thornton estate ere long.

COLONEL SAM ECKER, of the Oxford Hotel in this city, will next month bring out from Missouri seventeen head of thoroughbred mares which he owns, and will go into the business of breeding them here. He considers the climate of Colorado better adapted to horse culture than that of Missouri, and this is one reason for moving the mares out here.—Denver Field and Farm.

IN one of the paddocks of A. B. Spreckels' stock farm at Napa there are two well-known race mares, Chartreuse, by Emperor, and imp. Candid, the great four-mile stake winner. The former has a weanling by imp. Idalium, the latter one by Eolo, brother to Eole and St. Saviour. A prominent turfman who recently visited the farm pronounces them the finest pair of young thoroughbreds he has ever feasted his eyes upon.

MESSRS. MIDDLETON & JUNGBLUTH, of Louisville, Ky., have purchased from the estate of the late Dr. E. F. McLean the chestnut filly Taluca, 2, by imp. Deceiver, dam Almera, at a price reported to be in the neighborhood of $3,500. Taluca has been a good winner this season, and is considered one of the best three-year-old fillies in the West. The estate of Dr. McLean has also sold to J. E. Seagram the bay colt Loki, 4, by Logic, dam The Slashes. Price said to be $6,000.

AT the first day's racing of the Derby (England) summer meeting, August 31st, the Lorrillard—Beresford stable's five-year-old bay colt Diakka won the Peveril of the Peak stakes. Mr. Taylor's St. Noel was second and R. A. Harper's Mack third. The Champion Breeders' Riennial stakes was won by Disraeli. Champ de Mars was second and Dunamaz third. The race was for 1,000 sovereigns, added to a sweepstakes of 10 sovereigns each for the starters, for two-year-olds. Twelve horses ran over the course, five furlongs straightaway.

In the Kays stable is Joe D., the Woodbury mare Okalona, the Longfield horse, Tanner, Lou Kennel and Stephen A. Douglas, latter by Typesetter—Undine. J. J. Botger's Bonbonier winds up the list.

A DISPATCH from Chicago, dated Saturday night, was as follows: "J. Woods proved himself to be one of the coming jockeys of the world by his masterly work in the saddle. Out of six mounts he brought in four winners and one third horse." The winners were Evanatus (1 to 3), who equaled the world's record at one and a half miles, 2:32¾; Algaretta (4 to 1), Flora Louise (4 to 1) and Botanic (7 to 5). Little Woods' reputation as a crack rider is now established, and as it was this paper that first brought him into public notice and predicted that he would make a great name for himself, we feel almost as happy over the lad's success as his relatives do.

UP to the week ending August 7th, Kendall stood at the head of the winning sires' list in England, with $98,820 to his credit; St. Simon was second with $94,335; Donovan third, with $53,670. Goldfinch, now at Rancho del Paso, had but two representatives, yet they won $23,750. Imp. The Sailor Prince's sons and daughters won $18,495. Bend Or's sons rank very high, Kendall standing first, Bona Vista (now in Hungary) sixth, Martagon seventh, both with over $40,000 to their credit. Goldfinch is a grandson of Bend Or. The Galopin breed also take high rank, sons of Galopin (St. Simon and Donovan) being respectively second and third, Galopin himself fifth.

THE first mount the now noted rider, Johnny Woods, ever had, was on Matt Storn's Easel, in the fall of 1895. The filly carried but 69 lbs. that day and her rider had to use a lead pad. The lad was in the employ of Mr. Storn for nearly a year and a half, and the turfman predicted that he would be a great jockey (second to none), this when he had been working less than six months at the business. Leo Williams, Mr. Storn's foreman, was also confident that little Woods would make a great name for himself as a jockey. The boy has good hands, gets away quickly (the importance of which was instilled into him by Mr. Storn), a cool head, is determined, and last, but not least, is honest and incorruptible.

AMERICAN entries in the English Derby for 1899 are as follows: A. Belmont, chestnut colt Filon d'Or, by imp. Rayon d'Or, dam Fides, and bay colt Catapult II., by Magnetizer, dam imp. Kate Allen; W. Order, dam Victorine, the brother to Ornament, and chestnut colt by Knight of Ellerslie, dam Moss Rose, brother to Henry of Navarre; Foxhall Keene, chestnut colt, by St. Leonards, dam Vanduara; J. R. Keene, chestnut colt, by imp. Meddler, dam imp. Onema, and chestnut colt, by St. Leonards, dam imp. Dart Maiden; P. Lorillard, bay colt Boomer, by Sensation, dam Equality and Sardonic; R. L. Rose, bay or brown colt, by Longstreet, dam Brunette.

THE following anent the gallopers at Sacramento is taken from the Record-Union of last Monday: "The stable of Judge Tam of San Francisco, consisting of eight runners, is now at the Park. Pete Mitchell is here from the Bay with five runners, which he is working on the track. John Mackey, of the Rancho del Paso, has a fine lot of young thoroughbreds here that will carry his colors during the State Fair. There are fourteen in his bunch. The Spreckels runners, under the care of Cy Mulkey, have arrived from their Napa home, and their trainer expects to capture some of the coin. Charles Boots is here from San Jose with his speedy runners that won so many of the purses last year, together with some new equine talent of the Brutus quality. Daggie Smith's Oakland stable is on hand early with its dozen runners, as also is A. W. Small's Contra Costa stable and the strings of Nick Hall and Al. Martin.

DICK CLAWSON, who has come to be regarded as the best rider of his weight in America, was born at Pisgh, Cooper County, Missouri, in 1880. Eight years ago his parents moved to Arbuckle, Cal., then, two years later, to Dunnigan, where they remained for two years, finally removing to Woodland. Young Clawson's contract with Atkin & Lottridge covers three seasons, and to show what "a find" he was it is only necessary to state that his remuneration is to be: $30 per month salary and $15 for winning mounts the first year, $40 per month and $20 for winning mounts the second year and $50 per month and $25 for winning mounts the third year. He has been sending his mother from $50 to $100 per month, and before winning The Futurity had about $2,000 to his credit in a San Francisco bank. For winning this richest of all two-year-old stakes the boy is said to have received $10,000. A younger brother of the celebrity, "Shack" Clawson, is learning to ride at Woodland, and the father of the lads expects more of "Shack" than he did of Dick.

A NUMBER of yearling thoroughbreds, the property of the Hurricana and Elmndorf studs, were sold at auction on the morning of August 24th at the Eastern paddocks, near the Sheepshead Bay race track, as follows: Hurricana Stud—Bay colt by imp. Laureate—La Tosca, J. A. Bennett, $1,800; brown colt by Potomoc—Folly, J. A. Bennett, $850; chestnut filly by Potomac—Kitty Clark, C. Gorman, $100; chestnut colt, by Potomac—Golden Rod, J. McDonald, $75; bay filly by imp. Laureate—Craft, Adam Balzar, $50; brown colt, by Potomac—Lavinia Belle, Kensico Stable, $750; bay filly by Potomac—Elvira, M. Bowen, $550; black colt by Potomac—imp. Viola, Oneck Stable, $600; bay colt by imp Laureate—Vendetta, C. Gorman, $450; bay filly by imp. Laureate—Rehearsal, C. Gorman, $75. Total of ten head, $5,300; average per head, $530. Elmendorf Stud—Chestnut colt by imp. Candelmas—Biggonet, W. Hendrie, $750; bay colt, by imp. Candlemas—Valleria, J. A. Bennett, $900; brown colt by imp. Candelmas—Florio, J. W. Rogers, $500; bay filly by imp. Candlemas—Miss Ranson; W. Hendrie, $225; bay filly by Terra Cotta—Ocean, J. W. Colt, $50; bay filly, by Little Minch—Mamie B., J. W. Total of thirteen head, $4,130; average per head, $317.

THE race meeting to be held at Agricultural Park next week and the week following, under the management of the State Agricultural Society, will probably be the last to be held on the historic old track. It is the present intention of the State Board of Agriculture to close the gates soon after the State Fair, sell the property for building lots and purchase land for a new track somewhere east of the city. For this reason the State Board has not made any permanent improvements at the park this year, though it has done considerable work in the way of constructing new temporary stalls, brightening up the old buildings and putting the grounds into good condition for the coming State Fair. The fences surrounding the race track have been given fresh coats of soft-tinted whitewash, the stands and buildings cleansed and the year's accumulation of rubbish removed. The track, too, is being put in the best of condition, and the prospect is that several of the State records will be lowered. Year after year the board has been forced to increase the stall capacity at the park to accommodate the demands of racing stables and exhibitors of fine stock, but still the supply was not equal to this year's demands, and it has been found necessary to construct nearly fifty new but temporary stalls on the west side of Twentieth street, outside the park, but near the F-street entrance. Even with this additional stall capacity the board is going to be pushed for stock accommodations. This week will witness a great influx of racing stock, both runners and harness horses, and from now until the fair opens the track will be occupied every hour of the day by trainers and their equine charges.—Socramento Record Union.

HON. THOMAS S. MARTIN, the junior Senator from Virginia, in the higher branch of Congress, is a great enthusiast in regard to thoroughbreds, and maintains an extensive stock farm, the Fairview Stud, at Scottsville, Va. The Senator recently purchased several broodmares, and they have taken their place among the stud matrons on his farm. Those purchased recently are Kitty Scott, b m, 5, by Isaac Murphy, dam Jennie Tracey, by Falsetto; Margaret Roth, ch m, 3 by imp. Kantaka, dam Flirt, by Lisbon, and Snooksey, ch m, 4, by The Chevalier or Ban Yan, dam Little Emily, by Foster. They were all bred in the spring to Castaway II., by Outcast, dam Lucy Lisle, by Virgil, who is at the head of the stud. Other mares owned at Fairview, and which were bred this season to Castaway II., include Ninette, b m, by Eolus, dam Sun Maid; Kitty Clover, br m, by imp. Charaxus, dam Nina; May, ch m, by Mont D'Or, dam Nina; Stray Lass, ch m, by Wanderer, dam imp. Doncaster Lass; Adventuress, b m, by Voltuno, dam Peradventure; Isis, b m, by imp. Kyrle Daly, dam Irene; Carronade, b m, by Gunnar, dam Annie S.; Samaria, ch m, by imp. St. George, dam Sarma. The yearlings, four in number, are all by imp. Water Level and fillies, two browns and a like number of bays. They are from Adventurous, Isis, Ninette and Stray Lass. Out of nine mares bred at the farm in 1896 only three dropped foals last spring. May and Edmonia foaled fillies by Castaway II. and Cannonade, a colt by imp. Water Level. The imported stallion Water Level, by Isonomy, dam Water Lily, by Lord Lyon, is jointly owned by W. J. Fichlen and Thomas S. Martin, and is now on the former's stud farm, near Charlottsville, Va.—N. Y. Spirit of the Times.

The State Fair Meeting.

There have been many meetings at Sacramento under the auspices of the State Agricultural Society that race-goers remember with pleasure. The one that begins next Monday, however, bids fair to eclipse those of the past in every respect, judging by the entries that were given out last Wednesday and those published in this journal previously. The re-classification of the light-harness racers will undoubtedly result in the contests being close and exciting and the speculation thereon as spirited as the contests. A number of horses have arrived from Montana and Oregon to make matters more interesting, and as the light-harness flyers go one day and the gallopers the next throughout the meeting, the attendance will in all likelihood be good all through.

It was on the Sacramento track that Norfolk established a three-mile record that stood as the best ever made for a period of over thirty years, and here also that Vinctor ran a mile in 1:39¼, the best on record for the Pacific Coast, here that Arnette ran a mile and a sixteenth in 1:46¾ and Installator, a mile and a furlong in 1:53¼. It was there that Occident made his trotting record and turned the eyes of the world of horse-lovers to California. In short, more notable performances have been chronicled as taking place over the old course that will soon be cut into town lots than have gone to the credit of any other track now in the State.

In our last issue we printed the running programme of the first week. The trotting and pacing races have been scheduled for the following days:

Monday, September 6th—The Occident Stake; trotting, 2:40 class; pacing, 2:17 class.

Monday, September 13th—Guaranteed Trotting Stake, $3,000; three-year-old pacing stake: trotting, 2:30 class.

Wednesday, September 15th—Trotting, 2:21 class; trotting, 2:19 class; pacing, 2:20 class.

Friday, September 17th—Stanford Stake; trotting, 2:15 class; trotting, 2:13 class; substitute for 2:10 pace.

Only two events for light harness were declared off—the 2:10 pace and the free-for-all three-year-old pace. The Speed Programme Committee will provide excellent substitutes, one being a 2:10 trot, designed to bring to the score Jasper Ayres, Zombro, Helena, Galette, Wayland W. and Chris Petersen, a great sextette, surely.

The entries in the "fast classes" which closed last Saturday night are as follows, and there should be some "red-hot" contests:

A hope is expressed that before meeting comes to a close the following will be brought together in battle array: F. W., Meridan, Hijo del Diablo, Col. Benton, Arthur W., Birdroe and Anaconda, and that some horse will be uncovered worthy of the steel of the wonderful youngster Searchlight, 2:09¼, a close second in 2:07¼.

The Willows Meeting.

The meeting which ended at Willows last Saturday was as well conducted as any that preceded it on the California circuit. The track was placed in excellent condition for the horses, and every promise made to owners and drivers by the citizens of Willows was fulfilled to the letter. There was one noticeable drawback, both at this thriving town and Chico, regarding the meetings, and that was the apparent listlessness of a large number of farmers and breeders, who seemed to care naught for the meetings. They had an idea (an erroneous one, by the way) that these meetings were designed to place money in the pockets of the members of the P. C. T. H. B. Association, hence they took little interest either in the success or failure of these meetings. All local enthusiasm seemed to become dampened and the great sectional pride so often evinced at these meetings in days gone by seemed to have faded away.

The spirit of speculation was quenched, and the pool-sellers felt that it was discouraging to shout the odds after a few tickets were sold. The farmers did not care to speculate, so the horsemen took a hand, and had a lively time all to themselves. The people who subscribed for these meetings are not to be censured for this. No man can control an independent man's money, especially at a race meeting. People can do as they please about wagering their money. If they choose to keep it or play it against the wheel, take chances at the rondo table or "buck the tiger" in preference to playing the races, that is their prerogative, and no fault should be found. Nevertheless, it is worthy of mention that the big bettor, the plunger, the man with money and nerve to wager thousands on the result of a horse race, has disappeared, and never more will his presence attract the attention of everyone at a race track. A ten-dollar bet is now about a bettor's limit, and even then he hates to to take a chance to win or lose that much. He is always on the lookout for a "sure thing," will play the "field" and hedge to save himself, and by that means stand to "come out even." This is true not only of the tracks we have mentioned, but of all others in California as well as in the East.

The wave of prosperity has not come with force enough to loosen the strings of the money bags that have been kept closed for the past four years. Mortgages have had to be paid, new agricultural machinery to be bought, furniture, clothing and the actual necessities of life have had the first call on the income this year, but after this there will be a more hopeful feeling, a more liberal treatment of things generally and a keener desire for speculation. Everyone has had to wade through the miry and unpleasant streams called "retrenchment" and "reform" and they have not reached the bank of solidity yet. When they do and are firmly established (which we hope will not be too far in the future) they will feel like taking a greater interest in racing.

Looking at all the meetings so far held on the California circuit from a racing man's as well as a breeder's point of view, they were undoubtedly successful. The industry has been powerfully stimulated, and a desire among farmers to improve their horses is perceptible on all sides. Therefore we can see that these meetings have accomplished a great deal of good, and the effects of their being held in the northern part of California will be beneficial in a hundred ways.

The P. C. T. H. B. Association acquitted itself nobly and deserves the gratitude of every horseman in California for the good work it accomplished. It was a big undertaking, but it paid for the trouble. If not financially, it did in sociability and in proving to the people that its efforts to give honest racing were at least appreciated.

The Farmer as a Breeder.

The increase in prices for all really good horses, from the work horse to the thoroughbred, should cause the farmer to ask himself: "What kind of horse will it pay me best to breed?" The day of the "scrub" is fast waning. They are neither as comely nor as valuable as the well-bred animal of any type one can mention, hence in a few years the crop will be nothing like as plentiful as we have seen it in former years. When the farmer stops to consider that it costs no more to raise a well-bred animal than one that is not worth over $30 at the utmost he will have no "scrubs" on his place.

At present the greatest demand is for well-matched carriage teams sixteen hands and over in height. Such teams bring from $750 to $3,000. The question then arises, "How can we breed animals of such size?" It is a well authenticated fact that the roominess of the mother has most to do with this. Get roomy mares sixteen hands or over in height, of good breeding (for a trotter or pacer), and mate them with a trotting horse or thoroughbred a trifle smaller than the mare, and the result of this union will almost certainly be what you desire. If the sire and dam be bay in color, and their sire and dam the same, you can reasonably expect the foals to be bays.

There is always a good market for a well-formed thoroughbred from a family that has raced well. Where a farmer does not breed them on a large scale he is likely to take the best of care of his youngsters, the result being that he brings to market well-formed, well-nourished colts and fillies that, with a little intelligent advertising, will bring a satisfactory price, especially if they be by tried sires or from mares that have produced winners of note. Some of our greatest racers have first seen the light on small farms, or on places where thoroughbreds were not bred on a large scale. Take the champions since 1850, and it is worthy of note that the following were raised by what might be termed "small breeders": Lexington, Planet, Thad Stevens, Remorseless, Katy Pease, Falsetto, Spokane, French Park, Morello and Halma. This should certainly encourage the farmer to try his luck at breeding a crack galloper, for besides these champions many stake-winners of high class have come from the paddocks of the "small breeder."

If the farmer did not desire to breed fine carriage horses or thoroughbreds he could make the breeding of first-class work horses or stylish saddlers pay handsomely, and fast ponies for use on the polo field or the track always fetched sums ranging from $150 to $1,000. Someone will make a fortune breeding the latter in California, for club men are ever on the lookout for a really good pony, fourteen hands two inches in height and under, that can carry heavy weights and run fast; and they are always willing to pay a large sum for a pony that can meet all their requirements and which they think can beat "the other fellow's" wee bit of horseflesh. Pony races are "all the go" in Australia, and at the far East in our own country the demand for fleet, undersized gallopers is very keen. If a number of well-formed mustang mares, fourteen hands and under were mated with a pony-built thoroughbred, some world-beaters in the line of small gallopers should result, for the mustangs are noted for their ability to go long journeys and carry heavy loads on their little backs, while the thoroughbred sire would in all likelihood impart his speed to his progeny. Many authorities contend that the mustang has in its veins the good blood of the Andalusian horse, hence its ability to go a longer journey with less apparent exertion than those of almost any species of the equine race.

It may take a year or two for the trotting horse market to become as healthy and flourishing as it was, but with the exportation yearly of thousands of animals of magnificent breeding and individuality the day is surely not very far distant when the real American horse—the trotting-bred one—will be considered worth from $250 to $25,000, and bring those figures in the markets of this, the greatest country under God's footstool.

Fair Treatment and Comfort of Patrons.

Now that the State Agricultural Society's directors have declared for the sale of auction pools and Paris mutuels as against the bookmaking system of wagering money, it is to be hoped that they will look to it that the public, which supports the Fair, is insured fair play and all the comforts possible. They should insist that the pool-sellers sell the pools to the highest bidder, and not let the firm or any clique secure all the tickets on any "good thing" that turns up, as it is stated by the papers has been the case on many occasions in one of the Western States this season. S. B. Whitehead, who retired a short time ago, was one of the few men that conducted the pooling business on the correct principles. He always insisted that there should be no pools bought by anyone in his employ and was never known to have purchased one himself. He waited on the patrons as they should be looked after, and he realized that their patronage and good will meant the making of his fortune.

Another thing that should be looked after is the "scalping" privilege. If such a privilege is to be extended at all, as an incentive to ticket-purchasers the "scalping" price should be placarded as well as the name of the firm to whom the privilege is let. The astounding rapacity exhibited by "scalpers" at the State Fair in the past has done much to injure the Paris mutuel system of wagering coin on races, and the Directors should not have it said that they are "standing in" on any proposition to take money from those that support this great State institution or that they will allow any set of men to render unpopular, by their greedy actions, the best plan yet devised for betting money on sporting events and paying on the same. The comfort and fair treatment of patrons should be as much the care of those conducting the State Fair as the financial end of it, and as racing without betting has been tried and found wanting, the conducting of the speculative privilege should be attended to and fair play in that department insured just as well as in the speed department, for they are equally important.

We believe that, rightly conducted, the auction pool and Paris mutuel plan is the fairest, fastest and best system of wagering money ever instituted, and it is our desire to see it given a thorough trial, with all the safeguards we have suggested thrown around it, with all the modern ideas connected with it adopted. Then, if that plan does not meet with popular approbation, we, with all the others, will say: "It was weighed in the scale and found wanting."

The Los Angeles Fair.

Owners and trainers of the West are reminded that entries for the far-famed Los Angeles meeting close on Monday, September 6th. Many famous battles have been decided over the old track, and the Southern California Association has done much to popularize both running and harness races, but the approaching nine days' meeting promises to teem with sensational events. The liberality of the management is noted throughout the State, and no good horse ever journeyed to Los Angeles without getting a race. Los Angeles this year established four twelve-hundred purses at only three per cent. entrance. This liberality resulted in securing an unprecedentedly large entry list, and the horsemen should certainly rally to the support of an association that has taken the first step in the matter of lower entrance money.

The prospects for a brilliant meeting were never better. The attendance at Los Angeles is far ahead of any city of the Coast and is not exceeded by any of the National grand circuit cities. The harness races that close to-day are: Trotting—Free-for-all, $1,200; 2:15 class, $800; 2:17 class, $800; 2:20 class, $800; 2:24 class, $800, and two-year-old trot, $400. Pacing—Free-for-all, $1,200; 2:12 class, $800; 2:20 class, $800, and two-year-old pace, $400.

Entries for twelve running races close on Saturday. The purses and stakes should certainly attract the best horses in training in California. The Citrus Belt Handicap, at one mile, is guaranteed to be worth $1,000. The Van Nuys Handicap, for two-year-olds, is also valued at $1,000. The conditions governing the stake races are so modeled as to give all horses a chance, while there are distances to suit all horsemen. In addition to the stake events that close on Monday, there will be twelve or fifteen overnight events, so as to give all grades of horses an opportunity.

All in all, Los Angeles offers in purses, stakes and premiums the handsome sum of $25,000 for a nine-days' meeting. The Los Angeles meeting has grown in importance with each succeeding year, and now ranks as the leading meeting in the West. All roads lead to Los Angeles in October.

Ben Benjamin, who has been identified with the Los Angeles Association for over ten years, will be in Sacramento on Monday, where he will be ready to receive entries for the coming Los Angeles meeting.

Sweet San Jose.

From present indications the coming San Jose meeting (Oct. 4th to 9th) is going to be a notable one. The following events close Sept. 6, 1897: Free-for-all trot, $500; 2:10 pace, $500; 2:24 trot, $400; 2:15 trot, $500; free-for-all pace, $500. Address entries to F. J. Brandon, Secretary Santa Clara Valley Agricultural Society, San Jose, Cal.

California Jockey Club's Rich Stakes.

In another column we print the conditions to the many rich stakes offered by that enterprising, liberal organization, the California Jockey Club, which has at Emeryville one of the fastest and safest race tracks in the world and one of the best appointed establishments to be found anywhere.

The following stakes, free of entrance, close Sept. 20, 1897: The Flirtation, $1,000, six and one-half furlongs; The California Maiden Stakes, $1,000, six furlongs; The San Pablo Selling Stakes, $1,000, seven furlongs; The Shell Mound Handicap, $1,000, one mile; The Golden Gate Stakes, $1,000, seven furlongs; The Berkeley Handicap, $1,000, six furlongs; The Reliance Club Handicap, $1,000, seven furlongs; The Acme Club Handicap, $1,000, six and one-half furlongs; The Alameda Handicap, $1,250, one mile and an eighth; The Cadmus Stakes, $1,250, one mile, and The Oakland Handicap, $1,000, one mile and a quarter.

Other stakes that close September 20, 1897 are: The Opening Handicap, $1,000, one mile; The Produce Exchange Stakes, $1,000, six furlongs; The Athenian Club Cup Selling Stakes. $1,500, two miles and a quarter; The Naglee Selling Stakes, $1,250, seven furlongs; The Racine Stakes, $1,000, six furlongs; The Burlingame Stakes, $1,000, one mile; The Oakland Prize Stakes, $1,250, and the Flood Handicap, $1,500, one mile and a half.

On the 10th of November the following stakes close: The Burns Handicap, $10,000, one mile and a quarter; The Thornton Stakes, $3,000, four miles; The Palace Hotel Handicap, $2,000, one mile and an eighth; The Gunst Stakes, $1,500, one mile and a sixteenth; The Baldwin Hotel Handicap, $1,500, one mile; The Follansbee Handicap, $1,250, seven furlongs; The McLaughlin Selling Stakes, $1,250, one mile and a sixteenth; The Pacific Union Stakes, $1,250, one mile and an eighth; The Lissak Stakes, $1,250, six furlongs, and the Rancho del Paso Handicap, $1,250, one mile.

In January, 1898, the Elmwood, Flying and Racing Stakes, each $1,000, close, also the Waterhouse, $1,350; General Arthur Cigar Stakes, $1,250, and the Candelaria Handicap, $1,500.

As the conditions are extremely liberal in all these stakes, we expect to see a vast increase in the length of the entry list and in that list names of horses calculated to awaken enthusiasm in the breasts of all lovers of a good race horse. For information and entry blanks, address R. B. Milroy, 204 Sutter street, San Francisco, Cal.

Thoroughbred Stallion Owners, Attention!

If you neglect to enter your stallion in the National Stallion Race for 1899, you miss an opportunity to win a fortune, and if you do send in your entry or entries you at once enhance the value of your horse and his progeny. The conditions are so liberal as to appeal to every owner of a thoroughbred stallion in America. Entry for stallions close September 15, 1897, entry for foals December 1, 1897. Read the advertisement in this issue and send on your entries to H. G. Crickmore, Clerk of the Course, 173 Fifth ave., N. Y. A small sum laid out is likely to net you a large amount of money. Think of the disappointment of the owner of the great colt Hamburg that the youngster's dam was not entered in the Futurity of 1897.

Fresno Fair Meeting.

The flourishing city of Fresno has a grand track and she is going to have a good meeting, if the signs of the times count. The dates have been changed to Oct., 5th to 9th, so as to give horses a chance to rest up a little ere proceeding to Los Angeles. Secretary Rockman has arranged so that there will be no extra charge to owners for the "lay-over." Entries to the following events close Sept. 15, 1897: 2:40 class, trotters and pacers, $200; district trotting and pacing, $300; 2:28 class, trotters and pacers, $300; free-for-all trotters and pacers, $500. Address entries to L. Rockman, Secretary, P. O. Box 11, Fresno, Cal.

The Santa Ana Meeting.

All those contemplating sending horses to Fresno and Los Angeles should not forget the flourishing little city of Santa Ana, which has one of the best tracks in the State. The dates claimed are October 25th to 30th, following right after Los Angeles. Entries in the various running and light-harness races are to close Sept. 4, 1897. Following are the light-harness events now open: 2:30, 2:22, 2:17 and 2:12 class trots, purses $400; free-for-all trot, $500; 2:30, 2:17, and 2:12 class pace, purses $400; free-for-all pace, $500. Address entries to Secretary Charles A. Riggs, Santa Ana, Cal.

EX-MAYOR VAN B. DE LASHMUTT, who has returned to his Portland home after a visit to Butte, Mont., and who is interested in getting up a meeting at Spokane, Wash., declares that the average amount wagered at the Butte and Anaconda meetings will not fall short of $70,000 per day. This being the case, in sixty days of racing $4,200,000 would pass through the Paris mutuel machines and auction pool box. Cut off the $200,000 and make the total $4,000,000, and the commission fees, say 5 per cent., would amount to $200,000, or equal to $3,333 per day, thirty-three books at $100 per day each. As a sixty-day meeting would go far to test the popularity of this method of wagering money, it must be voted a very brilliant success. It would scarcely be possible to get thirty-three bookmakers to transact business in cities with such populations as Butte and Anaconda, for in San Francisco and vicinity, if memory serves us, the largest "cut-in" on record was twenty-six. Therefore, conducted on the same lines as at Butte and Anaconda, is it not reasonable to suppose that the plan could be made popular and to pay in a city seven times as large as Butte?

Big Money at Ventura!

Ventura comes to the front this year with a number of $400, $500 and $600 purses for the light-harness brigade, while the gallopers are provided with a large number of $150 and $200 purses. For trotters and pacers the purses are for from free-for-allers to 2:30 performers. The running races are from three and one-half furlongs to a mile and a quarter. Entries close Sept. 15th with Secretary J. F. Newby, Ventura, Cal. He writes us that the track will be in fine condition. Read the "ad" in this issue and show that you appreciate enterprise and liberality.

THE victory of L'Alouette, bred at the Brookdale Stud, will greatly help the sale of the Brookdale horses, which takes place at Morris Park race course October 21st, 22d and 23d, under the management of The Easton Company, 1122 Broadway, New York. Kinglike, sire of L'Alouette and many other celebrities, will be disposed of at this sale. See the advertisement in this issue.

The Ferndale (Cal.) Races.

Friday's and Saturday's races at the Ferndale track were quite well attended, and a number of very interesting contests were witnessed by those present. The first race called Friday afternoon was a half-mile trot, best two in three, between Fennessy's Lena Giles, Patrick's Maud P. and Jule Smith's Ned Moor. Maud P. won the first and third heats and race in 1:20 and 1:19, Lena taking the second heat and second money in 1:19¾.

The three-eighths running dash was won by Clark's Rondo in 0:38 4-5, Branstetter's Velveteen second and Crawford's Lulu S. third.

Saturday afternoon the half-mile running dash was the first contest to take place, Clark's Rondo winning in 0:53½, with Dinsmore's Nela Sen second and Crawford's Farewell third.

The quarter-mile dash was won by Gillette's Dick, Robart's Mollie W. second and Goff's McKinley third. Time, 0:26.

The last race of the day and meeting was a three-eighths and repeat, captured by Branstetter's Velveteen in two straight heats, time 0:38½ and 0:39, Clark's Rondo second, Crawford's Lulu S. third and Goff's Crockett fourth.

H. C. Blum, Clarence White and Dr. S. P. Porter occupied the judges' stand during the meeting, and the pools were sold by J. F. Crippen and Maynard Michel, but little money changing hands, however.—Ferndale Enterprise.

A Banquet to Champion Mansfield.

Ever since the news was received in this city that Walter D. Mansfield, President of the San Francisco Fly Casting Club, had made the heretofore unparalleled cast of 111¼ feet at the World's Tournament, Chicago, and by that record gained the title of champion fly caster and winner of the gold medal, and it being also teleg aphed that he won the gold medal in the accuracy and delicacy e vent, every devotee of the rod on this coast seems anxious to meet and congratulate the skillful yet modest gentleman who had placed the local organization in the lead of all others by his marvelous skill. What was the best plan to show how deeply the Fly Casting Club appreciated their President's worth, not only as a representative but as a true friend of the sport, was considered, and a banquet at Maison Riche was decided upon. At eight o'clock Tuesday evening the following named gentlemen were seated at the festive board: Judge John Hunt, F. S. Butler, John Butler, Merton C. Allen, Del Cooper, Henry Skinner, W. A. L. Miller, H. Battu, Capt. Geo. Cumming, Dr. E. N. Lowry, Geo. C. Edwards, Herman Muller, F. H. Reed, J. S. Turner, F. E. Daverkosen, E. T. Allen, H. C. Golcher, C. G. Young, W. F. Bogart, John F. Siebe, A. S. Carman, A. B. Finch, A. T. Vogelsang, E. R. Swain, R. Isenbruck, A. E. Lovett, E. A. Mocker, S. E. Slade, O. C. Hazzard, H. M. Landsberger and W. C. Layng.

The menu cards were tastefully designed and as those present read it their anticipations of an evening's pleasure received an impetus which did not wane until the wee sma' hours. The salute, "one-one-one and a quarter!" was given with a vim that would have made the yell of our University graduates sound like a whisper.

Maison Riche,
August 31, 1897.

The special invitation to the club President was engraved on a large silver card. The inscription being very appropriate.

A. T. Vogelsang presided and with that king of toastmasters, Judge Hunt, to sustain him in his happy remarks the occasion was one long to be remembered. Champion Mansfield in replying to the kindly greeting extended him on his return referred feelingly to the opportunity afforded him by the club to go East and meet the fly-casters gathered at Chicago and the royal manner in which he was entertained by the members of the club there. Among those he mentioned were B. W. Goodsell, F. B. Davidson, Geo. A. Murell, F. M. Peet, Geo. W. Strell, Editor American Field and Rev. C. A. Lippincott. He described the manner in which the tournament was conducted in a graphic manner and expressed his regrets that the medal for accuracy and delicacy should have been awarded him instead of F. B. Davidson. This opinion he has expressed many times since the tournament. He described the new methods of bait and roll casting and entertained his delighted hearers not only by his remarks but by showing them the tackle and baits used as well as describing their effectiveness on the big lakes where devotees of the rod love to assemble.

Toastmaster Hunt's remarks upon anglers and their experiences and incidently his own in pursuit of the finny tribe on the raging waters of an inland stream were delivered in his own peculiarly happy way.

A. T. Vogelsang, Merton C. Allen, Prof. Edwards, A. B. Finch, Henry Skinner and others responded to the toasts and when the banquet ended a happier and more united band of true sportsmen and more ardent devotees of the rod never left the magnificently fitted up banquet hall.

President Goodsell's great long-distance cast of 110 feet was made with an 8½-ounce rod and a tapered line, and is the first result of Champion W. D. Mansfield's visit to the recent world's tournament, when the latter won the championship of the world and the diamond trophy with a long-distance cast of 111¼ feet with a 10½-ounce rod.—G. A. Murrell, Sec.-Treas. C. F. C. C., in Am. Field.

The San Francisco Fly Casting Club.

The fourteenth regular semi monthly contests of the San Francisco Fly Casting Club, held at Stow Lake on Saturday and Sunday last, resulted in some excellent long-distance work. Dr. E N. Lowry made a clean sweep on both days, winning all six medals. On Saturday he cast 101½ feet and on Sunday 105½, his best record. H. C. Golcher was a close second with 104⅜ feet. If Mansfield had been there the three scores would have beaten the world. Messrs. Skinner, Lowry, Young and Muller judged the Saturday events, and "Emery," Lowry and Lovett the Sunday events. The scores were as follows:

A Large Mess of Trout.

Mr. W. H. Scott, a brother-in-law of Attorney E. M. Frost of Blue Lake, who has been spending a few days in this section for recreation, has the distinction of having caught the largest mess of trout in this neighborhood this summer. Wednesday he went above the falls of the North Fork and managed to get over two hundred of these speckled beauties. He had one measuring 16 inches long and weighing about a pound.

Next season the Fly Casting Club will probably take up roll casting and bait casting. Black bass are beginning to figure among our game fish and the art of throwing a frog or spoon with a free-running reel, should be of practical use to the angler. The same style of casting is used a great deal in surf fishing, and there are several anglers in town that are already experts.

W. E. Bacheller returned last week from an outing in the Carmel and Sur river section. Low water and a superabundance of campers reduced the number of fish caught in the Big and Little Sur, but the game is very plentiful. The last two days of his fishing on the Carmel he caught 80 and 90 trout from 9 to 11 inches in length.

C. Cate, C. Precht, Frank Dolliver, Geo. Hinckle, A. H. Kennedy, "Joe" and several other well known anglers were at San Andreas last Sunday. Precht and one other angler had fine large bass, but the trout did not bite. The largest catch was six or eight fish.

B. W. Goodsell, the Chicago fly-caster that cast 110 feet last week will attend the tournament of the San Francisco Fly Casting Club.

Those who go out to the Farralones are actually catching tons of red rock cod. From one to two hundred pounds to the man is a common catch.

Butte creek will receive a consignment of trout, and Chico creek one hundred black bass in the near future.

Dr. Lowry is doing great delicacy work at the contests of the Fly Casting Club.

K. H. Sim caught 418 trout from July 2 to August 14 at Wawona.

The Lincoln Picnic Shoot.

The annual picnic shoot of the Lincoln Gun Club is usually one of the most popular shooting events of the season and without question it would have been as well attended as usual were it not for fact that on Friday the shoot was declared off because the club could not obtain a sufficient number of pigeons. Friday afternoon the pigeons were secured and it was decided to hold the shoot. In the meantime a great many of the shooters had been told that there would not be any shoot and made other arrangements for their Sunday outing, consequently the attendance was not up to that of last year.

The largest entry in one event was 24. The shooting was very good and the birds a good average lot. Nauman missed but one in 36, Haight and Forster three each. Fishback killed his first 23 straight. A. Roos shot remarkably well, killing his birds near the traps and centering most of them. He killed 36 out of 42.

Mr. Roos furnished a substantial bench for the majority of the shooters and it was thoroughly enjoyed under the trees in regular picnic style.

The first event was a team shoot at 12 birds per man. Clabrough's team beating "Colts" by the narrow margin of one bird. The scores were as follows:

A Day's Sport.

Our fellow townsman, H. H. Taber, who is now up in the mountains, near the forks of Butte, says the Marysville Appeal, had a narrow escape for his life last Sunday while hunting and fishing.

Howard shouldered his gun and fishing rod and started up to what is known as the Cherokee head dam to bring home a few of the spreckled beauties. While on his way up a five-point buck fell under Howard's unerring aim, which he dressed and hung up on a tree just at the foot of a cliff of lava, some ten or fifteen feet high, and proceeded on his way up to the head dam to make good his word that he would have fish for supper.

As he had good luck in pulling out the little beauties time passed off faster than he thought, so he soon shouldered his gun and some thirty pound of fish and struck out for home expecting when he reached the place where he had killed the deer to place them on a raft and float them down the big ditch to camp.

It was just dark when he reached the place where he had killed the deer. Upon approaching the place he noticed that some animal had been there and eaten some of the offal but thought nothing of it, supposing that some stray dog had come along; so he stood his gun up against the rocks a few feet away from him and proceeded to cut the deer down.

Hearing a rustling of leaves above him he looked up and saw a huge California lion crouched in the act of springing upon him.

Quick as a flash Taber jumped for his gun, but not an instant too soon, for just as he pulled the trigger the lion sprang at him, but Taber again sustained his reputation as the champion shot of California, for the bullet pierced the heart of the huge monster, who rolled over dead on the very spot where Taber was standing, knocking him down.

Howard lost no time in scrambling to his feet, although he was half dazed from the shock, but on ascertaining that he had given his foe a death shot he felt very much relieved.

Out of a raft constructed of some old flume lumber he floated the result of his day's sport—deer, fish and lion—safely into camp.

The lion measured 8 feet 9 inches from tip to tip. Howard says he will not forget the day's experience for some time.

Novel Breeding Establishment.

Fatima, the female hippopotamus sent to Chicago from the Central Park Zoo in New York, is to have a permanent home in Southern Florida, where the breeding of wild animals for exhibition and commercial purposes is to be attempted on a novel plan by the Ringling Bros. of circus fame. Two thousand acres of land, bordering on the St. Johns river, in the Everglade district, have been secured by purchase and lease, and a force of workmen will be sent there to prepare it for the strangest use to which land has ever been put in this country. The site selected lies north of Lake Okeechobee and between the Kissimmee and St. Johns rivers, many miles from railway stations and settlements. It is part of the primeval forests, as wild and untouched by the hand of man as it was thousands of years ago. Possession of comparatively few acres of high, sandy soil just back of the river gives control of a practically limited expanse of heavily-timbered swamps and jungles, in which it is proposed to raise for the market such animals as lions, tigers, panthers, elephants, hippopotomi, tapirs, bears and zebras, with ostriches and huge snakes of the python and similar species as a side issue.

To Shoot Mountain Sheep.

Sunday afternoon, August 15th, the gasoline launch Halcyon arrived in the bay from San Diego with Messrs. Roscoe Howard, Frank L. Sargent and Charles A. Emery, who are going to enjoy a month's outing on the Peninsula. The little launch is the property of Mr. Howard and is only twenty-eight feet in length. She had on board a complete camping outfit and everything necessary for several weeks in the wild and mountainous region south of the San Pedro Martir Sierra.

On Tuesday afternoon they left for San Quentin, where pack animals and a guide are awaiting them, and the Halcyon will remain in San Quentin bay until their return. One of the objects of the party is to secure some mountain or big horn sheep, and without doubt they will have some excellent sport, as both sheep and antelope abound in that little frequented portion of Lower California. Mr. Howard is a clever writer, and the story of their adventures will probably be told in some periodical after their return. A camera was also taken along and glimpses may be had of a wildly picturesque section which few men have ever visited and of which the world knows very little.—Encenada, Lower California.

T. R. Barney killed his eighth deer for the season at Prospers last week. It was a forked horn.

W. S. Kittle killed a three-point buck that weighed 125 pounds on Thursday on the Country Club grounds.

Dr. F. Le Platt and wife and Dr. Clement returned on Monday from a three-weeks' outing forty miles above Ukiah. They killed three deer during the trip and found excellent fishing.

Deer are said to be so plentiful at Lierley's, Mendocino county, a few miles from Potter Valley, that Mr. Lierley has to employ a man to herd them away from his garden and alfalfa.

S. A. Sharp returned from a month's outing at Prospers on Austin creek on Thursday last. He killed six deer during the trip and caught loads of trout. He brought home with him as a sample a small forked horn.

On Sunday four hunters from Half Moon Bay killed two deer at Big Creek and on Monday killed another one. While on a bluff one of their horses fell over it, a distance of two hundred feet. Every effort was made to raise the animal, but without success.

At Peoria, Ill., the Sheriff was caught, by the game warden, shooting prairie chicken before the law allowed him to do so. Everyone who wants to obey the law knows that September 15th is the accepted opening date in Illinois, and the Sheriff's excuse that he had been informed differently did not save him. He was fined $10 for his fun.—Am. Field.

The Empire Gun Club will have a big day on the 12th. The final cash prize shoot and the final 50-bird record medal match will be shot in the morning. A merchandise shoot, open to all, will take place in the afternoon, and the club will try to arrange for a team race for six men teams from the Reliance, Lincoln, Olympic and Empires. Entrance $6 per team.

A dispatch to the "World" from Lenox, Mass., says: "William C. Whitney has just completed extensive purchases of land adjoining his large estate on October Mountain, about six miles from Lenox. This purchase aggregates 4,000 acres, so that he now owns about 12,000 acres in all. He is still negotiating for a dozen or more farms adjoining his great property. It is a wild, uncultivated country, covered with forests or rocky, mountainous ridges, which has never been profitable for farming land. It is well adapted to the purpose for which Mr. Whitney has evidently purchased it, namely, for the preservation of game from the Rocky monutains. Buffalo, elk and deer seem to flourish here.

The Los Angeles Gun Club will give a bluerock tournament on Admission Day, September 9th, which will be open to all. Several special events will be shot during the day. The programme is now being prepared. There will also be a big live bird tournament on the Sunday following, which will also be open to all. There will be a special match at twenty-five birds per man, for a purse of $50, between E. B. Tufts and John Hauerwaas on this date. Sweepstakes will be shot during the rest of the day. A special invitation is extended by the management to all shooters and to visiting sportsmen to take part in these events.

I have the greatest respect in the world for the State game laws," said Mr. Reed of Escondido the other day, "but when the blamed deer get so familiar that they invade the sacred precincts of the farm yard, scare away the domestic animals and devour every living green thing on the place, I think it's time to call a halt; and that's exactly the situation on my ranch. Last Tuesday morning a week I was up early, and stepping out doors, looked over toward my beet field to see a herd of seven fine deer quietly nipping off the tops of those beets as though they had paid for them. I started for the shotgun, but before I could get in range they had skipped for the mountains and now my crops are ruined."—San Diego Sun.

The programme of the California Inanimate Target Association's fifth semi-annual tournament was issued on Thursday. The tournament will be held at Monterey on Sept. 18th and 19th. All ties will be devided under the Rose system. The ratio to govern each division will be as follows: Three moneys—10, 8 and 6; four moneys—10, 8, 6 and 4; five moneys—12, 9, 7, 5 and 3. The S. P. Co. has granted a special rate of one and one-third fare. The shooting will take place on the grounds of the Hotel del Monte. Ten-guage guns and black powder are barred. The grounds will be open for practice during the entire week preceding the tournament. The programme calls for seven events each day and a jinks on the last night. On the first day the E. T. Allen Cup, Gold Dust Diamond Medal and Overland Monthly Team Trophy will be shot for in addition to four pools. On the second day the Golcher Trophy, the Association Individual Championship Trophy, the Association Club Championship Trophy and the Roos Three-man Team Trophy will be shot for. We will publish the complete programme and further particulars next week.

The third annual shoot of the Washington State Sportsmen's Association at Spokane, October 7th, 8th and 9th, promises to attract more shooters than did the Northwest tournaments at Spokane a year ago and Anaconda this year. Liberal cash purses make it possible for every shooter to get a slice of the money. The reduced fares during the fruit fair make the expenses of traveling light. The Spokesman-Review has given to the Association a medal valued at $100, which is to be shot for annually during the life of the association. It represents the live bird championship of this State. The medal is now being manufactured, but the details of its construction will remain a secret until it is delivered in Spokane. W. F. Sheard, of Tacoma, is the present live bird champion of the State, killing 47 straight at last year's tournament at Tacoma. Over $600 in cash will be added to the purses and a limited number of merchandise prizes. In addition to the Spokesman-Review medal, there is the Post-Intelligencer trophy for inanimate targets. All shooting will be class shooting. Purses are divided in 40, 30, 20 and 10 per cent., unless otherwise specified. Revised American Association rules will govern all contests. Shooting each day commences at 9 A. M. sharp, at the grounds of the Spokane Rod and Gun Club, Natatorium Park. The club will provide refreshments on the grounds.

The Winters Independent is responsible for the statement that Bow Humphrey killed a four-prong buck at Samuel Springs, Napa county recently, with a 22 calibre rifle at 100 yards. One shot through the brain from a 22-short is said to have done the business.

Mepal Kennels.

Editor Breeder and Sportsman:—Some day I'll try to tell you about my trip South. Had some fun mixed in with my anxieties—cat and fox hunting—its great sport, as they do it down there. Seven hunts gave us 7 good runs and 4 cats and 1 fox; 3 got away. To-day, however, I'm going to try to give you a few items of dog news.

First I met with Mr. Wm. Hawkins, of Dry Hill Kennels, Monterey, Mass., a few days ago and he told me that he had sold 3 good pups, 2 dogs and bitch, all liver and white, by Westminster Drak ex Revelation to Mr. S. W. Everett, of Hobgood, N. C. He also reports Revelation in fine shape, better than she has been for years.

When I met him I was on my way to visit Mr. H. T. Bloodgood's Mepal Kennels in New Marlboro, Mass. As he has one or two—more or less—rather noted cockers, I don't doubt that you will be interested in hearing about his dogs. Well, I picked up the editor of our local paper, Joe Hollister, and drove over there—nine miles. Not as they make it hereabouts—up hill and so dusty that we had to dig ourselves out on our arrival at Mepal Stock Farm—one of the "hackney" breeding eatablishments of the country—the home of "Star of Mepal" and "The General."

After getting the dust out of our eyes we both took a good, long breath and said: "What a view." We had been climbing some 1,200 feet all the way from home, and knowing something of the country, I had kept a bright lookout ahead of us—keeping the view as a surprise. Imagine the location if you can—the horse stands on the northerly point of one of the Berkshire hills, a great rounded span of the southerly end of the Green Mountain range, with nothing to break the view for miles to the northwest, west and southwest. Away to the south and southweet, down the winding valley of the Umpacheene lay Cancan mountain and the Norfolk hills in Connecticut, looking like a solid wall barring all egress and joining the Taghconic range which closed all the western horizon some 15 miles away, except where the notch of its crest over Sky Farm (the early home of the gifted Goodale sisters) one caught a glimpse of the Catskills, 30 miles beyond. Towering up from this the Taghconic range one sees Mt. Riga and far above it looms Mt. Everet with its noble dome far across the Housatonic and Green River valleys, while away up to the northwest lay the smoothly-rounded slope of White Hill, flanked by rugged old Tom Ball with its jagged outlines and scarred faces, while far down the valley of the old Koukapot one caught a gleam here and there from some of the palaces in Stockbridge and Lenox, where live Sloans, Blackmans, Ivisons and Fields, backed by Grevlock and its brothers in Richmond while in the middle distance Lake Ruel lay shimmering faintly in the blazing sun.

At the entrance to the well-kept grounds about the house we were met by Mr. Bloodgood's Black French poodle "Mepals Mouton," who greeted us in a friendly though dignified manner and escorted us till his master made his appearance. We were much pleased with him for although, of course at this time of the year, not in condition as to coat, he seemed in fine fettle otherwise and looked a good one.

We were then taken to see a quartet of poodle pups, all black, one pair by Cæsar ex Fan, the other by Cæsar ex Coquette. As these were new-comers to the kennels, having been there but a few days and not yet used to their surroundings, and, puppy-like, didn't want to be examined too critically, we can only say that they seemed likely to develop into something good later on.

Then came a yard of young cockers—a wonderfully even lot without a bad one among them and one or two that we think will make some little stir among the youngsters next spring. They were from two litters by "Middy" ex Baby Ruth and Woodland Princess. Of the lot we fancied a fine sturdy son of Princess as likely to make rather the best later on. We then went to visit Champion Baby Ruth and found her much occupied with maternal cares, for she was nursing a litter by Black Duke (one of his last) only a few days old. I think it hardly fair to criticise her under such circumstances except to say that she seemed in very good condition for her circumstances; in fact, all the dogs we saw seemed in fine health and spirits, although all the bitches were in whelp, and heavy, too, and of course at this time of the year not in show condition as to coat. "Miss Jerry" was the next one shown us. She looked well, although in whelp to "Arlington Jeff," as was also "Nepal's Floretta" also in good shape.

"Mepal's Beetle," it seems to us, must have been shown in pretty hot company for the kennels' advertising card only credits her with V. H. C. cards, while she seemed to us deserving of something better. She is in whelp to Black Duke. Then we saw Molly, one of that taking color (black and tan), who pleased us very much, although she seemed somewhat bashful (perhaps because of her condition—in whelp to Commodore) and did not like to be looked at very much. Leaving these yards we sound the kennels' crack, Challenge Commodore, looking very well indeed and fit for any service. He is too well known to need my description, and seems to us to deserve all the commendation he has received. He had as yard mate Arlington Jeff, the latest addition to the kennels, a recent importation by Mr. Willey, from whom he was got for his blood lines as well as his individual good qualities. He is a good one all around, with fine coat, good body and bone; more on the English style than most we see nowadays, looking as if one could take him out and find a woodcock or two with him and not have to dig him out of the first soft spot he came to. He was bred by Mr. John Smith, as follows: By Viceroy ex Daphne, by Rivington Signal ex Myrette; Rivington Signal by Breda Boy (E 20,607) ex Rivington Sloe; Morette by Little Prince (E 27,003) ex Frivolty; Viceroy by Toots ex Coquette by Rivington Signal (E 29,132) ex Frivolity; Toots by Beverly Don (E 20,604) ex Fan (E 9200).

Unless Mr. Bloodgood has extra hard luck and a run of mishaps with what he has under way, and judging by what youngsters he already has, somebody has got to get a very large hustle on them to keep ahead of him in the younger classes next year. By the way, I have forgotten to mention a pair of bitch puppies, one by Middy ex Baby Ruth, the other by Middy ex Woodland Princess, that we saw playing with the children. This is a bad mistake, for they were as fine as silk, clean-cut, full of life and play and regular beauties. If all goes well with them then they ought to prove worthy equals to their dams, if they do not excel them. This is especially the case with Baby Ruth's daughter, whom we think the finest bitch we have seen for many moons.

"Mahaiwe."

The present state of the betting question on race courses is a disgrace to the State of Illinois, the members of it Legislature and the authorities in each county. In the absence of a racing law it is illegal to sell pools or make books on any race course in the State. It is the duty of the paid officers of the State to arrest all violators of the law and they take their oath to do so. The most effectual way to make a bad law odious is to enforce it, and its repeal or amendment must quickly follow. But when it is ignored in the majority of cases it is often the cause of grave injustice, and sometimes may be a fruitful lever for blackmail. A wealthy and popular organization like the Washington Park Club with its thousand members, including the leading men of Chicago, has not given a race meeting since speculation on races was declared illegal. At the meetings of the Northwestern Trotting Horse Breeders' Association, held at Washington Park, poolselling and bookmaking were strictly prohibited, and after holding two meetings under these conditions with disastrous results, the association wound up its affairs and went out of existence. At the recent great matches between Star Pointer and Joe Patchen betting was strictly prohibited, and a bookmaker who had the temerity at the last match to try the experiment with a hand card was quickly stopped by a watchful policeman. This is one side of the picture; now let us take a look at the other. The Harlem race track, a few miles from the center of the city, has a full-fledged race meeting going on with a corps of bookmakers sufficiently large to meet the desires of pocketbooks of the speculative public. Before that meeting opened there was a prolonged meeting at Ingalls Park, Joliet, forty miles from Chicago, and the bookmakers were strongly in evidence. At the vast majority of the trotting meetings throughout the State pools are openly sold, It is true that at the recent meeting at Jacksonville three pool-sellers were arrested and fined respectively $100, $25 and $25, but it is highly probable that some local influence impelled the officers of the law to do their duty. It is high time that this discreditable state of affairs should cease. A law which closes the greatest race track in the West because the club respects authority and is violated in other portions of the State is a bad law. The Legislature of the State will only do its duty if at its next session it passes a reasonable law for the encouragement of horse breeding and the regulation of racing.—New York Spirit of the Times.

The winners at Butte Thursday were Tiger Cat, Jim Blackburn, Punter Dr. McAllister and Chinook. At Colorado Springs, Colo., Oakview, Russell Gray, Phil Pointer and Steve were victorious.

Trolley and Deerslayer, bred in California, by imp. Martenburst and imp. Midlothian, won last Thursday at Sheepshead Bay at six furlongs and a mile and a quarter respective.

WILLOWS.—One day was all the time at my disposal to attend the races at Willows, or rather, two days could be given, but owing to the time table the greater part of one was taken up by the return trip. Quite convenient to get there in time to get lunch and see the first heat of the races by taking the 7 A. M. train, but the only one that runs southward leaves Willows at 11:50 A. M., and thus an engagement to be filled on Sunday morning at the Emeryville track precluded the idea of witnessing a repetition of the great race of the Saturday before. Very certain that there would be a change from the Chico battle, as the contestants are so closely matched that a slight variation in the smiles of the dame we are all so anxious to conciliate will bring a reversal of the previous verdict. The first great requisite for a race horse, speed, is an endowment nearly equally shared by Helena, Zombro and Jasper Ayres. A "leg" neutralizes in a great measure the flight of speed of Helena, and while she and Zombro may possess a trifle more than Jasper Ayres, Zombro has a tendency to make bad breaks, while the slower animal is one of the "handy" corps and his only drawback is a driver thirty pounds in excess of rule requirement. With records within three-quarters of a second it is evident that the trio are closely matched, and the races already trotted have demonstrated that the son of McKinney has the pull over the Visalia horse; each of them a victor once with a better placing for Zombro in the races lost. Their gameness cannot be questioned.

As a rule, people have a wrong idea of what constitutes gameness. Should a horse receive severe punishment when finishing a heat and keep trying he is lauded as the possessor of game, while the really game one is one that will struggle against relaxing muscles, congested lungs and reeling brain, not through fear of punishment, but inspired by a spirit that wakens a determination to "do or die."

Some may claim that Mamie Griffin has a greater portion of gameness from winning fifth, sixth and seventh heats at Chico, but that can, more truthfully, be ascribed to superior endurance. Unquestionably she has inherited a goodly share of the quality so highly prized by those who are devotees of the pit, and if she had as much speed as her competitors, a majority of the races would be credited to her account. When all are so worthy of the highest encomiums there is a tinge of undue favoritism when one is given the first place authoritatively, and until the circuit comes to an end, it will be hazardous to claim the garland for any one of the horses mentioned. Writing previous to Wednesday, when the 2:13 class will again come on the stage. I have no desire to vaticinate further than to state that while the unbroken succession of victories give Galette the pull, the race will be of the kind that rouses enthusiasm, however stolid the looker-on. As stated before, the trip to Willows is an enjoyable journey, and it was my first trip to the country beyond Davis on the west side of the Sacramento, there was the charm of novelty to add to the pleasure of the ride. A magnificent country truly, and from Davis to the place of destination evidence of fertility of soil, with occasional breaks in the standard. From the view from the car windows the country surrounding Woodland is one of the many highly favored districts of California. Beautiful as well as productive; rolling lands, slopes and levels, grand forest trees, orchards, alfalfa fields, green and luxuriant, brightened by the contrast of the yellow stubble and that so thick as to show that an abundent crop had been taken from the ground. In all probability the absence of trees as the train approaches Willows is due to the big ranchos, for though the good mother planted the finest of those in the fields to the southward, were the land divided into smaller holdings the "hand of man" would remove the dreariness by the plantations of fruit and ornamental trees as is shown by the residence portion of the town. Willows has a singular appearance when the first view is obtained after leaving the car. The street west of the railway is only occupied on one side by the buildings. The structures are imposing for a town of the size, the Crawford Hotel being pretentious enough for a city establishment. Substantial and covering a heap of ground, four stories high, I was somewhat surprised to find that all the rooms were engaged, though the clerk secured a bed for me before the hour came when sleep was a needed requirement. The races had brought an influx of people, many of them having to room outside. Opposite the hotel another large building, and a walk around the block disclosed quite a number of business houses that speak well for the business activity of Willows. The next street to the west has many residences embowered among trees, shrubbery, flowers and verdant lawns giving that homelike, cheerful, comfortable look, the most attractive features of country dwellings. Rather too warm, however, for extended perambulations, as there is a surplus of caloric in this part of the valley when it is hot, and if ever I indulge in voluntary pedestrian exercise, further than a leisurely saunter restricted to one block in the county seat of Glenn, the day will be cooler than it was on Saturday last. The day before, thanks to the foresight of driver Sullivan, who carried chairs into the upper story of the judges' stand, the heat was not felt, as there was a breeze rather livelier than a zephyr, a good view of the races from the point of vantage, and the companionship of Mr. D. E. Knight and Mr. Troxel filled up the time as agreeably as once could wish till the races closed. And very good the two races on the hills, albeit both were for youngsters. Arthur W., the winner of the first, has already come very nearly establishing his claim to be called the champion three-year-old California pacer of the year. Were the test steadiness under the most trying conditions none would dispute his title, and now that he has beaten the crack son of Diablo twice there is nearly as good a plea for a good share of speed and endurance.

His hopples broke soon after getting the word and he fell far back in the rear of the others, and just as soon as he got them flapping to suit him, a rhythm agreeing with and synchronal with the motions of feet and legs, he came along as if there were no hindrance, passed his competitors and won the heat. The next two were won quite easy, though the field contained a very good field of young pacers.

The three-year-old was a rattling contest, the strife between Cordray, Lynall, Central Girl and Doctor J. being quite animated. As detailed accounts appear in another part of the paper, is not necessary to rehearse the story now in full, though it will be proper to state that the good fortune of Donathan, in having an opening between Lynall and the rail to get Cordray through, was ostensibly the means of him winning the race. Cordray has not entirely recovered from the ailment that caused him to fall in the race at Emeryville, and Lynall and Central Girl were battling valiantly for every inch of the ground.

From the newspaper accounts it seems that Perkins had the same good fortune in the race he won over Zombro, Helena, Ethel Downs and Mamie Griffin, with Jasper Ayres. "Billy" was in a pocket, or rather a fob, as the room was so scant between Central Girl and the fence that the wheel was scraping the posts occasionally. Nearing the head of the head of the homestretch Cecil pulled away from Donathan preparatory to the struggle on the straight. The driver of Lynall also swerved to the right, and thus in place of having to go round both of his opponents there was a direct line to the winning score.

The advantage of "the pole," inside position, on a "regulation track," amounts to at least twenty feet if it can be held on both semi-circles, and a course something of the shape of a figure eight was built at Quincy, Illinois. The reasoning being that if every driver was compelled to keep the place allotted to him at the start from that to the finish, exactly the same distance would be traversed by each. True in theory, nearly impossible to carry out in practice. The leader at the junction of the first "turn" and backstretch would have a quarter of a mile to secure the inside position on the second half circle, and even if started from the inside would only lose a few feet to gain the same advantage.

The late innovation of giving the horse that drew the inside position in the first heat the second place in the next seems a fair adjustment, and when confined to matches is easily arranged. But in large fields it could not be brought into use without serious detriment.

While the track at Willows is not as good as that at Chico, and, in all probability a second or two slower for horses that can make 2;20, it can not be classed as a poor one, in fact a little more attention paid to having it in order for the afternoon racing would remedy the slight defects. With one or two seasons of good crops and such prices as now prevail, there will be plenty of money in the Sacramento Valley, and when that good time comes it is safe to say that a fair and harness racing meeting at Willows will be heartily supported.

LAYING UP HEATS—"The attention of those who go into the stand to officiate as judges is called to the last sentence in Sec. 5 of Rule 28, which reads: 'Should a driver be found guilty of laying up a heat, he shall be fined, suspended or expelled.' Observe, ye judges, that this rule is in the imperative, not the conditional or subjunctive mood. It says, not that he may, but that he shall be penalized. It is to be observed also that the rule does not specify any particular time during the race when punishment shall be inflicted for violation of the rule, but so soon as the judges are convinced by circumstances, or facts are brought to their attention, that a driver is guilty of the offense; even if committed in the first heat and not discovered until the last heat, they shall still inflict punishment.

"We fell compelled to call attention to this rule, for recently there have been some flagrant violations of it. It is generally agreed that laying up heats is a pernicious practice unfair to those who are trying to win; in short, harmful and blighting to the sport. No matter who the offender may be, he should be promptly and summarily dealt with. If he be a prominent driver, all the more reason why he should be made an example of, for his influence is more potent for the uplifting or the degredation of the sport."

The above is an editorial cut from the last number of The American Horse Breeder, and there is no mistaking the meaning, nor a chance for misunderstanding the position of the writer on the question.

That little attention has been paid to the rule many judges of harness-racing is well-known, and if it cannot be enforced, as has been claimed, that the next best course will be to have a law enacted that will justify laying up heats.

There is no middle course. If proper for some to struggle while others are resting, let it be known. If it is right to make one portion of the race a farce, and worse than farcical, a direct fraud and imposition on those who are promised a fair contest, make it plain that such is the intention.

The author is eminently justified in the assertion that whenever the rule is violated then punishment shall follow, and penalties can be inflicted whenever it becomes apparent that a heat was laid up. While more effective if punishment come as soon as the breach of the law was committed, if not discovered until after the race was finished it is still important that the violator shall not escape.

THE STATE FAIR, 1897.—A great exhibition that of the California State Agricultural Society, Anno Domino 1874. The first I saw, and fresh from Eastern experiences, there was no trouble in drawing comparisons. So much beyond the "expositions" of other members of the grand confederation of commonwealths as to elicit surprise and admiration, the only one superior in my acquaintance being the St. Louis Fair.

And that, too, in many respects inferior. Nearly a quarter of a century ago in an outlying State, not even a "border State," as two great ranges of mountains cut it off from its neighbors, when such a display, in all of its departments, was witnessed by a "new arrival," not at all wonderful that he thought that it was an exceptional year, and hereafter there must be a decline. But I can safely assert that were it possible to place the show of 1874 in juxtaposition with that of 1894 there would be an increase of astonishment and, from present indications, the one which will open next week will be well up, very likely in advance of any that has preceded it. Were it not for the pecuniary conditions that have prevailed for the past four years, quite within bounds to anticipate the "greatest show on the earth" when the products of soil, mines and manufactories are the articles on exhibition.

That the speed department will be fully up to that of former years is shown by the list of entries in the harness-races that appears in another part of this paper, and the racing stakes that have closed and the race horses in attendance also prove that the turf will be well represented and do its full share to entertain the people. The arrangement, whereby harness racing and "running-races" alternate, that is, trotting and pacing on Mondays, Tuesdays and Wednesdays, and galloping contests on the other days of the week, is preferable to giving a week to each. The Sacramento course is so easily prepared that good tracks can be given to each branch.

A great difference from the opinions that prevailed in former years when it was held imperative that there should be deeply harrowed ground for the gallopers, a hard surface for trotters. A "cushion" nowadays in place of adamantine solidity, in lieu of a course resembling a field fitted for the seed, just enough loose dirt to do away with the jar, the water sprinkling cart at night and harrow in the forenoon remedy the impact of the wheels so as to suit the racers, a lighter watering, a finer toothed harrow and a smoother transforming the race course into very nearly an ideal track for the pneumatic tires.

The racing devotee and the enthusiast are provided for, and that large body of people who fancy any kind of racing will have a full opportunity to gratify their fancies.

Endless to dwell on the attractions presented, as every hour of the twenty-four, that can be spared from eating and sleeping, can be pleasantly filled.

From early morning until the races are called not a minute devoid of interesting spectacles at the park, and after the racing a dinner, eaten with the relish which the open air and excitement have induced, the scenes at the pavilion. A person who cannot enjoy the State Fair must be strangely lacking in most of the senses the gratification of which affords pleasure.

HON. D. E. KNIGHT.—The suggestion of the BREEDER AND SPORTSMAN that Mr. Knight should be chosen for the next President of the Pacific Coast Trotting Horse Breeders Association has been so well received that the choice is endorsed by everyone I have met. A spontaneous, hearty approval. Whatever the subject of conversation when horse folk were congregated, if that had not been discussed it was sure to be one of the most interesting topics, and not a dissenting voice nor the slightest intimation of disapproval of the selection.

Not a quality lacking, even the distance of his home from San Francisco being overcome by his willingness to be present at nearly every meeting of the Board of Directors, rarely absent, however unimportant the business on hand. So many of the necessary qualities for the head of a harness racing association that a long article would be required to enumerate them, and, therefore, when brevity has to be considered, the lighter task to state everything in his favor, not a single logical objection to overcome. The late meeting at Marysville brought him into close connection with owners and drivers, and I never heard warmer plaudits. Somewhat retiring in his manners, in a measure reticent, those who had only a slight acquaintance with him before were surprised and delighted when the man was discovered.

Emphatically entitled to the appellation, a man in all the qualities that make manhood the highest term of praise.

GENERAL APPROVAL—There are few, indeed, who dissent to a change in the constitution of the P. C. T. H. B. A., that will give the members of the association—in place of the board of directors—the power to elect all the officers of the association. Surely that is in accordance with the spirit of republican institutions, and objectors cannot justify their opposition on other grounds than individual interests or desires should be paramount.

A "government for the people, with the people and by the people" stands on the right foundation.

Answers to Correspondents.

E. J. B., Santa Barbara, Cal.—Would you kindly inform me of the height of top board of hurdle and how high brush is above it as used at Emeryville? Answer—As far as I can judge, about two feet three inches is the height of the board, and about eighteen inches of brush on top of that.

QUINN'S OINTMENT

FOR HORSES

stands at the head of all veterinary remedies. Such troubles as Spavins, Curbs, Windpuffs, Splints, Bunches have no terrors for a horse if the master keeps and applies Quinn's Ointment. All well-known horsemen speak of it in the highest terms:

Miller & Sibley, of Franklin, Pa., owners of St. Bel, brother of late Bell Boy, write, "We have used Quinn's Ointment with great success and believe it fulfills all claimed for it. We cheerfully recommend it to our friends." For Curbs, Splints, Spavins or Bunches, it has no equal.

Sale of Thoroughbreds at Harlem Track.

It is some time since so many useful horses were sold in Chicago as were disposed of at Harlem before the races yesterday.

The gem of the sale was undoubtedly Presbyterian. Brewer Schorr bought him well within his value for $2,800. Had it not been for a suspicious looking off coronet, which may develop into a ring bone, he would have brought more money. Our Gertie fell to J. Delong's bid of $1,700, at which she cannot be considered dear, as though a quitter she is very fast, and with age may gain courage.

Of the rest of Singerley lot, Little Singer went to R. M. Hennessey for $285, Lillian M. to Jockey Sloan for $125, Ben Van to Bookmaker Dwyer for $30—no bargain even at that; Darechota, a good looker and likely to improve on her pervious performances, to Mr. Miller, who has turned her over to Mr. Brownlow, the owner of Old Tramp, to train; George B. and Ike Jones, both cripples, to Walter Fessenden for $170 and $90; Indra to J. Delong for $900, his full value, the Grand Rapids man also taking the uncertain Thurston for $500.

The Leigh yearslings went cheap, with the exception of the Dandie Dinmont—Silvana colt, bought by T. W. Rich, of Richburg, Miss. (on whose farm a famous battle came off), for $1,000, and the Bramble—Lady Wayward filly purchased by Pat Dunne for $525. The buyers of the others were: Falsetto—Jennie June filly, J. Gunderheim, $100; Falsetto—Patroness filly, $30, T. Barrett; King Alfonso—Crucite colt, $200, H. McDaniels; Falsetto—Cachuca filly, $50, H. M. Shannon; Sanibel, by Spendthrift, $75, H. M. Shannon; Iroquois—Louise T. filly, $250, J. G. Greene, Nashville, Tenn.; Falsetto—Patula filly, $75, J. H. Gillock, Nashville, Tenn.; Bramble—Ma Belle filly, $200, L. Ezell. One Groves closed the sale by giving $25 for a miserable-looking, white-legged chestnut, by Black Dean.

The Leigh horses in training sold well. Mike Dannaher, Colonel Pepper's trainer, gave $900 for Suisun, presumably for Mrs. Pepper's stud. W. H. Roller gave $1,600 for Arrezzo, on account of his Italian name. W. E. Applegate got Rewarder for the same amount. C. P. Fink bought the honest filly Bonito for $1,425. Dwyer, the bookmaker, got Puritan cheap enough for $1,250. A lady, Mrs. James, paid $125 for the maiden Lucayne. W. G. Brien got the cheapest one sold, John Tober, for $400, while Dan Hogan got another bargain on sufferance in Borden for $300. Imp. Shine, a fine-bred colt, but a hopeless cripple, went to Shannon for $35.

The dearest lot in the sale was Squire Gillam, sold to some unknown buyer at the last moment for $25.—Chicago Inter Ocean, August 24th.

The Bruce Lowe Figures.

New York City, Aug. 18.—The appearance of the Bruce Lowe figures, even though in but a timidly suggestive form, in the catalogue of an approaching sale of yearlings, is at once a welcome evidence of the march of the scientific study of breeding in this country, as well as of a disposition to measure up to the latest developments. The importance of the "great" Bruce Lowe families cannot be overestimated when one carefully investigates their record by the performances of their representatives. A late and powerful proof of this is to be found in the new volume of Herman Goos' Tables. In enumerating the best winners of England and the continent with also a few prominent performers of Australia and America, Mr. Goos gives 11,618 horses from no less than 50 different female tap-root sources, and yet the nine "great" Bruce Lowe families furnish in themselves 5,489 of these winners, or considerably more than half. The record of the several "great" families is as follows:

No. 1	(running)	836
No. 2	(running)	1,231
No. 3	(running and sire)	964
No. 4	(running)	927
No. 5	(running)	764
No. 8	(sire)	538
No. 11	(sire)	383
No. 12	(sire)	578
No. 14	(sire)	268
		6,489

Not even stopping to consider that family 13, which Mr Lowe strongly believed identical with No. 11, has also 324 winners, it is, I think, a remarkable proof of the accuracy of Mr. Lowe's judgment that his nine "great" families, founded on the results of the Derby, Oaks and Leger, should also come out triumphantly in the total of winners of all great events when pitted against the combined forces of the 45 other female tap-roots which go to complete the list of animals enumerated in Mr. Goos' work.—W. H. Rowe in N. Y. Spirit of the Times.

Horses at Eureka.

Mat Zahner, of Rohnerville, arrived from Sacramento on the steamer of August 8th, having in charge Hogoboom's favorite and now renowned stallion Waldstein. Renowned because, aside from the splendid string of progeny shown in this country and elsewhere, he holds the five-mile stallion race record of the world. Waldstein also received first premium at the State Fair last year for being the best-bred horse on exhibition. The Humboldt favorite has come to stay, and will be in charge of Mr. Zahner, to whom he is no stranger. The years of absence have made little or no change in his appearance.

Domiciled beside him and in charge of Mr. Zahner is W. J. Lamb's five-year-old stallion Beecher, by Waldstein, dam Nancy Moore, by Grand Moor. Also H. C. Hanson's Delight, by Waldstein, dam by Grand Moor. Mr. Zahner has also in charge Elma B., a yearling beauty by Waldstein, dam by Mustapha. Owned by Dan McGowan of Arcata.

In an adjoining stall Maud H., the property of Peter Hauck, of Alton, is quartered. The splendid animal is by Waldstein and from a Grand Moor mare, and is being handled by Charley Landergen.

Of Waldstein's progeny special mention may deservedly be made of Jack W., 2:12¼, owned by Dr. F. H. Ottmer and J. Lowenthal, of this city; Lady Waldstein, 2:15, the property of Mr. Winship of Los Angeles, and now making an Eastern circuit; Humboldt Maid, 2:17, owned by Mr. Hogoboom, and now in the Sacramento circuit. A number of others of Waldstein's progeny have records better than 2:30, but none have been able to reach Jack W.'s splendid showing.—Eureka Standard.

At the Sacramento Fair Grounds.

Agricultural Park is spick and span. Everything about the grounds presents an attractive appearance. The big grand stand has received its annual renovation and all the buildings are resplendent in gay colors. The fences encircling the track have been painted a dull blue instead of the delicate shrimp pink of last year.

Owing to the great number of horses that will be engaged in the various racing events to be given, additional stabling room will be required, and the Agricultural Society is now erecting 100 commodious box stalls on the lot at Twentieth and F Streets, just outside the park.

Applications for stall room are coming in rapidly, and the indications are that even with the additions being made there will not be sufficient room to stable the entries to the various divisions.

The exhibition classes promise to be particularly strong this year, while the racing division will show the usual large entry lists. The Society expects to have liberal subscriptions to the overnight events, which have become very popular with the owners of gallopers which are not of stake timber.

At present there are nearly 100 horses on the grounds awaiting the opening of the State Fair, but the number will be trebled within a fortnight.

A great number of Californians are now making the "thin air" circuit of Montana, but they are scheduled to fulfil their engagements there and reach here in time for the State Fair.

With the exception of the stables of Ab Stemler, none of the big racing contingents are on the ground.—Record Union.

Better Than Represented.

Mr. J. H. Janes, a prominent horseman at Windsor, Mo. writes under date of January 28th, as follows: "Having used two bottles of Quinn's Ointment, I herein enclose $1.50 for another bottle. I have found it to be as represented, and even more." This is the universal expression of the leading horsemen from Maine to California. For curbs, splints, spavins, windpuffs and all bunches Quinn's Ointment has no equal. Price, $1 50. If you cannot obtain it from druggist or dealer, address W. B. Eddy & Co., Whitehall, N. Y. The Trotting Horse.

BY CHARLES MARVIN.

This great practical horse book is a handsome, three hundred page octavo, bound in cloth, elegantly printed superbly illustrated, and explains in every detail the remarkable success of CHARLES MARVIN and the whole plans and methods pursued at Palo Alto as to breaking, training, shoeing, gaiting, driving, keeping, racing and breeding trotters.

Read what J. C. Silby, the owner of St. Bel, says of this book: "In this work Marvin has let out all the mysteries of the craft, and it is so simple and plain that any breeder, owner, trainer or rubber who has any relish for his business can take a colt as a yearling and develope to the highest and fullest extent that colt's capacity as a trotter. The work impressed me so strongly that I have ordered twenty copies, and shall place one in the hands of every rubber on our farm.

WOODLAND RACES.

Last Three Days of the Most Successful Meeting Ever Held There—The World's Record for Pacing Geldings of 1897 Broken—Many Remarkable Performances Decided — The "Talent" Fared Badly Each Day.

THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 2.

This was "Ladies' Day," and a half holiday being declared in town the grand stand was thronged. The light and appropriate dresses worn by the fair ladies who for beauty are unapproached by any from any part of the State made a picture most pleasing to the eye. The number of fine, healthy children of all sizes was astonishing and the little youngsters seemed to enjoy the day's outing, and there were over four hundred buggies and carriages in the infield, many containing spectators. The band played the latest airs, Director Doolittle wielding the baton.

The track was in fine condition and credit should be given the management for the care bestowed on it. There seemed to be no lack of teams, harrows and scrapers.

The first event was the 2:24 trotting race, purse $400. The entries were Hobo, Iora, Daisy Wood, Jaspine, Claudius, Winnella, Pasonte, Osito and Helen J. Iora was conceded to be the best of the lot and she won with ease in straight heats. Time, 2:15, 2:15¼ and 2:15, Claudius and Daisy Wood being the only two to come anywhere near the grand-looking mare.

The 2:13 class trotters were next called. A strong northerly wind swept across the track and all idea of fast time being made was out of the question when Zombro, Galette, Jasper Ayres and Ethel Downes appeared. Pools sold: Zombro $10, Jasper Ayers $9, field $9.

Zombro and Jasper Ayers broke before reaching the quarter. Wayland W. led at the quarter, Jasper Ayers second, Ethel Downs third. Ethel maintained her lead to the wire, Jasper Ayers crowding her very closely. Several of the spectators were of the opinion that Jasper won, so close were they. Zombro was third. Jasper made several little breaks. Time, 2:11¼. The remarkable speed shown by the handsome mare in C. F. Bunch's hands made her a favorite at once. Wayland W., trotted the best mile he has attempted this year.

In the second heat Ethel led all the way to the home-stretch, where Jasper Ayers shot out to the front and won the heat by a length at the wire. Time, 2:14.

Jasper Ayers won the third heat very easily. Galette was second, Ethel Downs was third, Zombro fourth and Wayland W. last. Time, 2:13.

There was no need for much studying to see which would win the next heat and race. That good game and consistent son of Iris, known as Jasper Ayers, never let the issue be in doubt, but took the lead and kept it to the wire, winning by a length and a half from Galette in 2:13. Zombro made a bold attempt to get the place from her, while Ethel Downs was at his bike.

The 2:20 class pacing race brought out seven starters The fame Anaconda acquired while in Montana made him a prohibitive favorite at $10 to $4 in the field. When Starter Covey gave the word "Go!" Robilette started away at a two-minute clip in the lead, but broke at the first quarter and fell back to last place. Anaconda, who was fourth to leave the wire, passed all in front of him and won the heat easily in 2:17.

In the second heat Robilette carried Anaconda to the half in 1:08 and made a much better showing, but Butcher Boy passed her and got the place two lengths behind the winner. Time, 2:16¼. Cora S. fourth, Octoroon fifth.

SEARCHLIGHT—THE GREATEST THREE-YEAR-OLD PACER IN CALIFORNIA.
Driven by Thos. Keating. Owned by C. L. Crellin, Pleasanton, Cal.

In the third heat Robilette broke her hobbles, but came in ahead of Adele. Anaconda won the heat in 2:20, proving that all that has been said about this horse was true.

FRIDAY, SEPTEMBER 5.

The weather cleared and the rain last night leveled the dust, washed the trees and purified the air, but the attendance was not as large as yesterday

Betting on the first race 2:20 class, trotting, opened briskly and good money was placed. Jack W. sold favorite at $10 the field next at $9, Iran Alto at $8 and Dollican at $7. The other entries were Bay Rum, Auditor, Lustre, Peko, Faro Bank, May B. and Alias. Pools sold rapidly, men being anxious to risk on the result. It was one of the best betting races of the meet.

After considerable scoring the bunch was sent off well together, Faro Bank slightly in the lead, which he held throughout On the backstretch Jack W. gave him a run for his money, but when the turn was reached he went up and Faro Bank won handily. Peko finished second, Jack W. third, Iran Alto fourth, Bay Rum fifth, Alias sixth, Lustre seventh Auditor eighth, May B. ninth and Dollican tenth. The mile was made in 2:16.

Faro Bank, Jack W., Peko and Iran Alto led the second heat to the half, where Faro Bank lost his feet and fell back to fourth place. Jack W. assumed the lead, with Dollican second at the head of the stretch. Peko spurted ahead just after the turn was made, and stood in a fair way to win but for Dollican, who slipped in on the outside. The finish was very close, the latter winning by a nose. May B. followed Peko in third place, Jack W. fourth, Faro Bank fifth and Iran Alto sixth. The rest came in easy. Time, 2:17¼.

After the second heat Dollican sold favorite at $10 against the field at the same price. The betting continued spirited. A great deal of scoring was necessary before the word "go" was given. Peko won the heat, leading the whole bunch for the mile. Iran Alto held second place until the bunch swung into the stretch, when Dollican, who was in the fourth place, passed Iran Alto and May B. and finished a close second. Time, 2:15. Iran Alto was third, May B. fourth, Jack W. fifth, Bay Rum sixth, Faro Bank seventh, Auditor eighth, Luster ninth and Alias tenth.

The fourth heat, and still nobody's race. Dollican remained favorite at the same odds, but little money was risked. It was plain that the talent was puzzled. Peko won easily. Iran Alto came up close on the turn, but lost his feet immediately after. They finished as follows: Iran Alto second, May B. third, Jack W. fourth, Bay Rum fifth, Dollicrn sixth, Alias seventh, Auditor eighth, Lustre ninth, and Faro Bank tenth. Time, 2:17.

The fifth and last heat was won by Peko, who had it all her own way until the stretch was reached, where Dollican came up closely and Peko had all she could do to get her head in front. The judges hesitated some time before a decision was rendered, but finally gave the heat and race to Peko. Dollican finished second and got second money. Iran Alto third, with fourth money, and Faro Bank got third money. Time, 2:17.

Everybody was waiting to see the great three-year-old pacer Searchlight, who was to start in the next race, which was for the 2:10 class, purse $500. He was all and more than has been said of him and a smoother-going pacer would be hard to find anywhere. He will get a mark of 2:06 and it will be a world's record this year. There were three side-wheelers to show off how superior this dark bay colt was. Our Boy was the only one to keep near him in the three heats, the last of which he won in 2:09¾—being only one-half a second slower than the track record made by Diablo three-years ago.

It was merely a procession but he had to make no mistake or Our Boy, who is a greatly improved horse, would have won.

The four and one-half furlongs, running, race for a purse of $100, was the next on the card. The following horses were entered: Jesse O., Stormy, Lelia S., Billy Ayers, Durango, Savolian and Lady Fray. Stormy was a warm favorite in the auction pools, selling for $25 against the field at $10, and Jesse O. at $4. A rank outsider won the race. Durango came in ahead, passing Stormy and Jesse O. on the stretch near the wire. Stormy led the whole bunch from the start, with Jessie O. close up, until Durango spurted ahead.

In the five and one-half furlongs, running race, for a purse of $100, Tortoise sold as favorite for $10, the field $8, and Rapido from $6 to 8. The start was a pretty one, the bunch getting off together. Tortoise soon forged ahead of the bunch, but when the turn was reached gave way to Rapido. They turned into the stretch in this order. Near the wire Christine made a tremendous spurt and won out by half a length.

LAST DAY, SATURDAY.

The attendance to-day was fully up to the expectations of the directors and the success, from a financial as well as a racing standpoint, is assured. The weather was perfect and the track all that could be desired. Two trotting and two running races were on the programme, and the excellent work accomplished by the judges in forcing a horse they believed to have been held back to go out and win earned for them the thanks of the public. The judges were T. S. Spaulding, Levi Adams and Fred Thomas.

The first event was the 2:30 trot. The entries were Osito, Dr. Leek, Sable Frances, Geo. W. McKinney, Fanadma, Eureka and Ida Sultan. Dr. Leek was made the favorite, selling for $10 against $5 on the rest in the field.

Osito was well driven by Chas. Durfee and won the first heat in 2:18¼, placing him well inside the 2:20 list. Geo. W. McKinney was only a neck behind. Fanadma third at his shoulder, Sable Frances a length further away. Dr. Leek, who had made several breaks, was fifth, Eureka sixth and Ida Sultan last.

Osito took the lead in the next heat from Dr. Leek and led to the half-mile pole. Dr. Leek broke and fell back ten lengths; then he was seen to get settled and passed those in front of him in one, two, three order. Osito broke on the homestretch but caught quickly as Dr. Leek passed him, and was only a length behind the latter under the wire in 2:15½, Fanadma third, Geo. W. McKinney fourth, the rest following.

Dr. Leek won the other two heats and the race in 2:17¼ and 2:18¼, Osito being second in each heat.

The second was the 2:25 pacing race, purse $400. The owner of Cleon, J. H. Kelley, was fined $20 for not scratching his horse. F. W. was the favorite in the betting, $20 to $9 against the field. The drivers were instructed by the judges that they must drive out every heat and if there was any "laying up" they would be ordered out of the race. This had the desired effect and was appreciated by the spectators.

Some heavy betting was done on Alto Genoa for the first heat and the bookies make a killing. F. W. soon took the lead and maintained it to the wire. Florine made quite a spurt but could not keep up the clip. Dave Ryan also made a good showing. He came in neck and neck with Joe Wheeler, and many thought he won place, but the judges, who were in a better position to see the horses, decided in favor of Wheeler. Florine was fourth. Time, 2:14½.

Treffery, who drove Alto Genoa in the first heat, was taken down and Keating substituted. According to those in authority Joe Wheeler had not been driven to win, so the judges called Mr. Owens to the stand and instructed him to drive to win or he and his horse would be ruled off the track. When Starter Covey sent them away on a perfect line Alto Genoa and F. W. led to the half by two lengths in 1:07½, in front of Joe Wheeler. The driver of this gelding began to urge his horse and was half a length behind at the three-quarter pole, and coming like a Star Pointer, he beat them to the wire, winning by half a length from the Dexter Prince horse Alto Genoa in 2:09¾. F. W. broke just before the goal was reached. The cheering that greeting this exhibition was deafening and when the official timers as well as at least a dozen others compared watches it was found that this horse had paced this last quarter in 28½ seconds. He had come from the half home in 1:02. Alto Genoa was separately timed in 2:10.

Joe Wheeler's name was the only one heard, and holders of F. W. tickets felt "blue," but there was little chance to "hedge." He kept the pole from wire to wire in the next heat and was an easy winner in 2:10, F. W. being a length behind at the finish, Genoa third, Dave Ryan fourth, while Lizzie E. was distanced. Previous to this heat the Memo mare, Florine, was drawn on account of sickness. The "good thing" which was to have been "sprung" on the boys at Sacramento, exploded, and this horse could only win his share of the purses. All chances of "making a killing" with him in the pool boxes this season have vanished.

In the next heat Joe Wheeler led F. W. to the quarter in 0:32¾, and to the half the two almost flew. The quarter was made in 31½ seconds, but F. W. was then two lengths away. As Joe moved toward the three-quarter pole he opened an immense gap, pacing that quarter in 30½ seconds. Owens, his driver, on looking back, saw he had the others distanced, and pulled his horse to a walk almost, when some of the interested spectators yelled, "Go on!" Owens spoke to his horse and he responded, coming under the wire in 2:08½, the fastest heat ever trotted or paced by a four-year-old in California, Diablo, 2:09¼, heretofore holding that record. This mark is the fastest made by a four-year-old pacing gelding in the United States to date.

Joe Wheeler is a rangy black gelding, tall and not particularly handsome. He has a thin, ewe neck, and in appearance resembles The Moor family. He has a splendid thoroughbred foundation, and the only boots he wears are scalpers. He also wears hobbles. Mr. Owens brought him to Oakland, but he could do nothing with him, becoming disgusted with the way the horse acted. He gave him to Hogoboom, the well-known trainer, who changed his hobbles and soon got the horse to moving as well as he promised at Fresno.

The last race was a half mile handicap, which was won by Durango. Following are the STATE FAIR MEETING, SACRAMENTO.

Excellent Sport—Good Time Made—Steadily Increasing Attendance—Lively Speculation—Large Fields of Horses Contest—The Events in Detail.

MONDAY, SEPTEMBER 6.

The State Fair meeting began with a good afternoon's sport. The attendance, while not large, was quite up to that of other opening days of the fair, and will increase from day to day. Some f ult was found with the weather—not that it was too hot, but quite the contrary. Horsemen thought it a little too cool, for the animals do much better in hot than in cool weather. The track was fast, and so were the horses—some of them. The judges' stand was occupied by President Chase and Directors Fox and Terry, whose task in determining the winners of the three events was not difficult. C. A. Willis, who has had long experience on Eastern tracks as presiding judge and in other capacities, is Clerk of the Course, Frank Covey, starting judge, and Director De Long, Harry Agnew and William Appleby timers. The duties of Marshal devolve on Charles Studarus. Between the heats and races choice music was rendered by the band under the leadership of C. B. Neale.

The first race on the card was the Occident stake for trotting foals of 1894. Nordeau sold as the favorite at $20 against $10 for the other pair. First heat—Without any difficulty the trio were sent along. Nordeau soon went to the front and led all the way. Wilkes was close up, coming into the last stretch at Nordeau's wheel, but the filly was under a pull and won easily in a jog in 2:27. Wilkes broke at the seven-eighths and was six lengths behind, Uncle James about the same in the rear, having broken badly on the first turn and fallen far behind.

Second heat—This was a repetition of the first heat, except that Wilkes Direct kept his feet all the way and finished one length behind Nordeau in 2:25½, Uncle James away in the rear.

Third heat—This was trotted in the same order throughout, Nordeau going under a pull all the way and winning by a length in 2:25.

The second race was for horses of the 2:40 trotting class. Our Jack was favorite at $20, Stonewall $2 and the field $14. First heat—There was a long delay in scoring. There was but one horse in it. Our Jack soon took the lead and kept it. Dolly Madison lay close to him all the way, but Jack went along easy under a steady pull and won in 2:21, Dolly Madison two lengths behind. The others were away back, Stamboulette leading them, Anteeort distanced.

Second heat—After winning the first heat so easily, Our Jack made no showing this time, having left his feet on the first turn. Stamboulette, however, went out for the heat and won it hands down in 2:19½, Etta Wilkes second by three lengths, Dolly Madison third and the others strung out.

Stamboulette was now made the favorite at $10 to $8 for the field. Third heat—Stamboulette was an easy winner for the heat by five lengths in 2:21½. Diana had his nose at her wheel several times, but the Stamboul horse left her in the last stretch. The others all finished in the same order as before.

Fourth heat—This was in the nature of a surprise. Stamboulette led all the way to the homestretch, when Etta Wilkes was at his wheel. An eighth of a mile from the outcome Etta was even up, and the pace was so hot that Stamboulette flew into the air, Etta beat him out by two lengths in 2:19½, Our Jack third.

All but Our Jack, Stamboulette and Etta Wilkes now remained in their stables. Fifth heat—Etta broke at the turn and took up the rear. Stamboulette led to the quarter, where he broke and Jack went to the front, leading the other pair by two lengths. Coming home he outfooted the others and won in 2:20, Etta second by six lengths, and Stamboulette six lengths behind her.

Sixth heat—This was close up to the last stretch. They were nearly even as they passed the three-quarters. Then Jack pulled out and won from Etta by three lengths in 2:19½, Stamboulette three lengths behind.

The third race was for 2:17 class pacers. Owing to the large field the horses were sent off in two ranks. Joe Wheeler was a big favorite.

First heat—It was impossible to get so many horses off in any shape, and when they finally got the word they were scattered out over a hundred yards of the track. Roblet happened to be in front, and he held that position till the head of the stretch was reached. Here a number of them came on, but out of the herd Joe Wheeler wriggled ahead and paced right ahead from the rest. He had closed up an immense gap and won easily in 2:13½, with Bessie Rankin second, Floracita third, Blue Bells fourth and Roblet fifth. The other double quartet came in later. Lizzie E. was withdrawn after the heat.

Second heat—Wheeler had no trouble winning in 2:13, and could have shut out half of them. Bessie Rankin got second place again, and Fitz Lee third.

Third heat—This was won as easily by Joe Wheeler in 2:12. Floracita was second, and Bessie Rankin third.

TUESDAY, SEPTEMBER 7.

Considering that this was only the second day of the fair, the attendance this afternoon at the races was simply astonishing. The betting ring was so packed that locomotion was productive of profuse perspiration, and the grand stand looked like a second edition of Ingleside on ladies' day.

The five books had many leisure periods, the bulk of the money going into the auction pools, where speculators obtained from 20 to 40 per cent better odds than from the pencilers. An illustration of this fact was in the first race. The books were laying only 7 to 5 Caliente, when the tickets on that horse in the auction pool at the same time yielded 2 to 1 after commission was deducted; but for all that, the books had a strong play from the punters, who could not resist the fascinating possibilities of the long shots posted.

It was decidedly a favorites' day, four of them rewarding their backers, and Scotch Rose, the other winner, only lacked half a point of being on equal honors in the betting with Fortunate. When the barrier rose Scotch Rose jumped out in front as though shot out of a catapult, and before a furlong was covered had a lead of ten lengths and still running like a Fresno jackrabbit with a hound after him. Those who expected her to back up after five furlongs, as she did repeatedly last winter, were sorely disappointed, for she maintained her advantage until Eddie Jones eased her up near the end.

Fortunate and Lost Girl had a grueling finish for second place, Holly's horse missing it by a nose. The stake was worth $620.

The Sunny Slope stake, which preceded it, was worth $500. It was supposed to be an easy thing for Duckling, who had been doing some scorching trials recently, and, being in receipt of twelve pounds from Rosormonde, the books felt justified in posting 1 to 2 on the Brutus filly. It proved to be a tight fit for Duckling devotees. Morinel led Magueda by half a length into the stretch, where Duckling came through and went to the front. Rosormonde challenged her in the last furlong, but under vigorous application of whip and spur the favorite lasted long enough to win by a neck from the fast-coming Rosormonde. Zinfandel wheeled as the gate went up and was not a factor in the running.

Some day people will learn that Vinctor is a high-class race horse, and that he has invariably been in fine fettle at the State Fair. He opened up at 6 to 5, and, being neglected, his price had advanced two points by post time. The public generally could see nothing but Summer Time in the race, and she was backed from 3 to 1 down to 8 to 5. Ab Stemler had just won two races, anp the crowd evidently thought the rotund trainer and Quakerlike owner was carrying a talisman suspended from his neck. Outside of Stemler's entry the only one receiving any support was Santuzza. Boyle's black mare was in good trim, and, with Two Cheers and Ivy, they ran closely bunched to the far turn, where Freeman brought Vinctor up and won under wraps. Santuzza beat Marcel a length, who came with a great burst of speed near the finish. Summer Time looked and ran as though not within weeks of a race.

Caliente was the first thing that Stemler put over the plate. He put $500 on the horse, and the public soon got the cue. From the odds of 3 to 2 he closed at 4 to 5. The start was a beautiful one, and it was not until they had run a furlong that any distinct advantage was noted. Free Will was then in front, with Salisbury and Bueno close up, Caliente being in the middle of the bunch. Salisbury looked like the winner when they turned for home, but Caliente got through on the rail and nipped out the son of Racine on the post. Olive was at Salisbury's flank and Free Will was a head away.

That good mare Marquise, who has been running this summer at St. Louis, Kansas City and other tracks of the Middle West, captured the closing event by a head in a terrific drive from William O'B. The Eastern mare was heavily backed in the opening betting, and her price was 8 to 5 until the money rolled in on Willlam O'B., which had the effect of lengthening her price to 2 to 1. William O'B. tried to run away with the race, and Marquise, with her heavy impost up, trailed her company until she headed for home. She challanged William O'B. at the drawgate, and both Narvaez and Wilson rode like a pair of demons. In the last jump the mare poked her nose in front. She was entered to be sold for $700, and Tom Boyle put in a bid of $1,000 and retired, the owner retaining her by bidding $5 advance.

WEDNESDAY, SEPTEMBER 8.

The State Board of Agticulture is certainly favored in one important particular in this year's Fair—there could not be more delightful weather. The attendance showed a gradual improvement for three days since the opening, but it ought to be much better.

Director Covey was Presiding Judge, assisted by Directors Cox and Matthews, and Directors De Long and William Appleby occupied the timers' stand.

The two-year-old trotting stake for the 2:40 class was the opening event. In the pools Ansel sold for $14 against $20 for the field. First heat—Ansel appeared to be sore. McKerron widened the gap right along, but eased up near the wire, winning by twelve lengths in 2:30. Dr. Frasse was second and Ansel away to the rear. Distance was waived.

Second heat—Ansel led at the quarter by four lengths. At the half Ansel was one length ahead of Dr. Frasse, John A. two lengths behind. Rounding the turn the Doctor moved up and entered the stretch on even terms with Ansel, and soon John A. came along and passed them both, winning from Frasse by three lengths in 2:28¾, Ansel some lengths behind.

In the 2:24 class Sable Frances led all the way to the seven-eighths, Osito close up. There she left her feet and Osito went to the front, winning by five or six lengths in 2:20¾. Peko was a poor third. Palermo broke badly on the first quarter and fell away to the rear, but finished at Peko's wheel.

Second heat—Sable Frances led at the quarter by a half length, Osito being a half length ahead of Peko. Winnella and Palermo both broke and fell far to the rear. Osito had still a neck the best of it at the half, but soon Sable broke and Peko took second place, entering the stretch two lengths behind Osito. At the drawgate Osito broke and Peko went to the front. Then he left his feet and Osito won out by two lengths in 2:19, Sable Francis third, Winnella fourth. Palermo was distanced.

Third heat—Peko led by from ten to twelve lengths all the way, Osito finishing second, Sable Francis third by several lengths. The time was 2:20¼.

Fourth heat—Sable Frances was in the air when the word was given and went hopelessly to the rear. Peko led all the way and won easily under a pull by two lengths from Osito in 2:16¼, Winnella third and Sable last.

Fifth heat—Peko led all the way, but from the half mile to the outcome Osito had his nose at Peko's wheel. Thirty yards from the wire Durfee called on Osito and he made a rush, placing his nose within a few inches of that of his adversary. The time was 2:18.

The third race was for the flyers in the 2:10 class. Jasper Ayers sold for $25, Stam B. for $8 and the field $8. First heat—Mamie Griffin broke on the first turn and fell to the rear. Ethel Downs led at the quarter by two lengths, Wayland W. and Jasper Ayres even, Stam B. fourth, Iora fifth and Griffin last. They were in the same relative position at the half. On the way Wayland went up and to the rear. It was a hot race down the stretch between Ethel Downs and Stam B., but in the last fifty yards Ethel made a spurt and beat the son of Stamboul out by a neck in 2:13, Jasper Ayres third, Iora fourth, Mamie Griffin fifth and Wayland last.

Second heat—Stam B. broke on the turn and lost ground badly. Ethel Downs led Jasper Ayers at the quarter by two and a half lengths, Stam B. and Mamie Griffin being even. At the half it was the same, except that Mamie had left Stam B. and was in the third place, Stam B. fourth, Iora fifth and Wayland last, Jasper closed up the gap on the turn and was at Ethel's wheel as they came into the stretch. From their home he outfooted Ethel Downs and won by three lengths in 2:14, Stam B. third, Mamie Griffin fourth. Wayland fifth and Iora last.

Third heat—Jasper Ayers was never headed from the first, but Stam B. gave him a hard rub in 2:12½. Mamie Griffin got pocketed at the start and could not do much, finishing last.

Fourth heat—Jasper and Stam B. were up in the lead at the quarter, Ethel Downs a half length next. Stam B. left his feet on the back stretch and lost several lengths. Rounding the turn into the stretch Ethel Downs was leading by a length, Jasper second, a half length ahead of Iora, with Mamie Griffin, Stam B. and Wayland trailing. Jasper now let himself out and outfooted Ethel to the score, winning in 2:13 by a couple of lengths, Iora close up.

The closing event of the day was for the three-year-old 2:25 class. Only two horses showed up for it, Uncle Johnny and Central Girl. The latter made a show of her competitor. The heat and race was won in 2:22.

Noted Horses for Sale.

At Stockton, Cal., on September 25th, the stallions Cyclone, Fred Archer, Kantaka, Purins and Crescent will be offered for sale. They belonged to the late Col. Caleb Dorsey, of Oakdale, Cal., and a e horses of no little note, the first named being sire of Joshua, Arno and many other good winners.

THE following, especially that part relating to the coming of Caldwell to Ingleside to start the flyers again, will be read with interest: "The racing has been clean, and excepting a few suspensions for the meeting, so far there has been little cause for complaint. The starting of Mr. Caldwell has been as good as I have seen in years. Meadowthorpe is probably the best horse in training here now, and of the two-year-olds it would be hard to say. The weather is cool and pleasant now. The past two weeks, however, we have had quite a good deal of rain."—Detroit friend of "Broad Church," correspondence N. Y. Spirit. The reference to Caldwell's starting, in the above, reminds me that Tommy McGee, Ed Corrigan's hustling manager, who arrived from Detroit early in the week, told me it was about settled that Caldwell will handle the flag at the next Ingleside meeting. He said the veteran's work at Detroit was first-class. J. B. Ferguson will be the starter at the coming Highland Park meeting. Col. Jack Chinn will start at the Latonia fall meeting.—"Broad Church" in N. Y. Spirit of the Times.

Searchlight, 2:09 1-4.

A more appropriate name could not have been thought of for this bright star, which has for his sire the great stallion Darknight, which has been purchased in Europe on account of his remarkable beauty and rich breeding. Searchlight is a magnificently formed three-year-old dark bay stallion, with a little white on his nigh fore foot just at the coronet and two hind ankles white. He has a strong, intelligent head, well set on to a neck that is in proportion to the rest of his conformation. His shoulders are sloping, his wither being sharp and set well back. His body is neither too long nor too short. Over the loins and coupling he is very full and muscular. His legs are perfect; such hocks, fetlock, feet and knees are only to be found on the most highly finished trotters. He has an iron constitution, is an excellent feeder, never getting nervous, and when being jogged, like John R. Gentry, Star Pointer and other great celebrities, is inclined to loaf, but when called upon to pace he is as full of life, without nervousness, as anyone could wish. We do not remember to have ever seen a more even-going pacer. There is no excessive knee or hock action. His feet are all lifted to about the same height, and so frictionless do they seem to glide that it is no wonder he is a worthy candidate for holding the world's record for three-year-old pacers.

Searchlight was bred in Kentucky, purchased by Ed A. Tipton of Lexington for $3,000, and from him passed to D. A. Bricker and thence to J. Leonard, who brought him to California, where he was sold at Pleasanton for $1,100 to C. L. Crellin, proprietor of the Ruby Hill Vineyard, and one of the best judges of a good trotter or pacer in this State. Thos. Keating at once took charge of the colt, and soon had him condition to pace well. He shipped him to Montana.

On July 1st, at Anaconda, in the 2:29 class pace he showed that he was a race horse, for he won in straight heats. Time 2:13, 2:15, and 2:16. July 6th he started in the 2:24 class pace and won that the track being very heavy and muddy. Time 2:24½, 2:35 and 2:37. He started July 12th against Argoreat and Glen Arthur and again he won. The first heat he captured in 2:11¼, Argoreat won the next from him by a neck in 2:11¼, but Searchlight had his measure taken and won the other heats in 2:14½ and 2:18¾. At Butte, August 3d, Searchlight started in the 2:10 pace and won it in straight heats, defeating Edith W., Argoreat, Fellfare and Kate Medium, in the following time: First heat 0:31½, 1:04¾, 1:38¾, 2:09¼; second heat 0:31¼, 1:04¼, 1:39½, 2:10½. The last race he started was against Chehalis, Edith W. and Argoreat. He won third money and forced the great Chehalis to pace the third heat in 2:07¼, being at his throat latch when the fastest son of Altamont came under the wire.

He won six races in all and the sum of $4,500, and was the largest money-winner in Montana this season. Mr. Keating brought him back to California and at Woodland he won his first race in California with the greatest ease, setting the three-year-old record for the track at 2:09¾.

A glimpse of his tabulated pedigree will show that he is trotting bred, and comes from the very stoutest families—plenty of good thoroughbred blood blended with that of the great Geo. Wilkes and his descendants. From Alcyone, the sire of McKinney, 2:11¼, King Rene, St. Elmo, Abdallah Star and plenty of blood of Abdallah 15, five crosses to the great fountain head of the trotting family. With three great producing dams in a direct line, there is no doubt that he will make a most valuable sire. To the student of bloodlines this tabulation will be interesting and to the seeker after a perfect individual, when the time comes for him to be placed in the stud, there are few individuals that will more thoroughly "fill the eye" than this coming champion, Searchlight, 2:09¼.

LONDON (Eng.), Sept. 8—J. Gubbins' bay colt Galtee More, winner of the Derby, won the St. Leger stakes at the second day's racing of the Doncaster September meeting. Lord Rosebery's Chelandry (by Goldfinch, now at Rancho del Paso) was second and James R. Keene's St. Cloud third. Five horses started. Galtee More was the second Irish-bred horse to win the Derby, Daniel O'Rourke, by Irish Birdcatcher, being the first. In addition to the Derby stakes, Mr. Gubbins' horse also won the 2000 Guineas, the Jubilee, the Newmarket and the Prince of Wales' stakes. Galtee More's winnings this season foot up over $110,000. He has met with but one defeat—that when a two-year-old—and it was claimed he would have been first instead of second but for an accident in the race.

TURF AND TRACK.

THE SULKY.

The race meeting at Sacramento is a success.

Have you ever asked your neighbor to subscribe for the Breeder and Sportsman?

There is some talk of a new speed track being made near Stockton after the race meeting ends.

Faultless is the name of a mare by Sphinx that won two races at Alpena, Mich., best time 2:23.

Essie W., a bay mare by Wilkesdale, entered the 2:30 list at Logansport, Ind., getting a mark of 2:24¼.

There has been no complaints heard about incompetency in the judges' stand on the California circuit this year.

Lady Alfred, by Alfred G., won a good green one, getting a record of 2:20¼ at St. Joseph, Mo., August 24th.

Stambold, by Stamboul, won a 2:40 class trot at Goshen, New York, August 28th. Time, 2:18¾, 2:21¼ and 2:22.

R. H. Nason, of Dixon, Cal., sold his bay pacing mare Primrose to F. E. Lane, of Stockton, for $500 last week.

The blood of the handsome stallion Grand Moor is becoming more and more in evidence every year in California.

Between $2,225,000 and $2,235,000 were sold in the auction and mutuel pools at the two meetings in Montana.

It was the blood of the Canadian pacer, combined with that of the thoroughbred, which made the two-minute pacer a reality.

Joe Wheeler holds the record for four-year-old pacing geldings—2:08½. Searchlight holds the record for three-year-old pacers—2:09¼.

Now that prosperity smiles upon all our subscribers we hope they will not forget to forward their subscriptions as soon as possible to this office.

The horse G. W. W., that got a record of 2:23¾ this year, was sired by Alex Button, out of Claribel, by Privateer, second dam Mahaska Belle, by Flaxtail.

Wm. B. Fasig will sell a number of choice trotters and pacers at Cleveland, Ohio, in November that will be shipped from Palo Alto and the California Circuit.

Stamboulette, by Stamboul, got a record of 2:19½ at Sacramento last Monday. He belongs to Alvinza Hayward, of San Mateo, and will get a much lower record this year.

Etta Wilkes, by Kaiser, 2:22, son of George Wilkes, entered the 2:20 list at Sacramento on Monday last, getting a mark of 2:19½. She belongs to Mr. Erkenbrecher, of Los Angeles.

L. A. Richards will hold a big sale of trotting stock on his farm near Grayson next Wednesday, September 15th. There are some splendid roadsters by his horse Elector among them.

A large number of Shetland ponies will be shipped to the Klondike from Dixon, Cal., next spring. Why not send some from Bakersfield? There are hundreds of them on J. B. Haggin's farm there.

The item which appeared in these columns anent the purchase of land near Brighton, Sacramento, for the Agricultural Society was erroneous. No steps whatever have been taken toward purchasing the land.

John Kelly, it is believed, will soon be back with the East View horses. This, however, will not interfere with George Starr's contract to drive Mr. Butler's horses in their races for the remainder of the year.

Whoever aspires to be Governor of California at the next election must pledge himself to restore appropriations to district fairs if he wants to get elected. This is the universal opinion throughout this State at present.

Creole, 2:15, has been put in training at Honolulu, H. I., his new owner believing he can pace faster than any horse on the Islands. This sire has been bred to the best mares there and the foals resemble him in every way.

The approaching fall season is looked forward to with high hopes by horse sale agents and the trade generally. The advance demand would indicate that the season will be an exceptionally good one in all branches, and that prices, especially for desirable animals, will show a marked advance.

Peko, by Electioneer, after losing his first two heats to Osito, by McKinney, went on and won the 2:24 class trot at Sacramento, Wednesday, her time being 2:20½, 2:16½, 2:18.

Violin, one of Woodland's fleetest little pacers, has been shipped to Honolulu, where she is called the 2:90 mare. Perhaps some of the knowing ones thought they could play a little on her and were afraid to give the tune away.

Geers, like many others who know Joe Patchen well, regards him as something of a loafer, and furthermore, he says that he likes that kind. He says that they save themselves and stand hard racing better than the too willing horses.

Joe Patchen and Star Pointer will pace to beat 2:00 at Indianapolis September 15th. If the track is made as perfect as it is possible to make it, there is a strong probability that the two-minute mark will be reached, if not once more passed.

Electioneer blood showed to the front in two of the four harness races at Sacramento on Wednesday, John A. McKerron, by Nutwood Wilkes, and Uncle Johnny, by Benton Boy, being the remaining winners. The latter got a mark of 2.22.

It would not surprise us if Guinette and Chehalis were brought together at Los Angeles, also Elloree and Klamath. It would be the East against the West and attract a lot of attention. Star Pointer's owner wants $10,000 to bring the champion pacer to Los Angeles.

The following horses were shipped to Palo Alto from the Woodland meeting, where they will be prepared for the races at San Jose: Adbell, Alla, Morocco, Galindo and Whips Jr. Some of them got "off" and didn't seem to recuperate fast enough in the warm climate.

J. H. Leonard, Butte, Montana, sold to J. C. Dunn, August 21st, for $5,000, the following horses: Argentine, John Nolan, Journeyman, Marguerite, Red Timber and Lulu R. Leonard is a race horse man and has had a string of good animals at the Butte and Anaconda meetings.

W. D. Munger, of El Toro, writes: "Trotting interests are picking up here. I recently sold a yearling filly by Dexter Prince Jr., out of Elsie, by Grandissimo, for $300, and believe she will be one of the greatest trotters ever foaled. I sold another by Pilot Prince, a colt, for $100."

Have you noticed the California 2:30 list in this issue? No better argument is needed of the growth of this industry. We hope Jimmy de Budd will be able to recuperate on his Catamaran after he reads it and thus learn that, despite his best efforts to destroy racing, it flourishes stronger than ever

At a meeting of the Directors of the State Fair Agricultural Association last night, it was decided to make a change in the present system of betting. In addition to the auction box, there is to be book betting on all running days, a syndicate having guaranteed five books at a trifle less than $150 per day each.

Marcus Daly won the $7,500 purse for two-year-olds at Goshen, N. Y., August 28th, with his bay colt Limerick, by Prodigal. Time, 2:29, 2:23¾ and 2:27½. It was a three-cornered match, J. Malcolm Forbes and E. H. Harriman wagering $2,500 each on their fillies. The Prodigals are all great race horses.

As the sire of Baron Rogers, 2:09¾, and Oakland Baron 2:09¼, Baron Wilkes is the only stallion who has sired two stallions with trotting race records of 2:10 or better. Electioneer sired Arion, 2:07¾ and Palo Alto, 2:08¾, both time records, and Jay Bird, Allerton, 2:09½, time record, and Early Bird, 2:10, race record.

A certain Captain Jenks of this city, who has not even fed his horses on pork and beans, was arrested for starving twelve cavalry horses at the Presidio last week. The court ought to cut off his rations for a week and then give him ten years at hard labor. The judge who will give this scoundrel a severe sentence will be commended by everyone.

Joe Wheeler (p), 2:08½, made his record to a Toomey sulky; so did Hijo del Diablo (3), 2:11½, and over two-score of the fastest horses on the California circuit, whose owners claim that "The Toomey is King!" No other is advertised and no other is tried. All the old makes of sulkies that have none of the improvements the Toomeys have are rapidly disappearing.

Lucratina, a bay two-year-old by Dexter Prince, out of Lucyneer, 2:29; second dam Lucy, 2:14, the great old gray pacer that went down the line with Rowdy Boy, Sleepy Tom, Mattie Hunter, Bay Billy and Sorrel Dan from 1879 to 1882, was second to Elsie S. at Goshen, N. Y., August 25th, and got a record of 2:26½. Dexter Prince as a sire of early and extreme speed is doing exceedingly well.

E. C. Walker (Veritas) is preparing a limited number for the fall campaign. He has in training Loughran W., 2:17¾; Abdul Ameer (2), 2:30, by Stamboul, 2:07½, dam Silverone, 2:19¾; W. W. Foote (2), 2:15½, pacing; Cartridge Jr, by Cartridge, 2:14½, dam by Dictator, and bay mare Bonnette, five years old, by Bonnie Wilkes, dam by Bourbon Wilkes. The last-named is developing into a stake prospect for next season.

Saturday last James W. Daly, of Mt. Kisco, N. Y., sold to his friend Harry Dykeman, of White Plains, the three-year-old pacer Maggie Crafty, by Crafty, 2:09½, pacing, dam Maggie McDowell, 2:21½, pacing, by Sidney. Price, $1,500. Maggie McDowell is one of the choice broodmares at Mt. Kisco farm. She produced the fast four-year-old pacer Dan M., by Prodigal, which Charles Devine drove last season a trial mile in 2:16½ over the White Plains half mile track Maggie Crafty paced the last half of Fleetwood in 1:05½ on Saturday, driven by Trainer Phelps, who is handling a select contingent from Mt. Kisco stud, at Fleetwood. The lot can show speed enough under the watch to satisfy critical buyers. A two-year-old by Delmarch, out of Maggie McDowell, recently stepped a mile in 2:26, last half in 1:11. The get of Delmarch are smooth, stylish and good gaited.

At Readville last week there was a new departure in the matter of entertaining the spectators between heats. In addition to the usual band a young man with a good voice sang popular airs, to which the band played an accompaniment. The spectators took very kindly to the change, and the singer was liberally applauded.

Joe Wheeler, the phenomenal pacer who got a record of 2:08½ at Woodland, was bred at Wildflower, Cal.; sired by Sidney Arnett, dam by Grand Moor; second dam by Benjamin F., by Charles, son of Ethan Allen. Sidney Arnett was foaled May 31, 1889, and was sired by Sidney, 2:19¾, dam Sally, by Ben Butler, he by Hardwood, out of Mary Wade, by Woodburn; second dam by Blondin, son of George B. McClellan and Gray Nell, by the McNitt horse; third dam an Orange mare, untraced.

Lady Rose, brown mare, by Sultan, 2:24—Atalanta, by The Moor; second dam Minnehaha, died at Maplehurst farm, Lancaster, Mass., recently. She was foaled in 1885, and was bred by L. J. Rose, of San Gabriel, Cal. She had produced the brown colt Elking, two-year-old trial in 2:20, by Mansfield, 2:26; the black filly Wedding Bells (sold for $2 300), by Simmons, 2:28; the bay colt Ayrean, by Arion, 2:07¼; the bay colt Kremlin's Son, by Kremlin, 2:07¾; the black filly Black Rose, by El Dorado, and the bay colt Metoxen, by Eldorado, and at the time of her death was in foal to Baron Wilkes, 2:18.

There are now seven members of the 2:10 trotting list owned in New England, as follows: Nancy Hanks, 2:04; Arion, 2:07¾; Baron Rogers, 2:09¾—all owned on one farm, by the way; Martha Wilkes, 2:08, owned by E. D. Wiggin, Boston; Nelson, 2:09, owned by C. H. Nelson, Waterville, Me.; Benton M., 2:10, owned by E. W. Marble, Wilkinsonville, Mass.; Tomah, 2:10, owned by Proprietor Hall, of the Adams House, Boston; Early Bird, 2:10, owned by George Van Dyke, Canaan, Vt. Two others in this charmed circle, Ralph Wilkes, 2:06¾, and Ellard, 2:09, once owned in New England, are now dead.

For the second time in as many weeks the world's trotting record to wagon has been broken by Elloree, blk m, 2:09½, by Axtell, at the Cleveland, Ohio, Gentleman's Driving Club matinee, Aug. 28, who has caused a furore among the horsemen by her remarkable racing in the Grand Circuit. The first heat was a pretty even contest between Elloree and Newcastle, the former just equalling her record of the previous week. In the second heat both horses got off well together, with Elloree leading. She went to the quarter in 33½ seconds and the half in 1:06. Newcastle was three open lengths behind. Here the latter made his first spurt and chased Elloree to the three-quarters in 1:38¼. It looked as though he would win, but a bad skip near the wire spoiled his chances, Elloree going under the wire a new champion, going the mile in 2:10, which is 2¾ seconds better than last week's performance.

There are now in training at the Spokane, Wash., track the following horses: L. B. Lindsay's Little Billie, 2:21; C. P. Chamberlain's Grayling, a full brother of Caryle Carne, 2:10½; Harry Stimmel's Arab, Wm. Kipp's Frank O'Neill, 2:19¼. Louis Childs has Winchester, 2:42; Almota, 2:20, and Allen S., a green four-year-old, as well as Howard Peel's four-year-old pacer, who is a full brother to Pricemont. Wm. J. Harris has in training a two-year old pacer out of the dam of Klamath, 2:07½, sired by Altamont, who is a full brother to King Altamont, 2:21¾. Van B. De Lashmutt is giving Nettie Ham, 2:19½, and Stanwix, 2:21¼, preparatory work for the races. Wm. Taylor has Grey Cisco, 2:29¾, and Margaret S., 2:30, a yearling colt by McKinney out of an Altamont dam, and several other promising youngsters. Shorty Morton has a two-year-old filly by Alexis, 2:18, that is showing sensational speed. E. C. Murphy and Mr. Empey each have several short distance running horses in training. Mr. Payne has Almora, 2:30, at the track. Thomas Chaffee has Ben Dodd and three colts in training. Mr. McMahon has Kate, no record, Lady Jane, a pacer, and Jenks, a running mare.

Star Pointer, 1:59¼, is a bay horse, sixteen hands high, foaled in 1889 at Spring Hill, Tenn., the property of H. H. Pointer. He was sired by Brown Hal, and his dam was the famous mare Sweepstakes, by Snow Heels, the dam of Hal Pointer, 2:04½. He was sold when a colt to J. W. Titley, of Chicora, Pa., who gave him to the well-known Buffalo reinsman, Ed. Geers, to campaign. He created a sensation in his class, and won nearly all of his races, but, unfortunately, his feet troubled him, and he had to be retired for the season without filling all of his engagements. The winter before the last the big fellow was put up at auction and sold to Smith & Mills of Boston for $6,500. He was supposed to be unsound, but last season, in the hands of a new and comparatively inexperienced man, Dave McClary, he beat all comers, suffering defeat by John R. Gentry only. He was again put up at auction last winter and sold to James Murphy of Chicago, his present owner, for $15,000. Great care must be exercised in shoeing Star Pointer, the wall of his foot being so thin that he must be stood upon blankets while being shod. It has been repeatedly stated that Star Pointer can pace a furlong in thirteen seconds, and those who have seen him do this will not be surprised to learn that the two-minute mark has gone by the board.

We clip the following interesting item from the Toledo, O., Sunday Courier: There is an interesting bit of a story connected with Cresceus, 2:11¼, the chestnut colt that won the greatest trotting race of the year, at Fort Wayne, captured the world's three-year-old race record, and set the entire race horse world agog. During the first winter of his existence the colt was sick, and it grew so thin and seemed so utterly worthless that Supt. Murnon was ordered to destroy Cresceus. Tim took a shotgun and started out to end the colt's existence, but his attention was suddenly called elsewhere and the execution was postponed. When he again started on the errand of mercy, for such it was supposed to be, the colt seemed to be growing stronger, and he resolved to see what could be done by the best of care and attention. And so it was that Cresceus was assigned a large and well-lighted stall and came out in the spring looking almost as well as the healthy and vigorous yearlings. From that time on Cresceus was a favorite with the employes of the farm, and by his recent performance he has more than repaid his owner and care-takers for the attentions that were bestowed upon him when it was thought that it would be an act of humanity to send the puny colt to the horse heaven.

SHASTA WATER broke a long spell of bad luck in the racing line for the popular firm of Burns & Waterhouse. She won on Sheepshead Bay track last Monday, at six and one-half furlongs in 1:20 3 5, and was at 8 to 1 in the betting.

"CURLEY" SHIELDS is here to race previous to a campaign in California. He has three horses recently bought from Pat Dunne—Spencer, Green Jacket and Beneroe. Palmerston and the others in Mr. Shield's stable are in California.—Chicago Daily Racing Form.

M. F. DWYER'S Previous, ridden by Tod Sloan, won the Flatbush Stakes, seven furlongs, last Saturday at Sheepshead Bay. Hamburg ran second and Firearm third, and George Keene, The Hugenot, Kitefoot and Handball were among the "also rans." The time was 1:28 1-5.

BARNEY SCHREIBER has signed a contract with James Woods in Chicago, by the terms of which he secures the services of Mr. Woods' clever little son to ride his horses from January 1, 1898, to December 31, 1898. The lad is to receive a good salary and pay for winning and losing mounts.

BARNEY SCHREIBER has already entered six Foul Shots, the probable produce of Highland, America, Vintage Time mare—sister to Uncle Bob—Eulalie, Pennyroyal and Ottawa in the Futurity of 1900. He has also entered the prospective of Balgowan and Miss Hall—Kamsin's dam—and that of Service and Derfargilla.

PAT REGAN had a miraculous escape in the last race yesterday, says the Anaconda Standard of September 1st. While lining up the horses at the post Valiente let fly his heels and caught Regan just above the nose. If he had been a couple of inches closer he would have been dangerously hurt, but he escaped with a slight cut.

MIDLIGHT, formerly owned by Green B. Morris, won a six-furlong race at Detroit last Monday in 1:13¾. Alamo, another Californian, by imp. A NEW YORK dispatch of Sept. 1 was as follows: The stewards of the jockey club to-day, after a review of the circumstances in connection with the Marshal race at Brighton Beach track, withdrew the license of George W. Newton, trainer of the horse. Jockey Neumeyer was restored to good standing. Applications for fall racing dates were received from the Washington Jockey Club and the Philadelphia Driving Club and referred.

THE Santa Monica Club will give their annual race meeting on Friday and Saturday, September 10th and 11th. The races, all but two, are for polo ponies, ridden by gentlemen riders from the Bakersfield, Riverside and Santa Monica clubs. G. L. Waring is chairman of the Stewards' Committee, Edward Ryan starter and Capt. Tom Merry presiding judge. No books will be allowed, but there will be auction pools and pari-mutuel sold on the grand.

JOCKEY BOZEMAN and his wife left yesterday for their home in Sacramento. This boy was somewhat unjustly used here, when he was ruled off for a bad ride on Pepper. That he was not, in this particular instance, at any rate, to blame, every one acquainted with the circumstances knows, and as the principal criminal, Louis Ezell, was ultimately acquitted, it seems only justice that the accessory should also be exonerated.—Chicago Inter Ocean, Sept. 3d.

PERCY TAYLOR, of the Chicago Inter Ocean, is certainly fearless, as well as clever. Speaking of John Brenock, the big race track and horse-owner of Chicago, in connection with selling race matters, he says in part: "His owner is much incensed at the comments made in these columns anent the Lew Hopper matter. He simply makes himself ridiculous, for every racing man—Judge Clark himself not excepted—must acknowledge that the statements published in this paper were actual and undeniable facts." Brenock did not want to let one of his that was claimed out of a selling race go, and only after Judge Clark told him he would be ruled off if he persisted in keeping the animal did Brenock let go.

THE Pacific Coast Jockey Club's stake book is out, and the stakes offered are sure to attract attention among the owners of thoroughbreds, ranging in value, as they do, from $1,000 to $5,000. The first lot close Oct. 15, 1897, the rest Nov. 15, 1897. We note a number of new stakes on the list, including the Ocean View, Malowansky, Androus, Olympic Handicap, Balboa Boulevard Handicap, San Rafael, Lakeside, Crocker-Woolworth Bank, J. F. Ullman Handicap, Evergreen, California Steeplechase Handicap, University, San Francisco, Golden West, Sunnyside and Presidio Stakes and New Year Handicap. This speaks volumes for the club members, showing as it does, their faith in the future of racing in this part.

IN denying this afternoon (Sept. 2d) the application for a writ of seizure against certain bookmakers doing business at the St. Louis fair grounds track, Judge Withrow, of the St. Louis Circuit court desided that the breeders' law is constitutional. The application was made by Charles B. Noland, counsel for the poolroom proprietors, who wanted betting at fair grounds stopped because their rooms were raided under the State gambling act. Judge Murphy had declared the breeders' law unconstitutional, and they hoped that Judge Withrow would do the same. He took their application under advisement for four or five days, and after examining it carefully became satisfied that it is constitutional. This settles the poolroom question unless the State Supreme Court takes adverse action.

THE following Walla Walla (Wash.) items are taken from the North Pacific Rural Spirit: J. E. Garrison will enter Franklin, by Leon, in the races. Franklin was raised by Tom Matlock, of Heppner, who has a string of runners on hand now. Wallace Whitmore was in Walla Walla recently. He says he has several Coloma colts that he will get ready for the October meet. Ed Wright and Webb Jessee, of Dayton, have each a Coloma colt, and may bring them down for a run in October. Sid Coyle will have some runners on hand for the races. John Garrison thinks the old race track can be put in excellent condition for very little money. Everything is promising for a good, old-time meeting here this fall. The board of managers are working like politicians to make the race meeting a success.

ORNAMENT, with 118 lbs. up, won the Twin City Handicap, mile and a quarter, last Monday, by three lengths in 2:05 2 5, but two-fifths of a second behind the circular track record. Flying Dutchman (121) was second and Havoc (114) third. Requital (128), Ben Eder (110), Sir Walter (117), Free Advice (107), Bernardillo (102), Maurice (100) and Lincoln II. (99) also ran. Truly Ornament is a champion race horse, for he was conceding a lot of weight to every horse in the race.

THE Kentucky Turf Guide, of Covington, Ky., pays a high tribute to Judge J. J. Burke and Starter H. D. Brown for their work at the Newport (Ky.) meeting. Among other pleasant things, it says: "Judge Burke, who is the presiding judge, and H. D. Brown, the starter, are responsible for what may be termed a great meeting." "The books are all losers; that is the best evidence of a straight meeting. "The first thing to bring about this is a competent judiciary, and that must be backed up by a fearless and resolute starter. That Newport possesses both is beyond contradiction."

SOME time ago members of the Jockey Club approached Col. R. C. Pate upon the advisability of organizing a Turf Association, owing to the growing interest in connection with racing. The matter was taken under advisement with the result that Col. Pate has decided to organize a stock company which will take over the Indianilla race track and property. At the first meeting of the new association officers will be elected and a governing board to settle all matters which may come up in the course of the racing season. No fault has been found with the past management of the track, and the suggestion was probably made because the sport had grown to that point where the general interest warrants going in on a larger scale. Such an arrangement would have been impossible in the infancy of the track, but Col. Pate has, against many obstables, brought matters to that successful stage when the new arrangement will be an undoubted advantage.—Two Republics, City of Mexico, August 25th.

ON account of a desire to accommodate the bidders for certain privileges at the track and pavilion the meeting of the Stockton Driving Club was held last evening, on the return of Mr. Willy from Sacramento. All bids were to be in before 5 o'clock last evening, but it was the intention of the club to hold them for opening at a meeting this afternoon. The bidders did not wish to wait, however, and so the envelopes were opened last evening, says the Stockton Independent of September 2d. For the poolselling privileges there were five bids. Only two of the bids came within the call, as the others wanted to include a bookmaking privilege or wanted some agreement as to the number of races that should be started. After the bids were opened the club declared an executive session for some time, during which the subject of bookmaking was considered. One bidder had offered to warrant two carloads of racers if bookmaking were permitted. The decision was finally against bookmaking and in favor of Killip & Co, of San Francisco, who made a bid of 75 per cent. of the receipts. The bids for the bar privilege at the track were not satisfactory to the club, and they were returned to the bidders. The amount offered is said to be slightly below what the club had figured on receiving, and it was decided to call for other figures. The privilege of selling temperance drinks at the pavilion during the fair was let to Frank Madden, and the tamale and candy privileges went to the Pioneer tamale house. W. H. Martin of Oakland will have the privilege of selling popcorn, peanuts and lunch at the track.

A NEW YORK dispatch of last Saturday conveyed the following startling intelligence: It was announced to-day at Sheepshead Bay that Marcus Daly would either have a very small stable next year or else retire entirely from racing. He is not satisfied with the showing made by either the Eastern or Western divisions of his stable this year and a few days ago he served notice through Trainer Matt Byrnes that he would not not need Jockey Fred Taral's services in 1898. Ogden proved to be a grevious disappointment, and there is not a first-class two-year-old out of the big string of high-class and well-bred youngsters. For years Daly has been a remarkably heavy loser He bought and bred thoroughbreds by the score, and took the bitter with the sweet. The possession of such a horse as Tammany repaid him for many disappointments, but his foreign investments, notably the $20,000 Hampton—Cherry colt, afterward named Matt Byrnes, and Inverness were racers which he did not relish. Senator Grady was a good two-year-old, but he could not beat anybody's three-year-old, and Ogden, the winner of last year's Futurity, has followed in the footsteps of the son of Iroquois. It was said to-day by a gentleman who is close to the Montana millionaire that the horses now in training would probably go to the auctioneer's block some time this fall. Mr. Daly has probably $500,000 invested in thoroughbred horses and racing properties, and he is the backer of the Montana racing circuit, which holds meetings yearly for thoroughbreds, trotters and pacers at Hamilton, Butte, Anaconda and other towns in which he has a fatherly interest.

THE Cincinnati Enquirer has erected a monument to the memory of the famous thoroughbred stallion and race horse Enquirer. This horse was got by imp. Leamington, his dam being the bay mare Lida, by Lexington. Enquirer was foaled in 1867. In his three-year-old form he ran in six races, winning them all. At Lexington in 1870, he won the Phœnix Hotel Stakes, mile heats, in 1:44¾, 1:44½. In the second heat of this race he distanced Longfellow. At Long Branch he won the Continental Hotel Stakes, mile heats in 1:47, 1:49, 151¾, beating among others, Maggie B. B., and Susan Ann. In the season he won over $20,000. Maggie B. B, was afterwards bred to imp. Leamington and produced the great race horse and sire, Iroquois, winner of the Derby, St. Leger and Prince of Wales Stakes in England. Susan Ann on her retirement was bred to Longfellow and produced the great mare Thora, who in her turn became the dam of Yorkville Belle and Dobbins. Both Longfellow and Enquirer earned lasting fame as the sires of distinguished race horses. The list of Enquirer's get include Leander, mile in 1:41¾; McWhirter, two miles in 3 30½, the fastest race ever run by a three-year-old; Lizzie Whips, two mile heats, in 3:36½, 3:39; Harkaway, mile heats in 1:43, 1:42½; Blue Eyes, two and a quarter miles in 3:58¾; Getaway, one and a fourth mile in 2:07¾, two mile heats in 3:36½, 3:35½; Falsetto, two miles in 3:35½; Inspector B, Egmont, Reporter, Miss Ford, Telie Doe, Emperor and hosts of others. His sons have won distiction as sires and his daughters considered exceedingly valuable as dams. No horse that ever lived is more worthy of a monument than Enquirer—an honest race horse and a great progenitor.

The Outlook Is Bright.

Although far away from the great centers of the East, from whence the long-expected and off-predicted wave prosperity is said to have started, California and in fact all the Pacific Coast States are beginning to feel its effects. The traveler who has crossed the continent says every mill is busy, smoke is seen issuing from smokestack and the hum of the wheels of industry makes sweet music for the rich and poor wherever they go. Good crops, a restoration of confidence and a desire to improve prosperity with the money received from every source, agricultural, mining and mechanical, is noticeable in city, town, village and county. The demand for American cereals and manufactured articles from countries beyond the sea has forced ship-owners to refit their vessels that have been lying idle, and all the seaports in the United States are assuming a livlier aspect than at any time during the past twenty years. Encouraging reports about the progress being made in every line of business are read with pleasure every day, and all who have been complaining about "hard times" are being silenced in the presence of so many evidences of thrift. The wave is rolling on and drowning these croakers in a manner that meets with the approval of those who even in the midst of adversity have maintained a most cheerful view of the situation.

Here in California, as stated above, the wave has been felt, and we are proud to acknowledge the fact that it has struck a land where full and plenty abounds; where our crops of wheat and barley were excellent and the prices received for them are better than they have been for years; where our orchards from Shasta to San Diego never yielded so bountifully, forcing orchardists to employ all the available help that was idle in the big cities to pick and ship the fruits either to the East or to the canneries and fruit-drying establishments, where thousands are employed night and day; where our vineyards are turning out thousands of tons of grapes for raisins and the making of wine; where many new miners are being opened and the old ones are being found richer and more valuable, and where everybody is wearing a smiling face, and the very air seems laden with the aroma of hope and prosperity. This is not only the land of promise, but the abiding place where the fulfillment of every wish may be gratified. Large delegations of people have visited us, and on their return to their homes in the far East, North and South, have had no other subject apparently to talk and write about than the glories of California. The fever to come and make their homes with us is spreading, and inquiries are flooding the leading land offices regarding pretty places to live, from those whom we believe will be a most desirable class of citizens.

The wave of prosperity affects the horse interests as well, for when riches knock at a poor man's hamlet he turns his eyes to pleasure, and to own a good road horse is the acme of his existence, for in no other way can he enjoy the beauties of nature and no other manner can he find more healthful and invigorating pleasure than in handling a good horse or team early in the morning or at noon. This he knows has prolonged the life of many a man, and he wants to live as long as possible and enjoy every moment of his existence in this land of sunshine and flowers. The demand for good horses by reason of this return to prosperity is being felt everywhere, and as hundreds who were breeding horses a few years ago have retired from business there is a scarcity of good horses, which makes owners demand better prices, and they are receiving them.

The good work is going on and many are looking for good broodmares and well-bred stallions, and we notice that with the introduction of buyers from Europe in the field competition at the auction sales has forced prices to a limit which is most encouraging to all horse owners.

The California Jockey Club's Stakes.

Everything points to the holding of grand race meetings at Oakland and Ingleside next winter and spring. All the turfmen who brought strings across the Rockies last winter will be on hand, and as they were pleased [illegible] the treatment accorded them and had more than a [illegible] of success, they naturally extol the Coast to the skies. The result will be that in their wake will come a host of turfmen new to the land of gold and sunshine, bringing with them the cream of their racing stables. The sport will, therefore, be made more interesting than ever. The new stakes offered by our two big clubs, the California and Pacific Coast, are in keeping with the improvement in racing. Following is a list of the California Jockey Club stake events now open, and it goes to show what faith that liberal organization has in the future of the "sport of kings" so far as California is concerned:

The Opening Handicap	$1,000	The GoldenGate Stakes (free)	$1,000
The Athenian Club Cup	1,500	The Reliance Club Handicap (free)	1,000
The Naglee Selling Stakes	1,250	The Acme Club Handicap (free)	1,000
The Racine Stakes	1,000	The Alameda Handicap (free)	1,000
The Burlingame Stakes	1,000	The Emeryville Handicap (free)	1,250
The Oakland Prize Stakes	1,250	The Cadmus Stakes (free)	1,250
The Flood Handicap	1,500	The Oakland Handicap (free)	1,000
The Flirtation Stakes (free)	1,000
The California Maiden Stakes (free)	1,000
The San Pablo Selling Stakes (free)	1,000
The Shell Mound Handicap (free)	1,000

The Burns Handicap	$10,000	The Follansbee Handicap	$1,250
The Thornton Stakes	3,000	The McLaughlin Selling Stakes	1,250
The Palace Hotel Handicap	3,000	The Pacific Union Stakes	1,500
The Gunst Stakes	1,500	The Lissak Stakes	1,250
The Baldwin Hotel Handicap	1,500	The Rancho del Paso Handicap	1,250

The Flying Stakes	1,000	The Candelaria Handicap	1,500
The Racing Stakes	1,000
The Waterhouse Stakes	1,350

Here we have $53,600 offered in the shape of stakes and twelve of the thirty-six events are "entrance free." The California Jockey Club is the pioneer in this free entrance to stakes movement, and the plan is sure to be popular with owners.

At the Emeryville (known as the Oakland) track, just north of the saddling paddock, a trainers' stand is in course of erection. Capt. Ben Harris' brand-new invention, the pivotal jockey board, will be seen in operation for the first time at the coming California Jockey Club meeting. President Thomas H. Williams Jr., the controlling spirit of the club, is ever on the lookout for any invention looking to the convenience of patrons of the track or to facilitate the work it is necessary to perform around the course. The stake book of the Pacific Coast Jockey Club is out, and we expect to print the stake conditions in full next week. In the meantime enter your horses in the stakes of the California Jockey Club, which close as mentioned above. The advertisement appears in this issue.

Salinas' 1897 Meeting.

The dates claimed for the holding of the annual race meeting at Salinas are October 12th to 16th, and the programme of events appears in this issue. The trotters and pacers are well provided for, for the former there being races for those of the 2:11, 2:15, 2:19, 2:24 and 2:30 classes, for the side-wheelers those of the 2:10, 2:13, 2:17, 2:20 and 2:25 classes. Entries close with Secretary John J. Kelly September 22d. Salinas is now one of the most prosperous cities on the Coast, and as her people are great lovers of "the national horse," the coming meeting should be the best from every point of view ever held there.

Sale af the Brookdale Horses.

At Morris Park course, October 21st, 22d and 23d, The Easton Company will sell the entire Brookdale Stud and racing stable at auction. Many celebrities were bred on this farm, formerly the property of D. D. Withers, now the property of the estate of the late Col. William P. Thompson. The latest one of note from Brookdale is L'Alouette, winner of The Futurity of 1897. See the sale advertisement in this issue.

How to Rid the Turf of "Skates."

The Scully plan of ridding the turf of worthless skates was inaugurated at Newport on Saturday, August 28th. The race was a purse of $300, for three-year-olds and upward, seven furlongs, and the conditions of the race were that the whole purse should go to the winner, and the horse then became the property of the association, be branded and forever after disqualified for racing. When time for making entries in the race arrived the entry list contained twice as many as could start under the rule limiting the number of starters to 10. The full complement of 10 was accepted and one was scratched; which left nine superannuated beasts, as follows: Simple Jack, 4; Galley West, 4; Mitchell, 3; Stanza, 4; Momus, 5; Ironmistress, 3; Chatterbox, 4; Fonemah, 3, and Nat P., 3, with Mitchell the favorite at even money. The start was good and Simple Jack, brown gelding, by Jim Gore, dam Schottka, won after a driving finish by a head in 1:29¼, with Galley West, ready to drop dead, second, three lengths in front of Mitchell, third. After they came back to the stand the victor was led into the circle in front of the judges' stand, decorated with a magnificent floral horse collar and his rider placed upon his back. He was then paraded in front of the grand stand, while Weber's band poured forth the dulcet and significant strains of "Good-By, My Honey, I'm Gwine." And thus, with credit to himself and profit to his owner, Henry McDaniels' Simple Jack brought his turf career to a close. The Scully plan of getting rid of useless horses has been talked of for some time, but its practicability has never been fully tested, nor does one race prove its feasibility. For the owner of a worthless "crab" to sell him to the association is all very well, but in the event of one or more races of the kind per week the racing associations would, during the season, spend a good sum of money and have on hand an accumulation of tabooed horseflesh upon which, perhaps, hardly 5 per cent. of the purses hung up could be realized, and they would have an elephant on their hands. It does not, therefore, seem at all probable that the plan will be a success, or generally adopted.—N. Y. Spirit of the Times.

While the Scully plan may not work, it suggests one that in our opinion might. It would rid the turf of skates more quickly, and those retired would be sure-enough "no-accounts." Under the Scully plan, the winner is disbarred forever. That does not look just right, for a horse that can win any sort of race is not altogether bad. Our plan is to have say three races per week conditioned as follows: "The Skate Purse, $300, of which $50 to second, $25 to third, for three-year-olds and upward. Those having started in three races of this description [this, of course, after the first week's trial], and failing to finish first, second or third, to become the joint property of the club and former owner, branded 'N. G.' and forever thereafter disbarred from racing on any track running under the rules of the American Turf Congress, The Jockey Club or California Jockey Club." After about a month's trial this would result in the weeding out from a dozen to twenty "kiyi's" per week, to the delight of lovers of good horses and the haters of "skates." The owners would be benefited also and the associations could get from $50 to $100 apiece for the animals proven worthless as racers from "butchers, bakers and candlestick-makers" and from an occasional searcher after a good-looking saddle horse.

Fresno's Fair Meeting of 1897.

As matters look now, the Fresno meeting (October 5th to 9th inclusive) will be one of the best ever held in that flourishing city of the great San Joaquin Valley. Many of the horses that will take part in the coming great meeting at Los Angeles will stop off at Fresno this year. Secretary Rockman has worked hard to make the meeting a good one, and his efforts will be crowned with success. See the advertisement in this issue and send in your entries at once, as they close September 15th.

The National Stallion Race.

All breeders of thoroughbreds on this Coast should read the advertisement of the Westchester Racing Association in this issue regarding the $20,000 National Stallion race of 1899, and enter liberally therein. To enter your stallion in this race is to greatly enhance the value of his get, and the sum necessary to keep foals in the race is so small that it at once appeals to you. The entry for stallions closes Sept. 15, 1897, the entry of foals December 1, 1897. Entries should be sent to H. G. Crickmore, Clerk of the Course, 173 Fifth Ave., New York, N. Y.

The Ventura Meeting.

There is going to be an excellent mixed meeting at Ventura next month. The dates are October 5th to 9th inclusive. The purses for trotters and pacers range from $250 to $600, for the gallopers from $150 to $200, the distances in running races from 3½ furlongs to a mile and a quarter. Entries close with J. F. Newby, Secretary, Ventura, Cal., Sept. 15th. The programme, advertised in this issue, is a good one, and the entry list should be long.

We received the following letter from Secretary Lewis Thorne, of Los Angeles, yesterday morning: "Salinas not having taken any further steps towards holding a meeting on the date assigned them, Los Angeles has decided to commence the harness races on the first day of the meeting. By doing this we can give four or five extra harness races, and they will be given for good specials or overnight events. This will in a small way help out the loss of the week Salinas was to have given to the harness horses. [By Editor—The Salinas Association has just announced the programme.] We have waited until now within one month of the meeting before taking this step, and have fully decided to start the harness races on the first day of the meeting, namely October 14th. The entries are coming in very satisfactorily. We shall have the largest amount of entries we ever had."

HOOF-BEATS.

JASPER AYRES is going right on in his winning way.

PEKO is one of the best money-winners in the Palo Alto string.

OVER 800 horses are stabled at Agricultural Park, Sacramento.

A. B. SPRECKELS has engaged Thos. Keating to handle his string of trotters and pacers for the rest of the season.

ANDY MCDOWELL arrived at Sacramento last week. He disposed of all the horses he had with the exception of Caryle Carne.

J. H. ("CURLY") SHIELDS has purchased Green Jacket, by imp. Whistle Jacket, at Pat Dunne, and will race him in California next winter.

CLARENCE WATERHOUSE is in the far East, and writes Col. Burns, his partner, that the horses are rounding to, and will be heard from very soon.

CHARLES B. WINSHIP will not sell his horses, as reported. He has turned his string out in the center-field at Los Angeles track, and may campaign his horses in California next season.

CHARLES E. MURRAY arrived from Montana last Thursday, after a very successful season. He trained Lady Hurst and others. The latter was unplaced but thrice in twenty-one starts.

WE acknowledge receipt of the latest monthly edition of Chicago Racing Form, edited by Frank H. Brunnell. It is gotten up in its usual excellent style, and its foot-notes would be very hard to beat.

STARTER H. D. ("CURLY") BROWN will bring a select string to the Coast next winter. He has made a great name for himself at Newport this year as a gate-wielder, and is regarded as not only capable, but thoroughly honest.

APPLAUSE, the beautiful Ill-Used mare formerly owned by Pittsburg Phil and Ed Purser, died recently at Marcus Daly's Bitter Root Stock Farm, Hamilton, Mont. She had been "nerved," and it would not be surprising if it turns out she had to be destroyed, though it was not announced what caused her death.

J. NAGLEE BURK sends Crescendo, Estro and Rosormonde to Los Angeles to race, Burns & Waterhouse send a car-load, including Palomacita and Duckling, Billy Randall brings 'Ostler Joe and several others, Johnny Humphrey sends Chartreuse and others, Nick Hall goes, in fact, all the big turfmen of the Coast are likely to be represented.

MARCUS DALY has released trainer Johnny Campbell, Jockey Jimmy Lamle and all the exercise boys of the Montana string, and rumor has it that the services of the very clever trainer, Matt Byrnes, and the crack jockey, Fred Taral, will be dispensed with at the end of the present racing season. The last-named two receive $10,000 a year apiece.

THE Walter J. episode has ended, so far as the criminal part of it is concerned. The indictment against J. Hennessy, who was accused of having stolen the horse some months ago, was yesterday dismissed by Judge Hart. District Attorney Ryan informed the court that he had no idea Hennessy could be convicted before a jury.—Sacramento Record-Union, Sept. 8.

DAN MCCARTY is the name of a sixteen-year-old San Francisco boy that can do seventy-two or 73 pounds. Charley Murray had the lad in Montana this year, and thinks he has in him another Johnny Woods. McCarty won a race at Butte the last day of the meeting on Los Prietos and, strange as it may seem, can handle anything in the horse line, no matter how bad an actor. He is under contract to Lee Shaner until the end of 1899.

Answers to Correspondents.

J. B. W., Cordelia.—Kindly answer the following questions: What is the breeding of Chrisman's Hambletonian? Breeding of Kentucky Whip and Whalebone, formerly owned by W. Hinkle, of Petaluma. Answer—Chrisman's Hambletonian 10,178 was by Hambletonian 725, dam Flora, by Chieftain 721. Kentucky Whip (Ray Horse), located in Indiana, was by Vermont 104, dam not given. Kentucky Whip (Webber's), taken to Orange county, N. Y., about 1833, was by Blackburn's Whip, "dam a well-bred Kentucky mare." We find a Whalebone by Inca trotting in the late eighties. Suppose that is the one.

L. M., Honolulu.—A. and B. shake poker dice, one shake to decide. A. shakes one pair o threes and one pair of aces. B. takes the box with dice inside and begins to shake. He reverses the box slowly, and four dice fall out, namely three twos and one five. The opponent calls the shake of the dice in sight, but nobody touches the bones. B. says, without looking into the dice box or bringing it back to a perpendicular, "Where is the other dice?" and without shaking the box, continues to turn the box upside down until the other dice rolls out. A bystander bets $20 that that is a foul shake and should have been shaken over again. The three twos remain and the last dice did not improve the hand any. Answer—We shall decide in favor of B. The rules regarding "Foul Throws" in Hoyle read: "When a dice touches the floor or on anything else but the table where the game is being played, it is counted as a false throw, and does not count. If a dice is touched when it is in motion it is not counted as a throw. When one dice stands on another, a position called "a cocked dice," it is a false throw. If one dice leans up against another, or does not stand square on its base, this arising not from any inequality of the table, it is a false dice. Foul throws due to accident as described can be thrown over." The decision is given in favor of B. because he did not violate any of the above rules.

Daniel M. Burns.

D. M. Burns, more familiarly known as "Dan," is in Woodland to renew old acquaintance wite numerous friends and to witness the races. His presence renews memories o early political struggles in this county. When he came to the county it was overwhelmingly Democratic, but he was shrewd enough in managing the interests of the Republican party to make it more than hold its own with the enemy, with the result that several offices were captured by his party, he "winning out" for County Clerk himself. He is a great political organizer, as was shown by his management of Markham's campaign, and he would have been equally as victorious in the Estee campaign if he had not been weighed down with San Francisco alliances.

About fourteen years ago a lucky turn took place in his life. He was at that time well down in purse, but not in spirit and ambition. About this time he became interested in a mining property in Mexico, and, bidding friends goodbye, departed for that country to ascertain what Fortune had in store for him. The turn of the wheel was in his favor, and in a few years his bank account had reached a good, healthy sum, and at the present time he is rated as a millionaire, possibly in two or three figures. Meanwhile his income from his mine—which seems to be inexhaustible—is radidly increasing; in fact, he is made to play the part of modern Monte Cristo.

His good fortune (which would turn the head of an ordinary man) has not caused any change in him in the least. He is the same "Dan" of old to his friends.

He never forgets a friend. A story is told of him that illustrates his nature. While the clouds of adversity were hanging over him he was compelled to seek a loan from his old friend, M. M. Estee. Several years afterward when his Mexico mine began yielding dividends he dropped into Estee's office and after greeting him handed him a check for the amount with a good rate of interest added to it. Estee had forgotten all about the transaction and refused to accept it, but Mr. Burns insisted. He even went further and when the opportunity presented itself, which was three years ago, he was instrumental in bringing about the nomination of Mr. Estee for Governor, but he was beaten by that prince of fakers, James Budd.

He married Miss Emily Schindler, of Cacheville. He has an elegant home in San Francisco and enjoys life in every sense of the term. He owns a fine racing stable in San Francisco and very often his colors are to the front.

Mr. Burns was accompanied by his wife, who will also visit friends here a few days. They expect to leave for Mexico immediately after the State Fair.—Woodland Mail.

MR. J. B. FOLLANSBEE, one of the most deservedly popular of the younger set of turfmen, who spends much of his time in Mexico, intends, with others, to build a race track at the City of Chihuahua. When completed an annual fair will be held, with racing as its chief feature.

Charles Peshall's Favorites.

Charles Peshall was once a figure in American dogdom. He is a descendant of some of the best English aristocratic families, being a relative of the Earl of Harrington, Duke of Marlborough and others equally high socially, and we believe it would only need a return to the old country and a payment of the Herald fees, and "Charley" Pesball would be a full-fledged knight, or something of that sort, "a fellow with a handle to his name, don't yer know." Charles Peshall was President of the slaughtered New Jersey Kennel Club, and he was a genuine lover of the dog, a true fancier by instinct. He proposed August Belmont for President of the American Kennel Club, and had something to do with A. P. Vredenburgh being Secretary. He had some straightforward, honest friends, and not a few selfish swashbucklers at that time seemed to value his friendship. The tide turned, Charley Peshall was declared a Jonah, the Captain had no use for him, the cabin-boy was an echo of the captain, and overboard he went, but the job cost the American Kennel Club over $3 000, which the poor breeders of dogs have since been paying off in dollars for registrations, and quarters for listings. This may be ancient history, but it is nevertheless a fact, and still the captain and the cabin boy are supreme.

Old Jimmie was an old favorite of Charley Peshall, and when he died some three or four years ago his master was much grieved. Now comes news through the columns of one of the New York dailies of another of his favorites, and we cannot do better than quote it:

"Peter, the thoroughbred bull terrier that belonged to Lawyer Charles J. Peshall, died a few days ago of old age. Peter had an extensive acquaintance, and the announcement of his death in the lower section of Jersey City yesterday was to many, especially the old-time guests of Taylor's Hotel, the steamboat and tugboat captains who laid up at the wharves near the hotel, and the newsboys, a sad piece of news. He was an inseparable companion of his owner, Mr Peshall.

"Business men, passing to and from the Pennsylvania Ferry, usually greeted Peter. He was a favorite with all the guests at Taylor's Hotel, where he lived off the fat of the land. The tugboat and steamboat captains never grew tired of watching his tricks in the water, for he was almost an amphibious creature. He has been missed around the hotel for the past few years. He died on a farm."—Amateur Sportsman.

The California Collie Club.

The constitution and by-laws of the California Collie Club, with standard of the collie, has been forwarded to this office by Corresponding Secretary J. C. Berret. The little pamphlet is unquestionably the neatest specialty club's rules that has been printed in America.

The club was formed on April 1st last at San Jose with the following officers: Norman J. Stewart, President; W. de B Lopez, Vice-President; J. C. Berret, treasurer and Corresponding Secretary; Miss Della Beach, Recording Secretary. Executive committee—O. J. Albee, John E. de Ruyter, Norman J. Stewart and Della Beach.

The object of the club is to promote the breeding of pure collies, to define precisely and publish a description of the true type and to urge the adoption of such type on breeders, judges, dog show committees, etc., as the only recognized and unvarying standard by which collies are to be judged and which may in future be uniformly accepted as the sole standard of excellence in breeding and awarding of prizes of merit in collies. Also by giving prizes encouraging shows and sheep dog trials and taking other steps t. do all in its power to promote and advance the interests of the breed.

The club has a great work before it. Every collie breeder in the State should join the club and aid it in every way in his power. The Secretary's address is J. C. Berret, Box 430, San Jose.

DOINGS IN DOGDOM.

The American Kennel Club will meet on September 23d at 2 P. M.

Mr. Kahn of Oakdale has a St. Bernard by Reglov—Olive that weighs over 200 lbs.

The St. Bernard Club of California will meet at this office on Monday evening next.

W. C. Peyton has sold his entire kennel of greyhounds to E. V. Sullivan of this city.

The dogs at Chilkoot are earning $6 a day for their lucky owners by packing 30 pounds of provisions over the pass.

S. F. Fischer, of Hayward, Cal., has for sale a number of fine foxhound puppies of superb breeding. See the "ad."

Maj. J. M. Taylor's second volume of Bench Show and Field Trial records will soon be issued. It will contain complete records to January 1, 1397.

The well-known smooth coated St. Bernard dog Ingomar by Lord Hualpa—Lola has joined the great majority. What a list of fatalities we have been obliged to chronicle during the last few months!

Have you ever used Spratt's Patent Dog Cakes? If not, why not? They contain meat, vegetable matter, bone meal and cereals. They are made from wholesome materials and are really the cheapest food one can purchase for dogs. Ask your local gun store to procure you some for a trial.

The American Field states that the two employees that the Sportsman's Review is making so much fuss about were discharged for cause. Hard on the major.

The "mischief-maker" says Melrose had the only perfect pair of legs that he has seen on a St. Bernard on this Coast. [They were not near as good as Hector of Hauenstein's but Frey was never an advertiser of Paynes.]

Peary, Nansen, Melville and other Arctic explorers are our authorities for the statement that when a child dies in Greenland the parents bury a living dog along with the corpse, the animal being supposed to act as the child's guide to the other world. Rough on the dog!

On Tuesday of last week O. J. Albee's well-known collie dog Major Welton started off on a run with same owner's Jack, and has not returned at present writing. Major Welton is a dark sable dog, and should any of our readers run across a stray collie Mr. Albee would be very pleased to hear of it. His address is Lawrence, Cal.

That grand old Smooth St. Bernard Champion Melrose has joined the majority. No one will be surprised to learn of this as he has been in wretched condition off and on ever since he arrived on the Coast and even when in good coat he had the appearance of a broken down dog, In condition he was unquestionably the best St. Bernard ever brought to the Coast.

The American Field states: "It now remains for Mr. Payne to make the amends honorable." The man that penned that line does not know the "mischief-maker." He is too small a calibre for that. On the contrary he will continue to abuse the man who has humiliated him until he is put under the sod and should he outlive Mortimer he will continue to abuse his memory in the same way.

C. E. Culver, the well-known bloodhound and Great Dane fancier, is having trouble at his kennel in Fruitvale. He has received several anonymous letters threatening him with all sorts of things if he did not move his kennels, and last week some one attempted to set fire to his house. The latest move is the arrest of Mr. Culver for maintaining a nuisance, viz., a kennel. Crowell and Leach are the attorneys for Culver. The case has gone over for two weeks.

The many friends of Miss Della Beach, Secretary of the Collie Club, will learn with regret that her well-known collie bitch Juanita was accidentally poisoned at the Beach Hill Farm last Saturday week. Juanita was one of the best collies in California. She was a prize-winner wherever shown and a good brood bitch. Among her winnings were: 1st, San Jose, 1897; 1st, Stockton, 1837; 1st, Oakland, 1897. and 2d, San Francisco, 1897. She was whelped March 1, 1894, by Gen. Stark—Sunshine.

All this talk about the "freedom of the press" is the merest "rot." The American Kennel Club has no desire to muzzle the press. The Pacific Advisory Board, either as a Board or individually, has no such desire. The press is regulated by the laws of the land, however, and a libel is just as much libel in a four-sheet would be sportsman's paper as in the largest daily in San Francisco. The editor as an editor can say what he pleases within certain limits, but the disappointed exhibitor and the officer of the A. K. C. can be disciplined whether he be an editor or a president. The mischief-maker has given us nothing but assertions, neither in his paper nor at his investigation could he offer one word of proof.

Joseph Moll, Eugene, Cal., and H. M. McCracken of this city, are jointly interested in a collie kennel at the former's ranch in Stanislaus county where the dogs will be raised and trained. These gentlemen evidently mean business as they have started with the right stock. Their stud dog "Santa Claus," is by Rhoderick Dhu out of Lady Bright by Fordhook Bravo out of Aunt Dinah. Rhoderick Dhu by Strathmore Ben, by Champion Dublin Scot. In bitches they have Lura by Captain Clifton out of Roxie by Strathmore Ben out of Princess by Lad out of Kiowilla Queen. Captain Clifton by Hero out of Fannie of Nesseldown by Welles bourne Charlie out of Adila Wonder. Hero by Clifton Hero out of Madge Wildfire. Other good ones will be added to the Kennel as opportunity offers.

The breeders of cocker spaniels will be interested in the following letter by "Uncle Dick," written for the American Field: "Champions come and champions go, and still old Champion Hornell Silk lives and thrives, although they took him off the champion list of the A. K. C. Gazette years ago The report was circulated last spring that Silk was dead, but he only had a scrap and is still boss of the kennel, or rather the house, for he sleeps beside my bed. This wonderful old dog is now as active and playful as a kitten. We celebrated his fifteenth birthday August 6th. Some of the members of the gun club and the Hornell Kennel Club (which still lives, although the A. K. C. thought they had killed it ten years ago) prepared a pleasant surprise on the evening of August 6th. About twenty ladies and gentlemen called at my house and Mrs. Chivers, of the Midvale Kennels, presented Silk with a handsome silver collar, and Mr. Tenney, in behalf of the gun club, presented me with an easy chair—although not yet living on Easy street, I can enjoy a rest in the chair. Champion Hornell was imported in utero and whelped August 6, 1882. He is litter brother to Obo II., and Mr. Pitcher, his breeder, always said that Silk was the best. He won forty two first and special prizes before I retired him. He is the champion field trial spaniel of America by default; he is the sire of 2,376 puppies, with two litters yet to hear from. He is still good for a few hours' work afield. On August 16th I shot a brace of ruffed grouse and a woodcock over him, but he is as deaf as I am, which makes it difficult to keep him under control. He sired the first red cocker (?) in America—that's where the red dachs come in. I never bred a crooked-legged spaniel in my life until I got the Obo blood. If Mr. Laverack's dogs bred back thirty years to the Edmond Castle strain, why could not Mr. Farrow's dogs breep back to a red dachshund that they used for the long and low fad? Shortly after I got Silk I used to find an occasional red or cream-colored puppy in the litters. I said nothing, but dropped the puppy in the tub. I wrote my old pard, George W. Leavitt, about it, and he said 'yaller cur.' I knew it was not a 'happenstance,' so I raised one; entered it at a dog show; the judge said it was the best in the class, but he thought its dam had been chased by an Irish setter, so he gave the puppy third prize. He was asked by several to explain, but he is still mute."

The Tournament.

MONTEREY, September 6, 1897,

EDITOR BREEDER AND SPORTSMAN:—The fifth semi-annual tournament of the California Inanimate Target Association will soon be upon us, one week from this coming Saturday the royal battle for supremacy will commence, lasting for two days to conclude Sunday evening with the association jinks and entertainment under the auspices of the Monterey Wing Shooting Club, on which occasion the presentation of medals and trophies will be made. This will prove the crowning features of the two days' sport and the time will be spent in jollyfication, congratulations, etc., and in commemoration of the events which have just been concluded.

The Secretary of the Association, Mr. Ad Gunzendorfer, has been unceasing in his efforts to thoroughly advertise throughout the State the coming tournament, every organized gun club in the State, not affiliated with Assn., has been notified, urged and asked to join the same thus enabling them to send representation to participate in the coming tournament. Every gun club in the State has been supplied with a liberal share of programmes, and if any have been overlooked it certainly is not the fault of the Secretary, but the fault of the club itself in having kept in obscurity and unknown to the outside world.

Every organized club in California should and ought to become a member of the Association. I say this most emphatically and for many reasons First, it gives a club a standing among the prominent organized gun clubs in the State Second, it throws its members in immediate contact and intercourse with most of the principal sportsmen in the State, and a more liberal, generous and jollier crowd of gentlemanly sportsmen cannot be found Third, any club having the least pretense to enthusiasm should become a member, and if its members are full of life and vim and up to date sportsmen, with the least exertion on their part they can easily secure the co operation of the balance of the clubs in the Association and secure the holding of one of these popular tournaments to be held in their respective places. There is reason to believe that the coming tournament will be one of the best ever held in the State. The attendance of shooters no doubt will be large, as most, if not all the clubs represented in the Association will send strong representations.

The events will take place at the shooting grounds of the Monterey Wing Shooting Club, and "Papa Carr," Chairman of the Tournament Committee, in putting forward his best efforts in beautifying the grounds, arranging the seating capacity for the reception of visiting sportsmen, in fact, attending to every detail that will conduce to the pleasure of all attendants and participants. The visitors will find no cause to regret their visit among us. All attention will be shown them by the able and gentlemanly assistants, whose duty will be to attend to their comfort and pleasure, and once more Monterey is eager and anxious to shower her hospitality to her visiting sportsmen and their friends.

The California Wing Club.

The last shoot of the season of the California Wing Shooting Club was held at Ingleside last Sunday. C. A. Haight won the first medal with a score of 81 out of a possible 84. M. O. Fuedner second with 79 and L. D. Owens third with 75. The medals were of very pretty design. Several pools followed the main event, 49 dozen birds were shot at during the day.

The scores in the main event were:

C. A. Haight	12	H. Vernon	10
C Robinson	12	F. Feuliner	10
C. Fishbeck	12	"Slade"	9
C. C. Naumau	12	I. R D Grubb	9

A Great Hunting Outfit.

The Khan of Tartary hath two barons who are own brothers, one named Baian, and the other Mingan; and these are styled Chinuchi (or Cunichi), which is as much as to say: "The Keepers of the Mastiff Dogs." Each of these brothers hath 10,000 men under his orders; each body of 10,000 being dressed alike, the one in red and the other in blue, and whenever they accompany the khan to the chase, they wear their livery, in order to be recognized. Out of each body of 10,000 there are 2 000 men who are each in charge of one or more great mastiffs, so that the whole number of these is very large. And when the prince goes a hunting one of those barons, with his 10 000 men and something like 5,000 dogs, goes towards the right, whilst the other goes towards the left with his party in like manner. They move along all abreast of one another, as that the whole line extends over a full day's journey, and no animal can escape them. Truly it is a glorious sight to see the working of the dogs and the huntsmen on such an occasion! And as the khan rides a-fowling across the plains you can see these big hounds coming tearing up, one pack after a bear, another pack after a stag, or same other beast, as it may hap, and running the game down, now on one side, now on that, so that it is really a most delightful sport and spectacle.

The two brothers I have mentioned, writes Noah Brooks in St. Nicholas, are bound by the tenure of their office to supply the khan court from October to the end of March with 1,000 head of game daily, whether of beasts or birds, and not counting quail; and also with fish to the best of their ability, allowing fish enough for three persons to reckon as equal to one head of game.

The Right Man.

Harry Hatch, our recently appointed Game Warden upset the idea that no game warden can do business in this county by pitching right into the law-breakers. He passed through here recently on his way to Pescadero, and yesterday we received word that on nearing Pescadero he met Bill Caldwell, who had just a moment before shot into a band of young unfeathered quail, killing a number of them. Hatch walked up to him and asked him what he was shooting. "Quail," answered Caldwell. Our warden took him into custody and brought him before the Justice at Pescadero, who promptly fined Caldwell $20. We congratulate both Hatch and the Judge and hope they will keep up the good work. This conviction and fine put a quietus to others who were arranging a deer hunt with hounds near the same place. Al. Hunt had a couple of friends out from Santa Cruz to join him in a deer hunt with a pack of hounds. Hatch heard of it and notified them that if they dared to break the law he would jug the whole crowd. The friends returned to Santa Cruz without the venison. Keep up your good work, Harry, and then the people will uphold you. We need about fifty more like you through the state, and then we would have more game and less law-breaking hogs.—Coast Advocate, San Mateo County.

A Fatal Collision in the Air.

TONASKET, Okanogan county, Wash.—In a recent issue, Point criticises the statement of Shadow in regard to the grouse going 40 yds after it was dead. Well, it is quite a way, but grouse fly very fast, as I once had an occasion of observing. One fall I took my gun and dog, and went out one evening to try and kill some grouse, not so much for sport as for the meat. I went into some stubble, and soon flushed quite a large flock that flew out toward the prairie, and intending to mark them down, I kept my eyes on them. Soon I saw another flock coming from the south. It so happened that they crossed a given point at the same time Two of them collided. I plainly heard the collision, and I saw one of the birds fall; it seemed to me that it came straight down. The other went a short distance. I went out to where they fell, and soon the dog found them. The one that fell straight down was badly bruised, its wing, ribs and leg were broken, and the liver and heart was all bruised. The one that had struck was badly bruised about the breast, and its vitals were all bloodshot; both were dead. I have often seen dead birds under the telegraph wire, but these were the only ones I ever saw hit each other with any force.—Lew Wilmot in Forest and Stream.

Visalia News.

EDITOR BREEDER AND SPORTSMAN:—E. McVeagh and party start on a two-weeks' deer hunting trip Monday, the 16th. Ed has promised a good deal of venison to his friends, and as he is a corker hunting deer he will supply their wants.

The old veteran, Jack Shiell, just returned from a hunting and fishing trip on the head of King river. Jack killed a fine three-prong buck with his shotgun and caught fish by the hundreds.

The Bakersfield Gun Club will give a big shoot on September 26 and 27th, the first day at live pigeons, second day at bluerocks. This will be a good shoot as the Bakersfield boys are thorough sportsmen and good entertainers.

The much talked of match between St. John and Armitage of Fresno on one side and Hyde and Redlar of Merced on the other will come off at the same time at Bakersfield, 25 live pigeons each, $100 a side. "E."

Golden Gate Gun Club.

The final shoot of the season of the Golden Gate Gun Club was held last Sunday at the Pacific Tournament Association grounds at Alameda Junction. The main match was at 20 bluerocks. G. T. Curlew and plover are very plentiful on the bay marshes now.

The Red Bluff Gun Club held a tournament on Admission Day.

Are you going to use Dupont or Gold Dust at the tournament?

The Empire Gun Club will shoot at Alameda Point to-morrow.

We never heard of a more popular win than that of Haight's last Sunday.

W. Howard, of Stonyford, killed a fine six-point buck on the 30th near that berg.

A live beaver caught in the river bottom below Yuba City was on exhibition in that town last week.

Don't forget the tournament of the California Inanimate Target Association at Monterey on the 18th and 19th.

F. E. Rodgers killed the largest buck of the season for the Nicasio section one day last week. It was a four pointer.

The final bluerock shoot of the season of the Olympic Gun Club will take place at the club's grounds at Ingleside to-morrow.

David Hoye and Joseph Hafuce, of Benicia, are engaged in building a new hunting scow that is expected to excel the "Crystal Palace."

The Los Angeles Gun Club team at the tournament at Monterey will be Mason, Leighton, Chick, Ralphs, Van Valkenberg and Fishback, the same as last year.

The open season for killing deer in San Mateo county closed September 1st. This ordinance was passed July 10, 1893, and is still in force—so says the District Attorney.

The work of pumping the water into the ponds of the Recreation Gun Club's preserve on the Bellona marsh near Santa Monaca has commenced. The ducks will suffer this winter.

J. A. R. Elliott defeated Chas. W. Budd in a 100-bird match on Aug. 28th, at Eau Clare, Wis. At the end of the first half each man had killed 49 out of 50. The score was 99 to 94

F. F. Watkins killed two deer, Z. Le Fevre one and Todd Tisdale of San Jose shot fifteen times at another during a three weeks' hunting trip in the San Antonio valley that terminated last week.

The season for killing Mongolian pheasants has commenced in Oregon, and some splendid average bags have been made. The law prohibits any one man from killing more than 20 in a day.

Walter G. Manuel, John F. Towle, Dr. C. S. Weston, B. P. Palmer and Frank Blethen of Oakland killed nineteen deer during their outing in the Hammerhorn mountain country, Trinity county.

Game Warden Caplatzi of Santa Cruz county arrested Joe Bancom, at Soquel, last week for shooting spotted fawn. Outside of the fact that it is against the law, a man that will shoot a little innocent fawn will do almost anything.

A hunting party composed of Carl Dresel, John Frideger, Jas Pieratt, Thos. Mann and J. F. Kerridge, who went into camp near the Goethe place, Sonoma county, on Saturday week, killed four deer the first three days they went out.

Chas. A. Stowe, E. Mouso, Lee Villingea and Geo. Grupe returned last Saturday from a three weeks' outing in the vicinity of Eagle creek, about 130 miles from Stockton, up in the Sierras. They killed three deer and a cinnamon bear.

On Sunday last a fine buck was shot in the mountains about five miles west of Sonoma, near the head waters of the Fowler Creek by a party of five hunters composed of R. J. Corbet, Billy Meyers, Sol. Carriger, Fred Carriger and Wm. Fowler.

The killing of young "flappers" continues in Yolo, Sutter and Solano counties, and the citizens of Sacramento county are congratulating themselves on having elected an efficient game warden. The arrests made by Warden Helms have had a salutary effect. The young ducks are shipped to San Francisco from Solano county as eggs.

John Frideger kiled a four-pronged buck in the mountains north of Glen Ellen, on Saturday week, which weighed, when dressed, 105 pounds. So far this season John and his brothers Dan and Jacob have killed four deer in the vicinity of the Frideger ranch.

The Olympic Gun Club has secured a duck preserve on Petaluma creek, north of the Mira Monte preserve, extending from Petaluma bridge to Lakeville. Improvements will be made at once and the final live bird shoot of the season will probably be held on the preserve.

C. A. Haight, the popular agent of the Dupont Powder Co., will soon be numbered among our coast champions if he continues to improve in his shooting. Last Sunday he won the first-class medal for the season of the California Wing Shooting Club. When a man beats Otto Feudner in the season' average he has got to shoot some.

The semi-monthly club shoot of the Stockton Gun Club at twenty blue rocks to the man was held Sunday afternoon, August 29th, the following scores being made: Brown, 16; G. Ditz, 15; Rex, 15; Ralph, 15; Musto, 15; Pettersen, 14; W. Ditz, 14; Condy, 12; Jessen, 12; Clausen, 11; Loners, 11; C. Jones, 10; Keys, 9, Boven, 9.

For the past five years a large buck has had undisputed sway over the hills of the Coast Range which overlook this valley. Sportsmen galore have tried in vain to bring this antlered monarch down. Dogs have worked themselves to skin and bone and have exhausted all the bark in their throats in the fruitless endeavor to bring the huge buck to bay. But greatness has at last had a fall. The king of the deer is dead. On Saturday week he encountered a bullet fired from the trusty rifle of H. F. Plummer and at once gave up the ghost. The shooting occurred at Murphy's Peak, and Plummer's companions were Tom O'Toole, night watchman at the Court House, and Thomas Bodley, the well known attorney and ex-City Clerk. When dressed the buck weighed 150 pounds.—San Jose Herald.

NOTICE TO ANGLERS.

Every angler is invited to drop us a line occasionally, telling us of the condition of the streams they have visited and the killing lure; of the number and size of the fish caught, or any other item of interest to anglers.

A Fish Story.

Three fishermen sailed out into the North,
Out into the North ere the sun was high,
And they chuckled with glee as they voyaged forth,
Resolved to capture the bass or die,
For men will fish and men will lie
About bass and trout they've caught on the fly,
Their Sunday-school lessons scorning.

Three fishers lay under the tree at noon,
And blamed and "blasted" the finny race;
For never a nibble touched fly or spoon,
And each sighed as he wet the hole in his face—
For men will fish and men will lie
And the way they caught fish when no one was nigh
Is something to tell in the morning.

Three fishermen came into town at night,
And their strings of fish were fair to see,
They talk of their sports with keen delight,
The envy of all the fraternity.
But men will fish and men will lie,
And what they can't catch they're sure to buy,
And never repent in the morning.
—Calumet in Sportsmen's Review.

There is a certain Pasadenian who is a good deal better physician than he is a fisherman. But he likes the fun, all the same, and is blissfully ignorant of the fact that he can't fish any more than a fish can climb a tree. So when he goes over to the island he gets Jim Gardner to row him around, while he drops a bait overboard and meditates. The last time, however, he came near catching one in spite of himself. A big one took his bait and had lots of fun with it. He cavorted all over the sea, and frequently appropriated the atmosphere, also, by vigorous jumping into the air. In one of these flights—perhaps a hundred feet away—the doctor caught sight of him and was appalled. Visions of possible disaster overwhelmed him. "Jim! Jim!" he cried "see that whale! Get out of here, quick!" "Whale, nuthen," said the disgusted Jim—"that your fish, why don't you pull him?" "Holy smoke!" said the doctor. "Is it possible that that fish is on my line?" "Even so," said the truthful James—for none of the tribes of Gardner could lie if they tried to—"and if you want him you better"—"Want him! Not much," said the gallant fisherman, I come out to fish, not to be swallowed. Cut the line, quick, and pull out." And it was done, even as he said. The line was cut, the fish given a clear title to it, and the doctor escaped without Jonah's experience, and the full conviction that he had had a good time.—Pasadena Star.

The latest fish tale comes from France and has a police court conviction to vouch for its truth. One Thauriez has been convicted for poaching, and that, too, during the close season. His method was curious. He used to rub his legs with some peculiar kind of paste, then get into the water and stand still. The fish were attracted by the paste and nibbled it off his legs. No sooner had they eaten it than they went into a species of swoon, and Thauriez collected without any difficulty the finest amongst them, leaving the others to recover with, no doubt, a bad headache.

The upper Carmel continues to provide excellent trout fishing. The participants in the Inanimate Target Tournament that are also anglers should make arrangements for a few days' sport with the rod while at Monterey. The bay teems with pompano, sea bass, yellow tail, barracuda, rock cod and surf fish, and the Carmel and its tributaries are well stocked with trout.

Pompano were in Monterey bay last week in schools and the fishermen made rich hauls. About six hundred pounds were taken, and at that the market price of fifty cents per pound, it was a good day's sport. The pompano is unquestionably the finest eating fish in the world and are usually anything but plentiful.

The San Francisco Fly Casting Club will cast its last regular club contests of the season of 1897 at Stow Lake this afternoon and to-morrow morning. The regular semi-monthly meeting will be held on Tuesday evening next.

Miss Emma Libby caught 81 trout in Lake Crescent, south of Port Angeles, with a seven-ounce rod and local tied flies. The trout weighed 243 pounds.

Fishing at Tiburon bay, Sausalito, Lime Point and all of the fishing grounds near the Golden Gate is prime now. Rock cod and smelt.

A. M. Coburn and L. L. Cherboum, two wind-mill owners of Bear creek, Tule river, are under arrest for dumping sawdust in Bear creek.

The game warden of Santa Clara county is doing good work in stocking the streams of that county with rainbow and cutthroat trout.

The State Fish Commission are planting 75,000 trout in Big Meadow and Butte creek from Chico to Sutton House.

R. W. Requa planted 40,000 Lake Tahoe trout in Stony creek, Colusa county, last week.

Trout fishing at Boca, on the Truckee, is a flat failure at present writing.

Fresno Findings.

Fresno, Cal., September 6, 1897.

I write you a few lines to let you know how things are progressing at the Fair Grounds here. There are at present about thirty head in training here. The largest number are in the string of Dan McCarty. He has Bernardo (who is looking fairly well), Talbot Clifton, The Lark, Guadaloupe, a colt by King Thomas, who is promising, and a gray gelding named Tucollote, by Lightfoot, pretty good up to about five-eighths of a mile. He hat worked a half in an encouraging manner with 120 pounds up.

L. Rockman, the genial Secretary of the Fresno Jockey Club, has three in training, viz., Captain Coster (who looks better than I have ever seen him), Pleasanton, a three-year-old maiden by imy. Cyrus, dam Riglin), who is one of the most promising colts hereabouts. He has been worked up to a mile with 130 pounds up. This horse is entered through the Southern circuit in the Los Angeles Derby, and should not be last in the race. Rockman has also a brown gelding that can step a half at a fair clip. All of these horses will start at Los Angeles, Fresno, Santa Ana and at "the Bay" this fall. Jack Wilkins ("Capt. Jack") is training this string.

Chas. Goodwin has a string of five, including Gold Dust and others.

J. R. Albertson is handling about six trotters, including Homeward, 2:13; Bolinas, 2:16, and a very promising colt by Dexter Prince.

Allen & Kennedy have Sontag, Myrtle H., Bordeaux and another green horse.

Dan McCarty is working Senator L. (world's record 10:12 for four miles); Baby Meade, a green pacer that worked a mile nicely, and is also having handled about sixty head of trotting-bred colts sired by Dexter Prince, Cupid, Strathway, Dorsey's Nephew, Sidney and others, and they are a very fine lot. He expects to hold an auction sale in Los Angeles of about fifty head some time in the near future.

I suppose you saw the race that Joe Wheeler paced at Woodland. That horse can beat any pacer we ever had down this way. He worked better than 2:14 over this track, and it is three or four seconds slow, as there had not been much done with it at that time. "Sport."

Marcus Daly's Plans.

New York, September 7.—It seems certain that Marcus Daly will withdraw from the Eastern turf. When seen this afternoon in the office of the Anaconda Copper Mining Company he said:

"I ordered all my horses, mares, colts, fillies and yearlings to be sent to Montana on September 1st in care of Matt Byrnes, who has been my trainer since I started racing. These horses will be all winter at Bitter Root Stock Farm, near Anaconda, and next spring a large lot of them will be sold in San Francisco.

"My immediate reasons for withdrawing from the Eastern turf are that there is not a horse in my stable that can win a high-class race, and there is no prospect that any horses that I now own will prove winners of stake events for which they are nominated.

"For several years past I have expected and hoped that circumstances would allow me to spend the racing season in the East. So far I have been unable to do so. The pressure of business does not lessen, hence I cannot continue the hope of seeing my horses work and run. There is not much sport in reading about the doings of one's horses. If I could watch them in their preparations and then see them struggle to win I should feel less dissatisfied. A racing stable in the East is expensive. To run for big stakes means keeping a large number of horses in training. So far, it has cost me about $500,000 for the experiment and I have come to the conclusion that taking all things into consideration, the game is not worth the candle.

"The racing in Montana is a very jolly affair. The circuit lasts sixty days. I shall keep a small stable to compete in these events. The cost of such a stable is a mere trifle, as the horses are on my own ranch eleven months in the year. At present my trotting stud is comparatively small. It will be maintained at about the same standing.

"I shall continue my breeding farm in Montana, but shall reduce the number of foals next year as compared with those of previous years. Should I ever succeed in getting together a good stable of young or advanced horses I shall come East once more and try my luck, if not in winning important stakes, at any rate in capturing some good purses and handicaps."

SPECIAL DEPARTMENT

EDITED AND CONDUCTED SOLELY BY

JOSEPH CAIRN SIMPSON.

CALIFORNIA JOCKEY CLUB.—Those who attended the races at Emeryville expressed unqualified surprise at the work done in so short a period. Even residents of the neighborhood, who had watched the progress from day to day, were astonished by the change from apparent crudeness, almost chaos, to so perfect a race course as was presented on opening day. The amount of work done during the months of summer was startling, and when huge mounds of earth had been raised, and on these stands, saddling paddocks, offices, stables, all the equipments of a modern race course, constructed, a greater wonder the transformation of the unsightly piles into things of beauty. How shrubbery, flowers, verdant lawns of large extent, even the slopes of the high embankment covered with a thick green carpet, can be produced in so few weeks is a puzzle to people who are not familiar with the work of the landscape artist in California.

From the day of the closing of the Spring meeting the work of ornamentation has been steadily pursued, Not hundreds of laborers as were employed when the rush was on to be in readiness for the inauguration of the enterprise, but sufficient force to add to the loveliness of the place. New lawns made, the others perfected. Between the Burns & Waterhouse stables, or rather in place of the homely name a mansion for the blue bloods which are domiciled therein, the space has beeen plowed, watered, grass seeds sown, and the labor it took to handle the stiff adobe soil, broken up into huge masses by the plow that required eight horses to force it through the indurated mass, the big blocks, disentegrated by heavy beetles and further comminuted by sprays of water and garden rakes. When fairly completed the race course and grounds of the California Jockey Club will present the appearance of a park of more than ordinary beauty, everything being subordinated to what may be termed harmony, nothing to mar the symmetry of the whole. Whatever the intended purpose, however unimportant the place it is made to fill everything in accordance with cultivated taste,

In process of erection a stand for trainers, immediately north of the saddling paddock and above the stables for the work horses. This does not interfere with the lawn between the saddling paddock and track, and there could not be chosen a better location for the occupants to watch every yard of the race.

A space on the eastern side of the south gate was filled with sheds, in which those who drove to the course could leave their horses, and now these have been doubled by utilizing hitherto unoccupied ground to the west of the gate. Heavy cornices, in keeping with the architecture of the entrance way, adorn these sheds, and, in place of detracting from the beauty of the surroundings, enhance it, so thoroughly appropriate as to please the most fastidious observer.

While the C. J. C. has given the east side of the bay a race course and adjuncts that will compare favorably, in many respects excel those on the other side of the continent, this is not all that has been done for the good of horsefolk and the pleasure of people who attend the races. While it was to the interest of the club to do all in its power to make racing as popular as fine grounds and good management could accomplish, it has gone further and extended a "helping hand" to harness racing. More than a helping hand, did all in its power to promote what some consider rival interests, gave "aid and comfort" when that meant the savior of that branch of sport. Both California jockey clubs have shown a disposition to help harness horse interests, both well worthy of the plaudits and gratitude of all connected with trotters and pacers, through the kindness of the C. J. C. has been of greater benefit, though causes not necessary to mention in this article.

Policy, some may say, a desire to conciliate in place of antagonizing those who might be in a position to retaliate in the future. A broad and commendable policy then, one that would rather ask a return for good rendered than to force submission, or ignore a force weak, perhaps, at one time, potent at others. A policy dictated by kindly feelings, a disposition to assist when assistance was needed, warm-heartedness in place of blood only far enough heated above the freezing point to give it fluidity, a liberal spirit in lieu of a narrow mind.

Were the same kindliness exhibited by a person, "wholesouled" would be the adjective employed to designate his qualities, and plenty more of them coupled with that to express appreciation. When "soulless incorporations" exhibit like characteristics, equally as well entitled to the same warm encomiums. Whether club or the first officer of the club be the moving spirit in these friendly acts, both should receive earnest thanks, and whenever a chance to reciprocate it should be done with fervor and zeal.

The large capital invested in the two courses, Ingleside and Emeryville, demands protection, and when that is coupled with good deeds and kindly feelings for the other branch of horse sports, "the track" upheld as well as "the turf," not a person who is any way connected with either should hesitate to do all in their power to forward the interests of the C. J. C. and the P. C. J. C. Not only the foremost winter racing country in the world through the construction of these magnificent racecourses, but owing to their willingness to give up all the intervening time from May till November, and the use of their tracks for harness racing, whenever California is again placed on a good financial basis trotters and pacers will have a prosperous inning.

Should the report that harness-racing will be refused a place in the Montana programmes of next year prove true, it does seem that four meetings of a week or ten days each could be given here with good results. Two, say, in June and two in July, and thus save the big expense of moving every week until the commencement of the regular circuit.

As has been shown at the meetings that came off before the one at Woodland, there was no lack of horses, the opening of the circuit at Oakland being characterized by large fields, and when there is nothing to induce people to make the trip to the mountains and opportunities enough at home, there certainly should be no lack of participants in all the classes.

There is also the hope that the betting rooms at Sausalito will be interdicted before another season, and that will prove a great thing for summer harness racing. Not only adding to the attendance, but also swell the returns outside of the gate receipts.

That owners and trainers will welcome a chance to win some money without incurring the expense and trouble of removals for the months mentioned is beyond reasonable question.

* * *

NOT UNREASONABLE to ascribe a due share of the credit of punishing such big guns of the track as Geers and Starr by a fine of $100 each for laying up a heat to the editorial in the American Horse Breeder which I transferred to the Special Department last week. Admitting that the judges might have inflicted the penalty for breaking the law, from the account of the 2:08 class pacing at Readville, Mass., in The Horseman, the chances were against the enforcement, as both of the guilty drivers had done the same trick in the first heat of the race. Monday, Aug. 23d was the date of the opening heat of the 2:08 pace, and the report in The Horseman contains the following sentences:

"And so they staggered home in 2:07¼, both dead tired. Had either Geers or Starr anticipated that kind of a finish either could have taken the heat, but they were both back of Sphinxetta." Planet (Starr) 4, Heir-at-Law 5 (Geers). The second heat was won by Planet in 2:04¾, Heir-at-Law second; the third heat won by Heir-at-Law in 2:07¾. Planet so good a second that many thought he was first by a head.

Bumps won the first heat, Guinette second, and Guinette won the fourth heat in 2:07¼, Heir-at-Law second, Planet third. The race was postponed on account of darkness and "a steady rain Tuesday morning and a portion of the afternoon made it necessary to put the Tuesday program over to Wednesday." So recorded in The Horseman, and continuing the quotations: "The first heat of the day and the fifth of the contest was an exact duplicate of the first heat of the race up to a hundred yards of the wire. Bumps and Guinette renewed their desperate battle and Planet and Heir-at-Law allowed them to do it, neither Starr or Geers making an apparent effort to win. * * * Geers and Starr were at once sent for by the the judges and each fined $100 for not driving for the heat, and all bets on the heat were declared off. The announcement was received with applause."

And with this history for a guide I have better understanding of the editorial copied. The American Horse Breeder is published on Tuesday, and hence on Wednesday the judges profited by the advice.

"We feel compelled to call attention to this rule (28, quoted in a preceding paragraph), for recently there have been some flagrant violations of it. It is generally agreed that laying up heats is a pernicious practice, unfair to those who are trying to win; in short, harmful and blighting to the sport. No matter who the offender may be, he should be properly and summarily dealt with, all the more reason why he should be made an example, for his influence is the more potent for the uplifting or degradation of the sport."

This emphatic charge, it is likely, influenced the judges, who may have erred through ignorance of the law, and when there was an attempt to repeat the crime ot Monday the violators were made to suffer. As I have frequently stated, if the papers "devoted to the horse," especially those which are supporters of the harness horse mainly, would follow the course of the Boston journal the "pernicious practice" would soon be a "thing of the past," at least "flagrant violations of Rule 28" be unknown.

The reporter of another paper takes the ridiculous position that as Planet and Heir-at-Law did not beat Guinette in the sixth heat the fines and declaring off of bets in the fifth heat were wrong.

The laying up is not denied and the rule states: "Every heat in a race must be contested by every horse in the race; an honest endeavor on the part of every driver to win," and when that mandate is wilfully disobeyed judges who are honest in their endeavors to carry out the law must inflict the penalty.

If even the sixth heat was fairly won by Guinette, who can say with any degree of authority that he could have won the fifth? At all events, there was a race of six heats when the winners of the second and third heats were laid up two heats, the laying up being admitted, and the race was lost. Had Geers and Starr honestly endeavored to win every heat the result might have been different. Quien sabe?

NEAR INFUSIONS ONCE MORE.—The latest excitement of the circuit, or rather the king-pin, in the estimation of a great many people, at the close of the Woodland meeting, was Joe Wheeler.

Taking the official figures as data, he has shown a greater flight of speed, for the last quarter of a mile in a fast heat, than any other horse, mare or gelding has heretofore displayed. The mile was made in 2.09½, the first half in 1:07½, three quarters in 1:41, the last 440 yards in 28½ seconds.

Joe Wheeler, by Sidney Arnett, and the dam of S. A. by Ben Butler, by Hardwood, and the grandam Mary Wade by Woodburn, the dam of Mary Wade, Viola, by imp. Knight of St. George, and the next dam Lucy Wade, by Lexington. Hardwood, by Woodburn, his dam Moss Rose, by imp. Knight of St. George; Woodburn, by Lexington, from a mare by imp. Glencoe, Heads-I-Say, and the next dam imp. Heads-or-Tails.

Then the dam of Joe Wheeler was a daughter of Grand Moor, by The Moor, his dam Vashti, by Mambrino Patchen, and several more Mambrino and Messenger crops back of that. As the dam of Mambrino Patchen was by Gano, American Eclipse and another Messenger strain are added.

The grandsire of Joe Wheeler, Sidney, obtained his record at the lateral gait, and many of his get distinguished pacers, but it will not be fair to credit him with all the pacing instinct of his grandson. The dam of Ben Butler, Mary Wade, is the grandam of Santa Cruz, and a filly from Santa Cruz, and by Whips, showed a natural tendency to pace, and also gave indications that practice at the gait would result in speed.

But the capacity to make the last quarter in 28½ seconds, after three-quarters in 1:41, is more likely to be an inheriance from the high-bred side of the house; and the three crosses of Lexington, two of imported Glencoe, two of imported Knight of St. George and ever so many of Mambrino and imported Messenger, the foundation of a rate that gives promise of another inside-of-two-minutes pacer. As the form of Joe Wheeler is in keeping with the thoroughbred side, the inference that that is the most potent factor in his make-up is sustained by sound logic.

PALO ALTO—Not much time, when the hours are restricted to the arrival of the 9 A. M. and the departure of the 3.12 P. M., to see the horses on both divisions of the great Palo Alto rancho. Even as cursory an examination as can be made in that brief period convinces one that though there as been a cutting down of the stock and restriction in the training operations, there is no falling off in the quality and in numbers sufficient to awaken surprise that so many hundreds are yet in fields, paddocks and stables.

The horses in both departments looking remarkably well. Stallions, mares and youngsters in fine condition, the thoroughbred yearlings which will be sold at auction in November a remarkably "even lot," good size and form which can be called a racing cut. Near kin to celebrities of the racecourse, well grown and of the right proportion singular indeed if a good share of them are not of a high class.

The trotting department, notwithstanding the absence of so many taking part in the circuit, presents such a number of "natural trotters," colts, only taken up a few weeks ago, and yet gifted with a turn of speed that would be creditable to those of long training.

Quite a number of the colts that will be sent to the Cleveland sale are by Dexter Prince, and while it was resonable to expect something very good from the dams, sanguine anticipations fall short of the reality. So much impressed with the appearance of these colts, and the reports of the trainer, Howser, who is not prone to exaggerate, I will make another trip and so timed that one whole day will give the opportunity of witnessing the morning work.

A GOOD TRACK—Quite within bounds to assert that the C. J. C. track will be in the best possible condition for the next meeting of the P. C. T. H. B. A.

In order to overcome the deep harrowing through the many months when it was kept exclusively for galloping, a great deal of water was applied, and that gave a firm substratum, and now with comparatively little watering the harrow puts it into capital condition.

Superintendent Fieldwick had it in admirable shape for the Golden Gate Club Thursday, and that with only a small proportion of the work done each day of the Breeders meeting. From driving on the track during and since the summer meeting, I have no hesitation in predicting that it will be "eminently satisfactory" to owners and trainers.

ALL KNOW that there is neither honesty nor fairness in the tactics pursued by Geers and Star in the 2:08 pacing race at Readville, Massachusetts. Bumps and Guinette striving to the utmost of their capacity, "staggering home" at the finish after the hard contest, while Planet and Heir-at-Law were taking it easily. Not quite so easily, however, as Fantasy, under Geers' handling, when she beat Directum at Minneapolis, and yet of the same stamp.

More flagrant, perhaps, as distance was waived, and in the second heat, which Directum won in 2:12½, Fantasy, "separately timed," was not far from 2:40 in making the mile. That was in 1895, when the present rule was not in the code, though the old law had to be ignored to favor the parties who were making such a farcical exihibition, if robbery can be termed a "roaring farce."

California's 2:30 List.

Following is a list of all 2:30 performers which trace to sires that were bred or owned in California as well as those that have won heats this year throughout the United States. The Use and Abuse of the Whip

Percy Taylor makes the following sensible comments in the Chicago Inter Ocean on the use of a whip by jockeys, and as he is a practical horseman as well as a clever writer, is entitled to more than the usual amount of attention: It is the too early and too frequest use of the whip here that causes so much swerving and so much interference. When an experienced English jockey feels his mount weakening under him a quarter of a mile from home he does not resort to the whip as a stimulant, but adopts the more sensible method of steadying and nursing his horse, thus reserving his failing powers for a last effort, should those in front crack or come back, failing which he never uses whip or spur.

The jockeys on Forbush and Presbyterian on Saturday drew their whips more than an eighth from home; the boy on Algareta, though in the rear, sat still—and Algareta won.

The judges here should certainly do all they can to lessen the indiscriminate and unnecessary use of the whip, though, of course, the surroundings are different. In England a jockey's profession is so lucrative, and so lasting, that even were he inclined to be dishonest sufficient temptation could hardly be offered him. Here a boy's career, owing to the weights in vogue, is so ephemeral that it is small wonder a paltry bribe will tempt some of the best of them. For as a jockey gains age and experience, rapidly increasing weight warns him to make hay while the sun shines.

By frequently calling up a boy after a race and reprimanding him for what they term a weak ride the judges themselves are mainly responsible for this excessive use of the whip. The English stewards are exactly the opposite. A really weak ride would call down severe penalties on the head of the offender if subsequent investigation justified them, but unnecessary use of the whip would there cause summary punishment.

Both Fordham and Archer, the two most successful jockeys of the century, snatched many a race out of the fire by pretending to go to the whip, without really touching their mount, by this means rattling the less experienced rider on the horse they saw would beat them, and inducing him also to draw his whip, thus giving them sufficient advantage to win by a narrow margin. With a few skillful cuts under the flank an experienced jockey can stop any animal, especially a mare, more effectually than with the severest bit in existence. Little Clay is well aware of this, and many a time he has fooled the judges by turning his head loose and savagely using his whip, being afterwards commended for a vigorous ride, when in reality he should have been set down.

Horse Colic.

The "American Farmer's" horse book classifies colic in its two stages as cramp colic and wind colic, the latter often being an outgrowth of the former, by the evolution of gases from the undigested food. To relieve the cramps is the only object sought in the treatment of the former. The medicine combines an anti-spasmodic drug with a laxative. The two following formulas are given. Either may be used in one dose, and the dose repeated in half an hour, if thought necessary: First, tincture of opium, one ounce; sulphuric ether one ounce; water or oil, one pint. After recovery these should be followed by a purgative pill, made thus: Powdered aloes, one-half ounce; calomel, one drachm; vaseline, lard or water sufficient to mix.

Overloading the stomach with coarse or otherwise unsuitable food is quite liable to result in wind colic. The horse's proportion to fodder is required by the cow, and its ed fe should be accordingly concentrated; much more grain in stomach is small compared with that of one than the other. Another source of colic is giving a horse freely of water just after eating grain, by which much of the feed is washed out of the stomach in an undigested state and ferments in the intestines. The treatment for wind colic, in addition to relieving the spasm, neutralizes the gases. Two formulas are also given in this case, to be repeated, as before, when necessary, each constituting one dose.

First, one ounce each of tincture of opium and oil of turpentine; linseed oil, one pint; mix. Second, extract of belladonna, one drachm; aromatic spirits of ammonia, one ounce; linseed oil, one pint. Using a funnel and hose, the bowels should be washed out by an injection of warm soapsuds. Hot applications to the belly of flannel, rubbing with mustard and water or turpentine may prove beneficial. Three to five grains of sulphate of morphia injected with a syringe beneath the loose skin of the neck brings relief. Worms may cause colic, if there is reasons to believe that a horse is affected with worms, and it should be immediately treated for their destruction. Careful preventive measures and prompt applications of effective remedies are the most that can be done for animals subject to colic. It would seem that constitutionally the parts affected are so sensitive as to respond painfully to the slightest unusual friction brought to bear upon them.

Dear Sir—I have thus far found your ABSORBINE worthy of the high reputation to which it has attained, and for many cases of soreness after a hard day's work wind-galls, strains and sore back, I am without knowledge of a more effective cure, the horsemen of whom I know are equally pleased with the many results. Believe me, dear sir,

Yours very truly,

Jno. Mathews.

Cracked heels, hopple chafes, cuts and wounds of all kinds are of very short duration when "De Huy's Balmoline" is properly applied. I have given it a thorough trial and know whereof I speak.

THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 9.

It was easy to perceive that this was a holiday, for all the principal business houses were closed, and hundreds of carriages and light vehicles filled with ladies and their escorts were seen moving toward Agricultural Park. By the time the first race was called the long grand stand and the betting ring were crowded. The directors of this society had no reason to complain of the attendance nor of the percentage they received from the auction pool-sellers, Messrs. Leach & Co., who did a larger business,even with eight bookmakers in opposition, than was accomplished under similar circumstances on any other day during the meetings in the past few years. The local band played the latest and most popular airs, and proved to be superior to any like organization engaged by this society.

The eight bookmakers did a land office business, and "touts," loaded with "tips," mingled in the crowds and acted as if their existence until next November (when the races "at the bay" commence) depended upon their exertions. These parasites are a nuisance and should be suppressed, for life in the paddock is unbearable where they are. The books offered the usual "air-tight, copper-lined odds," and those who bought auction pools felt that they had the best of the game, for if they won they received considerably more money proportionately for their investment than if they "hit the bookies."

The races were splendidly contested, the starts good, and not a suspicion on the part of the jockeys was aroused. A. B. Spreckels, one of the finest men that ever owned a thoroughbred, was successful in having three horses win money in Marcel, who finished first, Olive and Torsion second in two other events, "Ab" Stemler, as usual, having a good winner. Chas. Kerr of Bakersfield has a clinking good one in Castake.

The judges were Director J. W. Wilson, presiding, and Directors Chase and Boggs assisting. Richard Havey did the starting, and Directors de Long and Fox and Harry Agnew acted as timers.

The principal event was the opening scramble, a sweepstake worth $640, for two-year-old maidens. Hot tips were out on Pongo and El Puerto. both El Rio Rey colts, the latter being backed down from 15 to 5 to 1. Neither was in the hunt, the winner turning up in Castake, who beat Don Luis, another long shot, by a head. Morinel was third, a nose in front of El Moro. Roxey Murphy was in front in the stretch, but retired when the pinch came in the final furlong.

Just the same sort of hair raising finish was furnished in the last event, for which Little Cripple was a favorite, being backed down from 2 to 1 to 8 to 5. At post time Marcel was strongly supported, and she landed the coin in a hot drive by a head from Thelma, who was leading at the drawgate. Little Cripple came with a rush at the end and finished at Thelma's throatlatch. Rapido and Hazard made the running into the stretch, Marcel being back in the bunch.

The good thing in the first six-furlong dash was Roadwarmer. He opened at 5 and closed at three under the pressure of money, and jumping out in front he was never headed. Salisbury was the favorite at 9 to 10, but the pace was too dizzy for him, and fourth was the best that he could do.

The handicap at six furlongs proved another surprise. Notwithstanding that Summer Time could not run faster than a tortoise on Tuesday the books posted her at 3 to 5. Torsion and February cut out the pace, and, drawing away in the stretch, February marched home in the remarkably fast time of 1:13½. The favorite was two lengths behind Torsion. Devil's Dream was last all the way.

FRIDAY, SEPTEMBER 10.

The crowd was not so large this afternoon, Friday being an "off" day, and as it comes between Admission Day and Saturday there were many empty benches. The weather was delightful, and a large number of San Francisco people came up to attend the races.

In the judges' stand were Directors Covey, Fox and Terry, and Directors De Long and Harry Agnew held watches on the flyers.

There were three events on the programme: A 2:17 class trot, a 2:14 class pacing, and a trotting race for two-year-olds, 2 30 class pacing.

The performances of the two-year-old Diablo colt Diawood, who won his race in 2:22½ and 2:21½, stamp him as one of the most phenomenal youngsters in California. The entries in this event beside this colt were Oakwood Park Stock Farm's Klatawah (a brother to Chas. Derby, 2:20), Walnut Grove Stock Farm's Sable Le Grande, River View Stock Farm's Esther C. and J. B. Iverson's Dictatress. The stake was worth $585. Diawood sold for $20 against $12 for Klatawah and $3 on the field. Klatawah took the lead from Diawood and kept it to the head of the homestretch, and being in the soft dirt. As Diawood came alongside of him he attempted to keep the lead,but failed,and as Ben Chaboya was getting him settled, Diawood passed to the front and was fully six lengths in front when the wire was reached. Esther C. was a length behind, Sable Le Grande fourth and Dictatress distanced. Time, 2:22½.

Diawood was made favorite at $30 to $10 on the others. He took thelead at the start and was five lengths in front of Klatawah at the finish in 2:21½. Sable Le Grande was third, two lengths further away, and Esther C., who swerved badly at the head of the stretch, was last.

In the 2:17 class race there was a big field, consisting of Faro Bank, Antrima, Margaret Worth, Dr. Leek, Daisy Wood, Addison, Columbus S., Iran Alto, May B., Neernut and Pasonte. Dr. Leek was a strong favorite, selling for $30 against Margaret Worth $6 and the field $15.

Starter Covey had his hands full with these horses, and over an hour was lost in trying to get them to come up on even terms. Sixteen times did they jog past the stand. A few fines administered to some of the too anxious ones would have had a most beneficial effect in keeping them where they belonged Addison, Dr. Leek and Neernut broke repeatedly, finally after giving warning the bunch was sent away, scattered along the track like a base ball nine that had to take an inning. Dr. Leek was hopelessly in the rear and two others off their feet. Iran Alto, who had the pole, was in front at the quarter by a length, Antrima second, Margaret Worth at her wheel and the rest strung out for a hundred yards. Going down the backstretch Antrima took the lead, Iran Alto broke and fell back, Daisy Wood moved by him and with Margaret Worth at his shoulder came into the homestretch. It was an exciting race to the wire, but Keating, with Antrima, won by a length in 2:16½ from May B., who outfooted the balance in the homestretch and defeated Daisy Wood by a neck, the rest were scattered along to the distance post.

Notwithstanding this heat Dr. Leek reigned favorite at $20 against $17 on Antrima and $8 for the field. This start, although not of such long duration, was far from being up to the standard set by Starter Covey. It seemed as if the "old devil" was in these horses. Dr. Leek was in a bad place in the send-off, and did not improve his position. Antrima showed a surprising amount of speed, and as Margaret Worth forced her out in 2:15½ it was plain to be seen that Tom Keating had another good money-winner. May B. was third, two lengths further away, the rest scattering.

Pools sold: Antrima $20, field $5, and few shortenders to trust to any short odds. Faro Bank was withdrawn. Dr. Leek got the worst of this send-off. He did not act well, anyway. Margaret Worth led to a point half-way down the homestretch, with Daisy Wood half a length behind and a length in front of Antrima. A change took place. Antrima pulled out of the soft going to the extreme outside of the track, and at the three-quarter pole was leading. She kept this place to the wire. Dr. Leek made an ineffectual attempt to get to the front, but had to be content with third place, behind Margaret Worth. Daisy Wood was fourth. Time, 2:16½.

The last on the card was for the 2:14 class pacers. The starters were: Bessie Rankin, Anaconda, Arthur W. (a three-year-old), Col. Benton, Arthur L., Mollie Nurse, Plunkett and Floracita. Pools sold: Anaconda $40, field $10. When the word was given to a beautiful start Anaconda shot to the front. Bessie Rankin was at his shoulder all the way to the half, where he gave her the "ha ha" and moved ahead about a length and kept that distance to the wire. Arthur W. was third to the seven-eighths pole, where Plunkett passed him. Arthur L. was fifth, Floracita sixth, Col. Benton seventh and Mollie Nurse last. Time, 2:14

It was a foregone conclusion this was a Keating day, and this was Anaconda's race. Arthur L. forced the smooth-going son of Knight to pace in 2:11¼ to beat him, but Bessie Rankin passed this horse at the hundred-yard pole and was only two lengths behind Anaconda at the wire. It was a battle royal between the son of Direct and the daughter of Altamont. Floracita and the others were all in the second tier about six lengths behind the leaders.

Anaconda won the next heat by two lengths from Arthur L., Andy McDowell, the driver of the latter, doing some great driving, but all his skill could not give his good colt speed enough to defeat the Rancho del Paso-bred colt, who came under the wire in 2:11¼. The track was heavy and not made for pacers, as the half of it was harrowed deep for the runners and the horses had to go very long miles. All the pacers did remarkably well. Bessie Rankin is a race mare of a high class, and the same may be said of all of these sidewheelers. Following are the

SATURDAY, SEPTEMBER 11.

Almost as large a crowd as was present on Admission Day was at the races this afternoon, and the crowd was eager and willing to bet on any sort of an old tip.

This is what happened in the third race. Hazard was first backed at 7 to 5, but when Decision was pounded down from 5 to 3 the Strathmore gelding's odds advanced, as did also Sea Spray's price. The latter was 2 to 1 when a roll of greenbacks distributed on each book had the effect of cutting his odds down to 7 to 5. Sea Spray would have landed the coin had he got off on even terms with Decision. The latter beat the gate three lengths and cut out a merry pace. Sea Spray and Lady Hurst both tried to overhaul her and the former was gaining at the finish, Decision beating him out by half a length. Hazard was a miserable last.

Scotch Rose reeled off six furlongs on Thursday in 1:14, beating with ease Fortunate and Lost Girl, whom she met again to-day. She was an odds-on choice, and, as before, sprinted away in front, leading Holly's horse and February into the stretch by two good lengths. Fortunate had more speed than the other day, and had Stemler's sprinter beaten at the drawgate, winning handily by half a length. Lost Girl, heavily played for place, was ridden a peculiar race by Narvaez, finishing a languid last.

Another favorite that fell by the wayside was Elsmore, in the first race. Los Prietos was the medium of a plunge in the opening betting, his price dropping from 4 to 2 to 1. Then the educated money poured in on Tiny P., a maiden from the Haggin ranch. From 4s she closed at 2½ to 1, and she proved to be a good thing. Getting away well, she soon headed her field, and Elsmore, off second, could not catch her. Both were driving at the end. Yule and Los Prietos finished noses apart.

San Marco was posted as favorite for the fourth race, but he was evidently not feeling well, as he wound up the procession. Mascero beat the gate and he and Coda raced together to the far turn. Grady, who had been heavily backed at post time, was third under a double wrap, and when Cole gave him his head in the stretch he galloped past the leaders and won by three lengths. Masoero beat Meadow Lark by the same distance.

In the closing event Sleepy Jane was made favorite at 6 to 5, but lack of support hoisted her price to 3 to 1. George K. Rider's Fitz James filly, The Gossip, was lifted from 7 to 5 to even money, and then came a big plunge on Minta Owens. She was at 5 to 1, but so terrific was the onslaught on the books that 2 to 1 was the best price obtainable at post time. Minta Owens is an improved animal, but she could not give The Gossip an argument. Gibbettiflibbet was pacemaker for most of the journey, but The Gossip came with a rush in the last furlong and got the decision by half a length from the Suwarrow filly, with Minta Owens a thumped-out third.

The Vinctor stake was down for decision, but the other entries withdrew, giving Vinctor a walkover. This is the third time he has won this stake, which was likewise a single-handed affair for him last year.

MONDAY, SEPT. 13.

The wise division reaped a harvest this afternoon, for all the favorites won in a row. Anselor was the first one to land, and in doing so he won the Guaranteed stake, $2,000 being the part that went to the winner. It was productive of prolonged speculation, Anselor bringing $20, Lottie Lilac $8, and the field $15. Lynall led the favorite by five lengths into the stretch, and looked all over a winner, but he broke at the draw gate and Anselor passed him, winning by two lengths. Lottie Lilac essayed the luck of pacemaker in the second heat, and she carried the clip so far that Havey had to bring up Anselor with a sensational spurt at the end in order to win by a head. The favorite took a turn at leading in the third heat, but into the stretch he, Lynall and Lilac were only heads apart. Lynall broke, and Lilac fought it out to the wire with the Palo Alto colt, the latter having his nose in front at the right time. The time was 2:24½—a second faster than the preceding heat.

Probably one of the heaviest betting races of the meeting (harness events) was the 2:30 trot, and had seven starters. On the strength of his good race with Peko last week Durfee's Osito was singled out to carry the coin of the talent. In the opening pools Osito brought $50, Our Jack $20, field $13 and Uncle Johnny $5, but after a short session of this high-pressure speculation the pools got down to $25 for first choice, others proportionately.

Our Jack and Stamboulette broke on the first turn in the initial heat, and Uncle Johnny shot away from his field, opening up a gap of eight lengths at the half, which he materially increased from that point to the stable turn. Stamboulette, who had shown great speed after regaining his feet, went after the three-year-old, who had commenced to stop from the effects of his wild Indian drive. Uncle Johnny went in the air when he heard Stamboulette approach him, and the latter won by three lengths. Osito laid up the heat after making a bobble on the backstretch, and it was so apparent that he became a greater favorite than originally.

On the second circuit Uncle Johnny again essayed the role of drum major, and was leading Dolly Madison by a length into the stretch. There Durfee sent Osito to the front, and he was taking matters easily when Stamboulette came up with a rush and missed winning the heat only by a nose. It was dusk when the last heat was trotted, Osito winning easily from George W. McKinney in 2:23, Our Jack a close third.

It was a foregone conclusion that Searchlight would win the three-year-old pacing stake, and he was barred in the betting, Betonica being an odds-on choice. The Palo Alto colt showed a surprising turn of speed, and Searchlight had to travel in 2:12¾ in the first heat, though, of course, he was then only jogging. The next two heats were again taken by the black whirlwind with consummate ease, but in the last heat Keating let out a link on him just to give the crowd an idea of his speed, and he went to the half in 1:03, his field being a dozen lengths behind. Keating then put on the brakes and he finished in 2:15.

TUESDAY, SEPTEMBER 14.

A Brutus filly from the Burns & Waterhouse stable to-day won the richest two-year-old stake ever contested for over a California track. It was a popular victory, too, because the winner was bred in the Golden State, by a sire that raced there, her dam American bred (a daughter of Longfellow), while her second dam was by Gilroy, the sire of famous Grinstead, that made his reputation in California. To make the matter more pleasing, the winner is owned by the greatest racing firm on the Coast, as honorable as the day is long and in every way deserving to own such a filly as Duckling. That the winner should be sired by the Messrs. Boots' great horse, Brutus, is another source of gratification, for if there are men more deserving of success than they we know not where to find them. Following is the pedigree of the winner:

Duckling is from the same family as Charles Kerr's Herald and San Emegdio, and it is a good one, the famous Hawkeye coming from it.

Four thousand people saw the race for the Nursery Stake, and yet few of them named realized the importance of the event. It looks as if this stake will have to be run several times before it becomes the drawing card that it deserves. Ducking beat Rosormonde in a drive one week ago for the Ladies' Stake, the latter then conceding ten pounds to the Brutus filly. To-day Rosormonde had the advantage of five pounds over the former race, but nevertheless Duckling opened up at 7 to 5 and Rosormonde at 8 to 5. The Duckling money passed into the books in such chunks that her price dropped to even money, and 5 to 2 was the ruling figure on Rosormonde at post time. Of the others, Borgia and Don Luis were the only ones that received any support. The gate ascended to a perfect start, and the black and white of Rosormonde was the first to show in front. A length of daylight was between her and the favorite, with Don Luis a head away when they reached the half in 49 seconds, and this advantage was doubled as she turned into the stretch. Then Duckling set sail for the daughter of Ormonde and Fairy Rose, and in the last furlong a terrific drive ensued. Snider outrode Eddie Jones and landed his mount a winner by a long neck. Don Luis came fast at the last and looked dangerous, but a swerve destroyed his chances for the big end of the purse. Imperious was fourth, twelve lengths away.

This was not the only race that was lost by a weak finish on the part of Eddie Jones. He had the mount on Stemler's fast filly Summer Time, who was a legitimate 4 to 5 chance for the opening event. Salisbury and Decision made the running into the stretch, where the former fell back and Summer Time hooked up with Decision. Narvaez put up one of his old-time demon rides and lifted his mount in front by a nose at judging time. Salisbury was only a length behind.

Narvaez also distinguished himself by putting two more winners over the plate, his next victory being with Napogue, a big Midlothian colt from the Rancho del Paso, in the second race for maiden two-year-olds. Narvaez scored the third time with Del Paso second in the fifth race, for which Little Cripple was an odds-on choice. Del Paso was heavily played before post time by the wise division, and the outcome proved that their judgment was gilt-edged. He showed his heels to his field the entire journey, and stalling off Palomacita in the last furlong won driving by half a length.

Another good thing that went through with the ease of a man shooting the chutes was Flashlight. Caliente having beaten him last week, was the favorite, but Flashlight was jumped on at 11 to 5, and the continuous current of coin forced his price down to even money. Caliente made the running to the stretch, where Shaw cut loose and Flashlight romped in three lengths in advance of Caliente. Tortoise, a 15 to 1 shot, won the last under the lash by a narrow margin from Florimel. Marcie A. had the speed of the party for six furlongs, but retired when the pinch came.

WEDNESDAY, SEPTEMBER 15.

Favorites swept the card this afternoon and their victory was witnessed by the largest crowd that has yet attended the harness races. The programme was an excellent one. Opening pools sold on the first race: Osita, $20, Claudius $20, field $14, Our Jack $5, and tickets were sold as fast as they could be issued. Osita was rank the first heat and repeatedly broke, Claudius leading far into the stretch, where Prince Gift, the Salinas wonder, trotted by him and won the heat in the good time of 2:17¾. Field tickets were now at a premium, bringing $20 against $12 for Claudius and $5 for the now despised Osita.

The second heat fell to Claudius, who just did manage to beat Osita, which sent up the latter's stock with a bound, and $20 for Osita, $12 for the field and $5 for Claudius were the ruling prices.

It looked as though the McKinney colt had the race at his mercy when he won the third heat easily from Our Jack in 2:16½, but opinion quickly changed, for the next heat was won by Our Jack, who stood a long drive through the stretch and forced Osita to break within a few yards of the wire. The decision was very properly given to Our Jack, although the judges had a lengthy deliberation before rendering the verdict. The betting now switched in favor of the heat winner, who brought $20 against $16 for Osito and $5 for the field.

Osita won the concluding two heats owing to Our Jack breaking in the stretch when he appeared to be winning. We have always contended that Osita is a McKinney of the McKinney—a game little campaigner.

The second race was for 2:19 class trotters. There were eleven entries—Twilight, Ellert, Jeffe, May B., Iran Alto, Dione, Addison, Columbus S., Auditor, Neernut, Laura Z. Pools sold: Dione, $55; Jeffe, $34; the field, $28. Dione took the lead, with Jeffe at his bike, and kept it to the half-pole, where Dione slipped away and led by three lengths to the head of the stretch. Keating drove wide and Jeffe came fast and endeavored to pass the beautiful daughter of Eros, but it was a vain attempt. Keating had no trouble driving her in a winner in 2:16¼. Jeffe was second, two lengths behind, Iran Alto third.

Dione now sold for $25 against $11 for Jeffe and $4 for the field. As in the previous heat, Dione led all the way, clearly outclassing her field and winning pulled up in 2:15½, Ellert getting the place from Jeffe, as the latter broke at the seven-eighths pole.

Everybody stopped betting to watch Dione vanquish her opponents, and the ease with which she trotted without any apparent distress over this heavy and uneven track stamps her as one of the best mares we have in this State. It was only necessary for her to trot in 2:16¼ to win. Ellert was second and Neernut third. Jeffe broke in the homestretch and fell to the rear.

The 2:20 pace was a gift for the deceptive-looking Joe Wheeler, who paced rings around his field in the first heat after getting off in the rear, and thereafter spreadeagled his company. In the last heat he paced in 2:11¾. It was just a jog for the Fresno flyer. Joe Wheeler will make it interesting for Searchlight and Silkwood when he meets them. He was the favorite at $25 against $10 for the bunch.

Trotting and Pacing at Alameda.

The third meeting of the year given by the Alameda Gentlemen's Driving Club took place at its track on Thursday, the 9th inst. In order to avoid the probable disagreeable wind of the afternoon it was decided to have the races commence at 10 A. M., an innovation seemingly appreciated by the drivers as well as the crowd of several hundred that gathered to witness the sport. The weather was at its best. The track was in good condition for the greater part of the mile.

In the first heat of the free-for-all Myrtle led to the half by two open lengths. Emma Abbott then began her effort and slowly overhauled the leader and, after a struggle, won the heat, amid much applause, by a head in 2:22.

In the second heat the two mares, trotting fair and square, like a team, passed the one-quarter pole in 34½ seconds, and reached the one-half pole in 1:08 without change in their positions; from here home Emma outfooted her larger competitor and won the heat by several lengths in 2:17¾, a new record for her as well as the trotting record of the track. Emma Abbott has already raised one colt for her owner, by Gossiper, 2:1 -¼, and is again in foal to that horse. Many hearty congratulations were extended to her much pleased owner over her performance.

The first heat in the 2:30 race was won by Anita by a nose in 2:26½ after a most exciting drive. The second heat was also won by Anita, with many lengths to spare, in 2:23¾; much faster time than it was thought she was capable of making. She owes her record to the masterly manner in which she was handled by her driver.

The third race for 2:39 horses was won by B. Fisher's Uncle Tip in straight heats.

The fourth and last race was won by B. E. Combs' Operetta in the second and third heats.

Judges for the Free-for-all—Mr. J. Thomas, Presiding Judge and Starter; Mr. I. L. Borden, Mr. C. C. Gardner.

Judges for the 2:30, 2:39, 3:00—Mr. C. S. Neal, Presiding Judge and Starter; Mr. I. L. Borden, Mr. C. C. Gardner.

American Congress Turf Meeting.

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 15—The annual session of the American Turf Congress was held in this city to-day and extended far into the night. Turfmen were present representing all the Eastern tracks. Ed Corrigan appeared for the Pacific Coast Association.

This evening the delegates to the congress met at the clubhouse of the St. Louis Fair Association.

Applications of different tracks for admission to the congress were considered. That of Harlem at Chicago was refused, and the following accepted: Washington Park and Hawthorne, Chicago; Highland Park, Detroit and Newport, Cincinnati.

The request of the New Orleans track for permission to put up $250 purses was refused and the minimum amount was fixed at $300.

It was decided that after January 1st next all jockey fees on tracks having a membership in the congress shall be collected by the track and paid to the jockeys. Trainers' licences were fixed at $25, and the cases of all outlawed horses, owners and jockeys were referred to a committee to be appointed hereafter by the president of the congress.

The following officers were elected and the congress adjourned to meet the next time in Cincinnati: President, C. C. Maffitt, St. Louis; vice-president, W. F. Schulte, Louisville, Ky.; secretary, E. C. Hopper, Cincinnati; treasurer, O. L. Bradley, Lexington, Ky.

TURF AND TRACK.

THE SULKY.

The Stockton entries loom up big.

How long will the two-minute list consist of one horse?

Del Norte, 2:08, by Altamont, is the sire of Walter Q., 2:18¾.

Altamont's fast list has been increased by the addition of Bessie Rankin, 2:16¼.

Jas. A. Murphy presented McClary with $2,500 for driving Star Pointer in 1:59¼.

Savron, by Norval, won his first race at Washington, Iowa; time, 2:27¼, 2:27½ and 2:33½.

When it comes to winning stakes the Palo Alto Stock Farm always manages to have one that can win.

Stam B., 2:11, though quite lame, is a race horse of the gamest kind. He is not to be overlooked in any company.

Stella, by Clay, 2:25, won a 2:35 class trotting race at Cape Charles City, Va., August 20th in 2:30½, 2:31 and 2:26¼.

Faultless, by Sphinx, won the first, sixth and eighth heats of the 2:30 trot at Bay City, Mich., in 2:28¼, 2:27¾ and 2:26.

Walter D., a bay gelding by Chas. Derby, 2:20, won a pacing race at Belle Vernon, Pa., August 26th, last heat 2:29½.

Messrs. Killip & Co., the well-known auctioneers, secured the pool-selling privileges at the Stockton Fair next week.

The Fresno County Fair will surpass all others held there. There are forty-five horses preparing for it on the race track there.

King Jack, by Jack Dawson, son of Director, won a heat in the 2:40 trot at Fredonia, Kansas, August 25th, getting a mark of 2:29¾.

Prince Ansel, 2:20½, will have a much-needed rest after the Breeders' meeting, and will appear among the three-year-olds of 1898.

Pathmont paced a mile in 2:15¼ at Tacoma, Wash., September 10th. This is the fastest mile ever made by a trotter or pacer in that State.

A number of California horsemen would take their horses to Oregon to compete in the races there if the meetings were properly advertised here.

Aeraplane is the name of a bay horse by Hambletonian Wilkes that started in a pacing race, 2:30 class, September 3d, getting a mark of 2:27¼.

The great owner of trotters and thoroughbreds in Kentucky, Barney Treacy, died last Monday in Lexington as the result of a heavy fall he recently received.

Frank Frazier has shipped from Butte to Spokane, and will probably establish a new record for the State of Washington with his fast pacer Chehalis, 2:07¼.

The handsome horse Bradtmore, 2:26¼, owned by B. F. Rush, of Suisun, was sold last week to T. J. Crowley, San Francisco, who will use him as a roadster.

F. W. Covey is gathering a number of the very best trotters and pacers in California to take to the big sale to be held at Cleveland in November. W. B. Fasig will be the auctioneer.

The fast three-year-old pacer Jeremiah, 2:24¼, by To Order, 2:12¼, died recently at Toledo, O., where he was under treatment by Dr. J. V. Newton. He was owned by W. A. Reed of Hudson, Mich.

Bill Frazier, 2:14, Kititas Ranger, 2:18¼, and Altas, 2:25, are back home from the Montana circuit. Altas will probably start at Salem, while the other two will go into winter quarters at once.

Remember the Salinas race meeting. A splendid race meeting at this place is assured. Entry blanks may be obtained at this office or from our representatives at the State Fair and at the Stockton meeting.

The stallion Prince Warwick that Orrin Hickok sold to the Australian Government is the sire of the filly Cleopatra, one of the greatest three year-olds that has ever appeared in Europe. She has won three races and a second money out of four starts, including the Derby Trial and Oak Stakes at Moscow. The last named event brought to her owner $4,000

Lady Moyra is now the champion two-year-old pacer of the year, having taken a record of 2:16¼ at Davenport, Ia., last week. She is driven by Geo. West of Chicago, and was sired by Saccharine, son of Director.

The Stockton Fair, which commences Monday next, will be a success. Everybody in San Joaquin and the adjoining counties is going. The track is fine, and under the new management horsemen will have no cause for complaint.

In a race for the three minute class at the Eureka Fair September 8th, Forest W., by Wayland W., a colt belonging to Alex Connick, defeated the two Waldsteins, Annie Rooney and Hazel, in straight heats. Time, 2:33½ and 2:32¾.

Chas. S. Neal's good game little black mare Emma Abbott, that lowered the record to 2:17¼ and won one of the best-contested races seen at the Alameda track last Thursday, has a very fine colt by Gossiper, 2:13¼, that is a lot trotter worth looking at.

Messrs. Winters & Morgan, the well-known horseshoers of Sacramento, have the honor of shoeing all the race winners at the State Fair. They are also the local agents for the celebrated Tirlol Hoof Cure and have received a number of valuable testimonials from those who have given it a trial. It is an excellent remedy.

Benton Boy (p), 2:16¼, has been purchased by Gaston Ashe from George E. Shaw. Mr. Ashe has a great many thoroughbred mares whose produce are not stake-horses. Hence, crossed with Benton Boy, he will probably get a fine, rangy class of harness horses, with a good chance of securing a record-breaker or two.—Salinas Journal.

Coronado, the son of Electioneer and Lady Ellen, 2:29½, dam of four in the list, owned at the McMillan Farm, Paris, Ill., promises to make a good showing on the track this year. In the hands of Trainer Gardner he is showing miles in 2:30 himself, and four of his get, three and four-year-olds, will take standard trotting records this year. Coronado should, and doubtless will, prove a great sire.

The 2:08 pace at Columbus, O., was in some respects the greatest race of the year. Every heat winner reduced his or her previous record, and the miles made constitute the fastest six-heat race of the season. The winner, Planet, reduced his mark to 2:05½. Frank Bogash, second money-winner, got his down to 2:04¾, while Aileen sliced hers to 2:07½. The time of the six miles was 2:07½, 2:05¾, 2:04¾, 2:05¼, 2:07¼, 2:06¼.

Arthur W., 2:15½, the great three-year-old pacer, is 16.1½ hands high and is one of the best proportioned horses at the State Fair. He measures six feet six inches around the girth. There is no doubt of his staying qualities, for he seems to come the last half always faster than the first and does not tire. We look for him to be one of the fastest four-year-olds bred in California where many champions have been bred.

Florida Chimes, a grandson of Chimes, who took a pacing record of 2:16¼ in a winning race over a half mile track in Pennsylvania, seems to have no limit to his speed. The handsome four-year-old colt can pace a mile track close to 2:12 at present. He is owned by Christopher Steighner, Coyleville, Pa., was sired by Chimesbrino (dead), dam by Florida. Mr. Steighner is a wealthy oil operator, who trains and drives his own horses.

"Atamont, sire of the dam of Jasper Ayres, the crack trotting gelding of the Pacific Coast, is a non standard son of Almont 33. He should not be confounded with Altamont, another son of Almont, who is the champion race horse sire of the West."—Exchange. [This is an error. The horse's name is Altimont and he is registered No. 985. He was sired by Almont 33, dam Belle Miller by Blackwood 74, grandam by Mambrino Chief II. He stood for some years in Kern county.]

It is at about this time of the year we begin to look anxiously for each issue of the Breeder and Sportsman of San Francisco. Its neatly printed pages are weekly filled with valuable information of turfmen. It presents in a concise manner all the more important matters of the turf and is especially invaluable to the Blade during the months preceding our annual races. No more reliable class journal is published and it is largely circulated among the horsemen of this county.—Santa Ana Blade

Ella T., the famous trotting mare, who is owned by Geo. F. McKinney, of Goldendale, Wash., won another race at Middleton, N. Y., on August 14th, trotting a mile in 2:09½ on a half-mile track, which lowered the New York State record. This makes the eighth race Ella T. has been entered in this season, winning every one of them easily. Our exchanges claim she is a Clark county horse, but she is not, having been raised in Klickitat county. She is a wonder, and Mr. McKinney has been offered a fancy price for her several times this season.

Lady Rose, by Sultan, 2:24, dam Atlanta, by The Moor; second dam Minnehaha, died at Maplehurst Farm, Lancaster, Mass., recently. She was foaled in 1885, and was bred by L. J. Rose of San Gabriel, Cal. She had produced the brown colt Elking, two-year-old trial in 2:30, by Mansfield, 2:26; the black filly Wedding Bells (sold for $2,300), by Simmons, 2:28; the bay colt Ayrean, by Arion, 2:07½; the bay colt Kremlin's Son, by Kremlin, 2:07¾; the black filly Black Rose, by Eldorado, and the bay colt Metoxen, by Eldorado, and at the time of her death was in foal to Baron Wilkes, 2:18

A German has invented a paper horseshoe, which is made in practically the same manner as a paper car wheel, the paper being soaked in oil of turpentine to make it waterproof, after which it is glued together with thin layers. The glue is a mixture of Venetian turpentine, linseed oil, powdered chalk and lacquer. The paper is then subjected to a high pressure in a hydraulic press and moulded in the desired form, the holes through which the nails are to be driven being punched while the paper is still moist. Lightness and durability are among the qualities claimed for these shoes, but another advantage of the paper shoe is that it will, to a large extent, keep the animal from slipping on wet asphalt or any other slippery pavement.

American Belle, the Hamlin three-year-old, who scored 2:14¾ at Hartford the past week, is a daughter of the fast young stallion Rex Americus, 2:11½, and she is the first of his get to take a standard record. On the maternal side she is one of the best-bred ones ever sent out to race, as her dam Beautiful Chimes, by Chimes, has a record of 2:22½, and she is also a sister to Ed. Easton, 2:09¾. Her second dam was by Mambrino King, while her third dam was by Red Wilkes, out of the mare that produced the once-famous Fanny Witherspoon, 2:16¼. With the exception of Fantasy, American Belle is probably the best three-year-old trotter ever sent out from Village Farm and it is just possible that before the season ends she will prove quite the best.

In regard to the insolvency proceedings of Monroe Salisbury a statement was made that Mr. Julius Reis of San Francisco (who holds a mortgage of $25,000 against the stock farm) was in league with Mr. Salisbury, in that he got the mortgage fraudulently. This does Mr. Reis a great injustice, as he loaned this cash and took a mortgage on this farm long ago. The trouble seems to be that the petitioners for making the Plessanton Stock Farm insolvent were men who dealt personally with Monroe Salisbury and then when they found that they could not collect their money turned their attention to the Pleasanton Stock Farm Co., which was mortgaged to Mr. Reis. The facts will all appear in the trial on the 10th of October and will prove what we said above to be true.

Attorney T. A. Driscoll of Oakland has purchased Collins & Loftus' bay road team of Secretary colts, Maud and Doc, which have so often attracted attention on our streets. The animals are four and five years old, 15¾ hands high, and evenly matched. Their dam is by Echo and they are full brother and sister. They were raised by Gus Pacheco. The consideration is said to have been $500. Dr. Buzard, an Oakland veterinary surgeon, inspected the animals for Mr. Driscoll and pronounced them without a blemish. Mr. Loftus will take the team to Oakland on Wednesday to deliver it to the new owner. Yesterday Mr. Loftus also sold to a Point Arena man his own driving mare Kitty. She is by Vasto, dam by Gray McLellan, and a fine animal. —Petaluma Courier.

The following was received last Thursday from the Secretary of the National Trotting Association, Hartford, Conn.: "July 2, 1895, the mare Maud Pollard made a pacing record of 2:17½ at Hamilton, Ontario. This season she appeared on the turf as Jane, being entered by W. Carmack, Cleveland, Ohio, and driven by E. Lease of Tiffin, Ohio. After starting at Lima and Tiffin in Ohio, this mare was shipped East and took the word at Poughkeepsie, N. Y., Portland, Me., and Readville, Mass. She now has a record of 2:13¾. Jane, alias Maud Pollard, is a brown mare with star on forehead, 15½ hands high, and ten years old. She wears hopples but does not require them, and carries a toe weight. The parties controlling this mare expect to ship from Boston to Southern Indiana for a fall campaign at the fairs. Lease made a contract with Carmack for this trip while in Boston."

The mysterious box which Thomas W. Raymond, the dead horseman, left in charge of C. F. Mansur of the Orange County Savings Bank, was produced in the Superior Court to-day. Last week the attorneys representing Mrs. Emma Fisher, administratrix of the Raymond estate, made a demand that the box be opened, and Judge Ballard issued a citation directing that this be done at Mr. Mansur's discretion. So to-day the order was complied with and the contents, consisting of a silver table service, souvenirs and an endless array of trinkets, was spread out on the clerk's table and a careful inventory taken by the attorneys. All of the trinkets, which were doubtless prized highly by Mr. Raymond, had the name "Klamath" engraved upon them. They are thought to be trophies won by the great trotter and preserved as keepsakes by his owner.—Santa Ana Correspondence Los Angeles Herald.

Arrangements are being made to have a four days' meeting at the Hollister race track this fall, the date of the same has not yet been finally determined, but will immediately follow the Salinas meeting. The races will be under the management of H. H. Helman the lessee of the track, and a good programme will be arranged which will include running, trotting and pacing events, and for each of which liberal purses will be offered. During the past week several of the business men of the town were interviewed in regard to the matter who will encourage the same by liberal donations for purses which no doubt will attract some of the best horses on the circuit, and as this meeting will be the final one of the season a large attendance can be expected. It is proposed by the management to have, as a special feature, a ten-mile race for ladies on horseback. A change of horses will be made at the end of each mile and a good purse will hang up for the contestants. While the date has not yet been decided upon, the meeting will probably take place October 20th to 23d inclusive.—Hollister Bee.

Elloree, 2:09¼, driven by her owner, Calvary Morris, of Cleveland, broke the world's trotting record for a trotter driven to a four-wheeled wagon at the Cleveland Driving Park August 29th. The chestnut mare trotted two heats in a match race with W. F. Putnam's Newcastle, given under the auspices of the Gentlemen's Driving Club, which is practically the Cleveland Driving Park Company. The first heat she made in 2:12¾, and the second in 2:10. Elloree is a chestnut mare by Axtell, dam Flora McGregor, second dam by George Wilkes. She was foaled the property of C. W. Williams of Independence, Ia., who owns both sire and dam, and sold to her present owner for the reputed price of $6,000. It is said that $10,000 has been refused by Mr. Morris for her during the past few months. Like the previous owners owners of the wagon record, Hopeful and Guy, Elloree is a a small mare, not more than 15.1½ hands high. The previous best on record to wagon in a race was 2.11¾ by the trotter Alfred S., and the 2:14¼ of the pacer Johnston. Guy's 2:13 was made in an exhibition against time. John Splan was indirectly responsible for Elloree's mile in 2:10. He urged Morris to drive for it. He was a little surprised himself, for he claimed before the heat that it would be in 2:11. Morris handed him a check for $500 immediately after the heat. When it is considered that the fastest mile trotted this year, exhibition or otherwise, was in 2:08 to sulky, Elloree's performance in 2:10, hitched to a wagon weighing 95 pounds and pulling a driver weighing 170, is almost as wonderful as Star Pointer's mile in 1:59¼.

THE SADDLE.

LIBERTINE ran third to Leedsville and Rubicon last Saturday at Sheepshead Bay.

BY the death of Lord Hindlip the engagements of Limasol, winner of this year's Oaks, were rendered void.

AMONG the winners at Windsor on Tuesday were Double Quick and Jennie June, latter by Hyder Ali—Bagatelle.

JUDGE NAPTON, a recent winner at St. Louis, belongs to Dan Honig and is by Magnate out of Dan's good old mare, Leo H.

THE famous gray spinter, Leora, now racing at Kalsas City, will take part in the great Los Angeles meeting next month.

TOBIAS, a bay colt by imp. Sir Modred—Rosalind, won a mile race in 1:42 1-5 at Sheepshead Bay Sept. 9th, defeating a field of seven.

OUR JOHNNY, by Fresno—Jess, won a mile race in 1:40 flat at Fort Erie last Saturday, and Miss Tenny, by Tenny, was victorious at five furlongs, run in 1:01½.

BURNS & WATERHOUSE'S filly, Duckling, has twice beaten Rosormonde at the Sacramento meeting, and last Tuesday's win was in the Nursery Stake, value $3,105.

THE Oregon mare, Raindrop, won the five and six-furlong races at the recent Vancouver (B. C.) meeting, Catalogue, the California gelding, the mile and a half dash.

T. C. MCDOWELL has sold to Jay Hardy, for William Newman, of New Orleans, Laverna, brown filly, 2, by imp. Order, dam Peggy Merrill, on private terms.

MIDIAN, ch c by imp. Midlothian—Rosette, by Joe Hooker, won over the Futurity course in 1:12 last Saturday, ridden by Willie Martin and carrying 115 lbs.

AT the Fort Erie meeting the strings of the following turfmen (well known in California) are racing: E. W. Purser, Atkin & Lottridge, W. B. Sink and G. B. Morris.

GREYHURST, with little Woods up, won a mile and a furlong race in 1:54 at Harlem last Monday. Ransome got home first in a mile and a sixteenth race at St. Louis.

SALVABLE, son of Salvator, defeated Ben Eder and Buckwa in a mile and a sixteenth race at Gravesend last Tuesday, and La Goleta, af the Baldwin string, won at five furlongs.

THIS is the last week of the long-drawn-ous St. Louis meeting. The class of horses running has become inferior and the bet ing tame, according to an Associated Press dispatch.

IN the last list of "winning stallions" of New Zealand Foul Shot stands twelfth, Artillery seventeenth and Maxim twenty-second. The Foul Shots won fourteen races and about $6,000.

OUR DOMESTIC, by Argyle (son of Monday), and the property of the popular President of Louisville Jockey Club, W. F. Schulte, won a seven-furlong race at Harlem last Tuesday.

ORNAMENT ran unplaced in the Autumn Handicap last Saturday. The three-year-old crack was asked to carry 123 lbs. over two miles of ground. Ben Holladay, the winner, carried 114 lbs.

MIDRICA, a Rancho del Paso-bred filly by imp. Midlothian from Ricardo (dam of Tiger) won a six-furlong race at Windsor Sept. 8th. She is owned by Atkin & Lottridge and was ridden by Dick Clawson.

EINSTEIN, a recent winner from Ed Corrigan's stable at Fort Erie, is by Riley, from Maggie B, by Knighthood (sire of the great broodmare, Belle Knight). Knighthood died very young, and got but few foals.

TOM HURLICK, the well-known bookmaker, is back from St. Louis, looking much better than when he went away, and apparently just as happy. He was in partnership with Joe Rose in the bookmaking business.

AMPHORA, winner of the Steward's Cup at Goodwood this year, is by Amphion, from Sierra, by Nunsham. Sierra's dam was Nevada, by The Flying Dutchman. This makes one think of California, this Sierra and Nevada.

GEORGE VOORHIES, known to our readers as "St. George," now sixty years old, rode in and won the gentleman's race at Colorado Springs last week. The distance was a half mile and the time fifty-nine seconds.—Denver Field and Farm.

HAMBURG is pronounced the best two-year old seen in America in years. Last Saturday the son of Hanover and Lady Reel picked up 135 lbs. and won the Great Eastern Handicap in 1:10 1-5, conceding from eleven to twenty-seven pounds.

GASTON ASHE has a number of very promising youngsters at his Tres Pinos rancho by the Luke Blackburn horse, Jackson, who is a half-brother to Bramble and Brambaletta. It would not be surprising if there were a Ben Brush or a Clifford in the lot.

C. DEWITT has purchased from J. H. Smith the very serviceable campaigner, Balk Line, by Grenada, paying for him $1,500. Mr. Smith claimed the horse out of a selling race two weeks ago for $725, so that he made a handsome profit on the two transactions.

JOHNNY WOODS and Clay rode two winners apiece at Harlem last Saturday. The former was on Bing Binger, who ran a mile and a furlong with 80 lbs. up in 2:48¼, but a quarter of a second behind the world's record made by Hindoocraft with 75 lbs. up.

JAMES KERVIN, the Valley Railroad contractor, a most popular gentleman, is likely to join the ranks of California turfmen ere long, and would make a most valuable acquisition. It is hinted that he is likely te prove a purchaser at the coming yearling sales here.

WHITE FROST, brown filly by Iroquois—Wildflower, won the Ohio stakes, one mile, in 1:39½, last Saturday at Oakley, Simon W. forcing the three year-old filly out. White Frost is the best three-year-old filly thus far shown this season, and won the Cincinnati Oaks, among other races.

JAMES R. KEENE'S good colt, Voter, gets 105 pounds in the Cambridgeshire, and Galtee More, also a three-year old, is asked to carry 132 pounds. Therefore the English handicapper cannot think much of the American's colt. Voter, Uriel and Black Cock were shipped last Saturday.

MARCUS DALY to-day sold Senator Bland, imp. Missioner and Punter, the three best racers in his Western string, to H. L. Frank, of Butte, for $10,000. Mr. Frank has engaged John S. Campbell, lately Mr. Daly's trainer, and will take the horses to California for the winter.—Butte (Mont.) dispatch, Sept. 14.

BATTALION was handicapped at Townsville (Queensland) in the Townsville Cup, two miles, at 166 pounds, and in the Town Plate, one and a half miles, at 168 pounds. In this country, however, owners yell "murder" and vow vengeance if a handicapper puts over 125 pounds on a horse, no matter how good he is.

JOE NARVAEZ rode three of the six winners at Sacramento last Tuesday—Decision, at 3 to 1; Nopogve, at 4 to 1, and Del Paso II., at 3 to 1. It looks as if Joe had his "second wind," and as he was once our "star" rider, it would not be surprising if he got to the top of the tree of popularity and capability again.

DAN MCCARTY, the renowned horseman of the fuzzy beaver and silver tongue, has about seventy horses (trotters, pacers and gallopers) in course of training or development at Fresno, and is reported as doing very well in his new home. Dan has the faculty of making friends faster and trading horses more quickly than any man in the country.

GEN. W. H. JACKSON, of the Belle Meade Stud, Tennessee, who is now in England, has purchased the brown horse Tithonus, foaled 1892, by St. Simon, dam Immortelle, by by Paul Jones; second dam Mulberry, by Beadsman, out of Strawberry, by The Flying Dutchman, etc., and he will be shipped next month to this country to be placed in the stud at Belle Meade.

W. L. STANFIELD, the Texas turfman, arrived at Ingleside track last Tuesday with the crack sprinter, George Miller, and a two-year-old St. Carlo filly. Wade McLemore has three at the track. General Shafter's five horses arrived last week. They are in charge of a young man with "Ten Cents" for a nickname. The latter used to train the fast sprinter of that name. Gen. Shafter is a recent acquisition to the ranks of owners.

EDDIE AMES' ride on Fortunate last Saturday at Sacramento is highly spoken of. This rider, who is a man in years and can do 100 lbs., will be heard from as a winner-rider often from now on. B. C. Holly gave him a good chance this season in Montana, the first real good opportunity Ames ever had, and he made quite a name for himself. It was this jockey that piloted Don Gara to the front last winter at odds of 300 to 1.

CHALLENGER, by imp. Martenhurst, won the September Stakes at Sheepshead Bay September 8th, defeating Partridge, Dr. Catlett, Buddha, Sunny Slope and Lincoln II Baby Bill won the mile and three-quarter hurdle race, with Brown Red (formerly Red Cloud) second, Kilkenny (by imp. Darebin) third—a good showing for California. Howard S. ran third to Paul Kauvar and Miss Prim at a mile and a furlong He is clearly not the Howard S. of last spring.

AT Eureka, Cal., Sept. 7th, the bicyclists beat the pacer Covey half a mile in 1:10 1-5, Wm. Clark's ancient racer, Rondo, by Norfolk (124 pounds up) won the quorter-mile heat race in 0:24 2-5, 0:24¼, Lulu S (by Ironwood) second, Cinderilla (by Canny Scot) third, and Alex. Connick's Forrest W., by Warland W., captured the trot in 2:33½, 2:32¾, with Annie Rooney (by Waldstein) second and Hazel, by that sire also, third. Ladies were admitted free on that day.

REY EL SANTA ANITA, the winner of the American Derby in 1894, whose racing qualities were sold by his owner, E. J. Baldwin, to Richard Croker, who took him to England, where he raced under the name of Santa Anita, returned to this country some weeks ago and was sent to the Brookdale Farm for a rest. The son of imp. Cheviot is now in E. J. Baldwin's stable at Brighton Beach, and except for a slight lameness is in good condition and will be trained for the fall and winter campaign on the Pacific slope.

KOHRS & BIELENBERG suffered the loss of two valuable thoroughbred horses last week. Young Regent, by old Regent, the famous stallion, was injured by an accident and died early last week. Thursday following, Eolian, the widely-known sire, suffered an attack of pneumonia and died.—Helena Independent, Sept. 4. Eolian was not only a good performer, but was an excellent sire, getting many good winners, such as Boreas, Eos, Addie M., Ben Bolt and Commodore. Eolian was a brown horse by Eolus from Calash, by imp. Phaeton, and was foaled in 1883.

THE Western Sprint at Los Angeles, half a mile, will bring out the best field of sprinters that ever met on the coast, the following being entered: San Mateo, Trilby, Jessie O., Carline Lemon, Bourbon, Minnie R., Selkirk, Celoso, Trabuco, Sontag, Detective, Tucolotte, Hermoso, Roadwarmer, Nancy T., Scotch Rose, Leora, Bellicoso and Rosomonde. It is a safe bet that San Mateo, Bourbon, Sontag, Hermoso, Roadwarmer, Scotch Rose, Leora and Bellicoso can run the distance in 0:47½ or better with 115 lbs. up, so that it would not be surprising to see the coast record of 0:47¼ beaten.

ONLY seven horses ever achieved the triple crown, that is—won the Two Thousand, the Derby, and the race in question. These were West Australian, Gladiateur, Lord Lyon, Ormonde, Common, Isinglass and Galtee More. A dozen others have achieved the double event—this race and the Derby—and half as many mares have taken the Leger and the Oaks.

AT the Doncaster yearlings blooded stock sales during last week high prices were reached. Sir Tatton Sykes, the famous Yorkshire sporting baronet, obtained 13 710 guineas for fourteen colts and fillies. Colts by St. Simon fetched top prices, one going for 3000 guineas and another being knocked down at 2200 guineas. A filly by Bend Or was sold for 1650 guineas.

AT Trinity Center recently, the meeting given under the auspices of the Trinity Center Jockey Club was pronounced an unqualified success. August 27th Joseph Porter's Dora H. won the half mile heat race in straight heats. Other entries were Elias Ellery's Sir Reginald, Frank Asbill's Mollie A. and T. R. Lafoon's Robert Lee. The quarter mile heat race was captured in straight heats by T. R. Lafoon's Hollywood. Other entries were Frank S. and Mollie A. Dom Pedro won the scrub race. August 28th Mollie A. won the three-furlong race, Mabel R. the quarter-mile dash for saddle horses, Kettenchow Jake the mule race.

THE following Montana records were established this season at Anaconda and Butte: Punter, with 90 pounds up, broke the four and a half furlong record in Montana, running the distance in 0:54¾; at five and a half furlongs imp. Missioner, with 90 pounds, ran in 1:08. The mile and one-sixteenth Montana record was broken by 'Ostler Joe, with 108 pounds up, in 1:46¾. This also equals the Pacific Coast record. The mile and one-quarter record for Montana was broken by Senator Bland, 2:07½, carrying 115 pounds. The mile and three furlongs hurdle record was broken by both J. O. C. and Sylvester, the former carrying 145 and the latter 135 pounds, both making the distance in 2:35. That equals the world's record for the distance. Searchlight equaled the world's three-year-old pacing record, 2:09¼. Chehalis set a mark of 2:07¼ for free for-all pacers.

A CONFIDENCE game was worked on at least two persons in this city last Admission Day. A young, smooth-faced, good-looking fellow, representing himself as Bob Lawless, trainer of the well known galloper, Bloomsbury, presented himself at this office on that date and declared Bloomsbury and a filly had arrived at Oakland by rail and that he (Lawless) expected the owner, one Gilbert, to be on hand, but was disappointed, as Gilbert had gone to Stockton with two men named Harrison. The sum of $3.75, he said, was due the railroad company, and he much desired to get the horses off the cars, especially as the filly had had lung fever. The alleged trainer, who claimed to know a number of turfmen, tried to get the sum in this office, but failing, went out, presumably to find some of his wealthy acquaintances. That same day a young man represented to be Gilbert, owner of the horses, presented himself to Chas. Dresser, a well known sportsman, told his tale of woe, and so plausibly, too, that he secured $4 of the sympathetic gentleman. Later in the day a person declaring himself to be Charley Clancey and to be a friend of Lawless, secured $3.75 from another person, to whom the same sad story of the much-needed $3.75 was told. In all likelihood others were robbed by this same confidence youth, and it is to be hoped that his true name will be learned and that he will soon change it for a number at either San Quentin or Folsom.

THE Grosse Point meeting, which closed last Saturday, evidently was none too successful and, in fact, the bookmakers and reporters had nothing but words of condemnation in reference to the management. A St. Louis horseman has the following complaint to make: "The management of that track seemed to be trying to outdo themselves in antagonizing both the visiting members of the press and the turfmen whose horses were furnishing the sport at the Detroit meeting. According to this gentleman the turfmen who have entries in the daily races have the greatest difficulty in obtaining even the customary owners' badges, and as to their wives—if they wish to see their respective husbands' horses perform they are informed that they must pay for the privilege." The queerest sight of all, however, this gentleman says, is the reputable turf correspondents of reputable papers parading the grounds with paid daily admission badges dangling from their buttonholes. As a consequence of this niggardly policy everyone, to borrow a sporting phrase, knocked the game, and, according to my informant, a shotgun could have been fired through the grand stand without endangering the few occupants thereof. By pursuing such a course it is scarcely probable that the Grosse Point people made a howling success of their summer meeting. It would seem the part of better business judgment to do all in their power to make their track popular with the two classes who do more than any others to insure a successful race meeting, instead of going out of their way to slight and antagonize them.

THE race horse biz is "red hot" just now. Horses of all descriptions and gaits may be seen at work on the track every morning. San Luis is represented by quite a number of flyers. Frank Trainor arrived Tuesday with the great pacer San Lucito, also the well-known Sam Mount and two two-year-olds, one of which is a full sister of John M. She is small, but said to be very speedy. Ed Hamilton arrived Wednesday with his two bread winners, Ocean Bell (pacer) and John M. (runner). The latter is a fine looker and a game and consistent race horse. Purissima, the property of Garret Blosser, was also brought from San Luis, where he has been in training by Hamilton. He will be strong candidate for one of the harness races. Kylite has changed hands. She will be put into condition by the able trainers, R. Yelkins & Son. Yelkins landed the mare a winner last year, and she will certainly be expected to repeat it this year. Since Nick Haywards has severed his connection with the Marshall stable he has been engaged to train Daisy Bell. If she don't take first money her admirers will be sadly disappointed. A work out between two Moses B. colts, El Patiador and Miss Klondyke, last Saturday caused considerable excitement. The distance, one-quarter of a mile, was short, but proved to be too far for Miss K., El Patiador winning easily in 0:26½. There is already considerable speculation as to the speed of two of the candidates in the one-half and repeat race. Detective and John M. are the favorites, and several bets, we learn, have been made. This will be a good betting race.—"Riley" in Santa Maria (Cal.) Graphic.

Our State Fair.

The State Fair ends to-day, and from every point of view it has been a success. No fault can be found with the management either of the track or pavilion. Several innovations were made at the track which met with the approval of all. The idea of having only auction and Paris mutuel betting was abandoned. It was said those securing the privilege failed to procure the necessary number of mutuel boxes, and the bookmakers and those who fancied their plan of wagering money clamored for the books on the running races, managing (by means not generally understood) to carry their point. Notwithstanding this, there were large amounts of money wagered in the auction boxes, a large number of investors not taking kindly to the odds which the bookmakers (who paid nearly the sum of $150 a day each for the privilege of "making books") offered.

The racing, notwithstanding the condition of the track, was remarkably good. Every horse was forced to do his best, and while no phenomenal time was made, nearly every race was closely contested. The display of live-stock, while not as large as in former years, was very creditable, from the fact that nearly everyone shown was bred in California and are the descendants of the very best that could be procured in all parts of the world. The music was excellent, and the musicians, being all Sacramento people, seemed to feel that they must do their best to please; it is almost needless to add they succeeded.

The pavilion display was on a different plan from any heretofore seen here, and during the last week the immense building was thronged with beautiful women and handsome men.

When it comes to comparing the daily attendance at the track, however—that is, the number admitted during the days the light-harness horses were contesting and the days the thoroughbreds were striving for supremacy—this fact must not be lost sight of—the two Thursdays were holidays and the two Saturdays always draw extra large crowds. Financially the meeting is a great success, and, as stated above, it has been successful from every point of view.

Plain Facts.

In an announcement made to the daily newspapers by F. W. Kelley, Secretary of the Pacific Coast Trotting Horse Breeders Association, the statement was made that this organization might give running races at its next meeting. It is needless to say that this was unauthorized, as no action of the Board of Directors had been taken on this subject at the time.

At the last meeting, however, the subject was discussed and a committee appointed to confer with the horsemen regarding it. Several arguments were advanced why running races should be given, the principal one being that they would draw a larger attendance and by that means more money would be obtained for gate receipts. Bookmakers would be able to act in conjunction with the regular auction pool-sellers employed.

The subject is one of great importance, and while on the face such an argument bears much weight, nevertheless there are several things to be considered before such a step should be taken. The track would be rendered almost unfit for both runners and trotters, many owners of the latter declaring that they will not start their horses over the Oakland course if it is to be used for runners. There are seventeen races on the programme for the six days' meeting. Three races an afternoon is all that can be decided, even by "sandwiching" them. Then, how are the runners to start, except at dusk? According to the law, no purse of less than $300 can be given for a running race, and there must be no entrance fee charged. Hence $600 will have to be expended for the runners each day. Bookmakers will not care to "book" for more than $20 each race, and say there are five books on, that will be $200 from bookmakers. Add to this the amount to be paid for clerk, timer, handicapper, judges, board of stewards, etc., and the association will do well to be able to give running races for $850 a day. Deduct the $200 from bookmakers, and the balance to be taken in at the gate must be $650. Can this amount be taken in while the pool-rooms in Sausalito are running? Can the trotting horse people afford to do this?

There may be some stronger reasons advanced why running races should be given, and at the meeting of the Board next Monday the matter will be discussed in all its bearings. If it is for the best interests of the association to give these races, if it can be shown that it will be benefited financially or otherwise, the Breeder and Sportsman will do all in its power to help it.

Several plans in regard to properly advertising the meeting might also be referred to at this meeting, which will be productive of lasting benefit to this association, not one in debt, but with money in bank to meet all demands. A spring or summer meeting never pays like a fall meeting, and a little more life, a little more stirring up of interest would be productive of much good. It is safe to say that the majority of light-harness horse lovers do not even know the date of the P. C. T. H. B. A. fall meeting. A few lessons regarding billing a town might be copied from all the prominent driving clubs and racing associations in the land.

Very few people outside of the readers of the Breeder and Sportsman (which has no advertisement of the meeting) know there is to be a meeting in Oakland the week after next. Not a poster or hanger of any kind has been seen on the circuit, no one has been around to try and get the followers of the races to come to the meeting; in fact, there is a sad lack of agitation in behalf of this great organization, a state of affairs which should certainly not exist and which speaks poorly for those whose duty it is to "boom" the meetings of this, the most influential organization of the sort on the Coast.

That Useful Horse, the Thoroughbred.

If persons owning ranches would use good judgment they would make a lot of money breeding horses. You cannot give a "scrub" away and a poor individual, no matter how well-bred, will not bring over $40 at the utmost. There should be more judgment displayed in the mating of animals of the equine race too. If you breed a wasp-waisted, leggy, small-bodied mare to a horse of the same description it is odds of 10 to 1 that the result of the union will be what horsemen term "a weed." As it is an authenticated fact that a foal has in its veins at least 60 per cent. of the blood of the mother at weaning time, and from that to 70 per cent., it stands to reason that the mother's conformation and disposition should be looked to more than that of the sire. It is an old saying about famous brood mares, "mate her with a jack and she'll throw you a race horse." Take Reel, Margaret Wood, Picayune, Vandal's dam, Marion and many other celebrated thoroughbred American matrons, and through their produce, sired by different horses, they prove that the greatness lies in them more than in the stallion they were mated with. Take Pocahontas, Queen Mary and others in England, and it proves that the principal merit was transmitted by the mothers. Observe the list of great mothers of trotters and see the variety of horses they were mated with. Therefore, we say, first look for good individuailty in mares, then at the blood lines, and if the animals are from families of proven merit, so much the better. Once in a while, though, a grandly-built mare from a family not noted on the turf establishes a family of her own that achieves renown. Belle Knight and Fancy Jane are two from families of no particular reputation in the racing line that we can call to mind. The first-named was the mother of twelve winners, eight of stake class; the latter was the dam of the turf queen, Miss Woodford, and the good Belle of Runnymede, both producers of winners.

Of course a REALLY GREAT sire stamps his "looks" upon his sons and daughters, but it is from the great mothers that comes the courage and determination to do or die. Longfellow was the most remarkable horse to sire large colts in America. His progeny were generally not only above the average in size but did not get their growth early, and consequently were not at their best until three years of age or over. The same may be said of the Eolus horses. The sons and daughters of imp. Midlothian, like the horse, are generally on the small order, "all horse" though, and are "ready money," "coming to their speed" early in life. The Bend Ors are noted for their beauty. Ormonde, his son, was not the only "horse of the century," but one of the handsomest animals one ever saw. Imp. Goldfinch, his son, is a model famed for his kingly appearance, and his get are generally handsome in the extreme. The Darebins are large, as a class, but race well early in life.

Good thoroughbred racers "come in all shapes," however, though the real champions had the greyhound conformation to a great extent—immense depth through the heart and tremendous length from hip to hock. Ormonde, Gladiateur, West Australian, Isinglass and now Galtee More, of the English turf; Carbine and Wallace, of the Australian, and Lexington, Norfolk, Harry Bassett, Salvator, Potomac and Morello, of the American turf, were "high on the leg."

A great deal money is to be made on this Coast by the man who can breed a handsome lot of bay or brown carriage horses sixteen hands or over in height and weighing from 1,200 to 1,400 pounds, the horses paired off and nicely matched. They must be able to trot in 3:00 and pull a carriage with two men in it, have nice action and go well together. Such teams will command from $700 to $2,000 to-day in San Francisco. Some man with a little enterprise, capital and intelligence will embark in the business of breeding and developing such horses for the market, and he will make a great fortune. He will buy some very large bay trotting mares (sisters if possible) and mate them with a bay stallion of good size, action and breeding (a thoroughbred or trotter), and he will very likely breed the kind of animals he desires. The thoroughbred horse is one of the most useful animals in the world, and his worth is becoming more apparent every day. His blood is found in the veins of the best gallopers, trotters and pacers before the sport-loving public, and it will be utilized in the future in the production of the roadster for whom no road is too long and in that of the hunter and the best class of cavalry horses. A future for the unsuccessful but good-looking racer (the "skate") would be opened up, to the great benefit of the owners of poor racers and persons interested in breeding fast, stylish and good-looking carriage horses, hunters or first-class cavalry animals.

Salinas' Meeting Next Month.

The prosperous little city of Salinas will have a good meeting this year, the dates claimed being October 12th to 16th. The programme is advertised in this issue. It provides for 2:11, 2:15, 2:19, 2:24 and 2:30 class trotters and for 2:10, 2:13, 2:17, 2:20 and 2:25 class pacers. Entries close next Wednesday night at 12 o'clock with Secretary John J. Kelly. The people of Salinas are as a class great lovers of a good trotter or a pacer, and always support the meetings held there with a will. As there is no more prosperous community in the State at present, the coming meeting will doubtless be the best attended one ever held there, and the class of horses will be in keeping with the attendance.

The Los Angeles meeting will eclipse any mixed meeting ever held in California. It will attract visitors from all over California and Arizona, and the management anticipate that forty thousand people will pass through the gates. The success of the Los Angeles meetings is due to the liberality of the management. John D. Lynch, the new President, is a great believer in big purses, and his confidence has been rewarded by receiving the grandest entry list, all in all, in the history of the Southern California Association. The railroad companies are to make reduced rates, as they realize that more people attend the Los Angeles meeting than any other west of Chicago. It is expected that five hundred San Francisco people will take advantage of the reduced rates to visit Los Angeles in October.

Seekers after first class stallions or brood mares or race horses should get a Brookdale catalogue (they will be ready about Monday next) and send on an order. The advertisement appears in this issue.

Stakes Worth Running For.

The California Jockey Club, one of the most liberal organizations in this country, owning its own track at Emeryville, about the "fastest" and safest to be found anywhere, now has open a list of stake events in keeping with the excellence of its establishment. Thirty-six stakes are announced, including the Burns Handicap, $10,000, and Thornton Stakes, $3,000. The free stakes, twelve in number, will appeal to turfmen all over the country. They were instituted last year, and were so popular that the list of entries should this season be the longest on record, as far as the Pacific Coast is concerned. Twenty stakes altogether close September 20, 1897, as follows:

The Opening Handicap, 1 mile	$1,000	The San Pablo Selling Stakes (free), 7 furlongs)	$1,000
The Produce Exchange Stakes, 6 furlongs	1,000	The Shell Mound Handicap (free), 1 mile	1,000
The Athenian Club Cup, 2¼ miles	1,500	The Golden Gate Stakes (free), 7 furlongs	1,000
The Naglee Selling Stakes, 7 furlongs	1,250	The Berkeley Handicap (free), 6 furlongs	1,000
The Racine Stakes, 6 furongs	1,000	The Reliance Club Handicap (free), 7 furlongs	1,000
The Burlingame Stakes, 1 mile	1,000	The Acme Club Handicap (free), 6½ furlongs	1,000
The Oakland Prize Stakes, 1 mile	1,250	The Alameda Handicap (free), 1 mile	1,000
The Flood Handicap, 1½ miles	1,500	The Emeryville Handicap (free), 1⅛ miles	1,250
The Flirtation Stakes (free) 6½ furlongs	1,000	The Cadmus Stakes (free) 1, mile	1,250
The California Maiden Stakes (free), 6 furlongs.	1,000	The Oakland Handicap (free), 1¼ miles	1,000

The Burns Handicap, 1¼ miles	$10,000	The Follansbee Handicap, 7 furlongs	$1,250
The Thornton Stakes, 4 miles	3,000	The McLaughlin Selling Stakes, 1 1-16 miles	1,250
The Palace Hotel Handicap, 1⅛ miles	2,000	The Pacific Union Stakes, 1⅛ miles	1,500
The Gunst Stakes, 1 1-16 miles	1,500	The Lissak Stakes, 6 furlongs	1,250
The Baldwin Hotel Handicap, 1 mile	1,500	The Rancho del Paso Handicap, 1 mile	1,250

The Elmwood Stakes	$1,000	The General Arthur Cigar Stakes	$1,250
The Flying Stakes	1,000	The Candelaria Handicap	1,500
The Racing Stakes	1,000
The Waterhouse Stakes	1,350

The above stakes are of a value of $53,600, or an average of $1,488.88 per stake. This speaks louder than words for the liberality of the California Jockey Club, and that the events will fill to overflowing is certain. The over-night purses, to which entrance will be free, are also well worth winning. Last season they ranged in value from $300 to $600. Several useful devices will be seen in operation at the Emeryville track for the first time at the coming meeting, including Captain Ben E. Harris' pivotal jockey board, and the present outlook (times are so much better than at this time last year) is for the most successful racing season in the history of California. Turfmen should bear in mind the fact that entries to twenty of the thirty-two stakes close with Secretary R. B. Milroy next Monday, September 20th, so that no time is to be lost. See the advertisement in this issue.

Los Angeles' Big Entry List.

The BREEDER AND SPORTSMAN heartily congratulates the Los Angeles Association on the grand list of entries secured for the Fair meeting in October, and there is no doubt that the Southern California association will have the banner meeting of the year. Of the twenty-seven, only two failed to fill, and they were the two-year-old pace and the two-year-old trot. The twenty-five events announced secured a grand total of 429 entries, which is an average of 18 to a race. The enterprise and liberality of the association have secured for Los Angeles the only free-for-all trot and free-for-all pace on the California circuit. The trot has no less than eight entries, which is a record for this State. The meeting of such side-wheelers as Silkwood, Joe Wheeler, and Searchlight should bring out the largest crowd in the history of the association.

The running stakes have filled splendidly, and the quality is far ahead of previous years. Some of the most prominent stables in California are represented. The entries are as follows, arranged in the order the races were advertised:

ONE of the finest colts, in fact, he is a prize-winner at the State Fair, is the chestnut suckling called The Inferno, owned by Pierce Bros., of the Santa Rosa Stock Farm. It is hard to beat him for breeding, either; sired by Diablo, 2:09¼, out of Biscara (dam of Stambold, 2:21¼), by Director, 2:17; second dam Biscara (dam of Pancoast, 2:21¾; Carlo, 2:27¾), by Harold 413; third dam Belle (dam of Belmont 64, Hambletonian, 2:26½, Lucas Brodhead, etc.), by Mambrino Chief II.; fourth dam Belle Lupe, by Bellfounder. Nearly every mare is a great broodmare in this pedigree through Alcantara, Electioneer, Steinway, Director, Harold, etc. Should The Inferno ever be placed in the breeding ranks he will be a sire that will be in demand. Biscara should be bred to Diablo hereafter.

SECRETARY F. W. KELLEY of the Pacific Coast Trotting Horse Breeders' Association, for some reason best known to himself, failed to send the lists of nominations for the meeting which is to take place at Oakland, beginning Sept. 27, to the BREEDER AND SPORTSMAN in time for the last issue, but gave them to a reporter of one of the dailies on Friday afternoon, ten days after they closed. We publish this statement so that no blame for their non-appearance last week may be attached to the publisher of this turf journal, to which all interested in light harness horses as well as thoroughbreds look for news.

A MEETING of the Board of Directors of the Pacific Coast Trotting Horse Breeders Association will be held at the Secretary's rooms, 22½ Geary street, next Monday, at 9:30 A. M. The question, "Shall we hold running races at our meeting in Oakland?" will be considered. A full attendance is earnestly requested.

HORSEMEN pronounce Speed Sustaining Elixir the most wonderful preperation to enable horses to undergo extreme physical exertion with little fatigue ever invented. Those campaigning harness horses cannot afford to be wit hout it. See the advertisement in this issue.

THE circulation of the BREEDER AND SPORTSMAN is increasing. A large number of subscribers who failed to pay their subscriptions are patronizing the news stands for copies. This is economy. They pay $5.20 for what they can obtain for $3.00.

ENTRIES for the Stockton, San Jose, Santa Ana and P. C. T. H. B. A. meetings appear in this issue.

THE Stockton Associaton has added several running races to its programme, some closing last Thursday, some overnight. They are as follows: Monday—Six-furlong selling race, ten lbs. below scale, purse $100. Wednesday—Five and one-half furlongs, non-winners of over three races in 1897, allowances, purse $125, $10 entrance. Friday—Five-furlong heats, three-year-olds and over, seven lbs. below scale, penalties, purse $125, $10 entrance; half a mile, three-year-olds and upwards, seven lbs. below scale, penalties, purse $125, $10 entrance. Saturday—Six furlongs, consolation handicap, purse $100.

HOOF-BEATS.

ARKLOW, sire of Mrs. Langtry's (Mr. Jersey's) Liverpool Cup winner, Brayhead, is an own brother to Ormonde.

JOCKEY SLAUGHTER regained consciousness last Saturday and revived so that he could walk. Dr. Bernays said the boy would be able to ride in a day or two.

TENNY, the sturdy swayback, is proving a good sire, as we predicted he would. On the 11th inst. Miss Tenny won at Fort Erie and Empress Josephine at St. Louis.

MR. ED. FRAZIER has sold Cavalero to J. E. Seagram, of Canada, for $6,000. Cavalero has showed his quality to the Easterners and sold simply on his merits.—Thoroughbred Record.

THOROUGHBRED-OWNERS should remember that at the San Jose meeting races will be provided for runners at nearly all distances, and the outlook is for a good meeting and lively speculation.

THE beautiful pacing stallion, Pomona, 2:15 (has shown 2:10 privately), by Albion 5514, dam by Re-Echo, is advertised in this issue to be sold or traded for. It is a rare opportunity to secure a grand, fast horse for a tithe of his value.

PAT DUNNE, through the victory of Midian, September 11th, won Homelike from Jimmy Rowe and Chalmers from John Rogers. There was a stipulation before the race that if either of them won the winner was to take all three horses.

THE announcement was made in New York September 11th that the Saratoga race track had been leased for twenty-five years by the citizens of the town. The track will be gratuitously managed by five prominent metropolitan turfmen, with August Belmont at their head.

THE Citrus Belt Handicap, at Los Angeles, one mile, is likely to prove a warm race, with such horses as Pescador, Nomad, Argentina, Chartreuse, Palomacita, Grady, Lost Girl, Flashlight, Fortunate, 'Otler Joe and Crescendo in it. It is the first stake down for decision at the meeting.

BIDS for privileges at the coming great Los Angeles meeting are now open, and will be found advertised in this issue. Bids will be opened September 30th. There will doubtless be some lively bidding, as the meeting will undoubtedly be by odds the best ever held at Los Angeles, which is saying a great deal.

FRESNO (Cal.), Sept. 15.—"White Hat" McCarthy to-day sold a one-half interest in his mare Baby Meade to James Kervin. The mare was sired by Eli, out of a thoroughbred mare. She was not broken to harness until five weeks ago, and yesterday trotted a mile on a heavy track, drawing a 115-pound sulky, in 2:26¼.

MR. FREDERICK GEBHARD, of New York, this week sent all of his stallions and broodmares to Mr. J. N. Camden Jr.'s Hartland Stud. They comprise the famous stallion St. Saviour and the less known but beautifully-bred stallion Owas, and a large number of broodmares, comprising some of the best in America.—The Thoroughbred Record.

THURSDAY'S NEWS IN BRIEF.—Do Do broke her neck in a steeplechase at Fort Erie, but her rider was uninjured.——The winners at Sacramento were Yule, Etta H., Lorena II. (Capital City Stake, $615), Lady Hurst, Daylight and Torsion. Not a favorite was successful. Eight thousand people were in attendance.———Ames rode two winners at Sacramento.———Henry Pierce, of Santa Rosa, took the prize for best display of standard-bred trotters at the State Fair; Mrs. T. Boyle's thoroughbreds (as a family) took first prize.

AT the Woodard & Shanklin sale of the horses of John Huffman, Montgomery Gibson and others at Harlem track last Saturday, thirty-five head brought the very fair average of $475.57. Those that brought over $700 were: $2,300 for Dare II., by imp. Oddfellow; $2,200 for Marplot, b c, by imp. Rossington, Barney Schreiber the purchaser; $1,900 for Our Chance, by Chance; $1,000 for Dulac, by Bubbler; $1,000 for Harry McCouch, by Ferg Kyle; $975 for Dr. Coop, by imp. King Galop, and $750 for chestnut filly by Magnetizer—Mon Droit.

Coming Events.

Sept. 28—Regular semi-monthly meeting of the San Francisco Fly Casting Club. Office of State Fish Commission, Flood Building, San Francisco.

Oct. 9—Annual open to the world tournament of the San Francisco Fly Casting Club at StoW Lake, Golden Gate Park. H. E. Skinner, secretary pro tem.

NOTICE TO ANGLERS.

Every angler is invited to drop us a line occasionally, telling us of the condition of the streams they have visited and the killing lure; of the number and size of the fish caught, or any other item of interest to anglers.

The Fly Casting Club.

The last semi-monthly contests of the San Francisco Fly Casting Club held at Stow Lake last Saturday and Sunday were unusually well attended. The wind or some other unaccountable circumstance exercized its influence on the long distance casters on Saturday. Every contestant fell short of his average and spent most of his time allowance in whipping the water near the platform. Mr. Golcher put out 100¼ feet of line, but that one time was the only cast he made. Mansfield and Lowry barely got started. The many back scores and unusually large entry kept the contestants busy until nearly dark. The calm water at dusk greatly improved the scores in the delicacy contest, as the contestants could see what they were doing. The judges on Saturday were Lovett, Skinner and Lowry.

On Sunday the attendance was even better than on Saturday and the scores were better except those of the novices. The judges were "Emery," Lowry and Lovett.

The club will meet again next Saturday to cast off the ties for the season's medals. Dr. Lowry has the most wins to his credit in the Saturday long distance contest and Mansfield the most of the Sunday contests. They will cast off for that medal. Mansfield has won the distance and accuracy events for both days. Dr. Lowry and Bacheller are the winners of the two contests for delicacy and accuracy and will cast off for the medal for that event. A good many other members will be on hand to practice for the tournament.

The scores of the last contests were as follows:

A Good Catch.

Editor Breeder and Sportsman—I see by your last paper where a Mr. Sim caught 418 trout from July 23d to Aug. 14th. I think we can beat that a little. John Silva of Pennington, Sutter county, has caught 790 from the 30th of July to the 10th of Sept., and among the number one that weighed 6½ pounds and one that weighed 7¾ pounds. All taken with an 8-oz rod. He has caught several that would weigh from one to three pounds. W. S. H.

Prattville, Plumas Co.

[These trout were probably caught in the middle fork of the Feather river and its tributaries.—Ed.]

A. F. Herman and S. F. Loch and son of San Jose have returned from a three weeks' outing at Pelican Bay on arm of Klamath Lake. They went in via Ague, Klamath Hot Springs and Linkville. They report excellent fishing. The largest fish caught weighed six pounds, but they tell of many ten-pounders that carried away their best tackle.

The Santa Cruz county streams received their share of the trout fry from the Sissons hatchery last week; 25,000 were planted in Bear creek and 50,000 in King and Bean creeks and Big Basin district, tributaries of Boulder.

Harry F. Erneric has presented his resignation as Fish Commissioner to Gov. Budd. Ill health and pressure of business are the reasons given, and Chas. B. Gould of Oakland has been appointed as his successor.

The Island will be roped off during the tournament at Stow Lake on October 9th, to prevent interference by the boats, and a line will be stretched along the bank to prevent the judges being interfered with.

J. P. Babcock reports excellent fishing on the Eel river. The new hatchery is rapidly nearing completion. It is situated on Price creek, opposite the mouth of the Van Duzen, Grizzly Bluff.

W. D. Mansfield has won 36, Dr. E. N. Lowry 28 and W. E. Bacheller 10 contests, a total of 74 out of the 90 contests held this season. Good material for a champion class.

W. S. Bogart and wife fared better at Boca than the majority of the anglers. They caught 40 pounds Sunday and Monday last, and on Monday it blew a gale.

J. P. Babcock, John F. Siebe, W. C. Murdock, A. S. Carmen and F. S. Butler are among those talked of for judges at the Fly Casting tournament.

Black bass fishing is at its best in the Russian river now. The El Bonito at Duncan's Mills is the anglers home.

DOINGS IN DOGDOM.

Some of the very largest St. Bernards, Mastiffs and Great Danes ever raised were reared almost entirely on Spratts biscuits. They are the cheapest food in the end.

Another St. Barnard has joined the great majority. This time it is Bedivere Joe, owned by A. Skinkle of Los Gatos. He died from a disease that attacked the glands of the neck.

The dog breeders all speak highly of Glover's canker wash, Glover's vermifuge and Glover's distemper cure. All the sporting goods dealers carry a stock of these medicines. Try them.

Chas. Dresser has purchased of C. E. Culver the well-known young Great Dane bitch Orchard Trilby 40,265, by King William 34,279, out of Ionia 37,532. Trilby won 1st at St. Louis when a puppy and divided first with Juanita at Stockton last year. She is a bitch of excellent quality and will certainly improve Mr. Dresser's stock.

J. C. Berret, Corresponding Secretary of the California Collie Club, would like to be placed in communication with owners and breeders of collies. All queries will be cheerfully answered, and any one desiring a copy of the rules and constitution with standard will be promptly furnished with the same upon application. His address is P. O. Box 430, San Jose.

H. J. Hicks, of the San Francisco Calcium Light Co., will surely have the sympathy of all the dog fanciers in the loss of his cocker bitch Trixy H., which died during parturition on September 3d. Trixy was a well-bred bitch, being a close descendant of the English champion, Beverly Comet. Trixy was not only a constant companion of Mr. Hicks, but a great pet around the local theatres and much admired.

To the Sportsman.

Here's to the man with a gun on his shoulder,
Who cares not for the weather, but trudges on;
Who stops at no thicket and leaps o'er the boulder
And steadies his aim with an arm that is strong.

No trappings that glitter respond to the gleaming
Of the sun which beats fierce as he goes on his way;
He's too old a campaigner to care for fine seeming;
He laughs, though his garments be spattered with clay.

My heart finds no pleasure in deeds that are martial;
They seem but perversions of powder and ball;
But my stomach, in sooth, is exceeding partial
To the man who goes hunting for birds in the fall.

The Olympic's Tournament.

The Olympic Gun Club will close the live-bird shooting season with what promises to be one of the star events of the year. The final club shoot and an open-to-all tournament will be given on Sunday, September 26th at the club's new preserve on the Petaluma marsh.

A special steamer has been engaged to take the participants to the club's wharf, leaving San Francisco at 7 A. M. Sunday. Lunch and refreshments will be served at the club's expense.

There will be one hundred dozen pigeons on hand and every shot gun exponent is expected to be present, all are invited and all will be welcome, The Olympics have proven themselves royal entertainers and they expect to out do themselves this time.

Then and Now.

The signs are right. In the neglected pastures the feathery stems of the tall weeds are beginning to be tipped with the gold that gives them their name, and the rowen crops of the hay land are thickly dotted with withered brown clover heads and with the white panicles of the wild carrot, The pale yellow of the shorn rye stubbles is overtopped and hinden by the abundance of the tall ragweed, green as yet, on which later the quill and brown sparrow may feed. By the roadside asters are blooming, and the tangled blackberry vines that creep over the old stone walls and up the weathered and rotting fence posts bear a rich fruitage of red and black. Daily the apples in the orchards are growing larger. As yet they have taken on no color, but the peaches have begun to borrow the hues of the setting sun and give promise that ere long they may be gathered. The chestnut burrs have formed and are beginning to fill. Down along the river the wild rice seeds are hardening.

The time of singing of birds is past and gone. Only the alarm notes of the robin, woodthrush or catbird are heard. All have finished their season's work, have reared their broods, and now are gathering strength for the long journey on which before long they must start. Birds are still to be seen, but they are busy, restless, uneasy. Swallows are gathering on the telegraph wires; loose flocks of kingbirds are standing on the tree tops, and making swift dashes after the passing insects; mottled bobolinks fly over the marshes, and rarely a belated family of crows wings its silent way across the fields. But bird time is over, and from now until another spring, those which we see will be only our native hosts assembling for the journey or loiterers moving along southward, or hardy winter residents, which ply their busy tasks in field and woods all through the season of bitter cold.

Twenty-five years ago many of us went rail shooting with our muzzleloaders. Breechloaders were not too common then. On the thwart before the gunner were often boxes containing his powder, his shot, his wads and his caps. In the first two were the measures, and a stiff hickory loading rod, almost as stout as the bore of his gun, rested beside them.

As he was rowed from the landing to the grounds his pusher discoursed on the shooting of the past. "Twenty years ago," he would cay. "Ah, them was the times! James Smith got 211 birds to a tide and Johnny Jones got 194," and so he would go over the big scores that had been made in the good old days, and lament over the present scarcity of birds and the lesser skill of the shooters of his time. Then when they reached the grounds and the gunner had arranged his ammunition, and they shoved into the rustling grass and the first bird rose, there would be heard the call "Mark!" the crack of the lightly loaded gun, the splash of the block thrown to mark where the bird fell, the squeak of the wads in the barrel, and finally the tick of the locks, which signified that the gun was loaded. Then the boat would move forward again through the swishing grass.

In those days eighty birds was a good bag, and 100 about the top score. What is it to-day? A recent report from a rail ground, where in those days 500 to 600 birds were not infrequently boated by all the bosts out during a tide, gives on the opening day in the year of our Lord 1897 just nine rail. Over most of the ground not a bird was raised. On a certain piece, which in old times often gave two boats shooting for a whole tide, there were found two rail.

As it is with rail, so it is with most other birds. It is not strange that the men of this day have to a large extent given up field shooting and have taken to shooting at saucers thrown into the air by means of a spring. It is not strange, but, in truth, it is exceedingly pitiful.—Forest and Stream.

Olympic Gun Club.

A. J. Webb is the champion bluerock shot of the Olympic Gun Club for the season of 1897. He won the title and a handsome medal by breaking 46 birds out of 50 at Ingleside Sunday. Otto Feudner was the runner-up and finished only two birds to the bad.

The race between Webb and Feudner was the most exciting of the season. When the shooting started yesterday the two men were tied with 110 breaks each out of 125. On the first string of twenty-five each broke twenty-three, leaving them still tied with 133 out of a possible 150. The second string of twenty-five left the issue in doubt until the last half of the race. Feudner started with a miss, and Webb evened up matters by missing his second bird. Feudner scored another cipher on the seventh round and remained a bird behind until the eighteenth round, when Webb also missed. The tie at this point was soon broken. Feudner lost his twentieth and twenty-fourth. Webb killed out straight, finishing with a score of 23.

The first-class medal was won by Nauman. The race for the second class medal resulted in a tie between E. A. and F. J. Schultz, brothers. In the shoot-off at twenty-five birds F. J. Schultz proved an easy winner, scoring 20 against 13 for the other member of the Schultz family. The third-class medal was won by Neustadter.

One of the features of the club race was the work of the six men selected to represent the Olympic Gun Club in the State shoot at Monterey next week. The six men are M. O. Feudner, Nauman, Fred Fuedner, Webb, C. A. Haight and W. J. Golcher. They shot at 150 birds and in that number lost but fifteen. Nauman was high man with a clean score of 25. Webb and M O. Feudner each scored 23. Fred Feudner was credited with 22 and Haight and Golcher followed close behind with 21 each. The complete list of scores is as follows:

Nauman 25, Webb 23, M. O. Feudner 23, Fred Feudner 22, Haight 21, Golcher 21, Fishbeck 19, Matteson 19, "Edwards" 19, F. J. Schultz 19, McMahon 18, Owens 18, Murdock 18, F. Vernon 18, Grant 17, Neustadter 17, "Slade" 16, E. A. Schultz 16, Allen 13, Scovern 13, M. E. Unger 12, Dr. Lane 11, Sloan 9.

The following scores were made in a ten-bird race; entrance 50 cents: "Slade" 5, H. Vernon 6, Neustadter 5, M. O. Feudner 10, Webb 9, F. Vernon 7, Grant 5, Kleversahl 8, Fred Feudner 10, Fishbeck 7, Matteson 3, E. A. Schultz 6.

Another ten bird pool resulted as followed: Webb, 7; Grant, 9; Kleversahl, 6; Neustadter, 8; O. Feudner, 10; Fishbeck, 7; F. Feudner, 8; "Edwards," 8; F. J. Schultz, 7; Owens, 6.

O. Feudner took first money and Grant took second money.

The main event of the afternoon was a twenty-five bird race; entrance $1, $10 added, class shooting, four moneys. Feudner broke 24 and took first money, $6 80. The second money, $5 10, was won by Fishbeck on a score of 23. Webb, Golcher and F. Vernon were in the twenty-one hole and divided third money, $3.40. The fourth money went to Haight, Kleversahl, Owens and "Edwards" on scores of 20 each. The scores were:

M. O. Feudner, 24; Fishback, 23; Webb, 21; Haight, 20; Golcher, 21; Fred Feudner, 17; McMahon, 19; F. Vernon, 21; Grant, 14; Kleversahl, 20; Neustadter, 13; Murdock, 13; Owens, 20; "Edwards," 20.

In the fifteen-bird race the following scores were made: Grant, 11; Fishbeck, 12; F. Vernon, 9; Haight, 12; W. J. Golcher, 13; Otto Feudner, 13; Fred Feudner, 13; McMahon, 12; Kleversahl, 13.

First money went to the men who made 13, and second money to those who made 12.

Los Angeles Gun Club.

An all-day bluerock shoot was held by the Los Angeles Gun Club at its grounds west of Westlake Park on Admission Day, beginning at 9 o'clock. A fair attendance of spectators and marksmen was present. The best all-round shooting of the day was done by Van Valkenburg, Blades and Vaughan, the high average being captured by Vaughan, with a score of 80 out of 100. Van Valkenburg and Blades were a close second with scores of 87 each.

Councilman Blanchard made his appearance during the day and evidently had his eye with him for he broke 84 out of a hundred targets, thus putting him in the front rank. Bradley also shot well, scoring 86 targets out of the hundred. The largest consecutive run of breaks was made by Blades, with 25, Van Valkenburg coming second with 23. Following ore the scores and averages:

First Event, 10 Birds—Won by Bradley and Ellis, 10; second, won by Leighton and Blanchard, 9; third won by Ralphs, Vaughan, Alexander, Van Valkenburg, Vodra, Blades, Variel and Farrel, 8.

Second Event, 15 Birds—First wrn by Vaughan, 15; second won by Bradley, 14; third won by Ellis and Van Valkenburg, 13.

CARTRIDGE AND SHELL.

The open season for killing deer in Marin county closed on the 15th.

Frank Harden made a nice bag of curlew at Alviso Bridges last Sunday.

Wm. Murphy has won the Santa Rosa Gun Club's trophy for the season of 1897.

The attendance at the Monterey tournament promises to be the best of the year.

Watch the work done by Dupont Smokeless at the tournament to-day and to-morrow.

Jack Fanning is doing good work in the East, but he will be missed to day at Monterey.

Wm. King and Geo Bolee, of Salinas killed a deer near Blanco on the 2d that dressed 145 lbs.

A. J. Webb won the Olympic championship medal for the season of 1897 at Ingleside last Sunday.

Take note of the execution done by Remington guns and U. M. C. ammunition at the tournament.

Gold Dust powder is "catching on" very rapidly in the East. Its sales are doubling every month.

Ed. H. Haney and Thos. H. Burland of Salinas killed three deer near Salinas last Sunday morning.

To-day is the first day of the great tournament at Monterey. If you can't get there to-day, go to-morrow.

Bear are quite plentiful about Oroville. One grizzly and two cinnamons were killed in that vicinity last week.

The doves have not all been killed this season. Thos. Robinson made another bag of 150 near Winters last Sunday

The Mt. Shasta Gun Club held its first shoot on the 5th at Redding. A. F. Dobrowsky was top score with 14 out of 20.

Did you ever use Gold Dust in the Acme shell? It is especially adapted to that powder on account of its high base.

Game Warden Caplatzi of Santa Cruz is doing good work, but when a man kills a fawn and the jury disagree on the verdict it is certainly discouraging.

Will the Los Angeles teams return to their homes with both the Overland Monthly and the Association team trophy? To-day and to-morrow will tell.

Geo. Franzen, W. J. Hynes, R. H. Liddle and J. McBrown returned from their outing near Point Arena last week. They killed eight deer and enjoyed fine trout fishing in the Garcia.

The Sportsmen's Protective Association of Santa Clara county is camping on the trail of some parties who killed does last Sunday week. We hope the hounds will run down their quarry.

Ed Richards and Guy Brown of Stockton have returned from a two months' trip in Mendocino and Trinity counties. They found plenty of grouse, mountain quail and trout and killed 28 deer.

W. L. Prather Jr., W. N. Wetmore, A. H. Blow, F. Johns, Ives and Clement were at the Pastime Gun Club, Alviso, last Sunday preparing for the duck-shooting season. They saw a number of flocks of ducks.

The semi-monthly medal shoot of the Stockton Gun Club held on Sept. 12th resulted in the following scores: Petterson 19, Barnett 15, Easy 15, Jones 15, Ralph 14, G. Ditz 14, A. Mpsto 14, Ditz 13, Carpenter 12, Eck 11, Tinkham 10.

Ducks are reported quite plentiful on the Alameda, Alviso, Petaluma, and Sonoma marshes and exceedingly plentiful at Suisun. The majority of the birds are home bred but it really looks as though some of them were northern arrivals.

Chas. R. Yates has returned from his northern trip, and not empty handed either. He bagged one bull elk weighing nearly 1,000 pounds. His horns weigh 70 pounds. He killed it near Mt. Steel with one shot from a 30-30 at 150 yards.

The Olympic Gun Club's preserve lays on the east side of Petaluma creek, the stream forming the western boundary of the preserve, as it does the Petaluma Sportsmen's Club preserves. The land lies between Lakeville and Black Point bridge.

The Canvasback Gun Club has elected the following officers: George Locke Sr., president; Captain J. L. Young, vice-president; Dr. F. F. Tebbets, secretary and treasurer. They have rented Pritchard's Lake, about fifteen miles north of Sacramento, and are preparing for the coming duck season.

At the regular annual meeting of the Petaluma Sportsmen's club held at Steiger's gun store, the following officers were unanimously re-elected for the ensuing term of one year: President, R. S. Brown; Vice-President, F. M. Collins; Secretary, E. E. Drees; Treasurer, P. J. Steiger; Directors, Ed. D. Hedges, Lyman Green, S. J. Hopkins.

When the 30-30 was first introduced great things were predicted of it. This season's shooting has verified all the claims made by the manufacturers. The 30-30 soft nose bullet is as effective as the 45-90 and the extreme lightness of the arm and ammunition, the flat trajectory and absence of noise and smoke place this weapon at the head of the list.

John Hanneman Sr., John Hanneman Jr., Will Hanneman Jr., Joe Dreschler and Herrman Richter have returned from a six weeks' camping trip which they spent at Yolo Bowl Mountain, which is not far from Redding. They report having had the most excellent luck, killing twenty-seven deer, one huge brown bear and a smaller black bear. —Woodland Mail.

The Baden Gun Club held a meeting on Wednesday evening of last week, which was well attended, and at which arrangements were made for the strict enforcement of the game law during this year. The club will assist and aid the local officers in the prosecution of any and all persons who may violate the law. The grounds of the club are enclosed and posted; no trespassing will be permitted.

"Jim Elliott's victory over Charlie Budd gives him two championship emblems and titles; he has won the Star cup and the Du Pont trophy. The cast iron badge remains, and it would seem that that, too, belongs to him by virtue of forfeiture, Charlie Grimm not having paid any attention to the challenge issued by Elliott at the same time, and in the same letter, that he challenged for the two trophies above mentioned."

If you want to make a Soquel deer hunter angry, ask him about that deer that was seen near Lynch's, up Soquel creek. It seems some wag made a deer of wood and placed it in a position where an occasional glimpse could be seen of it as one drove along the road. It soon became noised about that there was a deer near town, and hunter after hunter, some with dogs and others without, were hunting for that deer.—Santa Cruz Sentinel.

Mr. Charles M. Grimm of Clear Lake, Ia., and Mr. Fred Gilbert of Spirit Lake, Ia., shot a match at 100 live birds per man at the recent tournament at Algona, Ia. Both men shot with great determination, for while they had met often at tournaments they had never before met in an individual match where both wanted to win and where each was determined to win if he could. The scores were: Gilbert 94, Grimm 93.—American Field.

The '97 catalogue of the Hunter Arms Company is at hand. As usual, it is a model of neatness, and in addition to the usual amount of space devoted to the description of the popular "Smith" guns it contains two pages on "Ammunition." The popular loads, amount of powder, quality of wads and quantity requisite for each and all of the popular nitro powders are all described, and the catalogue contains a great deal other valuable information. Write them for a copy at Fulton, N. Y., or ask your gun dealer for one.

The editor of a North Dakota paper, discussing the clay pigeon shooting, writes as follows: "Clay pigeon shooting is having a large circulation in Grafton. The pigeons themselves never did any harm and a good many of them never have any harm done to them. A barrel of pigeons can be broken very quickly with a pile driver if they are left under its eavespout, but when they are thrown in the air from a trap which is operated by a spring made from the hindleg of a healthy mule, it takes more than noise from a shotgun to reduce them to ashes. They are about as big as a saucer, but when they commence to get away they look smaller than a ten cent piece to the man with the shotgun, who is trying to stop them. Men who are able to hit a big barn ten feet away often find difficulty in getting their shotguns pointed at these small but active insects. A gun might be filled full of carpet tacks and kick hard enough to ring the school bell, but after the smoke and noise clears up the clay bird is seen sailing quietly away. It breaks them all up to be hit, but when they are not hit it breaks the other fellow all up."

Over 100 horsemen organized in New York on September 10th the Horsemen's Protective Association. Seventy-five members paid an initiation fee of $50, $1,500 was subscribed to further its interests, and September 21st was the date set for a meeting to adopt a constitution and by-laws. R. Wyndham Walden was elected President, William Lakeland Vice-President, John J. Hyland Treasurer, and Ira H. Garside Secretary. The incorporators will act as a Board of Directors until the meeting of September 21st when a regular board will be selected as counsel for the association. The objects of the organization, as expressed by Counsellor Moore, are the fostering and protection of the interests of horse-owners and of duly licensed trainers and jockeys; the improvement of the breed of thoroughbred horses through the medium of trials of speed and otherwise; the settling of differences between members, and the promoting of more enlarged and friendly intercourse among all classes of men engaged in the owning, training, racing or riding of thoroughbred horses. Committees will be appointed to confer with the racing associations about matters at variance with the horsemen's ideas.

SPECIAL DEPARTMENT

JOSEPH CAIRN SIMPSON.

FOR AND AGAINST.—Taking this for the caption of "the leader" in this week's special, there is necessity for explanation at the very outset. To make the title clear, there must be added running races at the September meeting of the Pacific Coast Trotting Horse Breeders Association. A meeting of the Board of Directors was held on Tuesday afternoon to consider the question, and after arguments, pro. and con., the very sensible conclusion was reached to appoint a committee that would give the matter full consideration and report at the adjourned meeting of the Board Monday at 9:30 A. M. There was apparently unanimity in the opinion that pecuniary necessity was all that would justify the embodiment of galloping contests in the programme, that, and that alone being the plea for the innovation.

Briefly stated, late losses have reduced the funds of the association to $81,400, after paying all debts, including the salary of the Secretary for the year which, I suppose, will include the time between now and the annual meeting. The loss at the summer meeting held on the track of the California Jockey Club was $1,100, and hence it was represented that the association would be in danger of bankruptcy if there was no other source of revenue than that derived for harness-racing. Taking the emoluments of the two California Jockey Clubs to build an estimate upon, and the incorporation of twelve running races, with a six-day programme in which there are seventeen trotting and pacing races, entries ranging from 8 to 27, fifteen of them 3 in 5, it is argued will cover prospective losses, and in place of a depleted treasury an accumulation of coin in the strong box of the P. C. T. H. B. A.

I contend that if every dollar of the funds at the disposal of the association should be lost, far better for the future interests of the owners and breeders of this State than that the only association of the kind on the Pacific Coast should, in the first place, violate the constitution in which it is stated: "The object shall be to promote the legitimate interests of the breeders by encouraging the breeding of the highest type of the trotting horse and the development of the same." And again, Article VI, Sec. 6: "The Board of Directors is authorized to offer such purses and added money to stakes, whether trotting or pacing, as it may consider reasonably safe to be met by the income of the association."

A still grosser violation, the breach of an amendment to the constitution, adopted by an unanimous vote at the last annual meeting, that book betting be strictly prohibited at the future meetings of the association It is conceded by those who advocate interpolating running races into the programme that book betting must also be incorporated, advancing a plea so absurd that it would be ridiculous, were it not so dangerous, that running races being outside the object and intention of the organization, book betting on them was not a breach of the law.

Should the question be decided in the affirmative, the running races be authorized with all the accompaniments proposed, the constitution of the P. C. T. H. B. A. smashed in two of its main provisions, under the same plea as that advanced, necessity of making money, give the bookmakers full swing, allow them to "book" on every heat of every race, and fix the odds so that there will be a moral certainty of getting at least one-half of all the money wagered, and a round sum will be paid for the privilege. A streak of such rich ore in sight will stimulate a big price from a syndicate, and the opportunity to give auction and mutuels so deadly a blow as banishment from the coming meeting will prove, intensify the desire to secure the "plum."

To show that one-half the money wagered on the race can be "raked in" by the bookmaker, an illustration was presented at the Golden Gate Park Club meeting. The betting-booth bore the name of a person who is the applicant for the privilege of book-betting, should running races be annexed to the programme at the coming meeting:

Six horses in the races, the odds 3 to 2, 2 to 1, 1 to 1, 3 to 2, 3 to 1, 2 to 1. Legitimate bookmaking is said to be figure demonstration, the layer basing his operations on "getting round." Successful in the above, and $1,000 invested on each horse, the bookmakers' profit would be from $2,000 to $4,000, the average exactly one-half of the whole amount wagered.

Therefore if the plea of absolute necessity is to warrant a course never before pursued by a similar organization in the United States, then the argument is sound that to secure all the profits possible must be the governing principle. If bookmakers can give $400 per day for two races, two dashes, surely with three races in which nine heats must be trotted, unless, a rare case, the field is distanced, after making plenty of allowance for the greater favoritism of gamblers to bet on the winners, $600 should be obtained. One thousand dollars a day from the betting privileges will insure against loss.

The Secretary reports that seventeen harness races will cost $2,200, Above the entrance money paid twelve running races will cost $3,600—no entrance money.

Three thousand six hundred dollars, however is not the entire expense entailed by the running.

The proposition is to employ men who are familiar with running contests, and this far in the controvery that is admitted to be also a necessity. Judges, handicapper, paddock and patrol judges, Clerks of the Course and scales, are only a portion of the force necessary at a regular meeting, so that it is within bounds to assume that in addition to the purses something like $4,000 will be required. Thus there is an expense of $4,000 attached to the running annex, and if the supposition that bookmakers will pay $2,400, there is quite a sum to be returned by the gate in excess of what it would be without the running.

The financial situation, as I view it, is this: As it now stands, $2,200 and expenses must be made to come out even. Taking the summer meeting for a guide, with its loss of $1,100, it would seem as though a loss of like magnitude must be the result of the one that is to come off week after next. But there are several things to be considered, and after due consideration it will be noiced that there are favorable elements not presented in the summer meeting. For instance, 16 entries in the summer, 2:40 class, 27 entries in 2:30 class, 12 against 17, 10 against 14 in the 2:24. The 2:27 was omitted in the summer, 12 entries in the one to come. Nineteen in the 2:20 fall, 12 in the 2:19 summer. The 2:13 summer 8, the fall 11. At the summer meeting six trotting races had 66 entries; 5 pacing races, 51 entries. The fall meeting, 7 trotting races, 113 entries; 6 pacing races, 81 entries. In one case an average of 11 and 10, the other 16 and 13. The excess of entrance money received will be greater than the larger amount to be paid, so that it is safe to estimate a thousand dollars more from that source than was received at the summer meeting.

The expenses of the fall meeting should not be greater, in fact, if very closely handled there can be a reduction, and no one can authoritatively say that a curtailment of some of the expenses will entail a loss of revenue. That the receipts from gate and pools will be a good deal larger than at the summer meeting is nearly absolutely assured. In the first place there have been so many close races during the circuit that there are spirited controversies on their relative merit. Thus, Dr. Leek until he trotted at the State Fair was thought to have the slow classes at his mercy, but now there are several he will meet in the 2:40 and 2:30 classes that will take a deal of beating. Notwithstanding the horses were named in the minor event the first of June, the result of the races they have taken part in has not demonstrated any decided superiority. That speculators will feel more inclined to make investments is more than likely.

There was a prevailing apprehension that records would be avoided and whether that was justified or not by the races, it deterred people from making the venture.

Now with the assurance that the judges will do all in their power to have straight racing—and there is not the slightest doubt in my mind that in this respect "the stand" will do good work—the increase in betting will be a marked feature, and the difference between the summer and fall meetings, in the way of percentage, go a good way towards lessening the previous loss.

While I may be over-sanguine in my estimates, after making due allowance for the wish prompting a brighter outlook than is warranted, there can be little doubt that the meeting can be carried through without serious loss. Should every dollar in the fund be exhausted, the future would be brighter for harness horses than if there was a gain with r nning races interpolated.

But in place of jumping to the conclusion that twelve running races will add to the income, it is long odds, in my opinion, that a loss will follow greater than will be the case if the legitimate field is not encroached upon.

In order to have some ground to calculate the effect of the Sausalito betting rooms on the coming meeting, especially on the running races, I made the trip on Thursday, start ing on the boat that leaves San Francisco at 9:45 A. M.

The waiting room was crowded before the gates were opened, and on the boat there was plenty of evidence that the betting rooms were the objective point of a majority of the passengers, entry sheets, turf guides and other tokens of sporting proclivities in abundance, and the prevailing talk was of horses and odds, Quite a sprinkling of the gentler sex in the cabin of the steamer, one very handsome brunette, albeit she was adorned with a dainty moustache and still daintier side-whiskers of the Byronic pattern, that would attract admiration in any crowd, and though several of the ladies seen on the boat were handy to the rooms, and on betting intent, I was pleased that the beauty was not one of them. Very appropriate a seat in the grand stand, a lovely flower in a parterre of beauty, an additional sparkle of eyes, and a heightened color in cheeks when the horses are nearing the goal in a hot contest, but decidedly out of place in the vicinity of betting rooms. But outside of the evils attached to a "foreign book," there are many attractions to draw people to Sausalito, and it is not at all surprising that there are large concourses of people on every day of the week. I was assured that the attendance on Thursday was not larger than on any of the preceding days of the week, and with still more on Saturday.

More people came on the boat that leaves San Francisco at 11:30 A. M. than on the earlier, and before that landed the rooms were well filled. The one nearest the ferry landing was almost jammed with eager speculators: a well-dressed decorous assemblage, and apart from a liberal amount of tobacco smoke, nothing that would offend fastidious folk.

The other room, a good deal larger, was also crowded, and if some of them were not as faultlessly apparelled as those in the other place, equally as well behaved,

In the first place the trip across the bay is exceedingly enjoyable. One-half hour and the journey is ended, no transfer from boat to train, the landing only a short distance from either room. The whole day can be "put in" comfortably at small expense. Twenty-five cents to Sausalito and return, a a fair lunch, cigars, two or three glasses of beer, entry sheet, morning papers, the whole cost one dollar, and then there are eighteen races to speculate upon, and everyone of them pictured from start to finish, at least the placing of first, second and third at the various points. How many of the regular attendants of the Sausalita fiesta will cometo Emeryville? As many as are now away at the State Fair?

During the week of the Breeders there will be as many prominent Eastern racing meetings as there are now, therefore in answer to the above questions it is quite safe to say that there will be less than fifty who will make the change.

It is somewhat premature to speculate on the revenue to be derived from the books until an offer is made. As stated before, the necessity for obtaining money is the only plea that can be advanced for incorporating running races in the programme. That and the admission that without extraneous aid there will be heavy losses, are all that have influenced the directors to consider the proposition, and when the matter is fully considered I have little doubt that both of these assumptions are unwarranted.

It may be that the committee will report adversely, and that will end the controversy.

So highly important, however, this "burning question," that there should be a full attendance of the Directors at the meeting adjourned to Monday next, 9:30 A. M.

"IT WAS A HALF HOLIDAY TO-DAY.—The railroad shops and all the business houses except two showed their public spirit by closing up this afternoon, and in consequence 8,000 people were at the races."

While it is pleasant to record the public spirit of the Sacramento people, still more gratifying if harness-horse days had met equal encouragement. I have nothing but praises for the residents of the Capital City, who have always been liberal in their support of the State Fair, expending money and time to advance its interests, but in quoting the opening sentence of the Chronicle's account of the racing my object is to account for the large receipts on racing days and the comparative paucity of the returns when trotters and pacers performed.

In all probability the gate money in the six racing days will quadruple the receipts of the same number when harness racing figured, and when there were four holidays, counting Saturdays, for the gallopers, the trotters had to be contented with two "blue Mondays," two Wednesdays and two unlucky Fridays for a pecuniary showing.

While I am full of rejoicing over the success of legitimate racing in California, and congratulate the people who have been the main factors in securing the high position it now occupies, I am far from justifying the sacrifice of harness racing on the altar of prejudice. There is room for a large area for harness horses to occupy, when the jockey clubs restrict their periods of racing from the first of November to the middle of May.

Were it necessary to establish my position, with reference to thoroughbred interests, one point may be offered. I brought eleven horses to California in 1874, six thoroughbreds, five trotters, and took some part in active racing as long as I had horses to run. I had a harder fight in Chicago for gallopers, when there was only one member of the association that was not bitterly opposed to racing, than I ever made for trotters, and have worked to the best of my ability to secure an equal chance for both branches of the sport. Therefore when harness horses are placed in a position to give the opposition material for unfair criticism, I am desirous that reasons should havedsome weight for the disparity in receipts. Had there been a fair division, the first three days of the first week given to trotting and pacing, and a reversal of the days of the second week, even their admission day, and a half holiday besides, should have been sufficient.

There is another point to be considered. Harness horses had to pay a large amount in entrance money, winners of any portion of the purses ten per centum, five per centum from those which did not succeed in getting any part of the purses, whereas the racers were granted immunity from entrance fees.

If the harness division is compelled to labor under great disadvantages, owners struggle, and it may be that the reversal that has now taken place in the East may reach this coast, if not hopelessly thwarted by those who should be guardians of the truly American sport.

JOE WHEELER.—The breeding of the horse that bids fair to be a knocker-at-the-door, over which the legend is blazoned. Two minutes or better, has not been given correctly. His sire was by Norfall, according to John Collins, and this brings in a Norfolk strain.

The "glorious uncertainties" apply to the pacer with fully as much force as it does with the gallopers and trotters, and though from the form shown in the past Joe Wheeler appears to have the pull over his competitors in the "green" and 2:25 classes of the Breeders' meeting, there are others engaged that may prove exceedingly troublesome. Wheeler was far from being "at himself" before he reached Woodland, and Dame Rumor tells that he has a "leg."

The list will show several names, the possessors of which only require a little more speed to make them good company for the cracks, and the lateral-gaited is noted for picking up that grand desideratum of a race horse speed, in marvelously short space.

GOOD EFFECTS.—The criticism of what should be "tin-cup" affairs at the summer meeting had the good effect of insuring proper work thereafter. At Chico a similar affair was programmed "Performance against Time," and in Thursday's Examiner are reports from the State Fair, "Special for records to beat 2:30," and "For Record." The first won by Albine in 2:26, the second Lizzie E. went in 2:24.

The position I took has been sustained by the highest authority, the President of the N. T. A., and notwithstanding the tempest it raised must meet the approval of all who have the future well-doing of harness-racing at heart.

GOSSIP FROM GOTHAM.

Facts About the Flyers Racing Around the Country's Metropolis—The Coast Horses.

NEW YORK, September 2, 1897.

The past five weeks has furnished some sensational racing in New York and its environs. Hardly a day passed without a remarkable struggle being witnessed. Previous time marks, which had withstood many an effort to knock them out, were shattered. But best of all, the contests brought forth, from comparative obscurity, the best horses the American turf has ever had. This assertion may appear to be a very broad one, and a good many may take exception to it, but to those who cavil at the statement I fling back the experience of seventeen years, which is period of time a-plenty to judge of the good and the bad.

To begin with, I want to take off my hat to Hamburg, the greatest two-year-old of the century. As I think of the prowess of this great youngster the miserable unhappiness of life vanishes and eternal joys take possession of my thoughts, and I long, in order to do him due reverence, to be a manufacturer of hats, so that I might have the privilege of taking off more than one to him. Shorn of all superfluity, however, it is not too much to say of Hamburg that his performances this season have been little short of marvelous. In my previous letters I have dilated at some length about his early conquests. After his Double Event victory at Sheepshead Bay, Hamburg was shipped to Saratoga. While at the Spa he eclipsed all his performances and that of any other two-year-old ever seen on the turf in this country, by picking up the crushing weight of 132 pounds and defeating Archduke, the second best youngster of the year, easily. Hamburg gave away 15 pounds to his opponent and beat him easily in fast time.

It was on a Wednesday that Hamburg defeated Archduke. Two days later, Hamburg was stiff and sore, his old malady, muscular soreness, returning in full measure, brought on by wet weather. Much surprise was evinced by horsemen on the following day (Saturday) when they learned that Hamburg was to try conclusions again with Archduke. Knowing the poor shape Hamburg was in, everybody thought Mr. Madden, Hamburg's owner, was making a great mistake to start the colt. Mr. Madden, however, was at Brighton Beach at the time, and his trainer, anxious that the stake money should not go elsewhere, decided to run Hamburg. The result was a short head defeat for Hamburg, Archduke, the recipient of a great deal of weight, winning by a few inches in a furious drive.

Though defeated, Hamburg gained a host of new admirers for his great struggle. For handicapped as he was with a bodily affliction, he was still more anchored by a bad ride. Wilhite, his jockey, a mere lad of 90 pounds, rode in most wretched fashion, and when Taral, Archduke's rider, challenged, he nearly fell off. Hamburg showed a vast amount of courage and hung on and fought it out, without any assistance, for a furlong. John E. Madden arrived at Saratoga the evening of the race and on hearing of Hamburg's condition and Wilhite's ride, showed his displeasure of the proceedings by shipping the colt to Brighton Beach and putting Willie Sims up instead of Wilbite, when Hamburg won two races at that place.

If any doubts lingered in the minds of the talent as to whether Hamburg was the best youngster seen out in years, they were effectually eradicated yesterday (Wednesday) when Hamburg tried to give the great Requital 10 pounds and beat him a seven-furlong dash. Though he failed by a length of accomplishing his mission, Hamburg was the real hero of the day, and when he returned to the scales he was applauded vociferously, while Requital was received in silence.

Requital has always been considered one of the greatest horses that ever stood on iron. As a two-year-old he could stand such youngsters as Ben Brush and Crescendo on their heads, metaphorically speaking, over any kind of a route. As a three-year-old, he he was hailed as the best in years, his Realization victory stamping him a champion of champions. This year he was amiss. He started once before his effort yesterday, but performed so wretchedly that he was immediately turned out of training. He gave an idea of his quality on Sunday last by carring 130 pounds and stepping off a mile in easy style in 1:42⅖.

From the above recapitulation it will be seen that Hamburg's task of giving away 10 pounds was a hard one from the outset. But though defeated he made Requital run the best race of his life to head him at the finish. What he might have done had he been waited with, as ordered to do, is a problem now worrying the horsemen. Sims was told to wait with Hamburg to the stretch and then challenge. Hamburg can be placed in a race with a piece of string, and with his phenomenal speed his owner and trainer looked forward to him running over Requital when it came to the final sprint. Sims disregarded his orders, however, and took Hamburg to the front. The colt jumped away from his field and soon had an advantage of five lengths. The first furlong was covered in 11 2-5 seconds, with Hamburg under a pull; Requital and Flying Dutchman were driving to keep up. Requital, who is a very fast sprinter, set out to catch Hamburg, and under a drive closed the gap and got within two lengths of the leader, Hamburg had been steadied by Sims, but his perfect action carried him along without any apparent effort and the half mile was passed in 47 3-5. The five furlongs was covered in less than a minute. Think of it, five furlongs around turns in less than one minute! Why, its enough to make Marty Bergen's old wonder, Pecksniff, groan with anguish.

Around the turn with the stretch, Requital, under a hard drive, got up to Hamburg, Sims, who had the rail, carried Requital out to the middle of the track. Hamburg responded like a bulldog when called on, and he raced for a little over a half furlong with Requital at his head. Requital could not get away from Hamburg and Clayton, becoming anxious, went to the whip. Under persuasion, Requital got a slight advantage, but for six and one-half furlongs the struggle was in doubt, as Hamburg was hanging on like grim death to a sick nigger. In the last sixteenth of a mile the weight and his early effort began to tell on Hamburg, and his stride shortened. Requital's two years of superior strength told at the end and he passed Hamburg in the last fifty yards and won in a drive by a length. The time, 1:26 3-5, was the best ever made over the Sheephead Bay track for the distance.

Ornament, who has won Derbies galore, proved he has a great turn of speed along with his staying qualities by defeating the crack sprinters Voter and Hastings at six furlongs last week. Ornament was in receipt of weight from both Voter and Hastings. This, as well as the way in which the race was won, played an important part in the ultimate result. Voter and Hastings raced at each other's heads for five furlongs in an endeavor to kill one another off. By so doing they helped to defeat themselves, as Cleophus and Ornament, who were in the rear in the early struggle, made their runs when the leaders were beaten and finished one, two, Ornament winning easily in the last 100 yards. Though everything was in Ornament's favor, he is entitled to no small share of applause for the good, game struggle he put up. He got off poorly and must have run much better than the time, 1:14 2-5. The track was not fast by any means, a heavy rainstorm of the previous evening making it slow. Ornament, who has been trundled all over the country, shows immense vitality, and should he meet The Friar over a distance of ground he is very likely to give the Morris colt a tussle that will bring on another attack of his nerves.

Wyndham Walden, The Friar's trainer, has evidently rounded to the way of the public's opinion as to the best method to ride his colt, for in all his races subsequent to the investigation the "nervous horse" has been allowed to go to the front. On August 21st, at Brighton Beach, The Friar, after a grand race with Sunny Slope and Ben Brush at two miles and a quarter, lowered the track record to 3:56½. The Friar rated his quarters very nicely and at the end staved off Sunny Slope's and Ben Brush's challenges. For a mile and three-quarters little Ben was a great horse, but after that his 130 pounds became too heavy for the little fellow and he had to succumb. The Frar is both speedy and a good rater and if he does not get too nervous this winter should develop into a good four-year-old. That he can beat Ornament up to a mile and a half is open to conjecture.

The Futurity of '97 will long be remembered as bringing forth the poorest lot of youngsters that ever sported silk in that big race. Through declarations and errors of judgment all the crack youngsters were missing and only third-class colts and fillies and maidens started. Howland, who was a good colt in the spring, trained off, and Plaudit, who finished fourth, needed a race in him to make him on edge. He ran well, but died away in the last part of the struggle. In his next attempt he defeated Uriel, the third horse, easily. It was the old trouble of keeping Plaudit in a glass case too long. L'Alouette, the winner, ran a good race and had hard trouble to work a passage. There was a lot of bumping and crowding, but "Dick" Clawson, who rode her, managed to steer clear, and riding with coolness and good judgment, landed the rich prize. Clawson was, naturally, highly elated over his success. The Huguenot and Gibraltar, who were the other starters belonging to the Messrs. Thompson, were badly interfered with and had but little chance. Jimmy McCormick took these colts to Saratoga for Jimmie Rowe, their old trainer, and developed them. From dogs he raised them to stake class. The Huguenot is a much better youngster than his famous brother, Henry of Navarre was at the same age and is liable to make a good colt. He does not like to be jostled much in a race, but if he has clear sailing will try his best.

Tommy Griffin's good filly Martha II, who was a winner in California last winter, has developed into a fine miss. She is second best among the fillies, Lady Marian standing out alone among her sex. Always a fine filly, Lady Marian's temper had been her curse. This had been toned down considerably and she has won all her last races in common canters.

Atkin & Lottridge did fairly well for a time, but Double Quick trained off quickly just when he appeared to be at his best. This cost his owners a lot of money, Double Quick being beaten by inferior horses on several occasions. There are several fair two-year-olds of the selling plate class. They were all shipped to Detroit yesterday to try their luck there. The Sinks have been doing well and were among the leading winning owners at Brighton Beach. They have a colt called Fonsovannah who is a trifle above the ordinary. He is specially good in sloppy going. Salabar is very erratic. At times he performs highly; at other periods he carries the banner. Michael III has shown high form and beaten a lot of good youngsters with high weight.

The Burns & Waterhouse string is just on the mend. It is not probable that they will be raced here this season, as they will soon be shipped to the coast. It is unfortunate this stable had such poor luck, for there was quality enough in it to have won many a race here.

Bromley & Co., the big Chicago firm of plunging horse-owners, have had poor luck lately with their horses. First Mate pulled up very lame at Saratoga, and On Deck "grabbed" himself so badly that his trainer, Charley Hughes, has had to do slow work with him. Howard S. is only just beginning to round to and ran third in his only effort. Typhoon, just purchased, was not up to a hard race, and was beaten through lack of condition by Casseopia.

It would not be much of a surprise if a number of faces new to the coast were seen out there the coming winter. "Mike" Dwyer has been scanning the list of stakes over closely the past few days, and John Madden is thinking of sending some horses. Others say they will go. The prospects of a general exodus to California was never better.

SAN JUAN.

Answers to Correspondents.

W. H. S., City—Does the breeder of the dam of The Futurity receive anything from said stake? Answer—The conditions regarding division of money to breeders read: "The breeders of the winner, of the second horse and of the third horse, namely, the owners of the mares at time of foaling, to receive $4,000, $2,500 and $1,000 of the added money respectively, whether they be the owners of the horse when the race takes place or not." A majority, however, would say that the rule is defective, in that the owner of a dam of a winner is not always really the breeder of the colt, as in the case of imp. Ogden.

Riverside Stock Farm.

Hon. O P. Updegraff, proprietor Riverside Stock Farm. Topeka, Kan., writes: "Having used Quinn's Ointment for the past three years, I take pleasure in saying that in every case when properly applied it has done all claimed for it, and I consider it just as necessary to have in my stable as oats. I cheerfully and conscientiously recommend it to all horsemen." This is the universal expression from the leading breeders from Maine to California. For curbs, splints, spavins, windpuffs and all bunches it has no equal. Price $1.50 per package. If you cannot obtain from druggist or dealer, Address W. B. Eddy & Co., Whitehall, N. Y. Last Days of a Very Successful Meeting—St. Calatine Wins the California Annual Stake—Long Shots in Front Thursday—Nordeau, Antrima and Ethel Downs Victorious Friday—A. B. Spreckels' Gallopers to the Fore Saturday—All the Events Described.

THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 16.

The Sacramento folks, ever public-spirited, closed up shop and house for half a day and went to the races. Result—an attendance of at least 8,000 persons. The grand stand, at a distance, resembled a fleecy cloud, while in the betting-ring there was a mad scramble to "get on"—at any old price. It didn't make much difference which horse was made a favorite, for it was bowled over in six out of the seven races. Two stake races were decided, and one was won by a 20 to 1 shot, St. Calatine, about the best two-year-old filly in California, but only five weeks off the grass, the other stake by another filly, Lorena II., with a price of 15 to 1 in the books. St. Calatine, winner of the two-year-old stake, the California Annual, is bred as follows:

St. Calatine's sire, St. Carlo, won the Great American and Foam Stakes, was second in The Futurity and considered the best two-year-old of his year. The best of his get are Ruinart, Zamar II. and St. Calatine. Callatine, dam of St. Calatine, is own sister to the celebrities, Getaway (first horse to beat 2:08 at a mile and a quarter), Inspector B., Bella B., the record-breaker, and Columbine, and half-sister to the clinking good Kosciusko. Other great members of the family of St. Calatine's dam are Foxhall, Harkaway, Mollie Jackson, Monday, Fannie Ludlow, Choctaw, Stonenell and Stonenellie.

LORENA II., b f

- Apache
  - Imp. Mortemer (Ascot Gold Cup, &c.)

Lorena comes from a very distinguished family. Apache her sire, a success in the stud, is by the great French horse, Mortemer (sire of Exile, Mollie Walton and other good ones in America) out of John M. Clay's champion race mare, The Banshee, while from the dam's family came Day Star (Kentucky Derby), Skedaddle (fifth dam of Lorena), Sly Boots, Sly Dance, Waltzer, Sachem, Savenac, Volunteer II., Magnolia, Daniel Boone, Gilroy, Madonna, Victory and the famous Kentucky.

In the opening scramble for two year-olds Tiny P. and Zapata were each at 8 to 5, but Yule, a recent arrival from Montana, galloped over Tiny P., who led into the stretch, the latter also being beaten out at finish by Aluminum, ridden by Frawley, Isom pleading sickness when the horses started to the post in order to be relieved from the mount.

Scotch Rose was the next to throw her backers down. She got off poorly, but went to the front. She did not spring as far as usual and wound up last. Etta H., at 4 to 1, showed the way home through the stretch, Fortunate beating the well-played Dunboy a neck for the situation.

Elsmore and Estro were respectively 2 and 3 to 1 for the California Annual stake, but neither got a slice of the money. Hermoso shot out in the lead, followed by St. Cataline, a 20-to-1 shot, and the latter, drawing away on the turn for home, romped to the wire in 1:15¾, while Twinkler, at 15 to 1, beat the Montana horse Negligence for the second section of the prize. The hot tip, Padre Jose, proved to be a good one, but not quite good enough.

The talent got its worst Waterloo in the Capital City stake at a mile and an eighth, for which Installator was chalked up favorite at 8 to 5, but a heavy play on Marcel, the second choice, caused her price to recede to 2 to 1 at post time. The Brutus horse should have won had he been ridden with good judgment. Lorena, with 85 pounds on her back, sailed away from her companions, opening up a gap of four lengths to the half, which she maintained until half way down the stretch. Installator who had been running second under wraps, was now given his head, but he made his move too late, the filly beating him by half a length at the wire. Del Paso ran a good race and was third. Grady was left at the post, due to the mistake of putting him next to the rail, from where he has always refused to break.

There were twelve starters in the mile event, Thelma and Olive being the pick of the lot, according to the quotations posted. Olive and Masoero cut out the running for part of the journey and Meadow Lark moved up second. Lady Hurst, who was last at the first turn, mowed down her field when she got through, and well ridden by Holmes, had the others in trouble when she entered the stretch. She won handily by two lengths, Olive beating Devil's Dream just as far. The winner was well played and the books lost on the race.

Howard and the unlucky Bueno opened up equal choices for the sixth race, a deluge of coin forcing the former's price down a point. Neither were inside the money, for the well-backed Daylight, at 4 to 1, landed the purse by half a length from Coda. Howard and Bueno raced their heads off the first half of the journey and collapsed like punctured tires in the stretch.

The solitary favorite to make connections was Torsion in the closing event. Nervoso was backed down as though he was the choice of the caucus, his price being pounded from eights to twos. Torsion's price in consequence drifted from 3 to 5 to even money, but the fate of preceding favorites prevented any play on him. He got off well and never left the issue in doubt. Marcia A. was second all the way and finished in that position, while Nervoso was a tired third.

FRIDAY, SEPT. 17.

As if to commemorate the last day's light-harness racing at this splendid track for this year, a large crowd assembled to-day; in fact, it was the largest seen at any meeting of the kind this season. The racing was all that could be desired, though many favorites were upset and "surprises sprung" that kept the speculators lively.

The Palo Alto Stock Farm mare, Nordeau, captured the Stanford Stakes, making the third of these rich events to go to this nursery of trotters. It took four heats to settle it. In the 2:15 class trot Thos. Keating scored another victory with Higgins Bros.' black mare Antrima, Carlye Carne being unable to pass her. But the surprise of the day came when Jim Rea's black mare, Ethel Downs, ably piloted by C. F. Bunch, won the 2:13 class trot after it looked like a sure thing for the great Chris. Peterson, who reigned an overwhelming favorite. Bunch has improved wonderfully in his driving and is rapidly attaining a place among the king-pin drivers of America. He is a general in a sulky.

The judges were Directors Covey, Terry and Matthews, and, as usual, their decisions gave universal satisfaction.

The first event was for the Stanford Stakes, foals of 1894. The starters were Owyhee, Uncle James, Lynall and Nordeau.

Pools sold: Owyhee $35, field $18. Owyhee led all the way. Lynall was at his wheel up to within 100 yards of the wire, where the big bay colt moved away from him and won by a length and a half in 2:23¾. Nordeau was third and Uncle James last.

Nordeau moved up alongside of Owyhee at the first turn and kept near him to the half, where she fell back two lengths, and did not close the gap until well [illegible] home-stretch, where Havey, her driver, began to ur[illegible] in a driving finish landed the daughter of Norri[illegible] by half a length in 2:21½, Owyhee plainly showing be[illegible] too stale or short of work and not having the vim nor [illegible] to carry the clip set. Lynall was only a length behind a[illegible] three lengths in advance of Uncle James.

Owyhee now sold for $6 against $20 on the field, and he started away strong, leading by a length at the three-quarter pole. Lynall was five lengths behind, Nordeau a length further away. Coming into the stretch Owyhee, in the soft part of the track, seemed to be distressed and Nordeau and Lynall made a hard fight to win after they had passed him. Nordeau outtrotted the Marysville mare and won by a head in 2:25¼, Owyhee third and pulled to a walk, Uncle James last.

Nordeau sold for $30 against $5 for the field, and, with Lynall, this Palo Alto filly trotted as a team all the way around to the seven-eighths pole, where Lynall broke, and Nordeau, passing her, won by half a length in 2:26, Owyhee third and Uncle James last. Richard Havey drove splendidly, and the manner in which he brought this lame filly to the post reflects great credit upon him as a conditioner.

The next event was the 2:15 class trot. The starters were Silver Bow, Chico, Margaret Worth, Conn, Antrima, Dr. Leek, Native State, Carlye Carne, Lady O., Jaspine and Clay S. Pools sold: Caryle Carne $25, Antrima $18, Dr. Leek $8 and field $10. Carlye Carne, driven by McDowell, forged to the front with Native State, Chico, Lady O. nearest him, the rest scattered along the course. Native State broke at the head of the homestretch and Lady O., passing him, forced Carlye Carne to trot in 2:17¼ to win by a neck. Margaret Worth was a good third, Native State fourth and Conn fifth, etc.

The scoring in the next heat as well as the preceding one was long and tedious. Silver Bow, apparently suffering from a bad quarter crack, did not appear to act as if he felt well. Carlye Carne won with the greatest of ease in 2:16, Andy McDowell looking back to see how many he shut out. Conn was second, Antrima third and Lady O. fourth.

A copy of the pool sheets should have been scrutinized by the judges ere the horses were started in the next heat, for, notwithstanding Carlye Carne's known qualities as a tried campaigner and the remarkable ease with which he vanquished his fields and came home without apparently taking a long breath in the preceding heats, Antrima was made favorite over him at $22, while he sold for $20, field $5.

He and Margaret Worth trotted head and head to the three-quarter pole at which place Carlye broke and fell back and in a frantic effort to gain his lost ground broke again at the seven-eighths pole. Antrima, passing Margaret Worth, won by a length in 2:16½, Jaspine third.

Rumors of "jobs" were flying fast, for Antrima sold for $30 against $11 on the field and Carlye Carne was in that field.

Margaret Worth led to pas the half pole, Antrima second. Carlye Carne and Dr. Leek were behind and a big open space was in front of the balance. Coming toward home Antrima forged to the front and won by three lengths, Carlye Carne, passing on the outside, getting the place from Margaret Worth and Dr. Leek, the latter being a nose in front of the mare. Time, 2:17½. Antrima sold for $30 against $7 in the field, and as all had to go to the stable but Carlye Carne and Antrima, the latter won easily in 2:19½.

The 2:13 class trotting was represented by Chris Peterson, Galette, Iora, Mamie Griffin, Ethel Downs, and Wayland W. Pools sold, Peterson $30, Galette $17, and the field $14.

Galette led around into the stretch fully two lengths from Ethel Downs, Mamie Griffin third, Wayland W. fourth. Peterson fifth and Iora last. It was a struggle between Galette and Ethel Downs to the wire. They were head and head all the way, and for a time it was doubtful which won, but Ethel was given the first, Mamie Griffin third.

This was a horse race from start to finish between Ethel Downs, Galette and Chris Peterson. It was worth going miles to see. Ethel led all the way, the others close up until the seven-eighths pole was reached, when the drivers began to whip, Ethel winning from Peterson by a nose in 2:13½. Galette was third. The excitement at the finish was intense.

Pools sold: Chris Peterson $30, against $9 for Ethel and $8 for the field.

Chris Peterson won the next heat easily in 2:14. Mamie Griffin, although quite lame, was second, two lengths behind him; Ethel Downs third, Galette fourth, Iora fifth and Wayland W. last.

In the next heat Ethel Downs broke as the word was given and fell back to the rear, Chris Peterson, Galette and Iora striving for the lead. Peterson soon passed them and won as he pleased in 2:15. Mamie Griffin outtrotted all but Chris in the homestretch and got the second position.

Chris Peterson and Ethel Downs came out for the last heat. It was considered such a sure thing for Chris Peterson that many of the visitors who played him to win started for the city as the sun sank in the west. Ethel started in the lead and, thanks to the easy mile she had trotted in the previous heat, she was as "fresh as a daisy" and kept her advantage to the wire, where she was only a length in front of the favorite in 2:16. The cheering that greeted the San Jose driver, C. F. Bunch, was one never to be forgotten, for he drove the daughter of Boodle in an admirable manner, even if it "broke the talent." It was a splendid ending of the harness sport in one of the grandest meetings ever held in California.

SATURDAY, SEPTEMBER 18.

The attendance was immense on this, the closing day of the State Fair meeting. Seven races were on this card, and six of them were hotly contested, the only easy winner being A. B. Spreckels' Idalium gelding, Aluminum. Three favorites were successful—a decided improvement over the other days. Mr. Spreckels' other winner, Frank James, a 12 to 1 shot, was so well played that the bookmakers' faces were materially lengthened at the conclusion of the day's festivities. The dead heat between Free Will and Emma D. was one of the most exciting affairs ever witnessed over the old track, and in the run off, won by the former, Snider, rider of Emma D., rode so desperately that he fainted after being lifted from the roan mare

Two very "warm" babies were uncovered in Los Prietos and Padre Jose in the Autumn Handicap, one mile, the first-named winning by a head in 1:42 flat with 107 pounds up in the gamest fashion. Los Prietos is bred as follows:

LOS PRIETOS, b g

Los Prietos' sire, imp. Clieveden, is an own brother to the famous Australian race horse and sire, Chester, and to the excellent St. George and Roodee. Outside of imp. Crighton (a winner), Los Prietos (who was bred by E. J. Baldwin at Santa Anita) is the first of imp. Clieveden's get to race in America. The family of the dam of Los Prietos is little known in the racing line, but a few like this fellow will make a demand for its members. Mr. J. O. Reis, owner of the winner, is one of the most popular young turfmen on the Coast, and always had great faith in his Clieveden gelding.

Grady, a good looking son of Three Cheers (now dead), an excellent two and three-year-old, won the Favorite Stake in fine style and in the fastest time ever made over the old course—2:07½ for a mile and a quarter. Grady is bred as follows:

GRADY, b c
- Three Cheers
  - Imp. Hurrah (Sire of Bonnie Lizzie, &c.)
    - Newminster (St. Leger)
      - Touchstone (St Leger)
      - Beeswing (great racer)
    - Jovial
      - Bay Middleton (Derby, never beaten)
      - Sister to Grey Momus)
  - Young Fashion (Dam of Hock Hocking)
    - Imp. Monarch (Never beaten)
      - Imp. Priam (Derby)
      - Delphine
    - Fashion
      - Imp. Trustee
      - Bonnets o' Blue

  - Enquirer (Sire of Inspector B, &c.)
    - Imp. Leamington
      - Faugh-a-Ballagh
      - Daughter of Pantaloon

      - Lexington
      - Lize
  - Buttercup (Dam of Mary Louise)
    - Imp. Glen Athol
      - Blair Athol (Derby, St. Leger)
      - Greta
    - Bay Flower (Grandam Bramble, &c.)
      - Lexington
      - Bay Leaf (dam of Preakness, Bayswater, &c.)

Grady is one of the best-bred colts in the country. His sire, Three Cheers, got Almont, Applause, Bloomsbury, Royal Flush, Acclaim and many other good ones, while the family of Grady's dam is one of the very best and most noted in America, for from it came such celebrities as Bramble, Brambaletta, Bingaman, Beacon, Preakness, Bayswater, Niagara and Bay Flower.

The Favorite Stake was the feature of the card, it being worth $840, and Grady got his revenge for being left at the post on Thursday. Ivy and Daylight were running into the stretch, Grady having run up to third position after getting away nearly last. He drew away in the stretch and looked an easy winner until Installator challenged him, and in a rattling finish the Fresno colt won by a good head. Little Cripple ran an improved race and was third

The other stake event was the Autumn handicap at a mile. Duckling opened at 2 to 1, but the talent wanted nothing but Padre Jose and Los Prietos, the latter being backed from 3½ down to 2 to 1. Eddy Jones tried to make a runaway race with Padre Jose, and led into the stretch by five lengths Los Prietos was given the whip and gained on the El Rio Rey colt inch by inch until he was at the latter's flank as they passed the paddock. In a grueling drive between the pair Los Prietos reached the wire in the final jump by a head.

The first race was an entirely different affair. Don Luis was pounded down from 2 to 1 to even money, while Aluminum's price receded to 3 to 1. Ames on Aluminum beat the gate some and there was no one able to catch him, while Don Luis in a hot drive nosed out Magnus for second position. Juan del Rio showed speed and finished a good fourth.

The second race was another spectacular event. Two Cheers and Zeune received the heaviest play, while Frank James, with a maiden jockey, was utterly ignored by the wise division. Two Cheers and Petrarch made the running to the stretch, but Frank James shot out of the bunch at the paddock and beat Two Cheers a neck on the post. Commission, who was prominent, wound up third.

Dunboy was the first choice for the sixth race, and he was played as though the numbers were hung out. He proved to be a good thing, for leading all the way, he won cleverly at the end from Florimel, who was whipped out to beat Lena. Lost Girl ran as though the odds did not suit her.

The closing event was another reminder that this was get-away day. Caliente's opening price was 8 to 5, and Etta H. was posted at 3. At post time Caliente had gone back to 2 to 1, while Etta H. was only 8 to 5. Decision, Torsion and Etta H. were in front for the first furlong, and then Torsion took command, while Caliente was back in the bunch. Etta H. was in front turning for home, and she beat Caliente by half a length. Fortunate was at his head at the windup.

Lincoln's Horse Trade Story.

Abraham Lincoln was fond of a good story, and it is a well-known fact that he often illustrated an important point in the business at hand by resorting to his favorite pastime. Probably one of the best he ever told he related of himself when he was a lawyer in Illinois. One day Lincoln and a certain Judge, who was an intimate friend of his, were bantering each other about horses, a favorite topic of theirs. Finally Lincoln said:

"Well, look here, Judge, I'll tell you what I'll do. I'll make a horse trade with you, only it must be upon these stipulations: Neither party shall see the other's horse until it is produced here in the court yard of the hotel, and both parties must trade horses. If either backs out of the agreement, he does so under a forfeiture of $25."

"Agreed," cried the Judge, and both he and Lincoln went in quest of their respective animals.

A crowd gathered, anticipating some fun, and when the Judge returned first, the laugh was uproarious. He led, or rather dragged at the end of a halter, the meanest, boniest, rib-staring quadruped—blind in both eyes—that ever pressed turf. But presently Lincoln came along carrying over his shoulder a carpenter's horse. Then the mirth of the crowd was furious. Lincoln solemly set his horse down, and silently surveyed the judge's animal with a comical look of infinite disgust.

"Well, Judge," he finally said, "this is the first time I ever got the worst of it in a horse trade.—Harper's Round Table.

HANOVER is truly a great sire. His son, Hamburg, is the best two-year-old seen in this country in years, while Ben Holladay, another son, four years old, won the Autumn Cup on the last day of the Sheepshead Bay meeting, running the two miles in 3:29 2-5 with 114 pounds up. It is doubtful if there is a better horse on this continent over a distance of ground. Holladay is by Hanover from Mollie L., by Longfellow, and is owned by Eastin & Larabie, of Deer Lodge, Montana.

MISS NEVA WINTERS is seriously ill with typhoid fever at the home of her father, Hon. Theodore Winters, in Washoe Valley, Nevada. We trust she will soon regain her health.

Remember the meeting of the P. C. T. H. B. Association commences next Monday at the Oakland Track. Bring your friends to see the best harness racing ever given in California.

SPECIAL DEPARTMENT

JOSEPH CAIRN SIMPSON.

FALL MEETING P. C. T. H. B. A.—At this time of writing, Wednesday, Sept. 22nd, the prospects are favorable for a capital meeting. So far as horses can make a successful meeting—and that is the main dependence—far more than favorable the outlook. Nothwithstanding seven meetings of the circuit have been held, and, consequently, the same horses brought together on several occasions, with, perhaps, one exception, it is far from an easy task to select the winner of any of the races. There is almost complete unanimity in the opinion that Joe Wheeler is the king pin of the pacing brigade, and yet there are others which have a chance. Well known that pacers are likely to "pick up speed" at a remarkably rapid rate.

A little more practice may develop a hitherto unexpected flight, and better condition give the capacity to "carry the clip" from end to end. But granting that Joe Wheeler holds his competitors safe, in all the other classes there are entries that are sure to make a hard and stubborn fight, desperate contests, when victory will be in doubt until the last heat is decided. This has been thoroughly exemplified in the races that have been trotted and paced. At the opening of the circuit a few horses seemed to have so much the best of their fields that "place and show" were the only issues. Who can select a single horse, outside of the one mentioned, that occupies that position now? Searchlight may have the best of his three-year-old competitors, but the other colt stakes are not at all one-sided. Prince Arsel, Dr. Frasse, Lynhood, and it may be some of the "dark division" will prove dangerous, in the Palo Alto Stakes, two-year-old trotters will "put up" an entertaining race, and the same class of pacers are sure to have a merry time of it when Diawood and Klatawah come together again with five or six more entries to complicate the situation. The three-year-old trotters are troublesome to one who is seeking for a winner, but the whole programme, with so few exceptions as to be practically the whole, is in the same category. "Tipsters" will be ready to give "sure things" for a consideration, and others through kindness of disposition will put their friends on good prospects, though it is quite safe to say that results will present another to the many illustrations, already chronicled, that the "glorious uncertainty" still prevails.

There is one assurance, however, that can be given without any hesitancy, viz, a good track. With favorable weather there is not the least hazard in predicting that it will be fast and safe. As has been mentioned heretofore, there was a difficulty presented in preparing it for the summer meeting, so much loose dirt due to keeping it in order for the galloopers that it had to be thoroughly soaked to give the requisite firmness Paradoxical as it may appear, the surface was harder than it will be the coming week, inasmuch as while solidified a few inches below the surface, there will be a "cushion" on top taking away the jar and yet adding very slightly to the draft of the wheels. There were a few small pebbles on the track at the previous meeting, and these have been removed, and now the surface soil is free from these annoyances.

The track is practically level. An up grade from stand to quarter pole of two feet, the backstretch level; two feet fall from half to three-quarters, and the homestretch is a plane longitudinally.

When the statement is made that the track of the California Jockey Club is more conveniently reached than any other course in the vicinity of large cities in the United States, there is an abundant proof to verify the assertion. From San Francisco the finest ferry boats in the world, connecting with steam trains at the mole. A pleasanter short trip than that across the bay is not oftentimes made, and these cars are so bountifully provided that however large the crowd, room for all.

Oakland people can take the Local to the mole and there join the San Francisco delegation, or the cable line on Broadway and San Pablo avenue, connecting with horse cars to the southern entrance gate. Sacramentans can leave home in the morning, have several hours in San Francisco, attend the races and return to their domiciles before 10 P. M. Or, by taking the early morning train, Sacramentans who have a fancy for speculating on races, can stop at Sixteenth street, Oakland, when a few minutes thereafter the Berkeley Local will convey them to the race track in time to see the horses work, and in this way form their own estimates. A good lunch, obtainable under the grand stand, will leave them in a mood to enjoy the races, and, after the close, the 6:00 P. M. train reaches 16th street at 6:35, dining-car attached, I believe, though the train reaches Sacramento a little after 9 o'clock.

Not a town within a circuit of one hundred miles of the track that has not "rapid transit," and the trains so arranged, to most of them, that a start in the forenoon will bring passengers in time for the races.

DUTY SHOULD NOT BE SHIRKED.—Papers that are "devoted to the interests" dependent on "turf and track" have a clear course marked for them to follow, provided the duties connected with that kind of journalism are not disregarded. A broad and plain road, though beset with difficulties on every side, angry opponents, magnified and made more conspicuous by their frantic gesticulations, but behind them a throng of well-wishers who applaud, and, if not as noisy and demonstrative as those who howl under the lash of just criticism, are the main support of the cause. This solid division, this strong corp, in which are enrolled men who are true and staunch to the interests involved, have good reasons to object when those who should be guardians of horse sports are derelict and fail to castigate when wholesome discipline is an absolute necessity to "promote the interests of the American Trotting Turf" or overcome the machinations of people who would degrade the "sport of kings" into a swindling game, equally as infamous as that of the knights of the shell and the strap. To be silent is virtual acquiescence, to let them pass without comment condonation; become a party to the wrong-doing, an accessory after the act, a confederate, in fact, countenancing, or rather upholding by not taking notice of actions that should elicit unqualified condemnation.

"INTENTIONAL WRONGS ON THE RACECOURSE SHOULD NOT BE TOLERATED."

Well worthy of capitilizing these words. Big capitals and printed in colors that will attract the most careless observer; the text on which many sermons could be framed; the foundation and superstructure, columns, arch and keystone, dome and flagstaff of the temple of sport.

I am much gratified to state that the sentence quoted is from a letter received from Maj. P. P. Johnston, President of the National Trotting Association, and these nine words form a golden rule that should be impressed on the minds of all who are placed in a position to enforce the laws that govern race courses and trotting tracks. There are some who claim that intentional wrongdoing should not be reprehended in the papers, that to call attention to them is to bring discredit, that the skeleton should be securely locked in the closet, that the foul nest should be undisturbed, notwithstanding the bones are rattled so that all who are in the vicinity can hear the creaking of the joints; however pungent and offensive the emanations from the ordure, there must be fervent protestations that the nest is clean.

Not at all surprising that criminals have no affection for the judge who inflicts the extreme penalty, or regard for the law under which the punishment is meted, but it is somewhat wonderful that there should be upholders of the violators of the code, not contented with offering apologies, but insist that in case of a breach of enactments the action was laudable.

Some people are peculiarly sensitive when criticised. Advice even is held to be an underrating of their intelligence, a diminution of their importance, an insult to reprove them for what they have done or neglected to do. Further than that, accepting criticism, honestly tendered for the advantage of all concerned, as a token of a want of appreciation on the part of the critic, that pecuniary benefits conferred, and the payment of sums for which there was an undoubted equivalent, should insure praise, nothing but laudation, however detrimental such a course might be to the general welfare.

In connection with this topic I can state that I was hugely surprised when an editorial in the BREEDER AND SPORTSMAN of last Saturday awakened a torrent of denunciation at the meeting held on Monday last. The whole offense, that the editor called attention to the neglect in advertising and "booming" the coming meeting, a plain and temperately-worded statement of facts. The paragraph mainly objectionable is quoted:

"Very few people outside of the readers of the BREEDER AND SPORTSMAN (which has no advertisement of the meeting) know there is to be a meeting in Oakland the week after next. Not a poster or hanger of any kind has been seen on the circuit, no one has been around to try and get the followers of the races to come to the meeting; in fact there is a sad lack of agitation in behalf of this great organization, a state of affairs which should certainly not exist and which speaks poorly for those whose duty it is to 'boom' the meetings of this, the most influential organization of the sort on the Coast."

The opening sentence of the preceding paragraph reads: "Several plans in regard to properly advertising the meeting might also be referred to at this meeting, which will be productive of lasting benefit to this association, not one in debt, but with money in bank to meet all demands."

Now it is clear that attention was called to the neglect in advertising in order that the defect should be remedied, and in place of being an attack on the Executive Committee, a friendly recommendation to attend to this important part of the business.

A paragraph in another part of the editorial pages, referring to the dilatoriness of the Secretary in sending the names of horses engaged in the "nomination purses" to the BREEDER AND SPORTSMAN. It was contended that this was a matter entirely between the Secretary and Mr. Layng, and there was neither reason nor justification for the strictures. If there is a feeling of animosity between the persons named, there is another bearing. Manifestly to the interest of the P. C. T. H. B. A. that the entries in these, the most prominent events of the meeting, should have appeared as soon as possible in the paper that ought to contain them, and to which everyone would look for the desired information. The owners of horses engaged in these purses would be anxious to know their contestants, and people who take an interest in harness racing were also on the qui vive to learn what the prospects were for the fast events. Naturally when this intelligence was not found in this paper of the 11th inst. there were many queries and surmises why the omission?

The editor was in Sacramento during that week, and having, as he supposed, taken measures to obtain the names of the horses engaged, was astounded at the non-appearance.

After making full allowance for delay in the mails, surely when the date fixed for naming was September 1st, a paper issued on the 11th of the same month, the list should have been published in it. The blame would naturally fall on the paper, as it would be difficult to account for the omission in any other way. As the information was given to the reporter of a daily paper on Friday afternoon, when a few hours earlier would have insured its appearance in the BREEDER AND SPORTSMAN, it was to be expected that Mr. Layng would think he had not been treated fairly, and just as good reasons for the association to find fault.

Jockey clubs value the information so highly that every change is noted, and if, in the opinion of the judges, the variations are not warranted, effective measures are taken to block the game of the conspirators. However valuable the knowledge obtained, through the fluctations of the rates and the examination of bookmaker's sheets, the judges of harness races have a better opportunity of learning whether there is determination to rob or not.

In dash racing the evidence must be strong to warrant measures that will thwart the job; there are accumulations of testimony when heats have to be won to ensure the loot being captured.

Taking the printed reports as the guide, there was a race at Sacramento that will serve for an illustration.

Before the start one horse was a decided favorite. He won the first heat and was still the favorite. He won the second heat and there was nothing to show why he lost the position of favoritism, but another carried the most money. Far behind in the third heat, beaten for the race!

If the changes in the betting were warranted by the circumstances at the close of the second heat, in both of which the eventual winner made an inferior showing, then the driver had violated the rules in not making an "honest endeavor" to win the heats, and wilfully misled the bettors. If the prevailing opinion be true that the race was thrown, the judges could be charged with "contributory negligence" in not taking the proper steps to insure a fair race so far as laid in their power to bring about that end.

While fully convinced that the error came from carelessness, a lack of appreciation of the importance of the evidence if the variations in the betting were known to the judges, action should have been prompt. Such cases work serious injury, are the bane of harness racing, the greatest of all the obstacles in the way of the prosperity and well-doing of harness horses.

That is the summary for the two horses.

Had the index been consulted, when the betting "chopped" there would have been good cause for summoning the driver and acquainting him in plain words; should there be corroborative testimony he would surely be punished. This may have been done, though it does not appear in the published reports, or there is the explanation that the character of the driver was so firmly established for honesty and capacity that he was far above suspicion.

I present this as a valuable object lesson from which judges of future races can derive benefit.

Even conceding that the "best horse won," the semblance of rascality must be avoided. Though a good name is a tower of strength, an honest man will not take exceptions to the same guards being thrown around him as are needed to govern those who do not stand so high in the estimation of the public. Everything must be made subservient to honest racing, and even the suspicion of fraud avoided so far as it is within the power of officials to disperse the blackest cloud that overhangs the tracks.

ENFORCE THE LAW.—N. T. A., Rule 24, Sec. 1. "In every exhibition, race or performance against time over the course of any member, the presiding officer or manager of the member shall choose or authorize the selection of three competent judges, for the day or race, who shall understand the rules of this Association, and shall rigidly enforce the same."

This language is plain and forcible, and I have good reasons to think that the law will be "rigidly enforced" at the coming meeting. Should the person be elected for presiding judge, that in all probability will occupy that position, I have no hesitation in assuring readers of the BREEDER AND SPORTSMAN that full dependence can be placed on his knowledge of the rules and his determination to carry them out in spirit and letter. The main difficulty in the way is the laxity that has heretofore prevailed in enforcing the law, and, consequently, drivers have little regard for statutes that have been treated as dead, ordinances made to be broken.

So few places in which the law against laying up heats has been enforced that the infliction of fines on two prominent drivers was greeted with round after round of applause, being so far out of the ordinary that surprise stimulated the spectators to an unusual demonstration.

I would respectfully suggest, that in order to remove the impression that this law can be broken with impunity, the presiding judge, before the start of every race, informs the drivers that the rules will be enforced, and as Rule 28 is a part of the code, that is a sufficient reason for insisting that its mandates shall be obeyed.

EIGHTY-ONE THOUSAND FOUR HUNDRED DOLLARS!!!—What a pity that the figures were wrong when it was proclaimed the P. C. T. H. B. A. had a reserve fund of the above dimensions. Even at as low a rate of interest as five per centum there would be quite a sum to add to a stake, and if some well-to-do resident of California would donate that amount of coin to endow an event to bear the donor's name, I am quite sure the association would gladly, enthusiastically and deferentially accept the trust and take every care to make it the great harness racing event of the year.

The wrong figures got in somewhat queerly, the error being solely due to my making the character that is used to denote that a figure, word or letter is to be stricken out so close a resemblance to the figure 8 that the correction was incorrect. The true amount was $1,400 cash on hand; the proof showed $41,400, and in lieu of the 4 being cancelled, it was replaced by a figure of twice the size.

In connection with this correction it will be well to state that objections have been made to making public the financial standing of the association.

As it is a public organization, there can be no question of the propriety of publishing its financial standing. In the discussion regarding incorporating running races in the programme, the arguments in favor thereof were based on losses made at the meetings held, and the necessity therefore, for an innovation that would increase the revenues, was the decreased balance. My object in giving the cash in the treasury was that the members of the association could decide whether there was such a dire necessity as the advocates of running claimed, and when it was also well known that the association was not gotten up to make money, the only issue was the financial situation. The only expenditure that was not provided for by funds on hand was the charge for the rental of the room in which the convention was held, and from the day the organization was perfected until now there have been credit balances.

The impression among members, who are not acquainted with the financial affairs of the association, was that there were thousands of dollars in the treasury, and it was certainly proper that these people, who had paid memberships and dues, should be made acquained with the true situation. The plea that members could obtain the information by call-

TURF AND TRACK.

THE SULKY.

There will be no running races at the Breeders' meeting.

Algona gets a new 2:20 performer in the trotter J. J., 2:18¼.

The track at Stockton is fast enough to suit the most fastidious.

Jim Crow, by Abbottsford, lowered his record to 2:18¼ in a race he won at Boston Sept. 10.

Derby Lass, sister to Derby Princess, finished a good third in 2:13¼ and 2:15¼ at Hartford.

Nahulaka is the peculiar name of a pacer that got a mark of 2:14 pacing on the opening day at Stockton.

W. A. Shippee's handsome pacer, Little Thorn, by Hawthorne, got a record of 2:16 at Stockton, Monday last.

The San Jose meeting will be a grand success if we are to judge by the interest being taken in the races there.

The trotting stallion Del Mar, 2:16¼, by Electioneer, died at Glens Falls, N. Y., September 3d. He was ten years old.

Since Javelin has been raced stale, there is nothing in the Salisbury-Griffith stable that seems able to turn a winning trick.

Quadriga, a chestnut gelding by Parkville, son of Electioneer, won a good pacing race at Fleetwood in 2:09½, 2:09 and 2:09¼.

Sidworth, 2:19½, by Sidney, out of My Own, by Red Wilkes, won at Providence, R. I., September 10th in 2:16¾, 2:17¾ and 2:18.

Ned W., by Boodle, trotted to beat 2:30 at the Woodland meeting and got a record of 2:29. He is out of a mare of unknown breeding.

Tell your friends to come to the Breeders' meeting next week. It will be the best meeting for good racing on the California circuit.

Dr. Frasse, by Iran Alto, got a record of 2:29¼ at Woodland. He is a good looking two-year-old out of a mare by Guy Wilkes, 2:15½.

King Chimes, who beat Valence at Fleetwood Park and took a record of 2:14, is a Village Farm cast-off, who sold for $200 at auction.

Derby Princess won an excellent race at Fleetwood last week, trotting the first heat in 2:11¾, and the fifth and sixth heats in 2:11 and 2:11½.

Miss Margaret, 2:13¼, by Direct, is out of a mare by Hock Hocking, second dam Mamie T., by Wheatley. All of her dams are thoroughbred.

The meeting at Woodland was a big financial success. Every bill was paid and money was placed in the treasury to the credit of this organization.

J. H. Outhwaite bred Stambold, 2:18¾, by Stamboul, out of Biscara, by Director. The latter is owned by Henry Pierce, Santa Rosa Stock Farm.

The meeting at Stockton this week has been the most successful held there in years. Gate receipts larger, betting heavier and the enthusiasm high.

Philip E., by Clay, 2:25, is a newcomer to the list. He trotted to a record of 2:21 in the fourth heat of a race he won at Providence, R. I., September 10.

Respond, a bay horse by Campbell's Electioneer, dam by Roy Wilkes, won a race for the 2:28 class at Vollisca, Indiana September 7th in 2:24½, 2:25 and 2:25½.

The world's records at running, trotting and pacing for one mile are 1:35½ (straight course), 2:03¾ and 1:59½, held respectively by Salvator, Alix and Star Pointer.

The Monk, 2:10, is the only four year-old gelding that has ever entered the 2:10 list. The Abbott is likely to follow him into that excellent circle before snow falls.

Axtell has another sensational trotter in the four-year-old Eckstein, who defeated a field of fourteen horses at Indianapolis, trotting in 2:16½ and 2:16¼.

Director's Flower, the filly that Monroe Salisbury took East several years ago, reduced her record from 2:20 to 2:19¼ in a trip against the watch at Providence.

Edgar Ross is a new pacer to the credit of Anteros. He won two good races at Grand Rapids, Mich., last week. In the last he took a record of 2:17¼ in the third heat.

As soon as Thos. Keating took charge of A. B. Spreckels' trotters and pacers he advised Mr. Spreckels to turn out all but Dione, 2:14, as they did not seem to be in fix to train.

The New York horse show will be held from November 15th to 20th this year. Over $6,000 will be given as premiums to the light-harness horse, and $4,500 to the hackney breed.

A four-year-old filly of Electric Bell, son of Electioneer and Beautiful Bells, dam Lonely, by Volunteer, paced a mile in 2:29¼ with two weeks' training on the track at Prospect Hill Farm at Franklin, Pa.

One who knows writes that the statements widely printed that James A. Murphy gave McCleary $2,500 for driving Star Pointer in 1:59¼ and Knapsack McCarty $500 for driving his pacemaker are "rot."

Directum, 2:05¼, started in his first race for two-year-olds at Youngstown, O., last week, and was third to Newcastle and Bouncer, best time, 2:13½; half mile track. Look out for him if he trains on sound.

A veterinarian says that if the smith will chill horse-shoes before nailing them on they will last twice as long as though not so treated. The process consists in so heating the finished shoe to a "cherry red" and plunging it in water.

Remember the fall meeting of the P. C. T. H. B. Association commences next Monday at the Ingleside track. The track is in perfect order and the President and Directors are over there daily to see that everything is in perfect order.

The grandly-bred Red Wilkes stallion Dictatus, that has been pacing in races for the past two years, made a most creditable showing at Stockton on Monday last; was second in 2:14, 2:16 and 2:18, and won the fourth heat easily in 2:21.

Aleznont, the young Roy Wilkes pacer who is winning so often these days through the middle West, and recently scored 2:17½ on a half-mile track, is only a four-year-old. He was bred at La Harpe, Ill., and is out of Zoe K., 2:30, by Egmont.

When Salvator, Star Pointer and Alix set the world's records for running, pacing and trotting at 1:35½, 1:59¼ and 2:03¾, respectively, the former covered 3,315 feet in one minute, as against 2,660 feet for Pointer and 2,559 feet for Alix in the same length of time.

Eight world's records have been made by horses to whom the Wonderful Speed Sustaining Elixir had been given prior to making the effort. This substance enables horses to resist exhaustion, prevents and cures thumps and heart failure and enables them to endure prolonged and extreme exertion.

One of the handsomest Percheron stallions in this State, Bewort 11708, was a big prize winner at the State Fair. He attracted a great deal of attention, and we understand his owner Wm. Bond, of Irvington had several good offers for the horse. As a stallion this horse should be extensively patronized.

It is a pleasure to learn that Searchlight, 3, 2:09¼, this year's fastest pacer of that age, and whose record is equal to the best for three-year-old pacers, does not wear hobbles. He is the only one of the champion three year-olds that did not take his record in "straps," which gives him a distinction equal to a "class by himself."

Kawookum, a brother to Diablo, 2:09¼, was sold by the Oakwood Park Stock Farm to James Lane, a well-known horseman of Montana. There only two of this great family at the farm, a handsome filly called Bertha Derby and a chestnut yearling who should be retained on this farm. Bertha is in foal to Chas. Derby again.

We are informed on good authority that an average of eighty old horses are sold to people in cities around San Francisco who slaughter them, selling the meat to poultry farms, the bones are ground and sold to them also. The demand has been so great that the prices for old horses have advanced, and if it continues they will soon bring twenty dollars where they used to sell for three and four.

Cavel Rodriguez ships his stable Monday to Oakland to be ready for the Breeders' meeting which will be held next week, succeeding the Stockton meeting. He has only two in his stable, but they are good ones. The two-year old trotter Valentine, by Boodle, the property of Charles P. Dawson, is the best two-year old trotter raised in this valley, while the side wheeler, Nick Jessen's Frank Murphy, can go as fast as the best of them.—Salinas Journal.

A close observer says: "There are more fine road horses driven through Golden Gate Park now than at any time since it was opened. Bicycles are growing beautifully less, as they get old and worn out their owners tire of them and dispose of these silent steeds for a song. The love of outdoor exercising has prompted many of the most prominent bicycle riders to purchase good horses and experience the pleasure of riding at ease instead of 'working their passage' over the smooth roads."

Directum worked a mile in 2:11½ last week. He stepped to the half in 1:04 and after having been taken back in the third quarter, stepped the last quarter in 0:31½. John A. Green, who is now here, says that Directum is improving in every work-out. There is not the slightest indication of the trouble which kept him in retirement for two or three years, and his legs look to be as clean as a colt's. Mr. Green has no fear but that Directum will be able to go through a strong campaign from now on.

At the Royal Dublin Show held recently a great exhibit of Hackney stallions was seen. The authorities had omitted this class for a year or two, but such pressure was brought to bear as to cause them to cease the discrimination against the high stepper, and we are advised that the Hackneys this year constituted the most attractive class of the show. Sir Walter Gibney won with Hedon Squire, the London champion; Lord Melton, another London winner, was second, and the Royal winner, Clovelly, was third.

R. Cope Stinson, who has been the head trainer at Wm. Corbitt's San Mateo Farm in California, concluded his engagement a few days ago and has gone to Cleveland to live. Mr. Stinson is enthusiastic over the young horses Mr. Corbitt now has at San Mateo. He looks for Oro Wilkes to be a great sire, and he says the 1897 foals by Guy Wilkes out at San Mateo are the best the great stallion ever got. Before leaving, Mr. Corbitt gave Mr. Stinson a letter in which he stated that this well-known reinsman left him the best lot of young horses he ever had.

The trotter has lost a hundred feet a minute since the pacing and trotting records stood on a par at 2:04. If Alix and Star Pointer were to race and both go evenly rated miles up to their present records, Alix would lose about ten inches to every stride, supposing that her stride measured 20 feet. At the half furlong she would not be even up to Pointer's sulky wheel. When the pacer reached the quarter, Alix would be 25 feet back, and when Pointer finished his mile the trotter would be 200 feet up the stretch. This gives a clear idea of the difference in the two gaits.

There are sixteen ounces to the pound avoirdupois in the following remarks: "A good deal of the so-called nervousness is inherited, but there is no doubt that faulty breaking and cruel stable management have a great deal to do with it. Some men would ruin the best dispositioned colt or filly if not carefully watched, and no owner can afford to employ a trainer, rubber or exercise boy who speaks harshly or strikes the horses in their charge. Kindness should be the watchword everywhere, and when the horse learns he has nothing to fear he is going to be a good citizen and develop laudable traits."

G. H. Judd returned with Klamath, coming direct from Sacramento. Klamath's last race was at Butte, Mont. Of the nine races in which he started he walked off with seven. Mr. Judd informed a Blade representative that races for Klamath were not as plentiful as they might have been, but that he was very well satisfied with his tour. At the close of the races at Butte he went to Sacramento in the hopes of getting a race there for his horse, but in this he was disappointed. Mr. Judd reports Klamath in good condition, and hopes to get a race here and in Los Angeles for him. Lem Gresold also returned to-day with his horse, Danford.—Santa Ana Blade.

The authorities in Washington City refuse to permit a horseless carriage or delivery wagon to be used on the streets of that city, and placed a ban on all horseless vehicles on the ground that they are dangerous in frightening horses and are likely to cause accidents. Some enterprising merchants like to use them because of their novelty as an advertisement, but the best merchants have never found anything more attractive than a handsome horse for their well-equipped vehicles. A handsome horse or fine team of horses gives dignity and character to the merchant and manufacturer and many of them have these attractive advertisements, drawing their loaded wagons through the streets as the proudest achievements of success.

The great race horse Allerton, 2:09¼, leads all standard performers for the year, and it is likely that he will continue to hold that position to the end of the season. Last season Allerton was the leading sire, and if he again finishes in that position this season he will be the only horse to have the honor of leading for two years in succession. Allerton's list of new performers now contains ten names, as follows: Intact (three years), 2:19½; Frances Jane (three years), 2:22¾; Bonna Allerton, 2:22; Galva, 2:25½, Imerino (three years), 2:27; Allertine (three years), 2:27½; Matt Allerton (three years), 2:28; Hodges, 2:28½; Alida, 2:28¼; Allerto, 2:28. Red Wilkes stands next to Allerton with seven new performers, while Patron and Pilot Medium come next with five new ones each.

The export trade this season promises to be the heaviest of any year since the exportation of horses to Europe began. Foreign buyers are on the market earlier this year, and in larger numbers than for any previous year. Their orders for horses are larger, and as yet they are unable to get anywhere near the number of horses of desirable quality that they have orders for. At all the markets the attendance of foreign buyers is large, while we claim that Buffalo leads all in the number of foreign buyers on its markets. Already there are representatives of over a dozen foreign firms on Buffalo market, for horses of France, England, Germany, Scotland, in fact many European countries, and many foreign buyers are yet to arrive. The sharp demand for horses set in fully a month earlier this year than other years, and from what we know many more horses will be wanted for export this year than previously.—Buffalo Horse Gazette.

Classis, 2:16¼, by Anderson Wilkes, a full brother a year year younger and his dam all sold for an even hundred dollars less than a year ago. Classis has been a mile in 2:08¾, and his younger brother is also fast, and both showed to be great speed prospects when they were sold. They did not bring one-fourth of their actual value, even under the then existing circumstances, and a number of horsemen who saw them given away are now trying to find some one to give them the boot act for their stupidity. Many such good things have been lost during recent years, and many others will be offered for sale during the next few months. Shrewd buyers will no longer let these good things get away, but will pay a fair price for them and make big money by the operation. Young stallions and fillies of the right breeding, good size and of speed promise should no longer be neglected. We all remember what a demand existed for these a few years ago, and it does not take a very long sighted man to see that the same thing will occur again in the very near future. The country is short, very short on this class of stock, and when people generally begin buying again, as they will very soon, prices will climb at an astonishing rate. Of course, the "calamity howlers" will insist that horses will never be worth anything again, just as they did a month ago about wheat. They "knew" that wheat would never sell for 75 cents per bushel again, yet it has already passed the dollar mark, "and has just begun to rise." Horse values are now much better than they were some time ago, but the big "bull move" in horses has not yet taken place. The "bears" in the "horse pit" are playing a bluff game and quietly picking up supplies. The shrewd ones will be all right when the wave comes, but, as in all other markets the "tailers" will get swamped, and in endeavoring to "cover" after the bulge actually sets in, will pay some very fancy prices for horseflesh.

THE SADDLE.

WINDSOR has several of the Scully style of races every week.

COOMBS rode three winners at St. Louis last Monday, and was once second.

ZAMAR II, by St. Carlo, won $6,090 in 1896, not $4,000, as the Goodwin annual has it.

H. D. ("CURLY") BROWN'S Carrie Lyle won a six-furlong race at Oakley September 17th in 1:14¾.

TEA ROSE III., by imp. Midlothian, won a six-furlong race at Windsor on the 17th inst. in 1:14 flat.

W. C. MARSHALL, of Vancouver, has bought the running mare Sweet Briar, by Ben Ali out of Lady Middleton.

LA SAGESSE, a recent Brooklyn winner, is a sister to Stonenell and Stonenellie, being by imp. Stonehenge—Nellie.

A. B. SPRECKELS' horse won two races at Sacramento on the last day. They were Aluminum and Frank James.

OUR GERTIE, by Salvator—Columbine, won the Petite Stakes, five furlongs, in 1:01¾, 115 pounds up, at Harlem on Saturday last.

SIR JOSEPH LISTER, a very fair two-year-old winner at St. Louis, is a brother to Basquil, being by imp. Wood Moss—Lady Kelley.

THE Loyalist colt, Dunboy, rounded to on the last day at Sacramento, and ran seven and one-half furlongs in 1:36 with 107 pounds up.

BYRON MCCLELLAND carried 112 lbs. when he ran his mile in 1:39¾ at Oakley, and that chart in Daily Racing Form said: "Won easily."

MELVILLE BURNHAM won at St. Louis on Monday last, while Inflammator and Addie Buchanan, also well-known to our race-goers, ran second in races.

DARECHOTA, a brown filly by imp. Darebin—Echota, won a mile race in the heavy going September 16th at Harlem. Her winning margin was ten lengths.

AT Harlem, September 14th, Our Domestic and Brightie S., daughters of the California horse, Argyle (son of Monday) won at seven and five furlongs respectively.

THE Flood gelding, Nero, nine years old, beat Logan, also of that age, nine lengths in a mile race at Windsor, September 13th. A wag remarked—"a length for every year."

JENNIE JUNE, a Rancho del Paso-bred mare, half sister to Joan, took up 112 lbs. Sept. 14th and ran six furlongs in 1:13 flat over Windsor track. The chart says: "Won easily."

A THREE-YEAR-OLD sister to Sport McAllister and Zamloch recently jumped into a barbed-wire fence on a Contra Costa county ranch, and bled to death from the injuries received.

CHIQUITA, ch m, 5, by Emperor of Norfolk—Paola, won a mile race at Windsor, Sept. 17th, and the same date Tea Rose, run in Atkin & Lottridge's colors, finished first in a six-furlong race.

IN fifteen races Hamburg won eleven, was second three times, third once, unplaced none, and won $36,750. Had he been eligible for the Futurity his winnings would have been about $40,000 more.

HOLMES, the lightweight rider, may be engaged by H. L. Frank, the Butte capitalist who has set aside $50,000 for the purchase of race horses. Zeke Abrahams gave Holmes his start in the riding line.

M. F. DWYER was exceedingly fortunate last Monday at Gravesend, three of his horses winning. Ben Eder won the mile handicap, Cleophus the Parkville Handicap and Previous the Youthful Stakes.

MATT BYRNES, one of the best trainers of race horses in America, has been retained by Marcus Daly for the season of 1898. Mr. Byrnes has visited California the past two winters, and has a host of friends here.

IT is rumored that James Rowe will next year train for Bromley & Co. Taral will probably be the leading jockey. Tom Welch, who has been so successful with Dolando, is to have the Fleischmann horses.

SAM TATE, winner of the steeplechase at Fort Erie September 16th, is from the stable of Ed Corrigan, was ridden by Hueston, and is by Longfellow, dam Hattie Harris (dam of the good performer, Joe Murphy).

OUR JOHNNY, by Fresno—Jess, won a mile race at Fort Erie last Saturday, and Geyser was third in the race. The Bachelor was successful at a mile and a quarter and Decapod, by imp. Sir Modred, won the full-course steeplechase.

MARCUS DALY wanted J. E. Madden to put a price on Hamburg recently, but the latter answered the Montana millionaire: "He is not for sale at any price. When he gets through racing as my property he will go to the stud."

GRADY'S mile and a quarter in 2:07½ is the best race, from a time standpoint, ever run over the Sacramento track at the distance. Installator's performance was more meritorious, however, as he was beaten but a nose and carried 120 pounds to Grady's 105.

AN important sale of thirty-two head of Hackney horses was held at Hedon, England, August 27th. Most of the horses in the sale belonged to the late Mr. Henry Cautley. The total amount realized for the thirty-two head was $9,105. One broodmare, Princess Alice, brought $2,000. Another broodmare, Orange Girl, fetched $1,550.

E. J. POWER now owns Midlo, who won a six-furlong race at Fort Erie Sept. 15th in 1:14½. The same date Midlight, sister to Midlo, won at Windsor—six furlongs in 1:14 flat. K. Golden is the owner of the latter, formerly the property of Green B. Morris.

RED BOY, by War Dance, who stood for years in Montana, holds the Coast record for one and one-half miles—at least Krik's Guide gives him that credit. In the run-off, after a dead heat with Fred Collier at Reno, Oct. 2, 1882, the Guide says he won the deciding heat in 2.35.

THE win of L'Alouette in The Futurity, Duckling in the Nursery, St. Calatine in the California Annual and Lorena II. in the Capital City Stake will cause turfmen to take back about fillies being of no account as racers. We shall therefore expect to see just as lively bidding for good-looking, well-bred fillies as for colts at the sales here next winter.

MARITO, a bay two-year-old filly by Volante from Maori, won a five-furlong race at Fort Erie, Sept. 15th in 1:02½. Volante is one of the horses that helped to spread California's fame as a great "horse country," while Maori is a French-bred mare which ran a mile in this country in 1:39¾—the first one of her sex to beat 1:40 in a race in America.

DEERSLAYER, by imp. Midlothian — Doe, carried 111 pounds to Buckwa's 108 and beat him a length at a mile and a sixteenth last Saturday at Gravesend. Bliss Rucker ran second to High Jinks at five furlongs. Ben Brush won the First Special, mile and a sixteenth, at the same place, Hastings second and Requital third. Libertine beat Lambert a nose at six furlongs.

ON the public road, just outside of Marysville, September 9th, District Attorney McDaniels' little stallion George Dickenson defeated J. W. McDonald Jr.'s Triumph in a three-furlong match, the owners riding. The race was close throughout, Dickenson winning by a neck in 0:35¾. Sheriff Donahoe and Supervisor McGuire were the judges, and the start was effected by the riders without the aid of a flag-wielder.

THE smallest horse in the world is Leo, owned in Italy He is but 21 inches high and yet he is perfectly formed. His mane and tail reach the ground and he is very intelligent. He is one of the Shetland breed, but the smallest of this small breed formerly known is about 32 inches high. He is now on exhibition in Italy along with the Queen's Shetland ponies. In the spring he will be brought to New York and exhibited at the New York horse show.

"CASH" SLOAN, whose suspicious riding has long attracted the attention of the judges, and who has been suspended before for crooked work, was set down for his deliberate pulling of Benamela in the fourth race to-day. The pencilers had already commenced to book on the fifth race when the decision of the judges was rendered. A new book was ordered, and Barrett substituted in place of Sloan, who was to ride The Ace.—Chicago dispatch, Sept. 17.

A NEW YORK dispatch of last Saturday was as follows: "M. F. Dwyer has sold his stallion Kingston to J. R. Keene for $25,000." Kingston in our opinion is the greatest race horse ever foaled in the United States—at least he won the largest number of races ever credited to any horse—and retired to the stud as sound as the proverbial dollar. The horse has been quartered at Eugene Leigh's La Belle Stud, near Yarnallton, Ky., and his first crop of yearlings, sold last summer at Chicago, averaged about $1,100.

THE Messrs. Morris, the millionaire turfmen of New York, have made arrangements with Col. Milton Young to have the following mares bred to Hanover: Correction, Reckon, Ambulance, imp. L'Intriguant, Holiday and Lizzie Baker. These mares will soon be shipped from the Morris ranch in Texas to McGrathiana Correction (sister to Domino), Reckon, Ambulance and L'Intriguant, were four of the best mares of the American turf. Lizzie Baker is the dam of The Friar and Holiday has produced Dr. McBride and Festa.—The Thoroughbred Record.

ONE of the most remarkable races on record occurred at Stockton last Wednesday, when Glenn Anne (by imp. St. Andrew) and Bottlewasher (by Silver King) ran two dead heats in a five furlong race, each heat being run in 1:03. Seven horses started. We recently chronicled a dead heat between five in Australia, in a handicap. In 1857 El Hakim, Queen Bess and the American mare Prioress ran a dead heat for the Cæsarewich, the latter winning the run-off. This month at Derby, Eng., Luscious, Cunctator and Olivewood ran a dead heat for the Hastington Handicap, with Remember Me a head away. Luscious won the run-off.

AT the Medford, Or., track the following gallopers are quartered: Wm. Little's Ten Brook and Oakwood, W. H. McMahon's Free Coinage, by Sir Henry; Bill Baker, by Red Cloud; Robt. Baker's Hot-Stuff Bessie, by Red Cloud; Philip Fair, by Old Bishop—Sierra Nevada; Phœbe Shaw, by Red Cloud—Planeta, by Planet; Smith & Allen's Jack Simpson's Jubilante, by Capt. Jenks—Bellflower; Toodles, by Sinfax—St. Croix; Steamboat Bill, by Lummax; Sleepy Jim, by Bay Dick; Archilles, by Scamperdown: W. H. Shooks' Rubberneck, by a son of Joe Hooker; John Slagle's Rondo and Lottie R, owned by Mr. Ferguson, and Crazy Jane, owned by John Dyar. Loren and Walter Parker's Little Girl, by Little Fellow, he by Longfellow, dam by Dr. Lindsay; Klonkike, by Bay Dick; Sleepy Dick, Chas. Stallworth's Richard K., by a grandson of Lexington.

SAM MOUNT is acting badly of late, but Trenor thinks he will be a different horse when he faces the flag. Josie Daniels, Mr. Price's two-year-old by Joe Daniels—Hit or Miss is the pride of the San Luis Stables. She can do a ½ in 0:51, which insures her a good candidate for the two-year-old race. Kylita worked a half in 0:52½ on Tuesday. Not very encouraging to her trainer, but he thinks she will round to by the time she faces the starter. John M. worked 5-8 in 1:05½, Tuesday. He is reported as having worked the same distance at the San Luis track in 1:03½. He will do to go the circuit with. Ocean Bell can pace a ½ in 1:03 "so they say," but it takes about twice the same time time to go the other half. There is but one horse on the track that has been trained. That is Keno B. Garret is on to his job. Wm. Seaman has ordered his mare Edna R. shipped from Mexico, where he has had her in training for nearly a year. Garret Blosser will have charge of San Luisita after the races here. He entered in Ventura and on South.—"Riley" in Santa Maria Graphic, COMMISSIONED to purchase a string of American thoroughbred horses for Japanese imperial stud farms, three noted horsemen from Japan have arrived in this country and have established headquarters in New York. The men, who have just come from Europe, where they bought eighteen Anglo-Arab stallions, are S. Niyama, Director of the Emperor's stud farms at Niccap, Simoussa and Sotovama, and E. Onoutchi and W. Stinagawa, his assistants.—N. Y. dispatch, Sept. 19th.

H. L. FRANK, the Butte capitalist, who recently purchased Senator Bland, Punter and imp. Missioner of Marcus Daly for a sum said to be close to $20,000, has set aside $50,000 for a string of thoroughbreds which he will secure in the near future. He will race here next winter, and will be satisfied if he breaks even. Mr. Frank has written Marcus Daly, asking him to put a price on Scottish Cheftian, imp. Ogden and imp. Isidor. He also has in view the purchase of May W. and Plumeria, two performers far above the average. John S. Campbell will train the horses. Mr. Frank sold his harness horses, E. W. L., 2:13¾, Tommy Tucker, 2:15, and Manning, 2:18¼, and will devote himself to the gallopers.

AT the recent Coney Island Jockey Club meeting, Sheepshead Bay, after a meeting of twelve days, during which seventy-two races were run, a total of $132,270 was divided. Those winning over $500 are given: L. S. & W. P. Thompson, $40,560; J. E. Madden, $8,715; Eastin & Larabie, $6,105; M. F. Dwyer, $5,940; James Galway, $5,850; J. R. Keene, $5,775; C. T. Patterson, $5,200; E. J. Baldwin, $4,140; M. Laimbeer, $2,970; A. Belmont, $2,200; G. E. Smith, $2,140; P. Dunne, $2,090; J. E. Seagram, $2,025; J. J. McCafferty, $1,890; F. R. & T. Hitchcock, $1,800; J. E. McDonald, $1,750; J. W. Rogers, $1,685; C. W. Stanton, $1,585; A. H. & D. H. Morris, $1,500; J. O. Gray, $1,500; E. Gideon, $785; Duke & Wishard, $760; E. W. Purser, $710; Sensation Stable, $710; J. W. Colt, $690; W. C. Daly, $670; I. O. Appleby, $650; Burns & Waterhouse, $650; J. A. Bennet, $650; R. Carruthers, $650; Mrs. T. Kiley, $650; J. King, $645; Plate & Co., $630; Lewis Elmore, $620; T. J. Healey, $610; E. H. Sherrer, $605.

CAPT. BEN E. HARRIS thus explains the workings of his new plan of wagering money on races (his Betting Equalizer): "All the money bet on a race (less the percentage) goes to the winners of the first, second and third places in the race, the proportion of which is 60 per cent. to the first horse, 30 per cent. to the second and 10 per cent. to the third. All tickets bought on winning horses are to be paid in like proportion, thus giving the purchaser of a ticket on any horse in the race three chances for his money. By this system of playing the races all horses are played to win, and although no selection is made for place or show, yet the bet is well protected, as every horse in the race has three chances to be in the money, namely, first, second or third, and consequently a horse getting a position, all tickets on him will be paid accordingly. Recapitulation—You can back your choice for the race with $1, $10 or any amount you desire to bet, and if your horse does not win the first place, he may come second or third, and may prove to be (as is sometimes the case 'a hundred to 1 shot.' The winnings of all horses in a race, upon which no ticket has been sold, goes to the proprietor of the system." Capt. Harris has invented a counting machine to work in conjunction with this plan, and it will register a bet of $10,000 just as quickly as a $1 wager.

COLONEL M. LEWIS CLARK, presiding judge at the Harlem track, returned yesterday from the meeting of the American Turf Congress at St. Louis. He said: "I must refuse to express any opinion on the action of the Turf Congress in refusing to give Harlem representation in the congress. I want my position to be one of dignity, and no gentleman could discuss such a matter. Everyone interested knows what the influence was that brought the action about, and it is useless to discuss it. The better class of sportsmen do not sympathize with such petty actions. Harlem has given a better class of sport than any track in America this season, and the people appreciate it, as is evidenced by the large crowds we have had. Harlem will continue to give the best that can be had, even when the two Chicago tracks that were recognized are unable to hold a meet. I was not in attendance upon the St. Louis meetings for reasons that are well known and upon which I do not care to talk. I was, however, in St. Louis, working for the best interests of racing matters generally. The two main things that I wanted were accomplished. They were the election of C. C. Wright, who is a very dear friend of mine, as president, and the defeat of the fifteen day meet proposition. I am satisfied with what was accomplished. Of course I wanted Harlem admitted, and had positive assurance that it would be, but the reason why it was not and my opinion on the affair are not matters for me to talk about."—Chicago Inter Ocean, September 18th.

ON Friday night, September 17th, Col. Dan M. Burns and Thos. H. Williams Jr., representing the California Jockey Club, closed a deal with the State Board of Agriculture, by the terms of which they secure the Sacramento track and grounds for a race meeting of two weeks' duration in the spring and the same length of time in the fall. The contract is for one year. This week the Woodland track and grounds (some fifty-four acres) were virtually secured by the gentlemen and there is some talk of leasing one or two tracks in good-sized cities. The club already holds a long lease on the Los Angeles course and grounds. Extensive improvements will be made at all the tracks secured by the big California racing organization. Col. Burns, regarding the plans for the future, had the following to say: "Our idea is to begin summer racing just as soon as our next winter season at Oakland track closes. When you consider the number of good horses that remain in this State during the summer you can readily see that it is an important matter for the California horsemen. We feel that the success of the scheme is assured, and that in future there will be a summer racing circuit in California." That turfmen on the Coast will hail this proposition with pleasure goes without saying, and the demand for gallopers to race in California exclusively will be keener than at any time in her history. There is no such word as fail with Col. Burns and President Tom Williams. With a few strokes of the pen they clinch leases or buy race courses and make it possible to have racing in this State for at least nine months in the year at a profit to thoroughbred owners and to the pleasure of the sport-loving portion of the population.

The Breeders' Meeting.

On Monday next the gates of the magnificent race track at Emeryville will be open to receive visitors to the fall meeting of that sterling organization, the Pacific Coast Trotting Horse Breeders Association. There will be better opportunities to judge the merits of the big fields of horses than at the summer meeting. Nearly all of them having met each other at the district fairs and many have proven their right to be considered worthy of getting faster records than they have already secured.

It is earnestly hoped that the great efforts will be made by all in favor of the industry to get their friends to attend this meeting. We can promise them better racing than they have ever seen, closer contests, less cause for complaints about "jobs," correct decisions and every afternoon's sport finished at an early hour.

To anyone who has attended the meetings given under the auspices of this association it is almost needless to call attention to the treat which is in store for them, but to those who have never seen first-class light-harness horse racing we have only to say: "Do not miss this opportunity of going to the Oakland track and enjoy an afternoon's sport." If you go you will surely repeat the visit.

The programme of races arranged for each day's races is as follows and we doubt if a better collection of America's pride, "the trotting horse," was ever stabled before at a race course in California:

They Need a Few Thoroughbreds.

A lesson is taught by the recent sale of racers at the East that our farmers should profit by. We print a number of these sales in this issue. They go to show, as plainly as possible, that good horses bring handsome prices; that poor performers and "weeds" only fetch about what they are worth to tanners and soapmakers for hides and soap-making. However, it is to be hoped that the future will be made brighter for the "skate" racer—at least the sound, good-looking ones which are merely afflicted with "the slows."

The "small breeder," if he will just think the matter over, will speedily come to the conclusion that it is within his power to raise, in proportion, a larger number of crackerjacks than the breeder on a very extensive scale, for the stock of the small breeder will receive more care and attention than most of the embryo Kingstons and Hindoos of the man that breeds fifty or more thoroughbreds each year. The youngsters show, in after years, the effects of the care or lack of care received, and accordingly make or unmake the reputations of their breeders. If, for instance, the youngster does not get enough nutrition in his baby days, it will either be stunted or a "weed," and in either event it will be weak of body and limb.

The owners of land on which good feed for horses grows should attend the sales of racers in training here next winter and pick out a good-looking, well-bred stallion and some roomy mares from tried racing families, and about next March or April, when the muscles of the racers have thoroughly relaxed, mate the mares with the stallion of their choice, and when the foals come give them attention and feed them well. Then, when they are yearlings, advertise them thoroughly in the journal that will do the most good—the one that reaches all the turfmen—and the breeders will find themselves on the smooth road of Fortune and will return thanks to those that suggested the path for them to follow leading to that above-mentioned pike which so few traverse.

If the farmer does not desire to breed racers for the market he can purchase a thoroughbred stallion and some rangy, sixteen-hand trotting-bred mares and breed some of the finest carriage horses anyone ever clapped an eye upon, as well as being fast enough for the most fastidious.

A large number of horses will not be allowed to race, under the Jockey Club and Turf Congress rules, on account of not having five uncontaminated crosses of running blood on both sides of the house. These animals should make excellent cavalry horses, or, mated with good-sized half-bred mares, the result should be the finest cavalry mounts on earth. In short, there are a multitude of uses to which the thoroughbred or half-bred can be put if the subject of breeding useful horses of good individuality is just given a little thought and the ideas used practically.

Hollister's Coming Race Meeting.

The lively little city, Hollister, will have a good mixed race meeting this year, the dates claimed being October 20th to 23rd inclusive. The trotters, pacers and gallopers are well provided for, as a glance at the programme, printed as an advertisement in this issue, shows. Entries close with H. H. Helman, Manager, October 4, 1897.

Anyone intending to go into the breeding or racing of thoroughbreds should not overlook the sale of the Brookdale stable and Brookdale stud, which takes place at Morris Park, Westchester, N. Y., October 21st, 22d and 23d, 1897. They should also remember that this year's Futurity winner, L'Alouette, was bred at Brookdale, also her sire, Kinglike, Gregory, Faverdale, Marsh Redon, Surplus, Crochet, Anarchy, Brookdale, Airplant King Fan, Magician, Stonenell, Stonenellie, Recluse, Boulotte, Stately, Mikado, Mordotte, Preston, Sweet Faverdale and Major Domo.

In this issue we print the conditions to the ten early stakes offered by the Pacific Coast Jockey Club, to be run from the beginning of the meeting, November 1, 1897, to January 1, 1898, inclusive. Ingleside track, where these races are to be run, is one of the best in America, and is built especially to stand off and render nil the efforts of Jupiter Pluvius. A new steeplechase track has been built since the meeting came to an end last May, and the timber-toppers of the field will be given excellent opportunities to excite the multitude and furnish the most spectacular sort of sport. Other improvements have been made, among them the erection of a jockeys' stand, and when the bell taps on the 1st of next November the already handsome Ingleside will cause the eyes to brighten with wonderment at the beauty of the panorama which stretches before them.

The club, in giving these stakes, has clearly concluded that it is preferable to have five $1,000 or $1,200 stakes, divide the money around and secure a good-sized entry list to each than to have a $5,000 stake with perhaps a trifle better class entered therein, but in proportion to the money given not as long a list of entries as in the five $1,000 or $1,200 events. The stakes now open, and booked to close October 15, 1897, are as follows:

The University Stakes, 1 mile	$1,000	The Rancho del Paso Stakes 1¾ miles	$1,500
The San Francisco Stakes, 6 furlongs	1,200	The Palace Hotel Stakes, steeplechase, full course	1,000
The Golden West Stakes, 1½ miles	1,000	The Hobart Stakes, 1¼ miles	1,500
The Presidio Stakes, 1⅛ miles	1,200	The New Year Handicap, 2 miles	1,500

It will be noted that a change for the better has been made in the lengthening of the distances in races. The public will hail this with pleasure, and on the day when one of these long distance stake events is to be decided there will, in all likelihood, be a decided increase in the gate receipts.

On the 15th of November the following stakes of the Pacific Coast Jockey Club will close:

The Ocean View Stakes	$1,000	The San Rafael Stakes, 1⅛ miles	$1,000
The Malowansky Stakes	1,000	The Lakeside Stakes, 1½ miles	1,000
The Androus Stakes	1,000	The Ingleside Handicap, 4 miles	3,500
The Olympic Handicap	1,000	The Crocker-Woolworth Bank Stake, 2 miles	1,750
The Occidental Stakes	1,000	The J. F. Ullman Handicap, 3 miles	2,500
The Corrigan Stakes	1,500	The Evergreen Stakes, mile heats	1,500
The Schreiber Stakes	1,000	The California Steeplechase Handicap, full course	1,000
The Balboa Boulevard Handicap, 1 mile	1,000
The California Oaks, 1¼ miles	2,000
The California Derby, 1½ miles	5,000
The Tarpey Handicap, 1⅝ miles	1,000

The stake books containing the second lot of stakes of the California Jockey Club are out, and the stakes are much richer than in the first, there being, among others, the Burns Handicap (1¼ miles), $10,000; Thornton Stakes (4 miles), $3,000, and Palace Hotel Handicap (1 1-8 miles), $2,000. A number of horses new to our racegoers will come to Emeryville and Ingleside to race next winter, including the string of John J. McCafferty, Tom Grffin, Tom Ryan and Marcus Daly. Tom Griffin recently secured Estaca out of the selling race for $1,320 and Rubicon for $2,100 in the same manner from "Pittsburg Phil." Later on he sold Rubicon for $5,000 to Tom Ryan.

The directors of the Pacific Coast Trotting Horse Breeders Association have determined not to mix trotting and running races at their fall meeting, which will be held on the Oakland track next week. This is a wise decision. The association was formed for the promotion of the interests of the light harness horse, and to mix up with the gallopers would soon lead to the disintegration of the association. The runners have nearly everything their own way during the winter, and there is no reason why at such a distinctively harness meet as that of the Breeders they should mix up with the harness horses.—Salinas Daily Journal.

O. N. Reynolds, formerly Superintendent of the Palo Alto Stock Farm, has purchased the leading livery stable in the thriving town of Palo Alto. We wish Mr. Reynolds success in his new venture and have no hesitancy in saying that no one in the business will have better horses or vehicles for his patrons, for he is a thorough horseman and has made friends wherever he has been.

Bids for the betting and other privileges at the coming great Los Angeles meeting will remain open up to noon September 30, 1897. Read the advertisement in this issue. As the entry list is a long one and the contestants in the various races of high class, great betting is assured, and the bids for the betting privileges should be lively in the extreme.

The Dorsey sale of stallions, thoroughbred and trotting, takes place to-day at the ranch near Oakdale, Stanislaus county, and on Monday the younger thoroughbreds, the work stock and farming implements will be disposed of. See the "ad" in this issue.

Special Department.

ing at the office of the Secretary is not very strong when members are in all parts of the State, and a trip from Los Angeles, Eureka or Siskiyou involves a longer journey than would be justified by the desire to learn what they have a right to look for in the columns of a paper, the duty of which is to keep them "posted."

"Star chamber" methods are not in keeping with republican institutions, secret manipulations not in accordance with democratic doctrines.

Exceedingly Gratifying.—Had there been a bare majority of votes in favor of the P. C. T. H. B. A. sticking to its legitimate business and give all of its attention to harness racing I would have been pleased. When the report of the committee was read and the recommendations embodied in it were adopted without a dissenting voice a stronger term is required to express my feelings.

Eminently gratifying, hugely delighted that after giving the subject the fullest consideration the directors were practically unanimous in discarding the proposed innovation. Harness-horse folks, everyone interested in harness-racing should use every effort to increase the attendance at the meeting at Emeryville.

With such an attendance as the horses engaged will warrant, the universal cry that trotters and pacers are played out will be changed to a more cheerful tune.

Starters' Position—Strange, indeed, that there should be so much reluctance to adopt the methods that have proved so good in turf management when these are manifestly equally well adapted for track government.

There is no question that placing the starter on the opposite side of the track from the judges is preferable for so many reasons that it would be tiresome to repeat them At the late meeting, Fleetwood Park, New York, that was the plan followed, and it is quite safe to say that when once afforded a fair trial the advantages will be so clearly shown that thereafter not a single advocate of mixing starter and judges together.

Plans for San Jose Meeting.

The Directors of the Santa Clara Valley Agricultural Society held their regular meeting yesterday afternoon. Those present were: President Edward Topham, James W. Rea, G. K. Hostetter, W. A. Parkhurst, William Boots and W. Quinn.

A number of applications for positions during Fair week were received and the matter referred to the Committee on Grounds, with power to appoint.

On motion of Director Rae the suspension of the horse Palermo was released for 25 per cent. of the amount due. Action on awarding bar privileges was deferred until the next meeting by motion of W. A. Parkhurst.

By motion of Director Parkhurst, the Grounds Committee was authorized to confer with Messrs. C. A. Boots, O. Appleby and B. Timmons in regard to making a programme for the running races, of which there will be ten, two each day, commencing with Tuesday, purse for each running race $150. It was also decided to have a 2:12 pacing race with a purse of $500.

On motion of Director Rea, Killip & Co. of San Francisco, being the highest bidders were awarded the privilege of selling pools on the horse races.

Messrs. Thompson appeared before the directors with a proposition to give dog racing during Fair week. After considerable discussion it was decided to have the dog races on the last three days of the Fair—Thursday, Friday and Saturday. The racing will commence at 11 A. M. and continue until 1 P. M., and will not interfere in any way with the rest of the programme. Although all details have not as yet been arranged, many of the best dog fanciers in San Francisco have promised to be in attendance, and lively sport is assured.

After some routine business the Board adjourned to meet next Monday.—San Jose Mercury, Sept. 21st.

Idalium and Geraldine.

Like old Norfolk and Marion, who shared the same paddock and stall until the former died, there is a stallion, Idalium (brother to Sir Modred, Cheviot, July, etc.), and that great California favorite, Geraldine, winner of races innumerable, at A. B. Spreckels' Napa Stock Farm, which are almost inseparable. They occupy the same large stall, roam in the same paddock, eat out of the same rack, and travel like a pair of lovers continually. The handsome black stallion is insanely jealous of the beautiful chestnut mare, and the latter seems to think just as much of her companion. Cy Mulkey, the veteran trainer, says he would hate to separate them, as he believes they would almost die of grief. If any one visits the paddock they come to be caressed as naturally as children would to their parents.

The Grandmaster cigar, named in honor of the champion St. Bernard of the Coast, owned by Thomas H. Browne, is, like the dog, of the first-class. It is the best smoke for the money to be found on any portion of the earth—equal to almost any ten cent straight cigar on the market, superior to nine-tenths of them. The W. M. Cluff Co., of this city, are the proprietors of this most popular brand, and from present indications over one million of Grandmaster cigars will be disposed of on this Coast inside of twelve months. They are recommended to the notice of all horsemen and race-goers, and, once tried, it is safe to say no better cigar would be wanted.

The attention of readers is called to the advertisement for privileges at the Los Angeles race meeting, which appears in this issue. There is no doubt this will be the best-attended meeting ever held in the "Sunny South," as prosperity has smiled on the farmers, orchardists and business men generally in that whole section of country.

HOOF-BEATS.

The Hollister race meeting will be a success this year.

Six straight favorites won at Harlem on Thursday last.

Midlo won at Windsor on Tuesday—six furlongs in 1:14¾—and Decapod, by imp. Sir Modred, won a full-course at Fort Erie.

J. M. Nelson, of Alameda, is getting up a mammoth speed sale of trotters and pacers at the Alameda race track, November 15th.

Dione, 2:14, will get a mark of 2:10 before going into winter quarters. She is a credit to her breeder and owner, A. B. Spreckels.

Miller Sanders, a bay stallion by Sidney, 2:19¾, won a 2:20 trotting race at Elkton, Md., September 8th, winning the fifth heat in 2:23.

Proposals for the lease of Agricultural Park from October 1, 1897 to October 1, 1898 will be received by Secretary Edwin F. Smith, next Friday.

For the finest pasture in California the attention of horsemen is called to the Brentwood Farm. Over 150 horses are there at present and they are thick fat.

William Jennings has sold to J. J. McCafferty the six-year old bay horse, Dutch Skater, by Dutch Roller—Lena, by Tom Ochiltree. The terms are private.

Sunolo F., by Sunol (son of Electioneer), got second money in a race for 2:40 class trotters at Syracuse, N. Y., getting a record of 2:29¼ in the fourth heat.

Stam B., 2:11, was returned to his owners, Tuttle Bros., of Rocklin. This grand horse is suffering from a little splint very close to the knee joint, which lamed him.

Salvable, son of Salvator, Tod Sloan up, won the Speculation Stakes, one mile, at Gravesend last Thursday. He beat Ben Eder but a nose at even weights.

Our Gertie won again at Harlem last Wednesday, carrying 110 pounds and running the five furlongs in 1:01¾. Col. Weightman won the mile and a quarter hurdle.

M. F. Dwyer will have Tom Cromwell and Ben Eder schooled over jumps this fall and during the winter, and intends to go in seriously for steeplechasing this year.

Annie Pedlar, 2:25½, and Amelias Pedlar, 2:29¼, both daughters of Pedlar, son of Electioneer, entered the list at the Elkton, Md., meeting the first week in September.

Dr. C. Masoero, the well-known veterinary surgeon of San Faancisco, had the skull of the mighty Morello mounted and presented to J. O'N. Reis, of Alamo, Contra Costa county.

Wick C. 2:24½, was expelled at Dover, N. J., recently. He was starting as Billy H. in slow classes. All of his winnings were on an order from The National Trotting Association.

St. Louis' long meeting ended last Tuesday. Dan Honig's crack, Magnet, beat a lot of dogs at seven furlongs, Melvin Burnham was successful at six furlongs, Ransome at a mile and seventy yards.

Capt. Jenks, the inhuman brute who nearly starved twelve horses to death in this city has been sentenced to serve six months in the county Jail. The officials ought to take away his feed.

Major John S. Clark, formerly a prominent Kentucky breeder and turfman, has been adjudged insane, and Friday he was sent to the Eastern Kentucky Insane Asylum. Financial reverses, it is said unbalanced his mind.

Ben Benjamin, the able newspaper writer, started for Los Angeles Monday. He will advertise that meeting in a manner that will put the affair before the people in its best light and insure success from every point of view.

Carrie Lyle, of Starter H. D. Brown's string, won a seven-furlong race at Oakley on Thursday, time 1:28½. In a letter to us, Mr. Brown says he will bring a string to San Francisco next winter, Carrie Lyle will in all likelihood be among the lot.

New Orleans' loss is San Francisco's gain. The yellow fever, now raging so furiously at the Crescent City, may cause the New Orleans meeting to be declared off. At any rate, a large number of horses that would have gone to that place will now come to California to race.

The Stockton judges declared the mile running race off on Thursday. Lorena was leading slightly, and Enos or Masoero, pulled in, knocking the filly off her stride. Then Enos grabbed Lorena's reins trying to pull her back. Eddie Jones, rider of Lorena, belabored Enos over the head for this, until he released the reins, and Lorena won by a head. Then the judges declared the race off, but just why is hard to say. It looks as if the race should have gone and Enos been fined about $100.

Silver Set and Gold Band, winners respectively of the fourth and fifth races at St. Louis, September 18th, are by Ben Or, the American horse.

Harry Kuhl, the popular and efficient racing official connected with the P. C. J. C., arrived last Sunday from Detroit, looking as well and happy as ever. He makes hosts of friends wherever he goes, and those having the pleasure of his acquaintance will be glad to hear of his return to California.

The bay gelding, Major, that has been starting in slow classes in Rhode Island and Massachusetts this season, is the five-year-gelding, Rollo, that has made a record of 2:18½ at Omaha, Neb., last year. All of his winnings have been recovered by The National Trotting Association, and will be redistributed.

Louis Marks, Ed McInerney and S. Shaw, of Honolulu, H. I., prominent members of the Hawaiian Jockey Club were visitors at the State Fair. They were delighted with the races, and will return to their island home with many new ideas regarding racing methods. These gentlemen are enthusiastic horsemen and promise to send us many articles on the history of horses that have been sent there during the past twenty-five years.

Presiding Judge Rees, after serving one week, left for New York yesterday with Mrs. Rees, the latter an invalid at present, who goes to the metropolis for surgical treatment. Judge Price, a very capable man, will be presiding judge during the remainder of the meeting.—"Broad Church" in N. Y. Spirit of the Times. The "Judge Price" mentioned is Secretary Charles F. Price, of the Louisville Jockey Club, one of the most courteous and capable racing officials in the country.

When the good mare, Etta H., was cut down in her race at Sacramento the first week of the meeting, many thought she would not be able to race for some time, and were more than surprised when she came out four days later and won over a field of good horses, and in three days came out without a lame step and won again. Mr. Ewarde, the owner, says he thought she would be crippled for some time and her speedy recovery was all due to the skill of Dr. Stimpson, of whom he has unbounded praise.

The grand old broodmare imp. Princess, died at August Belmont's stud farm in Kentucky a few days ago of old age. She was one of the few great matrons left in this country, and ranked with such mares as Marion and Ella I. for throwing high-class horses. Her sire was King Tom, her dam Mrs. Lincoln, by North Lincoln. In England she had Royal Hampton, a most successful horse in the stud. Mr. Belmont imported Princess to this country, where she foaled His Highness, a Futurity winner, and Prince Royal, another high-class horse.

The performances of the game three-year-old youngster, Uncle Johnny, have been watched with great interest by horsemen. Uncle Johnny has made eight starts, six of which he has won, and the other two times being within the money. The colt has a record of 2:20, but this is no measure of his speed. The animal is sound as a dollar, kind and gentle and comes from good game stock, being sired by Benton Boy, 2:16, out of a Nutwood mare. Uncle Johnny will make a valuable campaigner for next year. He is offered for sale by the owner, Geo. E. Shaw, Hollister, at a reasonable price.

Ed. Larrabie, of Deer Lodge, Mont., paid us a visit this week. Mr. Larrabie has moved his family to Portland for the winter, and will devote part of his time looking after his interests in Oregon. He speaks very encouragingly of the prospects for Oregon, and thinks no State in the Union will feel the wave of prosperity more or be benefited greater than will the State of Oregon. Mr. Larrabie is a large breeder of thoroughbred horses and has a stable on the Eastern turf that may be brought to the coast this winter to take part in some of those rich stakes being offered in San Francisco. It was Mr. Larrabie's horse, Ben Holladay, that won the Autumn Handicap at Sheepshead Bay last Saturday, defeating the crack Ornament.—North Pacific Rural Spirit.

Remember the meeting of the P. C. T. H. B. Association commences next Monday at the Oakland Track. Bring your friends to see the best harness racing ever given in California.

Some Turf Surprises.

Since my first notice of turf surprises, I discover that discussion of these surprises is always from the individual standpoint; and it is not only gratifying, but profitable, that the surprises are so discussed, because the publicity given the subjects alway results in more good than the writers originally thought would follow. And with all the discussion, the unexpected always happens. It would seem almost impossible, but it is a fact, that no two persons see things exactly alike. And it is well that the unexpected does happen, otherwise there would be no surprises. I am very sorry that I have no statistics at hand from which to draw, hence I am forced to draw from a much-abused memory. Nevertheless

> Renown stands mute beside the graves
> With which our land is scarred."

Why is it we will persist in attributing these surprises, in their length and breadth, to accidents the moment we hear of one? Is it the instinct of our nature to do so? Or is it because I did not foretell it? I do not mean to approach any one for acting out nature for even I have to laugh when I am amused and weep when in great sorrow and act out my nature. And yet not a man of us who does not glory in his inmost heart over the surprises that are a step foreward in turf achievements. If, however, we attend a debating club at a coloseum, we must prepare to meet colossi only in their estimation. I have always pitied the men who prepared the horses for these great turf surprises, because they have always had to stand in the background, mostly out of sight, when the heroes and heroines had their pictures taken. And yet to this day to them belongs most of the glory of these great surprises. I say this because my sympathies are always with the under dog, provided he is making a game fight. I shall have been followed, thus far, by horsemen of the new school. If any of the old school have accompanied them I will make the rest of the way more interesting to such. "You have a fine animal there," I said to a groom who was leading one of exceptional beauty; "how is he bred?" "His father was a full-bred Morgan, and his mother half Morgan and half mustang." In the trotting register this pedigree means nothing. The Morgan is all right enough, not so with the mustang; and yet he deserves more than a passing notice. The mustang is a reclaimed animal, belonging for the last hundred and fifty years to the wild herds of the American plains. His remote ancestors were two entire horses and four mares turned loose on the pampas by early Spanish adventurers. Whence were descended these half-dozen animals which colonized the new world of course no one can say positively. And to be told that a horse so bred was the first to make a record of 2:28 is surprise number one to all but the old Morgan faithfuls. But when these surprises do come the "I told you so's" cry out from behind the scenes: "I knew it all the time!"

When the old pacer, Pocahontas, made her famous 2:17½ to wagon thirty days before giving birth to a foal, it was a "big surprise!" When Flora Temple made her 2:19¾ at the Kalamazoo track, that was "a big surprise!" When Goldsmith Maid made the welkin ring up in the Milwaukee woods to the tune of 2:16½, that was such a surprise that "Robert Bonner sent surve ors from New York to verify it!" When Lady Mack put her mark on the five-mile record, and the boot-blacks carried off the California gold, that was "another surprise!" When Hamlin's team set the double team mark at 2:13¾, that was "another surprise!" And when men began to predict that a horse would some day be bred that would compass a mile in two minutes, that was a "burning shame!" When a colt was bred that made a record of 2:30 at two years of age, that was "a case of cruelty to animals!" When a yearling colt beat 2:30, "the man who bred him and the one who drove him to his record were worthy of death!" When Axtell was sold for $105,000 as a three-year-old, it was "a case of imprisonment for life! and a 'blasted' piece of deception!" When Tewksbury bought the king of pacers, had harness, sulky and a car built especially for them, that they might slip inside the two minute charmed circle, when the wind was favorable, and thus immortalize Mr. Tewksbury, New York, all the horses, brothers and sisters, his cousins and his aunts, "Mr. Tewksbury was the best fellow in the world!" But when Star Pointer beat 2:00, a thing that few had been looking forward to as a surprise to the many for forty years, and without any special preparation or peculiarly made harness, or sulky, or car to transport him and his owners from place to place, "Jim Murphy," "of the village of Chicago"—with a small "c," was the hero of the hour. Star Pointer has made a royal wind-up of the "long-looked-for, come-at-last." These wiseacres have had a good bit to say about Star Pointer's feet. I knew another star that was condemned on account of his feet before Geo. Trussle, another Chicago man, bought him—that Star was the white-legged ghost, Dexter, whose dam was by American Star. Dexter was a pretty good cripple. And Star Pointer proves to be another good cripple. And isn't it strange, that it takes these cripples to "do these wiseacres up?" Cripplas will be in great demand for the next fifty years, and unless the breeders of speed take particular pains there will not be cripples enough to supply the demand.

Frank H. Dunton.

Star Pointer the King.

Indianapolis (Ind.), September 18.—Every previous pacing record chronicled in the annals of the turf was wiped out on the track here to-day by Star Pointer. In a match race against Joe Patchen, Murphy's game and speedy bay lowered the world's race record for pacers from 2:02½ to 2:01.

Thousands of people witnessed the event, for everybody felt that both horses would be strained to their supremest effort of speed. Danger to racords was in the air, and the sequel delighted the lovers of harness racing. His time of two minutes one second for the mile may not be surpassed for many years. At least this is the opinion of men who ought to be competent judges.

Intense excitement prevailed during the race, for it was the prettiest exhibition of its kind ever seen on this or any other track. The match was for a stake of $3,000 and the world's record.

Pointer beat Patchen by three lengths. The best previous record made in harness race was 2:01½, by Robert J. last year, when Pointer drove him out, and again at Columbus last July by Joe Patchen in the second heat in a match race with Pointer. The two heats were paced yesterday on a rather heavy track. Pointer took the first in 2:04¾ and Patchen the second in 2:03. To-day the track was in excellent condition.

On the third trial to-day in the first heat there was not the difference of half a nose between the two horses, and the word was given. The black pushed steadily forward until they reached the first quarter, when Pointer began to edge up slowly. The time of the first quarter was 29¾ seconds. Both Murphy and Marks had intimated to there friends that they were going to send their horses so capture a record, and horsemen were expecting a great mile.

The race up the backstretch looked like a battle royal, each horse going like a bit of clockwork. Pointer gained slowly, for the big black was straining every nerve to retain his lead. At the half the bay was but a head behind, and as they turned out of the backstretch they were on even terms.

Then McClary was seen to lean forward and talk to Pointer, and the fight was short and decisive. The noble bay responded to the urging with all his reserved strength and passed his antagonist on the turn like a gale of wind, coming into the stretch for the wire half a length ahead.

There was no need of whip for either horse. Patchen was making a desperate effort and Pointer was doing likewise. A great cheer went up as Pointer passed under the wire, three lengths ahead and with speed to spare. The crowd awaited anxiously for the announcement of the time. By the watches in the stand it had been caught variously at 2:00½, 2:00¾ and 2:01. The official time was announced as 2:01, and another cheer went up, while a crowd gathered around Murphy, the owner of the great horse, and congratulated him.

The time by quarters was 0:29¾, 1:00, 1:30, 2:01, the last quarter being the slowest of the mile. The mile was made by Patchen in 2:01¾.

The State Tournament.

The fifth semi-annual tournament of the California Inanimate Target Association held at Del Monte Grove, Monterey last Saturday and Sunday, brought out an entry of fifty-eight, the smallest by far of the association's gatherings, but the shooting was excellent, the hospitality of the Monterey sportsmen without parallel, and those that did attend enjoyed a royal outing. The Olympic Gun Club's members came pretty near making a clean sweep of the principle prizes. C. Leighton, of Los Angeles, won the E. T. Allen Cup; O. N. Ralphs, of Los Angeles, the Gold Dust Medal; Wm. Varien, of Pacific Grove, the Golcher Trophy; C. C. Nauman, of the Olympics, the Individual Championship Medal; the Olympic Club Team, the Overland Monthly Team Trophy, the Association Championship Team Trophy and the Roos Trophy.

The winners of the various trophies are as follows: Allen Cup—Dr. W. S, George, Antioch; Dr. A. M. Barker, San Jose; Elmer Mason, Los Angeles; C. Leighton, Los Angeles.

Gold Dust Medal—R, J. McCoy, Stockton; M. Chick, San Diego; J. W. Shiell, Teaver; O. N. Ralphs, Los Angeles.

Overland Monthly Team Trophy—Los Angeles Gun Club, twice; Olympic Gun Club, twice.

Golcher Trophy—F. B. Norton, Reliance; W. H. Seaver Reliance; J. W. Stewart, Marysville; Wm. Varien, Monterey.

Individual Championship Medal—W. H. Seaver, Reliance; Geo. W. Hinkle, Visalia; C. J. Haas, Stockton; M. O. Feudner, Olympic; C. C. Nauman, Olympic.

How to Load Smokeless Powders.

The Hunter Arms Co. of Fulton, N. Y., manufacturer of the L. C. Smith gun, in its second edition of its 1897 catalogue, devotes nearly two pages of the book to instructions for loading the different nitro powders now generally in use in this country; and while the loads suggested may not suit everyone, they are based on practical tests made by the company at its factory, and therefore should be good, safe loads.

It will be noticed that in all the loads for 12-gauge guns only 1 1-8 ounces of shot is used, but if one wishes to use an extra eighth of an ounce of shot it will make but little difference, except the velocity would not be quite as high and the pattern would be a little closer.

Believing that there are many of our readers who will appreciate the loading instructions given by this reliable, painstaking and experienced firm of gun-makers, we give them below :

E. C. Powder, 12-guage gun, 2¾-inch shell—3¼ drams, one 12-gauge blue nitro card wad and one 11 or 12-gauge ¼-inch pinkedge wad and one blackedge, in order named, over powder, with a pressure of from 25 to 40 pounds, 1 1-8 oz. shot, chilled, with 12-gauge top shot wad. Well crimped. 10-guage gun—4 drams, and 1¼ oz. shot, wadded the same with 10-gauge wads. 16-guage gun—2¼ drams, one 16-gauge cardboard and two 16 gauge pink or blackedge wads, 1 oz. shot, with thin top shot wad. Well crimped.

Schultze Powder, 12-gauge gun—3 drams, wadded the same as for "E. C.," except do not put any pressure on the powder; simply seat the wads firmly. 10-gauge gun—4 drams, wadded the same as for 12-bore with 10-gauge wads, and 1¼ oz. shot, chilled. 16-gauge-gun—2¼ drams, wadded the same as for "E. C." following above instructions in regard to pressure, 1 oz shot. Well crimped.

Du Pont Smokeless Powder, 12-gauge gun—3 drams wadded the same as for "E. C.," with pressure of from 20 to 40 pounds over powder. 10-gauge gun—4 drams, wadded the same as for 12 gauge, with 10-gauge wads, 1¼ oz. shot. 16 gauge gun—2½ drams, wadded the same as for "E. C.," 1 oz. shot.

Hazard Smokeless Powder, 12-gauge gun—3 drams, wadded the same as for "E. C.," with pressure of from 20 to 40 pounds over powder. 10-gauge gun—4 drams, wadded the same as for 12-gauge, with 10-gauge wads, 1¼ oz. shot. 16-gauge gun—2½ drams, wadded the same as for "E. C.," 1 oz. shot.

King's Smokeless Powder, 12-gauge gun—3 drams, wadded the same as for "E. C.," with pressure of from 20 to 40 pounds over powder. 10-gauge gun—4 drams, wadded the same as for 12 gauge, with 10-gauge wads, 1¼ oz. shot.

Austin Smokeless Powder, 12 guage gun—3 drams, wadded the same as for "E. C.," with pressure of from 20 to 40 pounds over powder. 10-guage gun—4 drams, wadded the same as for 12-gauge, with 10-gauge wads, 1¼-oz. shot. 16-gauge gun—2½ drams, wadded the same as for "E. C.," 1-oz. shot.

Laflin & Rand W. A. Smokeless, 12-gauge gun, 56 grains, about 2¼ drams measure, one trap, two black-edge 12 gauge wads, in order named, over powder, with pressure of from 20 to 40 pounds, 1 1-8 oz. shot chilled with 12 gauge top wad. Well crimped. 10-gauge gun—68 grains, about 2¾ drams measure, wadded samed as for 12-guage, with 10-gauge wads

Gold Dust Powder, 12-gauge gun—42 grains, about 1⅞ drams measure, one trap, one 3 8 inch white felt and one black-edge 12-gauge wads over powder, in order named, about 40 pounds' pressure; 1 1 8 oz. shot chilled, with 12-gauge top shot wad. Well crimped. 10-gauge gun—54 grains, about 2¼ drams measure; 1¼ oz. shot, wadded same as 12-gauge, with 10-gauge wads.

Three Bears in Four Shots.

WALLACE, Idaho.—O. C. Smith is now posing as the champion bear hunter, having killed three one morning recently with four shots.

He has been working on Sunset peak for several months, and the other morning when he awoke he heard something near his cabin that sounded like a bear. As none had been around in daylight, and but one seen on the peak this year, he paid no attention to it, but cut some wood, cooked and ate some breakfast and started to work. Still the noise was heard at intervals, so he went back, got his Winchester and started to investigate. Sure enough, there was a big black bear tearing rotten stumps and logs to pieces within one hundred yards of the cabin. The first shot split its head wide open. He dressed it and started out to the road to see if he could find a team to haul it to town. When half-way to the road he saw a large cinnamon bear and a cub on the sidehill above him. He fired at the only part of the old one that he could see through the brush, but the ball struck too far back. At the crack of the gun the cub went up a tree like a squirrel, and the old one took a bee line for Smith at a gait which would have distanced Star Pointer. Half-way to him it met another 44-caliber bullet and suddenly lay down. To put another ball through the head of the grinning cub only required a moment, and seeing no more bears anywhere about, he dressed them and came to town after a wagon to haul the game to market, reaching here just at dark.

Although seldom seen, bears are quite plentiful on Sunset, acres of ground being torn up where they have been digging for roots, the huckleberry crop being light this year.—Spokane Review.

CARTRIDGE AND SHELL.

A. Lessing and John Venator killed 44 geese and 28 ducks at Lakeview, Oregon, on the 9th.

The Waterloo Gun Club's live-bird medal was won at Stockton on the 12th by C. A. Merrill.

The Supervisors of Butte county have been asked to pass an ordinance prohibiting market hunting.

The S. P. Co. will put on the regular hunters train tonight, on the narrow-gauge Santa Cruz line.

The final shoot of the season of the Reliance Gun Club will be held to-morrow at Webster street, Alameda.

The final shoot of the season of the Empire Gun Club will take place at the club's grounds, Alameda Point, to-morrow.

Those who klll in excess of six deer or antelope in one season in Montana are subject to a fine of from $500 to $1,000.

Sprig are coming down from the north and the opening of the season will see many good bags of northern as well as home bred birds.

Fred Gilbert has challenged J. A. R. Elliott for the Kansas City Star Cup. The match was to have taken place yesterday at Kansas City.

A. C. Dietz will kindly accept our thanks for three fine photos of his party as they are about to start for a deer hunt and the fox hounds Nero and Victor.

T. G. Duncan and I. F. Keyes of Stockton returned on the 14th from Humboldt and Trinity counties. They brought home two deer of the five they killed during their outing.

The winning of the Olympic team No. 2, consisting of Haight, Golcher and Barney was a surprise. To beat such well-known cracks as Webb, Feudner and Nauman means good shooting.

Chas. Rowe and Elsie and Frank Wire, of Davisville, passed through Woodland recently on their way home from Bartlett Springs, where they have been hunting. They had a fine big buck with them, which they killed just before their departure.—Woodland Mail.

The last live bird event of the season and what promises to be one of the very best of the year is the Olympic Gun Club's picnic shoot at the club's new preserve on the Petaluma marsh. The steamer Caroline will leave Jackson-street wharf promptly at 7:30 A. M., Sunday.

The Olympic Club will have 100 dozen pigeons at the picnic to-morrow, and there is a good prospect that this will not be enough. If the attendance is not better than at the late tournament we will be mistaken. Don't bother to bring any lunch; the club will take care of that. All are invited.

W. N. Wetmore and a friend returned from the Pastime Gun Club, Alviso Bridge, on Tuesday morning with a nice bunch of curlew, plover, willett and robin snipe. Among the bunch were two very rare specimens, an esquimaux curlew and a golden plover. They found more "beetle-head" plover than ever before and robin snipe were quite plentiful also.

The opening of the shooting season, Friday next will find a goodly number of ducks on the marshes. There are a few at Alviso but no real good shooting can be expected on that marsh until after the first heavy storm. They are reported quite plentiful on the Sonoma marsh and at Suisun where they breed, there are unquestionably a great many home bred birds.

Last week, Wednesday, a fierce fight occurred at Moody's creek, near the Judson place west of San Jose, between a large wildcat and two Santa Clara dogs. A number of boys were rabbit hunting, when Enos' hound scared up a wildcat and a battle followed. The wildcat was making short work of the hound, when Jack Toomey's bulldog came to the rescue. The bulldog seized the cat by the throat. The Toomey dog was badly scratched about the head, but after a forty minutes' battle the cat was killed. Fifteen minutes after the cat's death the hound succumbed to his injuries.

A meeting of the Pasadena Duck Club was held recently at the office of G. A. Gibbs and the club formally organized. G. A. Gibbs was made President, and Joe Welch, Secretary and Treasurer. G. A. Gibbs, Victor Ward and L. Hermann were appointed as members of the executive committee. Plans for a new club house were examined and the contract for its building will be let at once. The club house will be erected at the Bixby ranch. New members admitted were W. S. Wright, H. M. Staats, Irving V. Ingram, Messrs. Perrine and Davies and F. J. Woodbury.

The London Shooting Times and the British Sportsman is authority for the following information concerning the big game in South Africa : "The report recently presented to a meeting of the Game Protection Association of the Cape Colony, at Cape Town, showed the big game in the colony to be 150 elephants, 400 buffaloes, 9 500 gemsbok, 4 000 koodoo, 3,000 hartebeest, 150 wildebeest, 300 bontebok, 280, blesbok, 70 zebra, and 2,400 wild ostriches, The report stated that the association's work had a marked effect on the preservation of game throughout the colony, though much remained to be done."

We have always endeavored to avoid partiality and give each gun club the credit due it but the recent winnings of the Olympic Gun Club call for more than ordinary mention. No club in California has ever done as well. Nauman has won the 50 bird record medal of the Empires, Webb the championship of the Olympics, Nauman the individual State championship, Haight the live bird medal of the California Wing Club and the club teams won all three of the team trophies at the recent tournament at Monterey add to this the winnings of Otto Feudner this summer and we have an unequalled record, a record of which any club might well be proud.

The Butte Inter Mountain is responsible for the following: R. J. Watson, H. W. Bartlett and J. W. Forbis returned recently from a successful fishing trip in the vicinity of Dell station, Beaverhead county, and Red Rock. Barring a few minor accidents the trio had a good time and made the game suffer terribly.

Mr. Watson returned with the largest share of birds, which he obtained in a novel manner. The winged game around Red Rock subsist on the fish in the lake and are adriot anglers, diving sometimes to great depths to secure a juicy trout. Mr. Watson, after many vain attempts to bring down a mallard duck, noted the manner in which the fowls secured their food, and put the information to good use. He threw away his rifle and unlimbered his bamboo fishing pole. At the first throw he was successful. A big trout made a dive for the fly and about the same time a big mallard duck grabbed the trout. The contest was an unequal one, and in less than a second Mr. Watson had landed both duck and fish. The sport lasted all day and the sportsman had the satisfaction of bringing to Butte the biggest haul of the season.

U. M. C., Acme, Trap Smokeless, High Base and Nitro shells were strongly in evidence at the traps at Monterey. Nauman, Feudner and Webb all used Acme shells and U. M. C. wadding.

From a most reliable source it has been learned that young ducks are being shipped to the San Francisco market by a party of hunters who live in this county. This business has been going on for the past three or four weeks and they find no difficulty in disposing of the game to several well-known commission firms. In fact, these merchants have been bold enough to ask the hunters to ship them some ducks, which they would dispose of on the quiet. It is said that young ducks are being slaughtered in the vicinity of Clarksburg without any attempt at concealment, and a raid by the new-appointed game warden would no doubt bring fruitful results. —Woodland Democrat.

A Retrospect.

A little shadow lightly cast
Upon the face of pleasure;
A little image of the past,
My boyhood's dearest treasure.
A little shaggy coat and two
Bright eyes with mischief beaming.
That seemed to read me through and through
As if an imp's were gleaming.

A shadow of the past that falls
Upon a sunny minute,
Perhaps I fancy it recalls
Full more than lies within it.
Two eyes so full of fun to-day,
Yet strangely sad to-morrow,
And full of sweet dumb sympathy
For boyhood's fancied sorrow.

I see a small boy slouch along,
With sadly knee-worn breeches;
I feel a father deft and strong
Discount those fractured stitches,
While you, to make things equal, bark,
And bite his cherished trousers;
I see you share my thrashing, then,
O best of tykes and Towsers.

The mem'ry of a boyish thought
Is o'er my fancy stealing;
It was when you had bravely fought
For me in fellow feeling,
I thought when Nature made my dog
She had been in a hurry,
And dropped the gift of speech into
His glances in her flurry!

Dear little pal! the years have flown
Since death our revels ended,
And many stately dogs I've known
That have me well befriended;
But you, so ready eke to share
My thrashing or my dinner,
In many scrapes did me ensnare,
Oh, faithful little sinner!

A little shadow lightly cast
Upon a moment's gladness,
That wafts a fragrance of the past—
One scarce can call it sadness,
Down, Rover, down! I love you well.
But Fancy, soaring o'er you,
Has met my little boyhood's pal—
The tyke I loved before you!

Allen on Vredenburg.

We quote below Merton C. Allen's remarks on Vredenburgh's visit to the Coast in a recent issue of Western Sports, our bright little local contemporary. We quote the article because we wish to give it wider circulation; we quote it because it is good, sound, common sense that we fully endorse. The article in question is as follows:

"Secretary Vredenburgh's visit to San Francisco is now an incident of the past. In the light of events there is ample room for criticism of that worthy functionary of the American Kennel Club. Mr. Vredenburgh's stay in California was brief. It might perhaps be just as well if his future tenure in the office which he holds should prove no longer.

Secretary Vredenburgh, while a 'stranger within our gates,' established that he has absolutely no knowledge of such a thing as 'tact.' He was sent to California by the American Kennel Club to restore harmony among contending factions in San Francisco dogdom. Quite incidentally he assumed to play a part in the investigation of Judge Mortimer's complaint against the late H. T. Payne. It may interest the officials of the American Kennel Club to know just how Mr. Vredenburgh discharged his errand.

The hotels of San Francisco are not all conducted by contending dog fanciers. In truth the city boasts of a number of excellent hostelries with which dog men have naught to do The wise Mr. Vredenburgh did not choose to lend his patronage to a hotel of that number. Instead, his place of residence was a hotel conducted by one of Payne's most ardent friends and supporters. He made his home, as it were, in the very camp of one of the contending factions responsible for all of the trouble which he came here to investigate.

The worthy secretary from New York was kind to the body of the fancy, His place of stopping was announced by official letter some days in advance of his arrival. Dog men with complaints were invited to call on Mr. Vredenburgh at that particular hotel. It goes without saying that the calls made in response to this letter were all from members of the faction with which Mr. Vredenburgh elected to make his abiding place in San Francisco.

I congratulate mine host of the Colonial in the assidity of his attentions to the Eastern visitor. He took excellent care to see that Mr. Vredenburgh had no opportunity to become lonesome. Whether courtesy went to the extent of a receipted bill or reduced rates I have no means of telling. I do not question Mr. Vredenburgh's thrift, but in this matter I do question his tact and judgment.

'I heard but a short time ago of the complimentary dinner which Mr. Vredenburgh tendered a few choice spirits on the eve of his departure for the East. The list of invited guests, so far as it has come under my notice, is above criticism. The death of Payne, however, left one vacant chair. I understand, however, that the ghost of the departed editor was in evidence. The ghost's impression of the feast are to be found in 'Field'Sports' of last Saturday. Here is a sample paragraph:

"The evening was well spent in conversation concerning the dog interest in general, the new rules of the A. K. C. being discussed, and all feeling particularly jubilant owing to the recent declaration of harmony at the last meeting of the Pacific Advisory Board."

"The harmony said to have been restored at the last meeting of the Pacific Advisory Board is largely in Mr. Vredenburgh's eye. Long-standing grievances are not to be swept away by honeyed words. A bigger man than Mr. Vredenburgh would have failed to reconcile factions had he shown no more tact than our late visitor. Mr. Vredenburgh will probably report to the American Kennel Club that all is now peace and harmony and love among the dog men of the Pacific Coast. I give Mr. Secretary the credit of believing such to be the fact, but truth requires the statement that Mr. Vredenburgh never made a more grievous mistake in all his life.

"As stated in Western Sports last week, San Francisco's dog future depends on men and methods. What is now called harmony is nothing more than an armed truce. The Pacific Advisory Board has, by right of action, removed a constant cause of trouble and paved the way for better times. The San Francisco Kennel Club is to play a prominent part in the work of reconstruction. It is in the power of that club to have an entirely new deal all around. If there is to be harmony it can be accomplished in no other way. The San Francisco Kennel Club is a strong organization, and on its roll of membership are to be found the names of many men not identified with old factions and old quarrels. Let such men have the management of the next show, and one of the most formidable obstacles in the way of success will be removed. Dog owners are, or should be, sportsmen at heart. The true sportsman can afford to be generous, and in the light of that knowledge the San Francisco Kennel Club should be able to accomplish the task in which the worthy Mr. A. P. Vredenburgh so signally failed."

The Victoria Show.

The Victoria Kennel Club's bench show will be held on October 14-16. Would it not be well worth the while for one of our handlers to take up a string. The trip can be made entirely by steamer and should not be hard on the dogs. Going to a cooler climate is much preferable to going to a warmer, and a good many sales might accrue from the trip.

Emil Pferdner, the club's secretary, writes regarding the show as follows: "Any dog entered for our show from any outside place will be well taken care of by our Superintendent, no matter if the time is a few days previous to the opening of the show. All dogs will be reshipped to their homes as soon as practicable after the show, and during the intervening time will be taken care of by the bench show committee.

Arrangements for the entering of dogs through the customs have been made, no charge of any kind is made on that account, the club having given bonds that all dogs entered will be reshipped except if sold, in which case the duty will be collected. If the dog is a pedigreed animal and the owner declares his intention to keep him for his own use or breeding purposes, it is entered free. Otherwise a small duty is levied."

DOINGS IN DOGDOM.

J. B. Martin can tell the owner, of the whereabouts of an Irish terrier lost about a week ago.

E. H. Moore's Champion Alton Jr. has joined the great majority. He was a full brother to Ch. Melrose.

Chas. Dresser continues to sell dogs galore. He has sold this week a Great Dane pup and a collie pup to A. Hannah, of this city.

H. McCracken, of the Presidio Kennels, has sold the well-known St. Bernard bitch Champion Alta Berna to Emil Pferdner, of Victoria.

John Schumacher's English setter bitch Rowena, by Harold—Enid, has whelped eight puppies to Valiente, both field trial winners. These should be valuable puppies.

Was there ever a more incomplete record than the American Kennel Gazette's list of champions. A few hours work looking over the catalogues of the various shows would about double the list.

H. A. Wagener, the well-known St. Bernard breeder is getting together quite a kennel of cocker spaniels. In purchasing Dufferin by Viscount—Polly Pastime he secured the best dog puppy of the season. He has now purchased the well-known brood bitch Peg Woffington the dam of many good ones. His red bitch Tootsie W. by Woodland Duke—Peg Woffington won 1st in her class at San Francisco. He should produce a winner from this trio.

Al. Palmer is looking for some one with a gun. His well-known St. Bernard Beppo, by Lord Hualpa—Lola, and a valuable Gordon setter were poisoned last Tuesday with arsenic. It is a pity the miscreant cannot be made to swallow some of his own medicine.

The Toronto show brought out 719 entries with 554 dogs benched. The discussion between Mortimer and Mason on the comparative merits of the bull dogs King Orry and Alexander at the "Queen's" must have been well worth hearing. We once had a hankering for King Orry ourselves.

The Los Angeles Herald's kennel notes are either written by Payne or one of his mouthpieces. The Herald is the only paper in America that has defended Payne in his infamous attack upon Mortimer. Every issue contains some little squib about the matter, some quotation from Payne's paper or a par in defense of Payne. Dollars to doughnuts Payne is writing it himself.

NOTICE TO ANGLERS.

Every angler is invited to drop us a line occasionally, telling us of the condition of the streams they have visited and the killing lure; of the number and size of the fish caught, or any other item of interest to anglers.

A special train over the Northern Pacific Coast Railroad, Sunday, September 26th, will give anglers five hours fun on the Russian river, where black bass make it interesting for sportsmen. It has been arranged to have boats at both Russian River station and Duncan's Mills for the use of anglers. Near the first-named place Flaherty's pool is the favorite, while above Duncan's Mills is Moscow pool and another pool at the mouth of Austin Creek, both favorite places for men in search of bass. Many of the fish caught there this season have weighed four pounds each. Live minnows are the best bait, and fishermen should take a net with which to secure the minnows. A popular rate of $1.50 has been made for the round trip that day, and the excursion leaves via the 8 A. M. Sausalito boat. Anglers may engage boats, secure tickets for reserved seats in special cars and obtain any desired information by applying to J. E Locke, 338 O'Farrell street, any evening. The number of boats are limited and those who apply first will, of course, have the first choice. Tickets for unreserved cars may be had at the ferry.

Trout fishing is confined to the big rivers. The Eel, McCloud and Sacramento are all furnishing the best of sport at present writing and should continue to do so until the middle of October.

A one-pound small mouth black bass was caught in the Feather river a short distance above the railroad bridge a couple of weeks ago, by Geo. R. Eckart. It was caught on a grasshopper.

Louis Marks and wife of Honolulu are enjoying fine fishing at Lake Tahoe, especially the latter. They will kindly accept our thanks for a box of beauties received last Thursday.

A consignment of black bass was shipped to Honolulu the first of the week. They will be planted in the various streams of the island as en experiment.

Eight hundred pounds of pompano were caught at Santa Cruz in one day recently and sold on the spot for 50 cents per pound.

The ties for the season's medals of the San Francisco Fly Casting Club will be cast off at Stow Lake this afternoon at 2 P. M.

Five thousand Tahoe trout were placed in Alhambra creek and 5,000 in Mitchell creek at Mt. Diablo last week.

C. M. Belshaw is fishing the McCloud. He sent down a five and one-half-pound trout last week.

Lake Webber is providing the best of sport.

Remember the meeting of the P. C. T. H. B. Association commences next Monday at the Oakland Track. Brin, your friends to see the best harness racing ever given in California.

THE STOCKTON MEETING.

The Most Successful Held in Years—Little Thorn, Two Cheers and Glen Ann Win the First Day—The Racing Good.

MONDAY, SEPTEMBER 21.

Stockton has had several good fair meetings, but the one inaugurated this afternoon from every point of view eclipses those of the past in point of attendance, excellence of racing and in everything else. The day was warm and clear, and the track fast enough for the most fastidious. Generally the initial day at all fair meetings is noted for the absence of payees at the gate.

The four heats in the 2:30 pace were very exciting, and all but one of them were in doubt till within a few yards of the wire, as two of the starters were evenly matched. The local horse, Little Thorn, should have taken the first three heats, but got away none too well and broke on the backstretch in the first. He took the second and third heats handily in a drive down the stretch with Dictatus.

The running races were nearly spoiled by the starts. In the first three horses were left at the post. The favorite, Tortoise, had about three lengths the best of it, and was running while the others were standing still. Two Cheers nipped him out at the wire in a grueling finish. The last event caused considerable dissatisfaction among the bettors, who had to win two heats in a four-furlong dash to get any money.

The horses in the 2:30 class heat dash pace were sent away on the fourth score with Floretta Belle in the air and the others in line. Maben took Belle to the pole but she did not get into her stride until near the turn, while the others were a half dozen lengths away. They flashed past the quarter with Little Thorn two lengths to the good, Naulahka second by a length in front of Dictatus, who was three lengths ahead of Beau Brummel. Little Thorn gave way to Naulahka before reaching the half, but there was only daylight between them with Beau Brummel eight lengths in front of the others, who were hopelessly out of it. The Hawaiian horse had increased his lead to three lengths, but Dictatus was taking up the ground which separated them. He could not get nearer than two lengths at the wire. Beau Brummel got the place by eight lengths. Time, 2:14. Dictatus was supposed to be right and was made the favorite at $10 to $10 against the field. In the mutual box the winning tickets paid $3.80.

The betting switched on the second heat and Naulahka was favorite at $10 to $10 for the field, but she was never prominent. They went away to a good start, but Belle broke before reaching the turn. Naulahka led to the quarter, Belle was second and Dictatus was third by five lengths, while the others were away off. Belle assumed command just before reaching the half, with the Hawaiian pacer second by a head. Dictatus was in the same position, but Litttle Thorn was moving up. Thompson commenced driving him around the upper turn and closed up the gap before reaching the head of the stretch. It was Dictatus by three lengths, Naulahka by a head, Floretta Belle by a neck, Little Thorn five lengths. Litile Thorn outfooted Dictatus down the stretch and won by a length. Dictatus was three lengths in front of Naulahka, who had four lengths the best of Beau Brummel, with the Belle last. Time, 2:16. The small box paid $2.25 on $2 tickets.

There had been such a change in the favorites that the talent was at sea for a "good thing" in the third heat, but it finally selected Little Thorn to do the trick, and he reimbursed many of those who went wrong on the first two heats. He went out in front and passed the quarter a length and a half ahead of Dictatus, who was about the same distance in front of Naulahka, with Brummel and Belle trailing. Dictatus had it on Little Thorn at the half by a length, and he was almost two lengths in front of Naulahka. The other two were out of it. It was between Little Thorn and Dictatus down the straight, but the Red Wilkes horse backed up when a hundred yards from the wire and Little Thorn was first by an open length. Brummel got the show by several lengths, with Naulahka and the Belle pulling up. Time, 2:18. Mutuels paid $3.25.

Little Thorn and Naulahka were sent to the stable and the three non-winners fought out the final heat. Dictatus was never headed and varied the distance between himself and the other two from three lengths at the quarter to twelve at the wire. Floretta Belle was second all the way around the course and Brummel brought up the rear after a bad break on the lower turn. The crowd had considerable sport cheering Hodges, the driver of Dictatus, who has never won a heat before. He has been the most unlucky horse on the circuit and the race followers were pleased to see him win. Time, 2:21. The holders of mutuel tickets cashed them for $5.05.

Nine gallopers started for the $100 purse, for which no entrance fee was called. Tortoise closed favorite at $10 to $7 each for Howard and Jim Bozeman and the field $5. Starter Lowden did not keep the bunch at the post but a few minutes. He sent them away to the worst start ever made on the track, with Jim Bozeman, Buena Vista and Kitty Brady standing still. Tortoise went out and opened up a length at the half. Two Cheers was second, running easy, a good length in front of Howard. There was no change at the three-quarters other than Howard, who had moved up and went after the two leaders. He could not reach them, as both boys were using steel and whip. Tortoise and Two Cheers ran like a team until within twenty-five yards of the finish, when the game son of Two Cheers put his head in front and kept it there till the tape was passed. Howard was third and the bunch strung out. Time, 1:14¾. The players in the small box got $12 50 for straight field tickets, $7 for Two Cheers pasteboards for second and $3.20 for Tortoise for place.

The district maiden four-furlong sprint was mixed up worse than the first one. Slydell and Little Haides were left standing when the gate was sprung. There was no recall and the boys on Glen Ann, Utica and Bright Mars rode their horses out and finished in the order named. The jockeys dismounted and started to weigh in before they discovered their mistake. The matter was argued with the judges, but they could do nothing but send the sprinters back to the post. Those who held tickets on the favorite also objected, but to no avail. Starter Lowden came to the stand and stated that he called the boys back, but they did not return.

Sullivan's mare outclassed the field, and when they were sent away the second time to a fair start she took the lead and was never headed to the wire. Slydell was second to Glen Ann by five lengths, with Eittle Haides third. Time, 0:50½.

TUESDAY, SEPTEMBER 22.

The slight sprinkle of rain did not keep the people from the track this afternoon, and those who went there were well paid for their time and trouble. The 2:20 trot reimbursed every lover of good racing, as it took six heats to decide it, and it was hard picking to name the horse that would take the long end of the purse till the fifth circuit had been made.

When the splitting of heats commenced in the 2:20 trot, circuit chasers stacked their money in the box on the game son of McDonald Chief, Columbus S. The fourth heat he outfooted the field down the stretch, winning in good time. The others were at his mercy afterwards and the driver had only to sit down on the ribbons and let him come away from them when nearing the wire. Palermo made a strong bid for first money, but could not last in such hard drives.

The pacing went to Joe Wheeler, who outclassed his field. The sprint upset the majority of the crowd around the pool-box, as Bozeman was looked upon as a sure thing. He ran well, but could not head Tortoise when Macklin let him out.

The directors have arranged with Tom Keating to start Searchlight, 2:09½, the holder of the three-year-old pacing record, against his mark next Thursday. The time was made on the track at Butte, Montana, which was used for runners and was fully three seconds slow. On the fast track here he will undoubtedly cut his record two or three seconds.

Joe Wheeler will start in the 2:17 pace Friday afternoon and his owner, C. A. Owen, has agreed to send him to break his world's record for four-year-old geldings of 2:08½.

There was a switch in the betting from the tickets written the evening before. May B. sold favorite at $10 to $8 for the field in the night betting, but yesterday Iran Alto was selected to capture first money at $10 to $7 for the field and $5 for May B., with plenty of money going into the box. The trotters in the 2:20 class scored in two tiers for several times before they were given the word to a fair start. Lustre broke and Palermo followed on reaching the first turn. Iran Alto went away from his field and led from three to four lengths at the three-quarters. Here Kent brought Uncle Johnnie, who had been trailing, up and challenged the leader. In a hot drive down the stretch Johnie beat Iran Alto, who left his feet just before the wire was reached, by a half length. Palermo, whose break on the lower turn cost him half a dozen lengths, finished third, but two lengths back. Time, 2:20.

The second heat looked like Iran Alto till the lower turn was reached, when he went off his feet and finished third. Palermo came on and took the heat handily by three lengths from Columbus S., who was getting better each heat. Time, 2:16¼.

The third trial also went to Palermo, who assumed the lead just before passing the half and went under the wire seven lengths in front of Columbus, who had a head and head finish with Our Jack, but bested him. Time, 2:18.

It was Columbus S. all the way in the fourth attempt, with May B. and Our Jack fighting for second position. Palermo was never prominent till in the stretch, when he closed up a big gap, but lost his feet before reaching the seven-eighths pole and finished last. Time, 2:17. The judge announced that all horses that had not won a heat should go to the stable, but one of the drivers objected, and on looking the matter up the judge found that where eight horses started non-winners in five heats went to the barn. The fifth heat was taken by Columbus S. after Iran Alto led to the quarter. Palermo made a bid for the heat, but was all out and finished third to Lustre, who was up close for the first time in the race. Time, 2:18¼. Iran Alto, May B., Fanadma, Lustre and Our Jack were sent to the stable, and the winners of the heats contested in the final. Palermo led to the three-quarters, but tired badly in the straight. Columbus S. had been under a heavy pull all the way round and finished first by a length, easing up, Palermo second. Time, 2:20¼.

The 2:20 pace was a gift for Joe Wheeler, who had a fair warm-up in the three trials. He could have gone ten seconds faster in either trial than he finished, but there was nothing in the race to force him out. He laid back and trailed the others around to the head of the stretch and came away from them as if they were tied up. Floracita was second in each heat and took second money. Adele was awarded third money, and Prince H. was returned his entrance. Time, 2:18, 2:17½, 2:16.

There was but little betting on this event, as everyone conceded the race to Wheeler. A few tickets were sold on him at $40 against $4 for the field, but the short end soon stopped. The mutuels only paid a few cents over the commission taken out by the pool-sellers.

The five-furlong dash for three-year-olds and over was the betting race of the day. Money poured in the big box at $10 each for Tortoise, Jim Bozeman and McFarland to $10 for the field. There was a slight delay and many were about losing their patience when the saddling bell rang and brought the sprinters out. They paraded past the stand and went to the post, where they were only kept a moment. Starter Lowden redeemed himself by sending the bunch away to an almost perfect start.

Jim Bozeman showed in front first and maintained the lead till after straightening away for home, when Tortoise passed him and won by three lengths under a wrap. Bozewas second and Lolo third, with the others strung out. The time, 1:01½, was fast for a trotting track, and shows that it is in very good condition for the gallopers.

WEDNESDAY, SEPTEMBER 22.

The hottest race of the circuit was seen here to-day, and old horsemen say nothing on record equals it in interest. It was a five-furlong selling dash for two-year-olds, and was run in two dead heats, when darkness came on and prevented the third to decide the codtest. The pool money was divided and the people went home talking of one of the most exciting races in the history of the game.

The contest was between Glen Ann, by imp. St. Andrew, and Bottlewasher, by Silver King. Holmes and McDonald rode the race of their lives and worked their mounts to the limit of their speed.

In the first heat the bunch was sent away to a fair start with the St. Andrew filly slightly in front. She opened a gap of three lengths at the half, but Bottlewasher closed up and was almost on even terms when they straightened away for home. At the seven-eighths pole the pair hooked up, and both caught whip and steel. Do what they could, neither of the boys could land his mount a winner. The five other horses finished three lengths back. The time was 1:03. Glen Ann was the favorite in the betting at $10 to $5 for Bottlewasher and $4 for the field.

The judges called the two horses out for a second trial after twenty minutes. They went away to a perfect start and raced as a team the entire distance. At no time was there over three or four inches difference. The boys rode hard, but neither horse could put its nose in front. The judges decided it a dead heat and divided the money.

The other events were of a high order, and were won by hot favorites.

Interesting Turf Items.

The largest winner on the turf of any country was Isinglass, with $290,000 to his credit. Domino was the largest American winner, with $203,335. Carbine heads the list in Australia, with $147,380.

The largest stake ever run for in turf history was captured by Donovan in England. Its value to the winner was close to $80,000. Next to this was The Futurity, won by Potomac, of a total value of $67,675.

The heaviest winners among the mares was La Fleche, with $174,300 to her credit.

Prodigal, a horse foaled in 1850 in Central Queensland sired by an Arab, Beeza, was the oldest race horse on record, as well as the most remarkable in other ways. Used as a lady's hack, a pack horse, a cattle horse, and for almost every purpose (except harness), it was not until 1872, when twenty-two years of age, that he made his turf debut. He beat some of the best horses in training in the Colonies, including Dagworth, who ran second and third in the Melbourne Cup (in fact, Prodigal won sixteen important stake events), and retired in 1876 to a well-earned rest. At twenty-five years this wonderful horse won the Tirranna Cup and the Bachelor's Bag. Hickory Jim, whose exact age was unknown, but generally supposed to be fully twenty-three years when he retired from the turf, was the oldest American racer.

A pony in Beechworth, Victoria, thirty-one years of age, gave birth to a fine foal recently. This is the oldest producing member of the equine race on record. The oldest producing thoroughbred mare in America was the famous Nina, by Boston. She foaled Algeria in 1875, when twenty-seven years of age, and died when thirty-one years old.

The largest private stock farm in the world is that of J. B. Haggin, Rancho del Paso, 44,700 acres in extent.

The first horse to beat 1:43 in America was Alarm, sire of Himyar, Gabriel, Parthenta, Breeze, Judge Murray, Danger, etc. He ran the distance in 1:42¾ on July 17, 1872, at Saratoga, N. Y., defeating Fadladeen and Kingfisher.

The largest number of races won by any galloper is credited to Nancy Till, an Irish mare. She is known to have won upward of 100. Fisherman, afterward sent from England to Australia, won seventy races. In this country Kingston holds the record, with eighty-seven wins, thirty seconds and ten thirds out of 132 starts.

To California belongs the distinction of having within her borders the highest-priced horse in the world (Ormonde, which cost $150,000 in Buenos Ayres), the fastest horse figuring in turf history—Salvator, credited with running a mile in 1:35½ with 110 pounds up August 28, 1890—and the horse with the highest winning average for eight years among the sires of America (imp. Sir Modred).

The greatest sire that ever lived was Stockwell, sire of three winners of the Derby, one of the Oaks and six of the St. Leger. The sons and daughters of Longfellow won nearly $1,300,000 on the turf, and it is doubtful if this was ever eclipsed.

Belle Knight, by Knighthood, threw eleven winners, eight of stake class. Marion, by Malcolm, now on Theodore Winters' place in Nevada, was the mother of ten winners, her produce won $261,075, and two of her foals (El Rio Rey and Czar) were unbeaten. Marion, Reel, Nina, imp. Barbarity and Picayune, were perhaps the most wonderful stud matrons ever known in America. A broodmare that can throw two or more high class stake-winners is as good as a rich gold mine to her lucky owner.

The two most phenomenal producing mares in England were Emma by Whisker and Pocahontas by Glencoe. The former threw two Derby winners (Cotherstone and Mundig), Mowerina, dam of West Australian (winner of the Derby, 2,000 Guineas and St. Leger), and Trustee, sire of Fashion (champion American racer) and Revenue, sire of Planet, champion American race horse. Pocahontas threw Stockwell (winner of 2,000 Guineas and St. Leger), Rataplan (winner of 47 races), Knight of Kars, Knight of St. Patrick, King Tom and Araucaria. Stockwell was the greatest of all sires, Rataplan and King Tom very successful, Knight of Kars and Knight of St. Patrick fair as sires, while Araucaria was the mother of Rayon d'Or, Chamant, Camelia and other celebrities. Queen Mary, by Gladiator, closely approaches the trio of great ones above, with Blink Bonny (Derby and Oaks), Bonnie Scotland, Balrownie, Broomielaw, Blinkhoolie, Haricot, Braxey, Blooming Heather, Bab-at-the-Bowster, Bertie, Bonnyfield, Bonny Breast-Knot and Bertha to her credit. Bonnie Scotland was a great sire in this country and the daughters of Queen Mary were nearly all noted producers, one, Blink Bonny, throwing Blair Athol, winner of the Derby and St. Leger. Penelope, by Trumpator, was the mother of the Derby-winners in Whalebone and Whisker, and also produced Wire (a great race mare) and Woful, a fair sort of sire.

There lived and thrived at Rancho del Paso at one time more horses rated as champions in their day than any stock farm owner could boast of in all the world, as follows: Salvator, Firenzi, Lizzie Lucas, Vandalite, Miss Woodford, Maxim, Darebin and Sir Modred.

At Palo Alto there are four imported mares that as producers are hard to be beat. They are Flirt by Hermit, Fairy Rose by Kisber, Amelia by Lowlander, and Rosetta by Straun. All have produced stake-winners, and nearly everything from them have proven victorious on the turf. Four years ago Palo Alto had beyond preadventure the best collection of imported mares in America, if indeed there is now a better or more distinguished lot in the country, bar perhaps those owned by Marcus Daly, of Montana.

On Rancho del Paso there are more noted stallions than on any farm in the world, probably, there being on the farm sons of the recognized best sires of England and Australia, viz., St. Andrew by St. Simon, and Artillery by Musket, to say nothing of the superb representatives of the best American sires.

Thoroughbred breeding began in California on a good scale about 1880, yet the following real champions have been foaled within her borders: Thad Stevens (who ran a second four-mile heat in 7:30½), Mollie McCarthy, Emperor of Norfolk, El Rio Rey, Yo Tambien, Tournament and Racine.

The average height of the jumps in steeplechases in Australia is four feet four inches (solid timbers, stone walls and fences) in England four feet, with five or six inches of brush, in this country two feet six inches, with about eighteen inches of brush.

The largest thoroughbred horse that ever raced was Stormy Petrel, a New Zealander, by Stormbird from Zitella, by Il Barbiere. His height was eighteen hands two inches; forearm, 26½ inches; lower thigh, 25½ inches; cannon, 9¼ inches in smallest part; girth, 82½ inches.

The oldest jockey to ride in a race was Jimmy Welsh, who was at least seventy when he rode in a race at Bay District track four or five years ago. John Osborne, of England, past sixty, was the oldest jockey of great note to continue in the business.

Really the best jump ever made by a timber-topper (Chandler's record has been disputed many times) was made by Lizette at Caulfield, Victoria. It was thirty-five feet from take-off to point of landing, over a four-foot five-inch solid fence, in a steeplechase. A remarkable feat was accomplished in Australia by Victor, a pony under fifteen hands, a grandson of Reugny, winner of the Grand National in England. At Wentworth he cleared an obstacle six feet one inch in height, and later, at the Agricultural show in Sydney, he won the first prize for long jumping over water with brush hurdle at the take-off side three feet six inches in height. His record was thirty-two feet six inches, measured by the officials present. The English horse Chandler is said to have jumped thirty-seven feet, across a carriage drive and small hedge near take off and landing-place.

Santa Monica Races.

The eight annual meeting conducted by the Southern California Polo Club (the pioneer club of the Pacific Slope) took place on Sept. 11th and 12th, and was a great success.

There was a large attendance, but the betting was not particularly lively. The race of most interest on the first day was at three-quarters of a mile for horses 10 pounds above the scale.

Six horses went to the post and they were a difficult lot to get away from it. Prince Hooker was kicking everything that came near him, and there was not too much room.

After innumerable false starts (in which Charley and Joe Weber, on Red Spinner and Leon respectively, were always in their places and always first off) they were dispatched to a somewhat straggling send-off. Leon and Red Spinner were in he lead, and the latter, running like a mad horse, soon opened a gap of about five lengths. This he maintained for half a mile, where Leon caught him and came on, a fairly easy winner. Joe Weber rode very well. Tiempo came from behind and passed Red Spinner, who was trying to run out all down the stretch. The time was 1:30. The track is a very slow one, being deep, 30 yards too long in three-quarters of a mile, has sharp turns, and is up and down hill. Leon carried 132 pounds and this run would be equal to 1:14½ or 1:15 on the Los Angeles track with a light boy up. Tiempo did well and will be heard of later when in better condition.

The three quarters of a mile for maiden ponies was also a good one; and as none of them was known except Queenie H., the betting was good.

A plunge was made on Lena B., ridden by Joe Piantoni, but Queenie H. won easily with 150 pounds up in 1:28.

There was a hard drive for second place, Lena B. beating Monte Cristo on the post by a short head.

A half mile and repeat race resulted in the downfall of San Joaquin, by St. David, the top-heavy favorite. Si, well ridden by Fuentes at 135 pounds, took both heats in 0:54½.

On the second day the feature was the two mile race at weight for age. It is not often that the people in the South have the opportunity of witnessing a long-distance race—more's the pity—and since Matt Storn's Narcola ran in front of a small field many many years ago at Los Angeles, and Tycoon or Mikado (the lapse of time is responsible for the uncernainty) won a similar race about the same time, such exhibitions have been conspicuous by their absence.

Consequently, although there were only three entries, a great deal of interest was taken in the result. Leon, by St. David, a son of Hock Hocking and Eva Coombs, by Billy Cheatham, out of a Norfolk mare, with a Thad Stevens mare as second dam, comes from a good old long-distance stock. He had been trained for some time by Peter Weber, the well-known trainer, and had the advantages of Joe Weber's services in the saddle. Moreover, he had won the day before tolerably easily.

However, the reports of the way the little three-year-old mare, Sharon Lass, had been working, as well as the fact that she won a two mile race at Fresno last spring, gave her a slight call in the betting. "M. F.," the third starter, was not taken into account, and rightly so, as he was out of it from the start.

The mare led off at score, Leon trailing forty yards behind. The first mile was run in 1:48, with the horses in the same relative positions. At the end of a mile and a half Leon attempted to close the gap up the heart-breaking hill, and as he gained at every stride the excitement grew intense. However, the exertion was too great, and at a quarter of a mile from home his tail went up, and the mare came along and won by five lengths. She ran in a most erratic manner, nearly running off the track (which is not fenced) at every turn, of which there are five—the track being a three-quarter-mile one.

In this way she lost a lot of ground. Experienced horsemen put the track at from four and one-half to six seconds slow, so the time—3:45—was equal to about 3:34 on a good, fast track.

The winner pulled up fresh, and though she is not fast, she is probably a good long-distance horse. She is well-bred enough, being by Tyrant, out of Dalnshire Lass, by imp. Dalnacardoch.

Willie See—a boy that with more experience and careful handling will make a good jockey—rode the winner.

In the Members' Pony Race at half a mile, 165 pounds top weight, the ever-ready Jack Pot and Kittiwake were equal favorites and fought out the issue.

The finish all down the straight was a good one, Mr. Jack Langworthy on Jack Pot getting home from Charley Webb by a short head. The victory was received with applause from the grand stand, as Mr. Langworthy, the best gentleman-jack in the south, is a great favorite with the fair sex. The time was 0:56½.

Red Jacket won the mile pony race in a walk, with Queenie H. second and Jack Pot third.

Capt. Thomas B. Merry was presiding judge, assisted by Mr. W. H. Young and Mr. J. Erwin Hoy. Mr. Ed. Ryan was a most efficient starter and Mr. G. L. Waring was secretary.

Everything passed off without a hitch; there were no objections, and everybody was satisfied with the eighth anniversary of a meeting that is conducted on sporting principles, without the possibility of any gain, except to the horse-owners.

Fresno Findings.

Fresno, Cal., Sept. 13, 1897.

Capt. Coster, that Pete Weber refused $5,000 for as a yearling, is now in the stable of the popular Secretary of the Fresno Jockey Club. He has been working nicely and looks better than he ever did.

Pleasanton (Ginger Ale), in the same string, from all accounts is a world-beater. He is now the best horse quartered in this section, and the one that beats him will be very apt to win the Los Angeles Derby.

Baby Meade, named after one of Fresno's most beautiful ladies, has been entered through the southern circuit by Joe McCarty, and she has already moved three heats better than 2:20. She will be a hard one for some of the "green" ones to tackle down there.

Talbot Clifton (the brown son of Flood—imp. Goula), which race-goers remember as a very fair selling plater, is now being trained by the McCartys on the Fresno track.

D. J. McCarty has made a match for $250 a side with Allen & Kennedy, they naming Sontag and McCarty naming the gray gelding Tucolette. The race will be run during the fair here, and it is safe to say that the three-eighths record of 0:34 will likely be equaled, if not eclipsed. Sontag is pronounced as speedy a horse as Quicksilver at the distance.

Accident to Silver Bow, 2:16.

When the eleven horses were called in the 2:15 trot last Friday at Sacramento, the handsome bay stallion Silver Bow, 2:16, owned by Geo. H. Fox, of Clements, appeared "rank," and after coming up with the rest of the horses in the beginning of the scoring seemed to act as if something was wrong. It was well known that he was suffering from quarter cracks, but to the practiced eye of those who watched the horse closely there appeared to be something more serious. The horses were sent away, but at no part of the journey did the game horse falter. He kept the position he had when he started all the way to the wire. It was then noticed that he had cast a shoe somewhere on the journey. He started in the next three heats, and although his sufferings must have been most acute, the game son of Robt. McGregor kept striving to do his best. He was seen to straddle and walk as if partially paralyzed. His driver, J. M. Nelson, dismounted from the sulky, and on unharnessing the horse saw at once that the horse was terribly injured. The shoe which was cast in the first heat must have been hurled against the horse's scrotum, causing a rupture. Dr. McCollum, one of the leading veterinarians of Sacramento, was called and attended to the suffering animal until Dr. Masoero, of San Francisco, came to consult with him, and a mode of treatment was adopted which, if peritonitis does not set in, will soon have the animal convalescent. It was an unusual injury and one very hard to cure. Everyone at the track sympathized with the gentlemanly owner over his misfortune, and hoped that the game Silver Bow would soon recover.

ONE of the star performances of the year took place on the half-mile track at London, O., on September 8th, when the two-year-old colt Will Leyburn paced to a record of 2:18¼. The colt is but two years old.

San Jose Fair.

The horse races to be held during County Fair week at Agricultural Park will undoubtedly be of a high order of merit. Entries are coming in rapidly, and many of the best horses in the State will be among those who will go for money and fame on the local track. The management is determined to have square races, and every event will be hotly contested.

Searchlight, Tom Keating's great three-year-old pacer, will be one of the star attractions. This pacing wonder has equaled 2:09¼, the world's record for three-year-olds, he will be here for the purpose of breaking the record, and there is an excellent chance that he will succeed.

The track will be put in fine shape and with a great field of horses some of the best contests ever seen on a San Jose track are assured. If the 2:12 pace fills, and there is every indication that it will, it will be the greatest race of the campaign. Among the contestants will be Our Boy and F. W., both San Jose horses, but who have never met, Anaconda, Plunkett and Birdroe.

The management is also making arrangement for a three days' coursing match. If the present plans do not miscarry there will be fifty or sixty fine dog contests, to be held during the races in plain sight of the spectators in the grand stand. As artificial hares will be used, the sport will be harmless, although very exciting, and there will be no features of the contests that could be objectionable even to the most exacting humanitarian.

Another good feature of the week of racing is that sure-thing gamblers and their outfits will not be allowed on the grounds.—Mercury.

INDEPENDENCE (Wis.), Dec. 19, 1896.
W. F. YOUNG, ESQ.—Dear Sir: Your ABSORBINE cured my horse of thoroughpin. Would have written you before this time, but was away from home. It was on my horse two years when I used your ABSORBINE. I would like to be your agent. Yours truly, GEO. A. SHORT.

DENVER, Colo., June 12, 1897.
I have given De Huy's Balmoline a thorough trial on some of the best horses in our stables (including Azote, 2:04¾), and can conscientiously recommend it as the best healing salve I ever used. MONROE SALISBURY.

VASSAR, Kan., April 16, 1896.
Please send me directions for using Gombault's Caustic Balsam. I bought a bottle and it had no directions in it, but I cured a curb and splint by putting it on a couple of times. Now I want to try it on a sweeney. J. P. FREEMAN.

Well Attended — Exciting Sport Witnessed— Enos' Cheeky Act—The Last Three Days' Racing Described in Detail.

THURDAY, SEPTEMBER 23.

A large crowd went out to the track this afternoon, and saw some exciting events of the turf and track decided. The weather, warmer than on previous days, made the horses feel more like racing, and the track was in excellent shape, insuring the making of fast time. The decision of the judges in declaring off bets in the race won by Lorena, after being terribly fouled by Masoero, whose rider (Enos) grabbed the Apache filly's bridle, was unquestionably a poor one. The race should have gone to Lorena, Masoero set back and Enos either been fined $100 or more or set down indefinitely.

None of the harness events were finished in straight heats and the talent had quite a scare in the first and second heat of the trot. The favorites finally won, after many had hedged and tied themselves up so the quit loser. The followers of the favorites won all the money and the short end bettors went home last evening with empty pockets. The best pool they cashed was a field mutuel on the pace, which netted them $6.35. The "pipes" went through every time, but there would have been a big dump in the mile handicap had Enos on Masoero not deliberately fouled Lorena II.

Grady and Masoero were played all over the ring at $15 each to $5 or $6 to Lorena II. The sports considered it like finding money on the first two, but the short-enders kept piling their money into the box till they would more than won back all they had lost trying to beat the other favorite. Masoero made the running to the head of the stretch. Here Lorena collared him and was drawing away 100 yards from the wire, when Enos saw the play was up. Bent on saving his backers, he deliberately pulled his mount into Lorena, throwing her off her stride. Not satisfied with his unsuccessful attempts to stop the outsider, he caught Lorena's bridle and tried to pull the mare up. Jones, her rider, beat him over the head with the butt end of his whip, and, after breaking away, Masoero finished a head to the good, with Grady back several lengths. The boys were called to the stand and questioned, but Enos denied that he had touched the reins of Jones' mount. Cole, on Grady, claimed that he was fouled by being cut off, but the judges did not allow it. The owners were sent for and after a short talk the men in the tower declared the race off. Neither Enos nor Jones were fined or lectured. Such foul riding at "the bay" would have put one of the boys on the ground for life and probably cost the other one $50 or $100.

The harness events proved very interesting when the horses commenced splitting heats. Osito, Charley Durfee's McKinley colt, landed after Claudius had annexed two heats and was only bested in the third trial by an eyelash in one of the prettiest drives of the meet. It was a race where gameness counted and Osito outlasted the Nutwood Wilkes gelding. Durfee's colt was marked in the third heat, when he cut ½ second off his record, 2:16½, made in Sacramento last week.

The Stockton sidewheeler, Little Thorn, was heartily greeted as Thompson drove him up the course for the warm-up, and he was given quite a rally when he paced under the wire three lengths in front of Florine in the first heat. He went the circle three times without a skip, and was only driven out in the second trial by the black mare. The judges sent him to the barn, and the three others tried conclusions for the remaining $100. Cleon was away first, but broke on the first turn and Florine assumed the lead to the head of the stretch, but Lynette passed her and won easing up. Cleon managed to last long enough to take the place from the fast-tiring Florine.

Seven sprinters sported silk in the five and one-half furlong-dash after the mile fouling match was declared off. The barrier was sprung to a fair shot for all except Blue Bell, who was standing. Macklin did not take any chances in being fouled or getting mixed up in a bumping matter, but took Tortoise out in front and kept him there all the way to the wire. He finished two lengths in front of Two Cheers under a strong pull. George L. was a poor third and the field was strung out.

The betting was very heavy on this event at $10 on Tortoise to $6 for the field. In the light harness events there was not much speculating in the big box after the first heat. Osito was a hot favorite in the first race at $20 to $6 for the field. The short end straightened up some after he had lost two heats, but there was no large amount bet. Little Thorn was a prohibitive favorite at $20 to $4, with few takers for the field.

FRIDAY, SEPTEMBER 24.

The largest crowd of the week attended the races at Agricultural Park this afternoon. The newstand was well filled and the quarter stretch was so jammed that locomotion was difficult. The betting ring was one jostling crowd and the infield was covered with vehicles of every description. With the business houses closed, every one was out to witness the best card run off in an afternoon here for years. The ladies were present in large numbers, the new grand stand being almost entirely filled by them. They presented a very pretty sight in their bright-colored dresses and lent tone to the occasion.

Those supposed to be on the inside put their money on Mamie Griffin to win the trot, but she was never better than second. Caryle Carne, the second choice, won off the reel. The odds on favorite Joe Wheeler took the pace as he pleased. He was barred in the betting and Floracita was selected to win, but she had to take third position, while Bessie Rankin finished in the place.

The start in the four-furlong sprint was delayed for over forty-five minutes by Buckhorn and Emma D. in a field of four horses. Starter Lowden finally sent them away, Buckhorn standing still. The roan mare was two lengths in front of Lolo, but the boy took her back, Lolo leading at the head of the stretch by three lengths, with Soledad only a head back of Emma. Soledad and Lolo had a ding dong finish down the stretch, but the latter went over the plate a head to the good.

Big rolls of money were burnt up on the mare and there was considerable talk of a fixed race, but the time, 0:49½, on a trotting track, was not slow. The other sprint, for two-year-olds, was delayed, as the owners made a mistake in the order of their race. The betting was lively at $10 for Glen Ann to $5 for the field, with Bottlewasher and Little Haides in it. The two fillies were on even terms, as each carried 93 pounds, but Glen Ann proved an easy winner. She was taken to the front the moment the gate went up and opening up a gap of four lengths, she was never headed.

The heats of the 2:13 class trot and 2:17 pace were sandwiched, as the day was fast drawing to a close and four races were undecided. The trotters scored several times before they were given the word to a good start. Wayland W. went away and passed the half two parts of length in advance of Mamie Griffin, who had about a length the best of Caryle Carne. The grey showed in front by three lengths at a half and came on home in front of Galette easing up. Griffin broke on the stretch and passed under the wire third.

The second heat was much faster than the first. Galette carried Caryle Carne up to the head of straight and Mamie Griffin forced him out to the wire in 2:11¾, giving him a new mark. Walter Maben made a last effort in the third trial, but could not get up to McDowell's Montana trotter, though he turned badly in the stretch, and had Galette not been all out she could have easily won within twenty-five yards of the wire.

There was nothing in the 2:17 pace but Joe Wheeler, though Keating drove him out in the third attempt in 2:11 with Bessie Rankin. Wheeler did not take the lead till after the half pole in the opening heat, when Rankin made a bad bobble and came near getting the flag in her face. Floracita was second, eight lengths ahead of Dave Ryan. It was Wheeler all the way the second time out. Floracita changed places with Bessie, who came in second, with a length and a half to spare. On getting the word in the final heat Keating sent Bessie away in the lead and maintained it till in the stretch, when Wheeler flashed past her and finished the race in the fastest time of the meet, 2:11. Adele and Primrose were distanced. The crowd gave the big black side-wheeler an ovation as he glided past the mare toward the wire. He has the prettiest action while pacing of any horse on the turf and his gait is most deceptive.

The five-furlong two in three heat event was a splendid betting race. Riot opened at first at $7 to $10 for the field, but Elmer F. was soon made the favorite, at $10 to $7 for the field and $5 for Kitty Brady. There was a hot tip on the mare and when she flashed past the winning post in the lead in the first heat there was a deal of hedging, but she did not come back, Those who had her in the big box were only too pleased when the judges announced after the second heat the race would be postponed till today.

They were not at the post but a few minutes the first time, when they were sent off to a good start with the exception of the favorite, who was out of it by several lengths. Starling showed in front for an instant, Kitty Brady second and George L. third. Holmes on Kitty took her out in front, and staving off a rush on Elmer F., won handily. Elmer F. took the place from Riot in a drive. George L. was bumped on the stretch and was given a very mild ride by McDonald, to say the least.

Riot had the best of the second start, with George L. in second place till the eighth pole was passed. Elmer F. came through on the inside and nipped George L. out by a long head. Riot got the show and the others were strung out. The judges seemed mixed up on the first three horses and had to call the boys to the stand before announcing the finish.

The seven-furlong dash was declared off on account of darkness, after being postponed. Several of the starters were entered in a selling race to-day and could not run two racez the same day.

SATURDAY, SEPTEMBER 25.

The biggest card of the week was run and paced off to-day at the park before a large audience. Six events were finished, but the last race was run when it was too dark to distinguish the colors.

The first number was the unfinished heat race from last evening, with Kitty Brady and Elmer F. in the deciding heat. Almost every one placed the mare in front at the wire, but the judges called it a dead heat and ordered another go. The mare finally won by half a length.

Two Cheers gave the favorite backers a hard jolt when he ran first in the mile handicap. Grady was played in the big box for a "moral," but was a poor third.

Anaconda won the pace in three straights. He was driven down the stretch by Meridian in the first heat and by Arthur L. the second time out.

The attendance was not only large, but there was a deal of speculation, it being getaway day.

THE P. C. T. H. B. A. MEETING.

MONDAY, SEPTEMBER 27.

While the attendance on this, the opening day of the P. C. T. H. B. A. meeting, was not excessively large, it was a strong betting crowd that passed through the gate, and reminded one of the halcyon days when $500 for the first choice in a race was nothing unusual, of the period when an offer of $25 for a favorite would have elicited derisive cheers. The horses trotted and paced "to form," three favorites showing in front at the wire times enough to reward their backers, though not without struggles of the hair-lifting sort in some instances.

The Humboldt mare, Iora, had the closest rub of any of them. With a record of 2:14, it was only natural that she should be installed favorite for the 2:27 trot at $20 against $10 for her three opponents. Pasonte and Claudius showed the way to the half, where the former left her feet and Claudius moved up, having an advantage over Iora of four lengths as the pair straightened out for home. Noble made his drive with Iora at the paddock, and, though gaining, he was unable to catch the San Jose gelding, who won by two lengths in 2:17½. Ordinarily Iora should have marched home in that time, and after the heat an investigation showed that an abscess of her foot required lancing. This being done the knowing ones hastened to back her at odds of $20 to $6 for the field, and they chuckled after she won the next heat easily in 2:18¼. Her foot must have troubled her in the next circuit, for, after leading to the far turn, she left her feet, and before she could get settled Claudius passed her. Again she broke half way down the stretch, and the result was that another heat was chalked up for Claudius, who managed to last out long enough to beat by a nose the fast-coming Pasonte.

A scare was now noted among Iora's backers, and pools sold lively at $10 for Claudius and $10 for the remainder. Pasonte went to pieces in the fourth heat, and the quondam favorite, even with that afflicted pedal extremity, had no difficulty in showing her heels to Claudius in this and the succeeding whirl.

The 2:30 pace appeared to be such an open proposition that the betting before the first heat was as unsteady as a weathercock. In the opening pools Tom Keating's Alto Genoa was a decided first choice, but when John Baker's friends commenced to loosen their rolls of the long green Floracita soon became the favorite at $20 against $16 for the bunch. Floracita and Blue Bells kept each other close company for the first half of the journey, when the latter broke a hobble and at the windup was outside the flag. Half-way down the stretch Floracita went in the air, and Alto Genoa annexed the heat easily by a length from the mare, with Dave Ryan not far away. The betting now veered slightly in favor of the heat winner, who brought $10 against $8 for Floracita, and $4 for the field, on which latter there was a wild tip. Keating's horse went out in front and died away like a flash in the pan in the last quarter. Floracita won this and the remaining two heats handily, though Dave Ryan was close up on each occasion.

The Palo Alto stakes for two-year-old trotters went to that honest colt Lynhood, who finally landed in a soft spot after going through the circuit without winning the big end of a purse. It was also the first time that Hogoboom has piloted a winner this season, and his face bore a seraphic smile. Prince Ansel was by long odds the class of the quintet, but he has not been himself since his defeat at Woodland, and consequently the field, comprising Lynhood, Valentine and Corinne Dillman, sold favorite at $20 against $7 for Prince Ansel and $3 for Dr. Frasse. The Dexter Prince colt was rheumatic and utterly devoid of speed, and was distanced the first heat, while Lynhood simply spread-eagled his field in the necessary two heats.

TUESDAY, SEPTEMBER 28.

The sable sidewheeler of San Joaquin Valley, Joe Wheeler, had his sixth successive success on the California's great circuit this afternoon, and it was a case of being able to fall at the half-pole, get up and win. Anaconda was booked to meet the Fresno wonder, but Keating thought he saw a softer spot in a race to-day, and accordingly withdrew him. There was no fooling on the main issue, and an attempt to rouse speculation on the second money winner resulted in a dismal failure, as no one wanted Captain Hackett. After he beat Arthur W. in the second heat for the place he had no end of supporters at $10 as against $5 for the Humboldt colt, and he won as handily as the betting indicated.

The Steinway colt Klatawah, brother to Chas. Derby, got sweet revenge to-day for the severe drubbing that Diawood gave him at the State Fair. It was naturally supposed by those who do not camp on the track that Diawood would repeat his victory, but the rail birds who saw Klatawah work a mile the other morning in 2:17½ played their limit on the strength of the showing, poole selling with Klatawah in the field at $30 against $20 for Diawood. The son of Steinway won the initial heat in a jog after Diawood had made two breaks. He cut out the pace in the second, but Diawood hung to him like a bulldog, never being more than two lengths away. Coming down the stretch Holmes got over anxious and drove the Diablo colt off his feet. Losing a couple of lengths by his mistake, he gave chase again, and Klatawah just beat him a nose.

Dr. Leek struck a different field to-day than he did at Sacramento, where he hooked up with such speedy ones as Antrima and Caryle Carne. Jimmy Sullivan held the reins instead of Donathan, who carries about thirty pounds of flesh in excess of the regulation weight, and this fact also helped to popularize the doctor with the betting public, which eagerly put up $30 on his ability to land the purse as against $14 for the remainder. Sullivan carried him around gently on the first turn, and trotting level he overtook Eureka on the far turn, and thereafter did not have to extend himself. It was the same way in the next two heats, the last being the fastest mile of the trio, as Eureka was going steadier and made a game but useless effort to down the favorite.

WEDNESDAY, SEPTEMBER 29.

It was a good day for the high class harness horse racing, and a chilly day for first choices, the unexpected happening in every race.

The initial rib-roaster the talent received was in the 2:20 pace, for which Floracita was a favorite at $10 against $6 for Fitz Lee and $4 for the field. In the first heat Visalia led the favorite by half a length into the stretch, but she went in the air near the paddock and Floracita won easily in 2:16¼. Those who had pinned their faith to Jimmy Sullivan and Fitz Lee were amply rewarded, as the son of Arthur Wilkes immediately assumed charge of affairs in the second heat and Floracita could not overhaul him at any part of the journey, Fitz Lee winning handily by two lengths. The judges were of the opinion that Sullivan had laid up the first heat, and visited their judicial displeasure upon the clever driver by inflicting a $25 fine. Fitz won the next heat just as easily in 2:14¾, and the officials thought that a change of drivers might work an improvement in the speed of Floracita, who had paced a heat on Monday in 2:14. They accordingly took down Baker and substituted Ed. Lafferty, but he was unable to handle the mare to advantage. She broke on the first turn and fell so far behind that she barely saved her distance, while Fitz Lee annexed the heat in 2:20, four lengths in front of Cora S.

The next surprise was the 2:13 trot, regarded as a "cinch" for Chris Peterson. He found eager buyers at the opening pools at $20 as against $19 for the field and $12 for Carlyle Carne. When the grey horse went off and took the first head it occasioned no surprise, as he was generally regarded to be good for a heat, the talent having little respect for his ability to stay.

The field now brought $10 against $6 for Carlyle Carne. Carlyle won the second heat by a length in 2:13¼ from Galette, who superseded Ethel Downs in the stretch after she had vainly tried to give the gray horse an argument.

It was $10 on Carlyle Carne against $7 for the field, with the majority of the horsemen betting on the short end. The third heat furnished a stirring contest. Carlyle Carne and Galette kept each other company from the time word was given until they were well into the stretch. McDowell swung wide with the gray and left an opening on the rail, and Jimmy Sullivan, with Mamie Griffin, took advantage of it. While McDowell was watching Maben behind Galette. Mamie Griffin sneaked up on the inside and nipped out Carlyle Carne on the post by a neck before McDowell could collect his wit. It was a great ride and Sullivan was accorded a prolonged ovation.

The staying qualities of Mamie Griffin were well known to the crowd and she immediately became a favorite at $10 to $5, the general opinion being that McDowell's gray charger was a beaten horse. However, he quickly went to the front, followed by Galette and Chris Peterson, and not one of the outfit could get near him from start to finish. Galette quit in the stretch and Chris Peterson beat her out for second position, while Mamie Griffin acted rank and broke when Sullivan started to make his drive. Carne won by three lengths from Chris Peterson in 2:14½, the latter beating Galette half a length.

The first race did not amount to much. Beau Brummel won the necessary two heats in 2:19½ and 2:22¼.

There was nothing in the 2:13 pace, as it turned out. The owners of the horses carded to start, recognizing that Anaconda has things his own way, offered Keating the big end of the purse if he would withdraw. He refused to do so and, in retaliation, the balance scratched their entries under the presumption that there would be no race at all, and that all would be refunded their entrance money. Keating gave him a stiff mile in 2:11¼, and thinks so well of the horse that he proposes to hook up with Joe Wheeler on Saturday.

The Los Angeles Meeting.

Los Angeles, Sept. 28, 1897.

The directors of the Sixth District Agricultural Association are determined to make the coming meeting a record-breaker, and it is safe to predict that it will eclipse any mixed meeting ever held on the Pacific Coast. Every town of any size from Bakersfield to San Diego is being billed by Secretary Thorne. The lithographs are the most attractive ever seen in California, especially the running stands of twenty-four sheets, representing eight or ten horses in life size. The trotting stands are twenty sheets. "Ads" have been placed in almost every paper published in Southern California, and there are almost a hundred. The association is not sparing any expense in letting the people know about the great racing in prospect, and it is almost a certainty that the gate receipts will be the heaviest in the history of the association.

It has been almost decided to have the great free-for all pace on Saturday, October 16th. Silkwood, according to common report, is in rare form and promises to give Searchlight and Joe Wheeler an argument. If these three sidewheelers score up for the word in good condition it is safe to predict that eighteen thousand people will be present.

Charles Blodgett, who made the Santa Ana track famous, has been retained as ground keeper by the Los Angeles Association. This will insure a first-class track.

Although 75 stalls are now in course of construction, owners and trainers should at once make application to Secretary Thorne, as it will be a case of first come first served.

El Venado is accounted the most promising of the Southern California Derby candidates. He is a son of imported Conveth.

Bernard, a pacer now in training at Agricultural Park, promises to make it interesting for some of the Northern cracks. He is in the 2:17 class pace and has already been worked out in 2:10½.

The Citrus Belt Handicap for $1,000 is to be run on the opening day of the meeting Thursday, Oct. 14th.

Six thousand dollars have been spent in improvements at the track in the past six months. A new betting shed is in course of construction.

Jack Clifford is training the string of W. Pallett. In this stable is Hacienda.

There will probably be a race at two and a quarter miles during the latter part of the meeting.

The Los Angeles Times ran a three-column story about the coming meeting on Tuesday morning. It was copiously illustrated and attracted widespread attention.

B. F. Woods was in town to-day from Santa Anita. He bred eighty mares this season, principally to Amigo and Gano. Arapahoe is in foal to Emperor of Norfolk and Lady Diamond to Honduras. There are three fine-looking youngsters at the ranch by imp. Islington.

Both the Southern Pacific and Santa Fe railroads have made a two-third rate for the Fair from all Southern California towns. The association also anticipate securing a two-third rate from San Francisco.

The Clouds Breaking.—Higher hopes, fervid expectations that the bane of harness-racing, laying up heats, is doomed, and that the "pernicious practice" will be practically done away in the course of a few seasons, and it may be that the coming year will bring the desired consummation.

A singular anomaly, a queer situation, a state of affairs that was difficult to account for,that a proposition so palpably fair should be so difficult to enforce. And yet it is not so wonderful that regeneration was troublesome to bring about when the opposing forces were so strong. In the first place there was a prevailing opinion that people were justified in making the most money that could be gotten out of a horse, and even if the "grand total" was augmented by dishonest practices it was a laudable effort, an exhibition of shrewdness, a commendable action to swindle and rob under the guise of good management. The driver who "uncovered" his horse at the opening of the campaign held to be an ignoramus, not fitted for the business, and that sort of criticism has an influence, stimulates the driver to look upon a transgression as a venal offense far more than counterbalanced by the plaudits of those who justify the rascality.

Then the drivers are prone to think that one of the most cherished prerogatives is threatened, and while unable to offer even a shadow of an argument to justify violations of the rule persist in their wrongdoing. But now that the turf papers are advocating the enforcement of Rule 28, there is little question that the evil will soon be overcome. The following is n editorial from the Kentucky Stock Farm :

"Track Reforms.—In the Breeder and Sportsman Joseph Cairn Simpson is doing great work against the practice of laying up heats, and he deserves much credit, for nothing connected with the trotting turf is as bad as this practice. It would be permissable and even proper to lay up heats if certain regulations were strictly complied with, primarily, announcing to the public that a certain horse will lay up the heat. But who has ever heard of this being done? The practice has been in vogue too long and so little attention has been paid to it that horsemen have begun to look upon it as a matter of course. And, even the betting public have never complained, but have simply taken their chances about finding out from some friend of the driver whether he was out for the heat or not. If trotting associations could be made to look upon this iniquitous practice as it is looked upon by horsemen of other kind, such as those on the running turf, they would realize what sort of thing has been tolerated so long. For all enlightened men who are not directly interested in the working of this great wrong deem it a fraud. When a man bets on a horse in a heat and that horse is laid up the bettor is robbed and all concerned in the affair, including the management, are either directly or indirectly in collusion, and are necessarily accessories, and are just as guilty of criminal negligence as if they saw an act of fraud in connection with the general result and took no action in the matter. The rules are against the laying up of heats, and therefore should not be tolerated unless the bettors are made aware of it. Nothing but rank stupidity or intention to do wrong can be given as a reason for al owing this practice to continue.

"As a rule, the class of men governing trotting races are more thoughtful, intelligent and a little higher from a moral standpoint than those connected with the running turf, but the former have many lessons to learn from their friends, the turfmen. In no business are there the same safeguards thrown around the investor as in the running turf. Paid judges of known honesty and capability are furnished; patrol judges of like qualifications are used Every well-regulated race track has its paddock master who sees that no fraud is committed in that enclosure and who enforces promptness on the part of jockeys and owners, the latter being fined if more than two minutes late. There is also a betting ring master, who watches and reports the odds to the judges, and if a horse goes up in the betting after having been favorite, the reason is discovered. These precautions and others should be taken by managers of trotting meetings, although, of course, there is not the same reason, as, as has been stated, the class of men connected with the trotting sport are somewhat of a higher character than the followers of the thoroughbreds. Still, too much cannot be done to make the sport which is so eminently an American one, clean and free from criticism."

Not long ago there was equally as strong a plea in The Western Horseman, the editorial in the American Horse Breeder, which, presumably, led to the enforcement of the law at Readville, have the same sterling ring, and there are abundant grounds for the hope that nearly every journal, that makes a specialty of the sports of turf and track, will be staunch advocates for the suppression of the "bad practice" before the meeting of the next Congress,

If harness racing is made at all prosperous, in places where running has become as firmly established as it has in California, it will be on the basis that equally as stringent measures are taken to insure honest racing as the officials of the jockey clubs' employ.

When the papers give proper support to the judges in enforcing the law, making a breach of Rule 28 the same as infractions of other laws, calling attention to the necessity of punishment following evasions of the correct principle, there will little trouble hereafter.

I am greatly pleased to state that the judges of the meeting at Emeryville have been watchful, in the cases where there was room for suspicion admonished the drivers, and when the suspicions were sustained inflicted penalties. There was a good deal of distrust at the opening of the meeting among speculators, when the third day came to a close that was replaced by confidence, commendations on every hand.

There was other evidence that the practice of laying up heats would be "a thing of the past." Drivers are beginning to understand that "honest endeavor" is to their advantage, and when all are compelled to strive for every heat, harness racing will be on a firmer basis than when hampered with such palpable unfairness as exists when some are struggling, others declining the combat until the fair fighters have become tired. I was wonderfully pleased to hear Andy McDowell, after the third heat of the 2:13 trot, inveigh against the practice of laying up heats, fervently exclaiming that he hoped that a fine of one thousand dollars would be imposed every time the offense was committed. No question that he had done everything in his power to win the race, and while he admitted that to lay up the fourth heat might increase his chances to win, he would act in accordance with preaching, and from the time the signal to start was sounded every inch of the ground would be contested. While I would have been immensely gratified had the grand-daughter of "old" Blackbird won, still better pleased that the "honest endeavor" was rewarded.

The Trotting Meeting.—The meeting of the Pacific Coast Trotting Horse Breeders Association, still in progress at Emeryville, has, so far, presented a clean and good series of performances, and there is scarcely room for doubt that Friday and Saturday will to the satisfaction of those who attend. With few exceptions the races have been closely contested, not a single race in which there was causes to enter charges of wrong intent on the part of the drivers as regard winning the race, and whenever there was an appearance of a violation of Rule 28 the judges acted promptly, took steps to prevent or penalized the offender.

There are many salient points for future consideration and after the meeting is closed these will be given due attention. Although the attendance was far from being what it should have been on the opening days, there was a fair gathering on Wednesday, and, but for the rain of Thursday morning, there is little question that from then on there would be gratifying reports from the gates. At this time, Friday morning, the prospects are favorable for good weather, and if the track is in as good condition as it is certain to be with a few hours sunshine, there will be some very fast time made. Joe Wheeler and Anaconda are to meet on Saturday and it is safe to say these two cracks of the pacing division will "put up" an exceedingly interesting contest. Plenty of arguments can be heard on both sides when relative merit is a point of classification.

When Anaconda "walked over" in 2:11¼ on Wednesday it was evident that a number of seconds could have been taken from that figure, while there is unanimity of opinion that Joe Wheeler has the capacity for reducing his record materially.

"The talent" favors Anaconda while a large majority of the main body of racegoers think the black has the best of the bargain.

The free-for-all, which is also billed for Saturday, cannot fail to be a grand race. There are a number of horses at the track so nearly in the same notch, where speed is the standard for comparison, that it will be a bold speculator who has a decided choice to stand by before the race is called, and I am greatly mistaken if the favorite at the opening of the pool-selling retains the position throughout, or even holds it for the whole of the time before the start for the first heat. The closeness of the coming struggle has been foreshadowed by the race in which Caryle Carne was victorious, and in addition to the participants in that race, there is at least one other entry that will complicate the situation.

It may appear to be an exhibit of our own sanguine optimism when it is claimed that the Fall Meeting of The Breeders can be accepted as a token of the "revival of harness racing" in California, though that is my decided opinion, and one that is justified by a careful review of the situation.

* * *

Joe Wheeler.—That the black pacer is the most pronounced sensation among the California harness horses that have figured in the circuit most people will admit. From the time he won the race at Woodland until now he has been the central figure when the talk was of horses. A prominent and striking personality, and with enough to justify all the talk that has been uttered.

What sort of a looking horse is Joe Wheeler, and in response to that question the general reply that he was rather a homely horse with an easy way of getting along. He is certainly a plain looking horse when viewed at a distance. Closer inspection shows that he is very well shaped, in some of the points exceedingly good.

A fine silken coat, black, with the exception of the right hind foot and fetlock white, small star and a short, broad snip on his nose. Something over sixteen hands in height, good length, fore hand superior, in fact, very good, having grand depth of chest, which gives the appearance of shortness of his back ribs, closely ribbed, however, with small space between the last rib and haunch bone.

There is a strong resemblance to Rarus in the shaping of loin, hips and quarters, and the "Bedford humps," which mar the symmetry of outline from a side view.

A good, intelligent head, kindly eye, well shaped and well set on ears, albeit the ear on the left side has been split for about an inch, probably from being caught in a barbed wire.

Joe Wheeler shows that the "near infusions' has exerted a potent influence, marks of good breeding that cannot be mistaken. Whatever may be his future, and there are good reasons for the belief that without mishaps he will occupy a very high position, he presents another illustration of the value of thoroughbred in blood in fast harness horses.

Jos. Cairn Simpson.

John A. McKerron has been very busy filling orders for harness and horse boots. His goods have won a world-wide reputation and in a few weeks he will have the finest stock of saddles, bridles and other racing paraphernalia ever imported to California. Call on him at 203 and 205 Mason street if you are in need of anything in his line.

Bliss Rucker, the Salvator—Iris colt, of the Burns & Waterhouse stable, won the Holly Handicap, $2,000, last Thursday at Gravesend, running the five and one-half furlongs in 1:08. Handball was second and Demagogue third.

A special meeting of the Directors of the Santa Clara Valley Agricultural Society was held last week to settle matters concerning the racing programme. Present were Edward Topham (President), George N. Bragg, James W. Rea, G. K. Hostetter and W. A. Parkhurst.

A communication was read from the Southern Pacific Company stating that from all points in Santa Clara county a rate of a fare and one-third for the round trip would be made during Fair week.

The racing at the Breeders meeting this week furnished as many surprises as it did at the opening meeting.

The Fresno race meeting will be a good one. A large number of horses have gone from Stockton there.

George Starr, with Planet, 2:04¾, was the first man to breed, train and drive a horse to a record below 2:05.

H. L. Frank, of Butte, Montana, recently paid $2,000 for a six-months-old colt by the great McKinney, 2:11¼, out of a mare by Robt. McGregor that was formerly owned by the late J. Butler of this city.

Derby Princess, 2:08½, has a yearling sister of the same color and conformation at Walnut Grove Stock Farm. She is called Princess Derby, and is a far better individual at her age than her famous sister was.

The Ventura race meeting has been declared off, but the Secretary writes: "In 1898 we shall start in to advertise the meeting earlier and hope to give one of the best meetings ever seen in this part of California."

The Boston pacer Bumps started out with a mark of 2:08¼ but now he is on the select list with 2:04¾. He has won five races and only once has he been defeated. Strange to say, this was at home and by a home horse.

Oakland Baron was a big money winner in his colthood. In his three-year-old form he pulled off the $25,000 Futurity at Lexington, Ky. He began the season with a record of 2:14¼, which he has cut to 2:09¼.

Helena, 2:11¼, Peko, 2:15, and Athena, 2:15¼, took records of 2:21, 2:24, and 2:25¼, respectively, at two and three years, and were then relegated to the brood-mare paddocks. After having foals they were taken up and trained again.

E. McEnerney, a prominent merchant of Honolulu, purchased the handsome bay mare Wisteria by Anteeo, 2:16¼, out of a mare by Milton Medium. This mare has never been handled for speed but has a remarkably nice way of going.

Famous old Columbine, by A. W. Richmond, is now the dam of three 2:20 trotting stallions. Her son, J. C. Simpson, brother of Anteeo, 2:16½, and Antevolo, 2:19¾, by Electioneer, reduced his record from 2:27½ to 2:18¼ at Kenton, O., week before last.

Jack Curry will forsake trotters for runners. He intends to buy fifteen or twenty two-year-olds this fall and take them to California to race during the winter. Curry thinks that the running game is about first-class and that he can handle them to perfection.

Wm. J. Irvine, one of Honolulu's foremost citizens, purchased a splendid span of carriage horses from D. Brooks, 1311 California street, on Tuesday last. When they arrive at their island home they will attract as much attention as they have in this city.

The champion trotting gelding Azote, 2:04¾, looks plump and healthy. He is jogging sound to a skeleton wagon, with pneumatic tires. The trouble was in his fore feet and Mr. Salisbury thinks he has removed it by shoeing and that the horse will stand fast work.

The Los Angeles race meeting is being extensively advertised. Ben Benjamin, the well-known turf writer, is attending to this part of the work and before the meeting commences every man, woman and child in Southern California will know about this meeting.

A large number of horses of a superior class were shipped to Honolulu, H. I. last month. The people on this "gem of the ocean" have become educated regarding the different horses in America and all importers of "scrub" horses now find there is no market for such animals.

J. B. Iverson's handsome chestnut filly Dictatress by Dictatus, out of Salinas Belle, is a good two-year-old. She paced the mile won by Klatawah at the Breeders meeting in 2:20¼. She has no record yet, but will get a good low one soon.

Rilma's winnings this year foot up $9,512.50. Over half of this was landed in one race, the historic Merchants and Manufacturers' $10,000 stakes for trotters eligible to the 2:24 class, April 1st. This race was worth $5,512.50. Her next largest win was in the Massachusetts $5,000 purse at Readville.

The fair and race meeting at Stockton was pronounced by everyone who visited there to be the best held in that thriving city for the past seven years. Great credit is due Messrs. Doan, Willy, Catts, Adams and Neumiller for their energy and enterprise. Stockton has a right to be proud of these native sons.

King Sultan, by Sultan, out of Kittie Wilkes, sister to Ashland Wilkes, started in two pacing races at Butler, Pa., last week, and won both, taking a record of 2:19½. King Sultan has a trotting record of 2:23, made as a three-year-old. He is the sire of the three-year-old filly Ida Sultan, which took a record of 2:29¼ at Butte, Mont., recently.

Tecora, by C. M. Clay Jr., is the dam of four in the 2:30 list. Three of them are in the 2:25 list and two in the 2:08 list. Besides these she has four others with records of 2:33¾, 2:35, 2:42½ and 2:47½. She has two producing sons and one producing daughter, the dam of two in the list. Another daughter has produced two colts, each of whom have worked miles inside the charmed circle.

Klatawah, the handsome two-year-old pacer that won at the Breeders' meeting on Tuesday in 2:18½ and 2:19½, is a brother to Chas. Derby, 2:20; Steineer, 2:29½; H. R. Covey, 2:25, and Sunlight, 2:25. Sired by Steinway, out of Katie G., by Electioneer, she is also the dam of Saraway, the sire of Simon Guggenheimer, 2:18¼. This great family was bred and owned at the Oakwood Park Stock Farm.

The greatest two-year-old in America to-day, Prince Ansel, 2:20½, was attacked with rheumatism on his arrival at the Oakland track Monday and did not seem able to go. On a warm day and a good track this colt trotted in 2:15¾. He will, if nothing happens, be one of the greatest three-year-olds in the United States next year. He is bred in the purple, is perfectly level-headed, and is one of the finest-gaited trotters imaginable.

Two car-loads of horses passed through yesterday from Spokane going to the Salem meeting as follows: Pete Williams has Gussie, Ada M., Desdemora and Monterey, Frank Frazier has Chehalis, Jack Crooks has New Moon, J. Neil has Harry N. and Latah, Pat Keenan has Staccata, Joe Thomas has Alicia and Sally Goodwin, Geo. Small has Allahabad and Dr. McAllister, W. Miller has Meteor, John Sawyer has Deceiver and Maplemont, John Green has Mt. Shasta, Lou Childs has Allen S.

A little investigation develops the fact that merchants profit very largely from the holding of a fair and racing meeting in their town. This fall, especially, are merchants loud in their praises of the fairs, for seemingly everyone had money to spend and wanted to buy something with it. The business men of any city should always contribute liberally toward the support of their local fair association, for in ordinary times they may rest assured what they give will come back again with handsome interest.—Horseman.

Star Pointer, the side-wheeler, who has a record of 1:57½ for the mile, is somewhat of a puzzler in the matter of breeding to some of the worthy horse theorists. In his tabulated pedigree back for six generations there is not to be found one drop of either Messenger, Star or Morgan blood. He is in no way akin to Hambletonian 10, nor to Mambrino Chief, the two founders of the trotting horse. He is not subject to registration, but he is qualified to show his heels to every registered pacer and trotter in the United States.

The Occidental Horse Exchange of this city will soon make its announcement regarding trotting sales, which will be held at the new Amphitheatre. Wm. Fitch, the famous auctioneer, will officiate. He is the gentleman who is recommended by Marcus Daly, E. A. Tipton, Thos. Keating, C. L. Crellin, B. C. Holly, F. H. Burke and others as one of the best auctioneers of his age in America. New life will be infused in the sales business on this Coast, liberal advertising and presentation of frats and figures for intending purchasers will be features of these sales.

Second place in the list of grand money winners goes to a trotter, which started out with no mark. This is The Monk, who has $7,480 to his credit. This horse is a champion, as he holds the world's trotting record for four-year-old geldings. He has been a most consistent race horse, and worked hard for the honor of being Ed Geer's banner money winner.

Twenty-eight thousand six hundred and ten was the turnstile count at the Winnebago county fair, recently held at Bickford, Ill. This, of course, does not include those who drove into the grounds in carriages. As a consequence, the association's coffers overflowed with coin of the realm, and there is already talk of a more portentious gathering next year.

The get of Baron Wilkes stand at the head of the total winnings under individual sires in the Grand Circuit, the four representatives of this horse, Oakland Baron, Bumps, Baron Rogers and Grand Baron having won $13,175. They are closely followed by the get of Chimes, The Monk, The Abbott and King Chimes, they having placed the sum of $12,530 to the credit of their sire. Next in the list comes King Wilkes, his daughters, Rilma, Morale and Purity Wilkes, having earned $9,912.50 for their sire, while fourth in the list stands Mambrino King, his trio of representatives, Dare Devil, Valence and Heir-at-Law, having earned $9,275.

Though the critics still keep on claiming that Fantasy was not a race mare, her record of fifteen wins out of eighteen starts in races proves that she possessed the greatest of all qualifications a race horse can possibly possess, to wit, the ability to win. The money is hung on a wire, and the mare that gets it fifteen times out of eighteen attempts cannot be called deficient in that particular. Then she holds the world's trotting record for three-year-olds, any sex, and the world's trotting record for four-year-old mares, the former at 2:08¾, the latter at 2:06. There is nothing new about all this, but it emphasizes the question, What do some people want, anyhow?

A writer in the Philadelphia Ledger thus sizes up Ed Geers' strong points as a driver: "There may have been a driver and trainer in the past as great as Geers. If so, he has escaped notice. Some drivers seem to think that the money is hung up at the half-mile pole; Geers never does. He knows that the purse is at the wire at the end of the mile, and drives accordingly. He seems to know just how much driving his horse will stand, and he also seems to know pretty well how much the other fellow's horse will stand. Geers does not whoop and yell very much and only goes to the whip in extreme cases. He just sits still, and by a peculiar movement of the lines he conveys to the horse in some electric manner what he wants him to do."

For some time the lovers of fast horses in Red Bluff have been trying to get the noted horse trainer and driver, Jim Sullivan to come here and establish a stable at our race track so that the trotters and pacers can be trained at home. There are quite a number of fine horses in the neighborhood of Red Bluff and some of them have given evidence of being speedy, and it is thought that in the hands of a competent and reliable man some of them at least will develop into good fast horses. It was impossible to get Mr. Sullivan to come but he has sent here with a high recommendation a young man named J. M. Reidy to see what can be done in the line of establishing a stable. Mr. Reidy has been with Sullivan for six years and knowing that only a good competent man was wanted, the famous trainer has sent him here. He has interviewed some of the horsemen here and it seems there is little doubt but that he will locate. He has inspected the race track and says that with very little work it can be put in good condition and he is willing to start in as soon as the necessary arrangements can be made.—Red Bluff News.

Flaxie Moore, 2, by Mercury, was driven, last week, by Trotwood, her owner, a quarter in 29 seconds. Mr. Mickeus says she can go a mile in 2:30 with only two or three weeks' handling. Mr. Mickeus has twelve promising trotters and pacers in his stable at South Side Park.—Maury (Tenn.) Democrat. No, father; I cannot tell a lie. I do take a consitutional twice a week behind the little Mercury filly, but I've never been that fast behind anything yet. The reporter evidently misquoted Mr Mickeus and means 39 seconds. But, talking about the Mercurys, I wish to go on record with the assertion that in a few years folks are going to fall over each in this neck of the woods and elsewhere, buying the speedy pacers which the well-bred son of Sidney is siring from our native pacing mares. As a sire of native speed, I do not think Sidney had a superior in his day, and certain it is that my friend, Capt. Campbell, made no mistake when he purchased his son Mercury to experiment on Brown Hal mares. I have seen a number of them and they are all pacers. The first one ever trained, Mattie C., took a three-year-old record of 2:17¼. They give our inbred pacers a decided finish of style and straight action which is most desirable. They go remarkably clear, and their action is perfect. From what I have seen, this is the best cross on Tennessee pacing mares, and in a few years Mercury will be one of the best-known sires in the country.—Horse Review.

The good trotting mare Derby Princess, 2:08½, is a pretty coarse and growthy five-year-old, but she is easy gaited, has a great turn of speed and will stand a driving finish without swerving or faltering. An interesting story is told how Henry Sanders managed to get her in his stable. It appears his brother Millard took her in part payment for wages from her breeder, John F. Boyd, in California, and sold her at one of Fasig & Co.'s Cleveland sales, to Frank Rockfeller for $500. Shortly after the sale Mr. Rockfeller's trainer examined her and said she had curby looking hocks. She was therefore rejected and Mr. Fasig volunteered to take her at $500, but Millard decided to hold her for a while. One day he was working her out and Henry had a fast pacemaker alongside. While the brothers were driving the mile Henry said to Millard: "Will you do your brother a favor?" "Yes" was the unqualified reply. "Well, I've a man who will pay half interest on that mare and I want her." "All right, you can have her," and so the mare changed hands. Later when she began to act like a winner, Gus Wagner, of Cleveland, who put up the $500, bought Millard's remaining half interest for $1,500 and so he got $2,000 for the mare that was rejected at $500. She has been a bread-winner for Henry Sanders who drove her to a record of 2:19½, as a three-year-old and 2:11¼ as a four year-old. She won the 2:19 trot for a purse of $3,000 at Fleetwood's Grand Circuit meeting last September. —Trotter and Pacer.

THE Sacramento track is not likely to be disturbed for more than a year, as the advertisement regarding leasing it for a year shows pretty conclusively.

THE FRIAR has been retired from the turf. Clifford will also be retired, and Handspring and Hastings may follow a little later. Buck Massie was taken out of training early in the spring, but is all right now.

EPPERSON, the race rider, passed through this afternoon on the freight train, bound for the Medford races. He had the following horses: Pathmont, Tannoe, Ban Bona, Endymion and Sleepy Tom.—Eugene (Or.) Guard.

STARTER J. B. FERGUSON will start both the thoroughbreds and harness racers at the coming Los Angeles meeting, and will again send the starting gate out and up at the California Jockey Club meetings, Emeryville track.

TOD SLOANE has signed to ride James R. Keene's horses in England at an early day, and left on the steamer Majestic last Wednesday. He will pilot Voter in the Cesarewich, and that colt is in at 105 pounds, Galtee More at 132 pounds.

A FEW days ago Presiding Judge M. Lewis Clark called Morrison, the jockey, into the padoga and said to him: "Morrison, you were a good jockey at Memphis and at Louisville. You are not a good jockey now. I would advise you to take a vacation and to stay as far away from the bar during the time you are idle." This was sound advice, and besides it was kind of Colonel Clark to warn the boy before he got into trouble, but from the layman's point of view it sounds uncommonly like, "Five dollars and costs. Next!"

J. H. SHIELDS arrived at Ingleside September 24th with a good string of eight horses. In the lot was a brother to Pepper (by Hindoo—Francesca), Green Jacket, by imp. Whistle Jacket), George Rose, a half-brother to Howard S., a two-year-old colt by Onondaga and two yearlings by imp. Prestonpans.

H. L. FRANK, who recently purchased several good horses of Marcus Daly, afterward bought Loch Ness of the same gentleman, price $2,500. This three-year-old colt is by imp. Inverness—Butterfly. He wanted to buy imp. Ogden, Scottish Chieftain and imp. Isador of the Montana multi-millionaire, but $40,000, the sum asked, was considered a little too high.

BUCKWA won a mile and a sixteenth race at Gravesend last Monday, defeating Tom Cromwell and other good ones. Bernardillo was beaten a nose by Bromo for the Sea Spray Stakes, Rey Salazar ran second to Demagogue at five furlongs, and Sir Walter finished second to Tillo at a mile and a sixteenth.

PAUL LOFTHOUSE, a jockey, was slightly injured at the Carson (Nev.) track September 18th, while teaching a horse to break away from the starting gate. The horse reared and fell backward. The same day Mike Tulley, also a rider, had his collar-bone broken. He, too, was trying to teach a colt to break away from the gate.

BRIER HILL, a brown two-year-old colt by imp. Duncombe (the late S. G. Reed's Irish horse) from Brierbush, won a mile race from older horses at Windsor, September 22d. He ran the distance in 1:41¾, beating such a good one as Cogmoosy, among others. The colt is in Atkin & Lottridge's stable. The form chart said he had plenty left.

ENTER your yearling colts and fillies in the Kentucky Derby and Clark Stakes of the Louisville Jockey Club, and also remember that the Kentucky Oaks, for three-year-old fillies, is now open. The conditions to these stakes, worth respectively $6,000, $4,000 and $3,000 are advertised in this issue. Entries close with Secretary Charles F. Price on the 15th of October.

THE list of entries to the California Jockey Club stakes, which closed September 20th, is the largest in the history of racing in California, and in the list appear the names of scores of famous racers. We will not be able to secure all the names for this issue, but to say that President Williams and Secretary Milroy are pleased with the prospect of having truly great racing on the coast next winter ane spring is to draw it mild.

THREE Ormonde yearlings, the property of W. O. B. Macdonough, left Menlo Park for Morris Park yesterday. They were: Bay colt from Countess Langden, by Kingcraft; brown colt from Jongleuse, by Alarm, and bay filly from Dizzy Blonde (dam of Sir Reel), by Chillicothe. The brown colt out of Jongleuse is sixteen hands in height and built on kingly lines. Those who have seen this youngster pronounce him a coming champion. The remaining pair are also very handsome and promising, and it is expected this trio will add luster to the name of "the horse of the century."

A. B. SPRECKELS has retired from the running turf, and will sell at auction all his horses in training November 17th. About one month later he disposes of his yearlings. The popular young millionaire will continue to breed thoroughbreds at his splendid Napa farm, but will not race. It is sad to contemplate the retirement of such an honorable patron of the turf, for the Spreckels horses were always "meant," and the public were quick to realize this. Mr. Spreckels was a liberal buyer at yearling sales, and the string he will dispose of, in which is Aluminum, Little T. G., Gallant, Olive, George Palmer, Pat Murphy, Foremost and other bread-winners, should bring goodly sums,

AT the Medford, Or., meeting, September 21st, Arago won the three-furlong race, purse $75, in 0:36½, Jubilum second, Rondo third, Sleepy Dick and Dollie V., unplaced. Hijac won the 3:00 trot, Leland W. (won first heat) second, Rosemont distanced, time 2:43, 2:29½, 2:31, 2:31. Tanner captured the mile dash purse, $125, in 1:47, Free Coinage second, Rubber Neck third, Philip Fair unplaced. On the 22d Klamath Maid won the special trot in straight heats, McKinley Bill second, Alron third, time 2:42, 2:46½. Jubilum won the half-mile dash, running, purse $75, in 0:50½, Arago second, Hotstuff Bessie third, Ten Brook, Bonboniere and Little Girl unplaced. Klondike won the mile race for saddle horses in 2:01, Red Seal second, Toodles third.

A YOUNG horseman who was in Buenos Ayres a few years ago tells of a performance (almost incredible to us) which he witnessed there of a horse named Athos II. He declares this horse was in a mile and seven-furlong handicap with 150 pounds on his back (he had been winning everything he went after in that country), and went that distance in 3:12¾, or at the rate of about 1:40 4-5 per mile. He could not believe that he had timed the race rightly, and said nothing until he had examined the watches of four or five others near him, which either tallied with his time or varied but a trifle. As our best-on-record is 3:20, made by Enigma with 90 pounds up, this performance, if correct, by far overshadows anything on record. Athos II. cost 9,000 guineas in France, and our informant declares that a prominent English trainer rated him as from eight to ten pounds better than any horse he had seen in the old country for twenty-five years or more, especially at any distance over a mile. Leaving 12¾ seconds for the extra furlong, and he would have beaten Carbine's two-mile time (3:28¼) by 2¾ seconds with five pounds more in the saddle.

PRESIDENT MOSS, of the New York Police Board, has practically completed an investigation of the poolroom business in New York City. Whatever he has done besides, he has succeeded in closing some of them up and in keeping them closed. He was first induced to make the investigation because complaints reached him that some of his officers were in collusion with the roomkeepers, and it is believed that Mr. Moss has found this to be the case. In a recent interview President Moss said: "Some time before Chief Conlin retired, I began investigation privately into the system of poolrooms in this city. Up to a comparatively recent period they were operating freely. I have had before me the principals in both the Mahoney and Gleason systems of poolrooms, or the representatives of the principals. I have had players, writers, employes, telegraph operators, backers and the whole fraternity before me on subpœnas, and their testimony has been taken legally and formally. The investigation is not yet completed. One result is that the poolroom business is dead or nearly so."

THE Butte Miner has the following to say of two well-known turfmen and their horses: "Mr. Frank's horses are now at the Butte track, and, along with the stables of W. D. Randall and Sandahl & Taylor, they give the race course an animated appearance that is quite unusual at this time of the year. Mr. Randall has Salvation, 'Ostler Joe, Greenback II. and St. Aignon, and when he goes to California he will take with him the promising filly Watomba, of Sandahl & Taylor's string. All of the horses are being galloped just enough to keep them in condition and they are all looking well. Mr. Frank and Mr. Randall will ship to California together about the first of October. The former has entries in eighteen stake races at Oakland, entries to which close to-day, and he will also enter in many of the stake events at Ingleside. 'Ostler Joe, Senator Bland, Salvation and Loch Ness will start in the opening day handicap at Oakland on November 15th. The race is one mile, for a $1,000 purse. Mr. Randall left on Saturday night for a visit with his parents at Fort Dodge, Ia., whom he has not seen for twenty years.

DURING the last session of Parliament a royal commission was appointed to investigate the horse-breeding interest in Ireland, and devise some means by which it could be aided through a government subsidy. Their report is just to hand, and might be read to advantage by our own legislators, for, curiously enough, America, the leading agricultural county of the world, does nothing to encourage the horse-raising industry. From this report it seems that France expends from the government coffers over $400,000 annually for this purpose. Germany does even better, giving the horsemen nearly a million, but Austria-Hungary is even more generous, the total grant in this empire and kingdom being nearly two millions, of which Austria proper gets $850,000 odd, and Hungary $1,155,000. Compared with these figures, the present grant from the British government to Ireland, $17,500, seems pitifully small, but Irish breeders have helped themselves pretty liberally this year, the winnings of Galtee More alone exceeding $150,000, while Count Schomberg, Manifesto, Clorane, Wingfield's Pride and Kilcock have taken among them an equal amount. The commission estimates that there are in Ireland to-day 630,000 better bred animals, if thoroughbred blood is the most desirable, than could be found in any other country in the world. They recommend that a liberal sum should be appropriated to furnish the Irish farmers free with the choicest thoroughbred sires, but deprecate any offense to introduce "mongrels"—as they justly term hackneys and French coach horses.—Chicago Inter-Ocean.

CANTERBURY, New Zealand, has only about 100,000 inhabitants, but the people of that country must be great patrons of sport when the Canterbury Jockey Club can afford to give $13,950 in added money for eight races the first day of the meeting (including the New Zealand Cup, $7,500), $10,500 on the second day in added money for eight races (including the Derby Stakes, $3,750, and the Metropolitan Handicap, $2,000) and $10,250 added money the third day for eight races (including the Canterbury Cup, $2,500, and the Club Handicap, $2,000). The totalizator is in operation there, and books are also made on the races(outside the track)but the former must be quite popular, in view of the fact that in eleven days of racing in 1896-97 $434,810 passed through the machine, or $39,528 per day. Ten per cent. commission is charged, and the club's proportion is five per cent., or $1,976.40 per day, equal to nearly twenty books at $100 per day. As bookmakers pay the clubs but $125 per year apiece, the revenus from that source would probably not amount to over $250 per meeting, and the bar, programme and other privileges perhaps $3,000 per meeting. This, added to the totalizator commissions for the three days, foots up $9,179.20. As the club actually gave away $34,700 in added money in the three days, and took in say but $9,179.20, it will be seen that to be even the club would have to take in at the gate in three days $25,520.80. As there is generally a balance on the right side of the ledger, causing the addition of a stake or two at the next meeting, the New Zealanders must, as we remarked before, be great patrons of sport.

MICHAEL DONOVAN did not ship any horses this year Mr. Donovan says he is content to try his luck on local tracks. Perhaps his last experience, when he shipped his horse Refund to Washington, had something to do with his decision. Mr. Donovan is a bit careless as to dress. He paid $140 to have his horse sent to Washington by the express train leaving Jersey City at 2 o'clock. Having seen his horse placed in the car, Mr. Donovan went to the office to purchase a ticket for himself. "Your train does not go until 5:20," said the ticket seller, looking at Mr. Donovan's rusty clothes. "Oh, but my train goes at 3 o'clock," said Mr. Donovan. "My dear friend, it will cost you $2 35 extra to go on that train. You want to go on the immigrant train." "Immigrant train!" said Donovan. "I paid $140 for my horse to go on a passenger train. Do you think the $2.35 is going to stop me from being as good as my horse?" The ticket-seller gave Mr. Donovan his ticket without further comment. Refund won the race at Washington and made Mr. Donovan $10,000 richer, but he did not buy a new suit of clothes. When asked why he did not purchase a new suit of clothes, Mr. Donovan said: "There are 127 actual racing days in the year, not counting Saratoga and other outside tracks. There are six races a day, which makes something less than 800 races, for which there are more than 1,200 horses in training. Unless they all run dead heats, one-quarter of the horses that are in training are sure losers. No horse-racing man can afford to buy a suit of clothes. He is in luck if he can buy a sandwich."—N. Y. ALL owners of thoroughbreds who are desirous of disposing of them at the big auction sales to be held at the Occidental Horse Exchange during the months of November, December and January should correspond immediately with the proprietors, Wm. G. Layng & Co., 313 Bush street. In regard to sales of trotters, due notices will be given in these columns and through the daily press.

The Occidental Horse Exchange—A Much-Needed Institution.

We have this week launched our craft in new waters, but as we gaze over the expanse scarcely a ripple is to be discerned, and a safe journey into the haven of Success is assured. The proprietor of the BREEDER AND SPORTSMAN has for years realized the need in this, the metropolis of the Pacific Coast (the chief horse mart of this part of the world) of a first-class auctioneer and better management of auction sales of well-bred horses, and, urged on by many friends, has engaged in Wm. Fitch, auctioneer at the Butte and Anaconda race meetings and seller of Marcus Daly's thoroughbreds, a man declared to have no superior in the business of selling horses. His voice, magnetism and winning ways are lauded by all who have ever seen him sell a pool or a race horse. The catalogues, to be compiled and written up by Ralph H. Tozer, will be complete in every detail, for few men on the Coast know more about California race horses than he. The care of the horses consigned to the Occidental Horse Exchange sales will fall upon A. F. Rooker, a thorough horseman and a painstaking one. All the preliminary details of sales will be arranged by William G. Layng, editor and proprietor of this paper, who is well-known to breeders and horsemen everywhere.

With every department cared for by men well qualified to fill the various positions assigned them; with a first-class sales building of the amphitheater style, erected solely for the purpose of holding auction sales of horses; complete catalogues, issued many weeks in advance of the sales, and thoroughly distributed not only in this, but in foreign countries where buyers are likely to be found; with the columns of the BREEDER AND SPORTSMAN open to place before buyers in the most convincing form the merits of the stock, success certainly seems assured.

The Occidental Horse Exchange has entrances at 721 Howard street and at 37 Tehama street, near Third, less than three blocks from the Palace Hotel—in the heart of the city, within easy walking distance of the center of the metropolis, with the Howard-street cable cars passing the door, the Third-street electric ones within half a block of the amphitheater, which will seat 1,200 persons comfortably, be well-ventilated and well-lighted (for the sales of thoroughbreds will take place at night), besides here will be little trouble experienced in reaching the place. There will be no sales building on the Coast to compare with the Occidental Horse Exchange, and the comfort of patrons will be looked after as well as in any theater in the city.

The craft is launched under the most favorable auspices, no less than fifteen breeders consigning their horses to the sales of the Occidental Horse Exchange, with a likelihood of others, appreciating enterprise and good management, tendering their patronage at an early date. That the list of consignees is one calculated to inspire one with feelings that the success of the venture is certain, goes without saying. The following gentlemen send consignments: A. B. Spreckels, Theodore Winters, Charles Kerr, J. O'N. Reis, W. B. Reis, W. and C. Boots, W. O'B. Macdonough, B. C. Holly, Matt Storn, Willman Bros, J. F. Boyd, J. B. Chase, Gaston Ashe, W. M. Murry and W. S. Hobart, while others are likely to be added to this list.

The first sale (Wednesday, November 17th) will be that of A. B. Spreckels—thirty-four horses in training and all ready to race. About one month later, the sale of Mr. Spreckels' yearling thoroughbreds will take place. Among the horses to be disposed of at the first sale are Gallant (winner of eight races and $6,079 and victor over the crack Lissak and the very speedy Magnet), Olive (winner of twenty-eight races), Foremost (winner of five races), Pat Murphy (won fifteen races), Marcel (a winner of thirty-one races), Torsion (a winner at the last State Fair meeting), Aluminum (one of the best two-year-olds in the State), George Palmer (a good winner and a consistent race horse), Frank James (won his only start, seven furlongs in 1:28½ with a totally inexperienced rider up), Little T. G. (one of the fastest youngsters that has appeared this season) and large number of royally-bred maiden two-year-olds keyed up to a race, and likely to win the very first time out. Catalogues of this great sale are now being prepared, and will soon be issued. The complete list of the Spreckels horses to be offered is advertised in this issue, with their ages and breeding.

The second sale will be that of Charles Kerr, of Bakersfield, Cal. He offers twenty-two yearlings, the get of Apache, imp. Calvados, Orizaba, Rio Bravo, Herald and Nomad, all horses well known to our turfmen and bred in the purple. Mr. Kerr bred Olive, Herald, Crawford, William O'B., San Emegio, Semele, Antrim, Castake (a recent stake-winner), Lorena II. (winner of the Capital City Stake at Sacramento, defeating Installator and others), J. O. C., Rachel, Tea Rose III., Coupon and Investigator III., among others.

At these sales the get of the following stallions will be represented: Morello, imp. Idalium, imp. Creighton, Puryear D., Apache, Rio Bravo, imp. Calvados, Orizaba, Herald, imp. Brutus, Fellowcharm, Ecuador, imp. Midlothian, Jim Brown, St. Carlo, Dr. Garnett, Jackson, imp. Piccolo, imp. Merriwa, Racine, Falsetto and Salvator. From time to time carefully written articles and correct tables will be published, showing the achievements of the get of the above stallions that have representatives on the turf—in short, everything regarding the horses sent to these sales and the families of which they are members will be placed before the public in a shape calculated to do the most good for the consignees, breeders and purchasers.

The Stockton Fair.

"Enterprise always wins." This has been proven to the entire satisfaction of everyone who visited the Stockton fair and race meeting last week.

The Stockton Driving Club, composed of Messrs. Geo. E. Catts, J. W. Willey, C. E. Doan, W. E. Neumiller and H. E. Adams, five young business men of that thriving city, leased the pavilion and race track eleven weeks ago and at once started in to "boom" their meeting. Opposition was met on every side because it was known that the fairs held of late at this place were not quite as successful as the managers of the old fair association would like to see; however, perseverance and a liberal use of printers' ink, overcome all obstacles, and the success of the meeting was assured before the gates were opened.

The pavilion display was equal to the State Fair in many respects, the attendance for the size of the city was large, and the different exhibitors are loud in their praise of the management. Every evening something new and novel was produced, and public interest was never allowed to flag for an instant. The arrangement of the booths reflected credit upon Fred Arnold, the superintendent of the pavilion.

Every local industry in the great San Joaquin Valley was represented, and to the visitor who had never traversed this thriving and prosperous portion of California the exhibition is one never to be forgotten.

At the race track horse-owners, pool-sellers and the public were delighted. The meeting had been extensively advertised and the programmes of each afternoon's events were long and the races well contested. In the judges' stand at times there were evidences of a lack of decision (one or two poor rulings in the running events), but taking it all in all the race meeting was a decided success, the attendance being remarkably large, in fact, larger than it has been in years. Not an accident occurred during the meeting, and nearly everything passed off as smoothly as if these young men had been conducting race meetings for years on the circuit. We hope to see them give another next year, and believe they can make Stockton a second Los Angeles when a race meeting is to be held.

The Pacific Coast Jockey Club Stakes.

Ten goodly stakes of the P. C. J. C., now open, are booked to close October 15, 1897, one week from next Friday. The conditions are so framed as to attract the attention of owners of short as well as of long-distance horses, though the majority of the stakes, we are happy to say, are for "stayers." This is as it should be, for the object of the club is the improvement of the breed of race horses, and sprinting has no tendency toward improving racers in any way. The club directors evidently believe turfmen would prefer to have ten stakes, averaging $1,200 in value, to two of $6,000 each, the distribution of the coin to a larger number of owners being more satisfactory to the majority. Following are the stakes now open:

The University Stakes, 1 mile	$1,000	The Rancho del Paso Stakes 1¾ miles	$1,500
The Golden West Stakes, 1½ miles	1,000	The Hobart Stakes, 1¼ miles	1,500

The Ocean View Stakes	$1,000	The San Rafael Stakes, 1⅜ miles	$1,000
The Malowansky Stakes	1,000	The Lakeside Stakes, 1¼ miles	1,000
The Androus Stakes	1,000	The Ingleside Handicap, 4 miles	3,500
The Olympic Handicap	1,000	The Crocker-Woolworth Bank Stake, 2 miles	1,750
The Occidental Stakes	1,000	The J. F. Ullman Handicap, 3 miles	2,500
The Corrigan Stakes	1,500	The Evergreen Stakes, mile heats	1,500
The Schreiber Stakes	1,000	The California Steeplechase Handicap, full course	1,000
The Balboa Boulevard Handicap, 1 mile	1,000
The California Oaks, 1¼ miles	2,000
The California Derby, 1¼ miles	5,000
The Tarpey Handicap, 1⅛ miles	1,000

New Louisville Jockey Club Stakes.

Three rich stakes of the New Louisville Jockey Club for foals of 1896 close October 15, 1897, with Secretary Charles F. Price. First comes the American classic, the Kentucky Derby, 1½ miles, value of stakes $6,000. Scarcely less important is the Clark Stake, 1⅛ miles, $4,000. Last, but not least, is the Kentucky Oaks, 1 1-16 miles, of a value of $3,000. The Derby and Clark are for three-year-old colts, fillies and geldings, the Kentucky Oaks for three-year-old fillies. The conditions to these splendid stakes will be found advertised in this issue, and are liberal in the extreme, $5 only being necessary to accompany the nomination, the next payment in the Derby and Clark, $15, being due next May, while in the Oaks $10 only will be due at that time. These sums carry an entry along to March 1, 1899, and the races will be run in May of that year. The Kentucky Derby is one of the few classic races of America, and was instituted in 1875, when "the little red horse," Aristides, won it. Since that period such real champions as Hindoo, Leonatus, Joe Cotton, Ben Ali, Riley and Halma have finished first in the event. Jim Gore and Falsetto, who failed in the Derby, won the Clark, while Katie Creel, Vera, Modesty, Selika and Souffle are among the Oaks winners.

The Breeders Meeting.

Too much credit cannot be given to the directors of the Pacific Coast Trotting Horse Breeders Association for their efforts in holding the meeting at the Oakland track this week. The fields of horses were reduced in numbers, but the racing was all that anyone could desire. The attendance was restricted to a few, despite the efforts of the management, who did their best to get the people of San Francisco and vicinity to come. The track was in fine condition on all the days of the week with the exception of Thursday, when the rain fell. There seemed to be a return of confidence among the speculators for the betting on almost every race was excellent. Many favorites were bowled over and, as usual, the "shortenders" made considerable money. The meeting has been managed very economically. In our next issue we shall publish an extended review of this meeting.

Death of Josiah H. White.

WHITE—In Alameda, September 23, 1897, Josiah H., husband of Annie D. White, and father of J. H. Jr., Edwin D., Alden P., Edith and Helen White, a native of Westminster, Mass., aged 59 years and 7 months.

While not unexpected, the above notice was read with sorrow by thousands throughout California, Oregon, Nevada and Arizona, for no one was more highly esteemed or more worthy of the friendship of his fellow-man. His death is not only a public, but a private loss, which has left an aching void in the hearts of all who knew him. Never seeking public office, yet while President of the Sonoma and Marin Agricultural Society and first President of the Pacific Coast Trotting Horse Breeders Association, his wise counsel prevailed at all times, and his able opinion on every subject under discussion was invariably adopted by his associates.

He was one of the founders of the great mining town of Tombstone, Arizona, but the prosperity which followed his work in that city never affected him. He did not forget those whom he knew to be in need, and his deeds of kindness are remembered and recorded as the unostentatious tokens of his warm heart and genial sympathies. The lonely miner in his cabin and the farmer in his cottage received the same courteous attention from him as the millionaire in his mansion. Thus, with child-like simplicity and a heart overflowing with good thoughts for his fellow-man, he endeared himself to everyone. As a good neighbor he was all that this term implies. He seemed to delight in making the children around him, as well as their parents, happy. He was in every way one of God's noblemen. His home life was exceedingly pleasant. As a husband and father, he was kind, loving and indulgent, and to the widow and fatherless ones, as well as to all whom he left to mourn his loss, we extend our sympathy in these, their darkest hours.

BREEDERS and turfmen on this coast should not forget the coming sale of the Brookdale Stud and Brookdale Stable at Morris Park October 21st, 22d and 23d. L'Alouette, winner of The Futurity this season, was bred at Brookdale; also her sire, Kinglike, Gregory, Faverdale, Marsh Redon, Surplus, Crochet, Anarchy, Brookdale, Airplant, King Fan, Magician, Stonenell, Stonenellie, Recluse, Boulotte, Stately, Mikado, Mordotte, Preston, Sweet Faverdale and Major Domo.

THE second batch of big stakes offered by the California Jockey Club are now open, and in the list are the Burns Handicap, 1¼ miles, $10,000 guaranteed; the Thornton Stakes, four miles, $3,000, and the Palace Hotel Handicap, 1 1-8 miles, $2,000. Entries to these events close November 10th.

DON'T forget that entries to the Hollister races close next Monday, October 4th, with H. H. Helman, manager. Trotters, pacers aud runners of all classes are given an excellent chance to earn glory and coin.

A PECULIAR fact, and one which speaks well for the largest private breeding establishment on earth, is that on the 23d of September, at Gravesend (Brooklyn) track, there were five races and one walk-over, the five contests being won by the get of Rancho del Paso stallions. Dr. Catlett and Komuraski, by imp. Candlemas, won the first two races, the others being captured by Salvable (by Salvator), Scotch Plaid (by imp. Midlothian) and Shasta Water (by imp. Maxim, who died at Rancho del Paso).

The New Horse Disease.

SACRAMENTO, Sept. 29.—Yolo county horses are still suffering greatly from a contagious disease which has appeared recently. In the first stages of the disease small lumps appear on the afflicted animal, generally upon the breast, and these soon change into abscesses, which, if not properly treated, prove fatal.

After a close study of the complaint several well-known veterinary surgeons pronounced it contagious erysipelas, or something very similar. If a horse does contract the disease it must be attended to at once or blood-poisoning will result.

The farmers of the western part of the county have escaped serious loss so far. The abscesses are opened, which relieves the animal, and almost invariably results in its recovery, although sore and stiff while any trace of the disease remains.

The disease has been prevalent to a great extent among the horses of San Joaquin and Butte counties. James Sutherland and one of the leading horsemen of California who resides near Pleasanton says he has cured eighty head this summer, by rubbing the large lump on the breast with a liniment composed of vinigar and turpentine, equal parts and an egg mixed with it. After a few days' application he presses the swollen part with his finger and if the indentation remains after pressure he opens the enlargement at the point and large quanties of pus follows. He does nothing else with them and they heal up in a few days and get well.

MR. P. LORILLARD'S seventeen yearlings reached England on the steamer Mohawk on September 2d, says the Turf, Field and Farm. They landed in good shape, and Dr. Carter, V. S., who went over with them, says they are fatter and better than when put on board. Thirteen of them were bred at Mr. Lorillard's Rancocas Stud Farm, New Jersey, but the following four were purchased at the Rancho del Paso sales: Chestnut colt by imp. Sir Modred, out of Sweet Baiar; bay colt by imp Golden Garter, out of School Girl; bay colt by imp. Sir Modred, out of Lady Motley, and a bay colt by imp. Prestonpans. Those bred by their owners comprise a bay filly by imp. Sailor Prince, out of Saluda (own sister to Sandia); chestnut filly by Sensation, out of Magnetic (full sister to Meta II); bay filly by Sensation, out of Aster; bay filly by Sensation, out of Rizpah (half-sister to Diakka); bay filly by imp. Pontiac, out of Tarbouche; bay filly by imp. Simon Magus, out of Perception; chestnut filly by Sensation, out of Alacrity; bay colt by Sensation, out of Joy; bay colt by Sensation, out of Equality (brother to Elfin); bay colt by Sensation, out of Dolores; chestnut colt by Locohatchee, out of imp. Happy Day; chestnut colt by Sensation, out of Breeze, and chestnut colt by imp. The Sailor Prince, out of Illogo.

AT the Doncaster, England, yearling sale on September 9th, the highest prices were $17,200, paid by J. Blundell Maple for brown colt by St. Simon out of Plaisanterie, by Wellingtonia; $11,500, paid by Mr. Reid Walker for bay colt by St. Simon out of Mimi, by Barcaldine; $8,000, paid by Mr. Woolf Soel paid for chestnut colt by Marcion out of Marchioness, by Pellegrino. Mr. Hamar Bass bought a bay colt by Ayrshire out of Solesky, by Thunder for $6,750; Mr. Purefoy, a bay filly, by Bend Or out of Chrysalis, by Lecturer, for $8,250; Mr. Hamar Bass, a bay or brown filly by St. Simon out of Matilda, by Beauclerc, for $6,000; Mr. Wallace Johnstone a chestnut filly by Raeburn out of Fanny Brandling, by Town Moor, for $8,000. The get of Kendal, sire of Galtee More, brought in some high prices. A bay filly out of Lucy Ashton brought $5,500; chestnut colt out of Pixie, out of Blair Athol, $9,250, and chestnut filly out of St. Marguerite, by Hermit, $15,000. The English people are evidently not afraid of fillies.

AT Carson, Nev., last Tuesday, Silver State took the five-furlong race to-day in 1:03, with Regal second and Iron Heart third. Lottie G. won the trotting and pacing race in three straight heats in 2:21¼, 2:23 and 2:21½. In the mile race the heat lay between The Drummer and Fannie E. when a couple of hogs crossed the track and made a fearful mix-up with the field. Fannie E. got the lead and struck one of the hogs. Her jockey, David Meyers, was thrown ten feet in the air and the horse fell in a heap, the field leaping over the prostrate horse and rider. This gave The Drummer the race. Fannie E.'s entrance money was returned.

GILL CURRY, just back from Europe, was here at the Indiana State Fair meeting last week, and was on the lookout for good ones, with which to fill orders from his foreign clients. The foreign demand for trotting stock is constantly on the increase, and, added to our home shortage, will make high prices here before we realize where "we are at" in the horse breeding business.

AUCTION POSTPONED—The running stallion Zoolein and the gelding Don Pio Pico were to have been sold at public at the American stable this afternoon per order of Jule Gamage of San Francisco, who held the animals as pledges. Mr. Gamage was unable to be here and wire to postpone the sale.

THERE is some talk of a match between Malvolio and Hamburg. The former has won his last five races in great style, but Eastern critics laugh at the idea of his having a chance with the son of Hanover.

FLORA LOUISE equaled the circular-track record for six furlongs (1:12¼) last Thursday at Harlem. O'Connell ran it in that time with 121 pounds up. Flora Louise had 88 pounds.

PRESIDENT S. N. ANDROUS, of the P. C. J. C., returned from his Eastern trip last Thursday, much encouraged at the outlook for a grand season of sport at Ingleside.

ANTEROS has three new standard performers thus far this year. They are: The trotter Lillian Belle, 2:29½, and the pacers Contention, 2:25 and Edgar Ross, 2:17.

MORIARTY, chestnut colt, 2, by Spendthrift, dam Martha, by imp. Rayon d'Or, died at the Harlem track, Chicago, on September 16th.

HARRY RAY, a jockey, was ruled off at Oakley on September 21st for swindling a visitor at the track out of $25 on a bogus ticket.

HARRY C., by Motor, 2:2?½, is a wonder. Just broke this last spring and marched in 2:11¼ at Decatur, Ill.

S. second, Purissima a bad last. Running, five furlongs—Jas. Marcum's Daisy Bell beat Esperanza a head in a hard drive. El Patiador and Matilda also ran, but were not fairly in it.

Saturday's results not yet to hand.

Racers for the Coast.

He has for the past six weeks been visiting various race meetings, and has secured the promised attendance in California this winter of many of the leading Eastern horse-owners. Said Senator Androus to the Call representative:

"We will have a great meeting this year in California. I have been all over the Eastern circuit, and more of the large stables will come to the Pacific Coast this winter than ever before. The fame of California tracks preceded me, and besides that the yellow fever epidemic in New Orleans will keep a good many of the leading turfites from going there as usual this winter. That city's misfortune has been our gain in this particular.

"You can depend upon it there will be a great racing carnival on the coast this year—greater than ever before. Besides more of the Eastern stables, more bookmakers and, I may say, more plungers—for, as I said, the New Orleans yellow fever will scare them West."

Senator Androus leaves Sunday night for San Francisco.

I have used De Huy's Balmoline to my entire satisfaction. As a healing salve for cracked heels, hopple chafes, cuts and wounds of all kinds, it is the first under the wire "in a fog."

GOTHAM GOSSIP.

Hamburg's Wonderful Achievements Told of by a Great Admirer—The California Horses—Sims and P. Dwyer Part Company—McCafferty Coming Here.

[Written for the Breeder and Sportsman.]

New York, September —.—Hamburg and Ornament! Future generations will read with wonder and perhaps delight of the great conquests made by these young champions of the turf in 1897. Hamburg's marvelous performance in the Great Eastern Handicap when he carried 135 pounds easily to victory in the Twin City Handicap, when he defeated the cream of the old age division in impressive fashion in time almost equal to the record, stamps them as colts out of the ordinary and heads and shoulders over any we have ever seen in this country. That hard to be convinced, skeptical, pessimistic body of men, "the old guard," have at last awarded the laurel wreath to both. And when such a concession is made it is safe to say Hamburg and Ornament are "pretty fair."

Hamburg has known what it is to be headed four times during his career. In the first section of the Double Event muscle soreness was accountable for his defeat; the second was brought about by the renewal of his malady and bad riding; the third proved to be too much of a herculean task and Requital, at an advantage of ten pounds, beat him out in a drive. Stable orders were responsible for his fourth and last defeat. Taral, who rode him, was instructed to wait. The hard restraint choked Hamburg and a furlong from home—the race was seven furlongs—Previous was a length to the good. Under the whip Hamburg came again, but failed to quite get up, and was beaten a short head. Since then Hamburg has been allowed to go to the front and smother his field. His action is practically faultless and he runs so easily and smoothly that in three furlongs his competitors are always beaten. From the three-furlong post to the finish the race is never in doubt and Hamburg always canters home. He is a horse of excellent temper and will stand as docile as any old cart horse during his toilet preparations. At the post he is mainly good, but if there is any delay he is inclined to fool around. He never wears himself out, however, and is already ready for the flag. When it is a start he is away like a bullet. I have seen him break last of a big field and at the end of a sixteenth be in front.

Hamburg has marvelous lung power. After his effort in the Great Eastern he demonstrated this by coming back to the stand with his sides hardly moving. The wind sucked in and emitted by his nostrils would not have blown out a candle. Taral told me that he was one of the gamest horses as well as the finest-actioned one he had ever ridden. He said Hamburg goes along so easily and smoothly that he at times thinks he is not going very fast till he hears the boys in the rear whipping and urging their horses along. Californians are likely to see this youngster this winter. Mr. Madden is thinking of sending him to the Golden State in order that he may have a good rest preparatory for his hard season next year. Mr. Madden has heard of the great bay and climate of California, and he thinks a winter's rest there would be of great value to Hamburg.

Ornament is a great three-year-old, but what he wants is distance of ground. From a mile up he is practically unbeatable. He has speed, 'tis true, but he likes a distance in order to be in full swing. The first three furlongs of the Twin City were run in 0:36¾, and Ornament was third with head swinging. At the end of a mile, which was run in 1:40, he was second under a pull. In the stretch Taral rode with his hands for ten yards, in order to get clear of Flying Dutchman. After that the reins tightened again and he won easily. In the Autumn Cup, at two miles, Ornament tried to give that great rater, Ben Holliday, a year and nine pounds, and found the task too hard. At the head of the stretch Ornament was third and going easily under a pull. In the stretch he faltered and finished fourth, Ben Holliday winning in a drive from Dutch Skater by a half length. Ornament tried to beat Hastings yesterday (Wednesday), but the two miles took some of his speed away. Hastings, however, had all his work cut out for him to win, as the six furlongs was covered in 1:13¾. It was a very fast race, as the Gravesend track is deep and was about a second and a half slow.

Willie Sims and Phil Dwyer have parted company. Sims and Frank McCabe, Mr. Dwyer's trainer, had some words on the morning the Great Eastern Handicap was run. Sims, who had the mount on Handball, whipped the colt severely during the times at the post and during the running. Mr. Dwyer took umbrage at Sims for this and told him he could get along without his services. By a scratch Handball defeated Archduke a head for the place on Tuesday of this week, Hamburg winning in a canter. On this showing, Mr. Dwyer was carried away by Handball's capabilities and he subsequently told John E. Madden that he would like to run Handball against Hamburg, the colts to carry the same weights as they did in the Great Eastern. They were: Hamburg 135, Handball 117. To this Mr. Madden did not give any definite reply, but from the way he answered he is inclined to give way to Mr. Dwyer's request. Friends, however, are trying to prevail on him not to run the race. Hamburg has some very rich stakes at his mercy and it would be like flying in the face of Providence to run against Handball and then try and win the stakes. At the end of the season, Madden's friends say, give Handball the chance, but not now. This would seem to be the right idea. Hamburg has had a hard campaign with very high weights and he can stand the ordeal all the time. From a test standpoint there is hardly a man who thinks Handball can reverse the decision of last Saturday, when Hamburg defeated him in a walk. In a two-horse race Hamburg would have things much more easily than in a race, as he would not be kept at the post and could jump off quickly and beat Handball from the first stride. There are some men who think Mr. Dwyer is trying to get the race on in order to benefit his track, where the horses are winning at present.

Tommy Griffin will bring a few good race horses to California this winter. Last week he claimed Estaca out of a selling race for $1,320, and on Saturday he secured that high-class horse Rubicon for $2,100 in the same manner. Rubicon got a very bad start and was beaten a short head. Had he won, his owner, "Pittsburgh Phil," would have protected him. Rubicon has been a great bread-winner this season and has shown some high form, Harry Reed, among others, going down before him. Phil secured Rubicon in the same manner as Griffin, so there is not much sympathy expressed for him.

John McCafferty, who is known throughout the length and breadth of the land where horses race, will come to California this winter with a carload of horses. Heretofore John has gone to New Orleans when cold weather set in, but he has had so much California pumped into him of late that he has concluded to go to the Pacific Slope. He has a number of good horses and will make things buzz when they become acclimated.

Shasta Water won a race at Sheepshead Bay last week in fast time. She had light weight up. The stable did not back her as she was just beginning to round to her form. Yesterday (Wednesday) she was beaten a head in a mile dash by Orimar. The long delay at the post killed her chance, as she became very nervous. The stable lost heavily on her. Had the start been effected early, she would have won easily. Starter Pettengill is in very bad form, and it would be a great blessing if he would only take the Klondyke fever and start snowballs down the mountains near Dawson City.

The St. Leger and Galtee More.

Galtee More—who gets his name, which Irishmen say should be spelled Galti Mor, from the "Big Hill" that stands back of Mr. Gubbins' Irish estate of Knocknany and Buree—during his two-year-old form won the Hurstbourne Stakes at Stockbridge, ran a dead heat with Glencally for second place in the Lancanshire Breeders' Produce Stakes at Liverpool, won the Molecomb Stakes at Goodwood, the Rous plate at Doncaster, and the Middle Park plate. He began his three-year-old career, says The Thoroughbred Record, by winning the Two Thousand Guineas Stakes at Newmarket, where his principal competitor—Lord Roseberry's Velasquez, his old antagonist of the Middle Park plate—was beaten in a canter by four lengths. He followed this up by winning the Newmarket Stakes, the Derby, the Jubilee Stakes, the Prince of Wales Stakes at Ascot and the Sandringham Cup at Sandowa.

The Doncaster St. Leger, which was won to-day by Galtee More, is run over a circular and nearly a flat course. There is always a great attendance on the Town Moor at Doncaster, in Yorkshire, to witness the contest, the last in order of the five so called "great events" for three-year-olds of the English racing year. Although the St. Leger did not receive its name until 1778, in 1776 a similar stake of three-year-olds was run and won by the Marquis of Rockinghan's Allabuculia, and 1777 by Mr. Southeron's Bourbon.

In 1778 the race was named after Colonel St. Leger, who resided at Park Hill, near Doncaster, and who originated the sweepstakes in 1776. The name was suggested at a dinner given on the day of the entry at the Red Lion, in Doncaster, in 1778—the chairman, the Marquis of Rockingham, proposing that the race should be called the St. Leger, in compliment to the Colonel, and it has accordingly been known and run in that name ever since.

The weights carried in the race have been altered four times. At first colts carried 112 pounds and fillies 110 pounds. In 1789 they were raised so that colts carried 114 pounds and fillies 112 pounds. 1862 they were again raised to 118 pounds and 115 pounds respectively. Another change was made in 1838, when colts carried 119 pounds and fillies 115 pounds, and these weights were carried until 1862, when they were raised to their present figures—colts 122 pounds and fillies 117 pounds.

A glance at the records of the race shows in many respects that the St. Leger has been fully as sensational as either the One Thousand or Two Thousand Guineas, the Derby or the Oaks. It has been placed to the credit of more sires than any of the above events, the most successful sire being Stockwell, who won the race himself in 1852, and was the sire of St. Albans, the winner in 1860; of Caller Ou, who won in 1861; The Marquis, the winner in 1862; Blair Athol, the winner in 1864; Lord Lyon, the winner in 1866, and Achievement, who won in 1867.

Galtee More's great great grandsire, Stockwell, failed in the Derby, but took the Leger in 1852. Doncaster, his great grandsire, failed in the Guineas, won the Derby at the long odds of 40 to 1, and was beaten a length by his stable companion, Marie Stuart, for the Ledger. Ben d'Or, his grandsire, did not run in the Guineas, won the Derby and was beaten by Robert the Devil in the Leger. His sire, Kendal, did not run in any of the classic races, his place being taken by his stable companion, Ormonde, who himself proved a winner of the triple crown. Despite the fact that Galtee More has won $150,000, the Stockwell family, of which he is such a worthy representative, is still for the year behind the Blacklock, which for the last five years has won the most money on the English turf. At one time it looked as though this family would become extinct, for both Voltigeur, and, at first, Vedette, his son, were disgraceful failures at the stud. When the latter had reached his eleventh year he was considered so worthless that he was offered by Lord Zetland to Mr. Harris, of Kilmalloch, for duty as a sire for hunters in Ireland, for the low price of £400 ($2,000). Mr. Harris did not take him, however, preferring a stout son of Vindex, called Victor, offered him at the same price. This was fortunate, as Victor has proved a wonderful sire of steeplechasers, while the following season Vedette sired Speculum from the Alarm mare Doralice, and seven years later, when mated with the Flying Dutchman mare, Flying Duchess, produced Galopin, who won the Derby, and in his second season sired St. Simon, about the best horse of the century, who in his very first season sired another Derby winner, Donovan.

Answers to Correspondents.

A. R., City—What is the coast record (running) for three and a half furlongs? Answer—0:41¼.

Dr. H. Clay Glover, The Hollywood, Long Branch.

Dear Sir—I consider your medicine far superior to all others that I have ever used. The Vermifuge you prepare is really wonderful in its mild yet thorough action. Have used it most extensively on very young puppies with the best results. Yours truly, FRED HOEY.

Harness Racing in the East.

For the past fourteen months this paper has been publishing facts regarding the revival of interest in light harness horses throughout the United States and our esteemed contemporary, The Western Sportsman, very aptly diagnoses the harness situation as follows.

Harness racing has been more generously patronized this season than for the past five years at least, notwithstanding the increased variety of outdoor sport, including cycling, polo, golf, baseball and the numerous innovations of the bangtails on tracks hitherto exclusive. All accounts from the fall fairs, East, South and West, are of the same import. Immense attendance and the fine art and machinery and apple-butter and ewe-necked squash departments left serenely alone in the shade of the bedecked buildings, while the crowds hustle to the grand stand and line the quarter stretch fences, three deep and crowding, to witness the flights of speed of the equine brutes. This is the universal story of the season now mellowing into the golden autumn days. Even the gentle women folks seem to partake of the wholesome sportive sport, and at all the fairs gather around the "charmed circle" and discuss the merits of the fleet flyers with a fire and spirit that makes their bright face brighter with animation than the lurid fall millinery of the latest geared hats. Indeed the harness races now are all the rage, and as fashion rules the world, who says the future of the harness horse is not secure? Some one who knows. Some thin-blooded anchoret may exclaim that folly and fashion are twin sisters but the sages say not. Folly is the listless laugh of a sybarite, leaving its votary stale and inane, but fashion may set a taste for the brightest and most wholesome of pleasures, both mental and moral as well, and all the outdoor sports harness racing is the most wholesome and the least hurtful. It is the survival of the fittest. We clip a specimen of the hundreds of reports now coming to this office of the race-going furore now in full headway, from the Springfield Democrat: "Never before in the history of the Springfield Railway Company have we carried so many people to the Fair grounds in one forenoon," said a street railway man Thurday, "as we have taken out to-day. All the cars we can get are in use, and all have been crowded since 9 o'clock." "We admitted about eight thousand people yesterday," said Ticket Agent Stewart, "and have sent in fully as many people to this, the noon hour. Most of the people have been from the country, and it seems probable that the townspeople who will come this afternoon will swell the number to 20,000 or 25,000 people to see the races." The editor of the Sportsman has observed correctly as to the increasing popularity of trotting sport. From the Grand Circuit down to the smaller fairs in rural districts the wheelers have been royal attention this season, and in no previous year have fair and trotting associations received a more substantial support. The public likewise have been favored, as never before has harness racing been so universally interesting. This is a most happy and fortunate condition. The trotting turf is growing nearer the people, and the people are flocking to the support of the trotting turf. Gate patrons went racing for their money, and they are getting it in earnest this year. The trotting turf must have public support, and is getting it in earnest this year. The trotting turf must have public support, and is getting it this year; and there you have the true signs of the times as to trotting sport and the trotting turf.

The Fly Casting Club.

The casting off of the ties for the season's medals of the San Francisco Fly Casting Club at Stow Lake on Saturday last brought out but a few members.

W. D. Mansfield cast 100½ feet and won the long distance medal. Dr. E. N. Lowry was second to cast and it was thought that he would certainly win the medal as he has frequently cast over 100 feet and Mansfield's handicap of 5½ made it necessary for him to cast but 95¼ feet to win, but for some reason he did not get started and only made 87 feet within the time limit, his succeeding three casts were all over 100 feet.

The tie for the delicacy and accuracy contest was won by Bacheller with 88¾ per cent, his accuracy per cent winning him the medal as Dr. Lowry tied him on the delicacy percentage. Dr. Lowry's total per cent. was 87½. The judges were E. A. Mocker, W. D. Mansfield and C. G. Young. The scores were:

	45	1	1	0	2	0	4
	35	1	1	1	2	1	6
Dr. E. N. Lowry.	40	1	3	4	3	2	13	25	8	1-3 91 2-3	82 1-2 87 1-12
	45	2	3	0	1	0	6

The members will be classified next year by the average of their performances. The following table of this season's averages will consequently prove interesting. The first figure indicates the number of events contested during the year:

Distribution of Trout Fry.

The Fish Commission are very busy now planting trout fry. There are no rainbow trout fry this year, owing to the washing away of the fish ladder at the Pokegama dam, which prevented the trout from reaching the hatchery. The following list is entirely cutthroat trout, Salmo mykiss, planted during the month of September:

Game Warden Donovan has planted in Alameda county streams, 45,000; Game Warden Hatch, San Mateo county, 50,000; E. D. Ferguson, game warden Fresno county, 100,000. These were nearly all planted in virgin lakes and streams 100 miles or more from Fresno. J. D. McKenzie, game warden Santa Clara county, 50,000. In the following list the first-named locality is the distributing point. Chico, Butte creek and Big Meadows, 75,000; Thomas creek, Tehama county, 15 000; French Gulch, Shasta county, Clear creek, 25,000; Grass Valley, 25,000; Aptos creek, Santa Cruz county, 15,000; Oroville, Marble creek, 20,000; Placerville, So. Fork American river, 20,000; Boulder creek and Clay creek, Santa Cruz county, 20,000; Watsonville, 25,000; Glenwood, Santa Cruz county, Bean creek, 25,000; Boulder creek and Waddell creek, 25,000; Capitola, Soquel creek, 25,000; Boulder creek, San Lorenzo river, 25,000; tributaries of the Napa river, 25,000; Red Bluff, Tehama county, Elder creek, 25,000; Battle creek, 25,000; San Bernardino, Mojave and Santa Ana rivers, 50,000; Riverside, Andrews creek, 25,000; Colton, Mojave river, 25,000; Banning, White Water river, 45,000; Duncans Mills, Russian Gulch, 10,000; Badger, Tulare county, 25,000; Martinez, Contra Costa streams, 10,000; Fairfield, Solano county, 25,000; Stony Ford, Colusa county, 40,000. The above are all from the Sisson hatchery.

About one million fry have been shipped from the Tahoe hatchery, but the full list is not at hand. The following have been shipped from this hatchery: Webber Lake, 250,000; Donner Lake, Truckee river and tributaries, 100,000; Summit Soda Springs, American river, 25,000; Truckee, Deer Park Inn, lakes and streams, 50,000; Cisco, Yuba river and lakes, 50,000; Independence Lake, 100,000.

The fishing in the Sacramento is poor at present owing to the great quantities of dead salmon floating down the river.

The Olympic Gun Club.

The picnic shoot of the Olympic Gun Club held at the preserve at Black Point on the Petaluma marsh last Sunday was attended by over one hundred sportsmen.

The stern wheel steamer Caroline left Jackson street wharf shortly after 7:30 A. M. and arrived at the landing on the preserve at 11.30. The trip up the bay was thoroughly enjoyed by all. The Olympic double quartette and a string band rendered sweet music and some that was not so sweet both going up and coming back. Jabez Swan assisted materially in the merry-making and Jack Karney's famous song was called for many times.

The lunch was so inviting that no one wanted to shoot as long as there was any grub in sight and the shooting was consequently slow in starting. There were two sets of traps, one for club members and one for visitors. The members shot for medals and glory, but the visitors shot for pleasure, practice and the price of the birds. The majority of the visitors were novices, "safety up," lost birds caused by empty guns; one barrel misses and "which is my trap" were frequent occurrences. One squad, consisting of Geary, Taylor, Wegener, Hibbard, Wand and Brown, made more fun than a little.

The score on the twelve-bird match were as follows:

Wild geese and ducks were arriving rapidly at Newman the first of the week.

The rail season in San Mateo county opens on Oct. 15th and closes on Nov. 15th.

Alameda county has passed an ordinance prohibiting the killing of rail until October 15th.

The relations between the careless hunter and salt makers at Alvarado promise to be amicable this season.

There is plenty of unpreserved land about Suisun that should provide sport for the majority to-day and to-morrow.

Robert Bowlsby, of Eugene, Or., killed a cross between a native grouse and the Mongolian pheasant recently. It has been mounted.

The Suisun Shooting Club elected officers last week: H. Perkins is president, J. A. Wilson treasurer, and T. L. Robinson secretary.

Quail are reported very plenty in Santa Cruz county. E. A. Mocker is combining a fishing trip on Big river with a quail hunt in that section.

The Riverside sportsmen are circulating a petition asking the Supervisors to pass an ordinance prohibiting the shipping of quail out of the county.

Wild geese are plentiful at Lemoore.

John J. Hollowell of Bethayres, Pa., made the magnificent run of 154 straight breaks at the Portsmouth, N. H. tournament on Sept. 16th. Capt. Bartlett's run of 151 at Rochester is now in the shade.

The winners of the final shoot of the Empire Gun Club last Sunday were: A. J. Webb, the Magautrap Cup; Al. Palmer, first class; E. Kerrison, second class; G. C. De Pue, third class; E. Hute, fourth class.

E. W. Littlejohn, of the schooner Herman, brought two brace of ptarmigan from Kodiak Island, Alaska. Golden Gate Park and the Tamalpais Sportsmen's Club have secured them and will endeavor to propagate them.

The land along Petaluma creek is pretty well preserved. The Mira Monte, Empire, Olympic, Petaluma Sportsmen's Club and Alameda County Sportsmen's Club have preserved about 50,000 acres of marsh land along this creek.

Chas. A. Merkle has purchased an ark and from to-day she will be anchored at Sherman Island, opposite Jersey Landing, where she will remain throughout the winter. Hunters will be accommodated at reasonable rates.

The Mt. Shasta Gun Club scores for Sunday, September 19, 1897, were as follows: H. Frickinger 13, Don Dobrowsky 12, George Dean 11, Ld. De Frees 10, E. Bartel 8, M. E. Dittmar 7, F. L. Irwin 6, Lew Poole 5, C. K. Penner 4.

The season is open and for two days the hills, valleys and marshes have rung with the crack of the rifle and the boom of the shotgun. As this paper goes to press before the season opens we will have to wait until next week to tell who were the successful hunters.

He brought down enough venison to distribute among some of his friends and make glad their hearts (and stomachs) on Sunday.

The Empire Gun Club are fixing up the club house at the preserve near Black Point, The ponds are being baited, new blinds built and many improvements made. A. H. Palmer has been engaged as a keeper and has been sworn in as a deputy sheriff, all trespassers will be prosecuted. The new Olympic Gun Club's preserve near Black Point on the Petaluma marsh consists of about 10,000 acres of land bordering on Petaluma creek nearly opposite the Mira Monte and Petaluma Sportsman's Club reserves. The steamer Gold stops at the preserve every day, leaving the city from Jackson street wharf. Members that wish to go up by train will be met by the club's launch at the Drawbridge.

Anyone looking for a good place to hunt ducks this winter can get valuable information by addressing this office. We know of several good opportunities. There is a share in the Pastime Gun Club for sale at Alviso Bridges. The "Mud Hen" club house at Alvarado is for sale, very cheap.

Indians have no more privileges in taking game and fish than other persons. It is thought by some that they are privileged to kill game and fish at any season of the year, but it is not the case. Indians on reservations, who maintain tribal relations, have the right to govern themselves, but when they live among the whites, they are subject to our laws the same as any foreigner and under the same restraint regarding the killing of game and taking of fish as other persons.

The true sportsman is careful to note before shooting that his bullet or shot will do no damage except to the proper game; he closes and fastens the farmer's gate when he passes through; refrains from firing his gun near the farmer's house and thus alarm the family. He doesn't shoot tame pigeons, or a hole through the fan of a windmill; he recognizes that he is being favored by being allowed on the premises for a hunt, and preceeds to do that one thing. If each person who goes out with gun and dog would exercise ordinary care, most lands would be open for decent hunting at any and all times.

The Hackmier Club has leased the Oliver Bros.' marsh near Haywards and are now building a club house. Mr. Liguori has also leased a large tract of marsh land to San Francisco parties. They are now boring an artesian well and will form artificial ponds covering two or three acres.

The newly elected officers of the Suisun Shooting Club are: President, H. Perkins; Treasurer, J. A. Wilson; Secretary, T. L. Robinson. The membership now numbers 25. The newly equipped club house will be dedicated with a champagne dinner on the opening of the season. On this day none but members will shoot over the leased grounds; afterwards members can bring in a friend for a day's shoot. All arrangements point towards a satisfactory and prolific season of sport for the new organization.

Of all the nonsensical, far-fetched, utterly untrue pars that we have read in years the following from the Merced Star is the worst: "Plenty of wild duck have hatched this season on the marshes and the sportsmen anticipate a great time because the law of the State has been enforced. Heretofore the eggs of the ducks have been gathered by the people around the haunts of the duck, and this year they were compelled to stop this business." In the first place the law has not been enforced and then the tale of the mythical millions of ducks' eggs gathered for albumen is absolutely without foundation, consequently no one was "compelled to stop this business."

The Board of Supervisors of Los Angeles county have passed the following ordinance:

Section 1. Sec. 2. This ordinance shall take effect and be in force on and after the 7th day of October, 1897.

There will be weekly coursing meetings at the Sacramento Agricultural Park this winter.

F. J. Waller's foxterrier bitch Ripple II whelped a beautifully marked litter of pups by Mr. Cobb's Warren Crack.

C. O. White's field trial winner, the pointer, Little Ned, was killed by a very peculiar accident at Pendleton, Or., last week. He ran a large stick down his throat while hunting.

M. Coffey, Secretary of the California State Poultry and Kennel Association, writes us that the dates for their next bench show have been changed from December 1-5 to January 26-29, 1898.

Major Walsh, the Administrator of the Canadian Yukon, is taking in fifty tons of dried salmon for dog feed. Spratte' Patent dog cakes would have been much better, but this rather explodes the theory that salmon is dog poison.

Chas. Stutz Jr. advertises in this issue of the R. C. St. Bernard dog Nero of Alamo at Stud. Nero is one of the very best dogs on the Coast, very large, good bone, good color and good markings. All St. Bernard breeders should take a look at this dog before breeding to any other.

Jas. Mortimer's popularity in the East has not been shaken much by the "mischief-maker's false accusations. There has scarcely been a show this fall throughout the East or Canada that he has not assisted in judging. The latest is that he has been asked to judge all classes at Providence, R. I.

The well-known fox terrier sire Blemton Reefer has again changed hands, Wallace Moore having sold him to that enthusiastic fancier W. H. McFee of Los Angeles. Mr. McFee has now one of the best kennels of the breed on the Coast, the inmates are Blemton Reefer as stud dog, and Blemton Spinaway by Champion Blemton Victor II—Spinster, Dauntless Cross Patch and Dauntless Della Fox, both by Warren Sage—Blemton Spinaway, as brood bitches; there are also several pups by Champion Warren Safeguard out of Blemton Spinaway. Mr. McFee will have a strong team on the show circuit next year, and will once more occupy a position in the front rank of exhibitors.

The following appears in the Sydney Mail of August 28th: In a communication from the great fox terrier breeder and exhibitor, Mr. F. Redmond of England, to a member of the Sydney Kennel Club, that gentleman states that he has had the misfortune to lose five out of the seven puppies by Champion D'Orsay—Champion Dame Fortune, two of the most celebrated fox terriers living. It was for these puppies that the English authority on this breed, Mr. Tinne, offered £100 when they were but a day old. However, Mr. Redmond states that one of the two survivors will become a champion, as it possesses a combination of the best qualities. The same gentleman has forwarded a list of his animal draft of fox terriers comprising 30 dogs and puppies, at prices ranging from 25 to 100 guineas each, nearly all of which he states were sold within three days.

Horses Worth Money.

Dr. William A. Bruett, special commissioner of the bureau of animal industry of the Department of Agriculture, has a high opinion of the Western range horse, and predicts an increase in its mardet value. In speaking of the subject recently, he said:

"No horses in the world excel the range horfes of our Western States for military purposes, and I think the trip just finished by some cowboy friends proves my assertion."

"It has just demonstrated that the bronchos and range horses of our plains can cover a distance of 2,400 miles in 90 days, and subsist on grass and water along the route without grain, and, more important still from a military point of view, without being shod. I can say, without fear of contradiction, that no other horse in the world could have made the trip under the circumstances.

"The route, beginning at Sheridan, Wyo., and ending at Galena, this State, covered all kinds of country, turf, sand, rock, clay and mud. When they entered on the last 100 miles of their journey the horses were in as good condition in every way as when they started.

"One of the important features possessed by the range horse is small, hard hoofs, which will stand the wear of paved streets and rough country. The range horse is more intelligent, ambitious, tractable and enduring than those grown by breeders and farmers in the Middle and Western States. In 1893 only 500 horses were sold in Chicago for export. This year the number will exceed 15,000, or 30 per cent of the total number disposed of in this market. The French army has taken a great many of them. We believe the performance of these horses which just came from Wyoming will influence the German and English army agents and exporters for domestic purposes to try our Western horses."—Great Falls Leader.

The Trotting Horse,

BY CHARLES MARVIN.

This great practical horse book is a handsome, three hundred page octavo, bound in cloth, elegantly printed superbly illustrated, and explains in every detail the remarkable success of CHARLES MARVIN and the whole plans and methods pursued at Palo Alto as to breaking, training, shoeing, gaiting, driving, keeping racing and breeding trotters.

Read what J. C. Silby, the owner of St. Bel, says of this book: "In this work Marvin has let out all the mysteries of the craft, and it is so simple and plain that any breeder, owner, trainer or rubber who has any relish for his business can take a colt as a yearling and develope to the highest and fullest extent that colt's capacity as a trotter. The work impressed me so strongly that I have ordered twenty copies, and shall place one in the hands of every rubber on our farm.

Mailed postpaid for $3.50. Address

THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 30.

Jupiter Pluvius gave the association a hard knock to-day. The program was carried out, however, although the attendance was light and the scratches numerous. It was found necessary to have the pace take place on the inside track, which, notwithstanding the rain, was in fair shape.

The favorites in the first two races, the 2:24 trot and the 2:17 pace, walked away with the big ends of the purse without being extended. Claudius was made favorite in the trot at $10 against $9 for Fanadma, Joe and Lyda, Peko, the Palo Alto entry, being scratched. Bunch's horse won easily in straight heats. Joe started in to give him a brush, but acted badly at critical points.

Bessie Rankin, in the 2:17 pace, sold for $20 against $5 for the rest of the field, which consisted of Ryan and Dictatus. The only contest was for the place, between Ryan and Dictatus. Rankin won as she pleased in very ordinary time. Dictatus succeeded in landing second place in the second heat, but in the other two was last.

One of the best races of the meeting was the unfinished 2:20 trot, for which seven started. The distance flag, which was unsparingly used, soon narrowed the field down to three. This race came in for a good deal of comment. Osito was the opening favorite, but when the betting settled down the field, which contained Palermo and Neernut, sold for $10, Osito bringing $5 and Columbus S. $5. Neernut raced off in the lead and won almost in a jog, with Osito second and Winella third. Columbus S. acted badly and Palermo, who was supposed to be the horse the wise ones were playing in the field, broke at the first turn. He just got inside of the flag.

The result of the first heat made Neernut a warm first choice against Osito and the field. He went off in the lead again, and apparently won by a length from Osito. But the latter was given the heat, because Neernut had broken some distance along the backstretch. Three out of five people on the track did not see him break, but he undoubtedly did so, because his driver admitted it. This time Palermo trotted better, finishing third from Columbus S., Nancy W., Winella and Iran Alto getting the flag. Nearly everybody thought that Nancy W. at least had saved her distance. In the third heat Osito was made the favorite. He led until well into the stretch, when he broke under pressure from Palermo. Keating put up a stem-winding drive behind the latter. Neernut broke several times during the journey and was declared by the judges to have been distanced. Nine out of ten people on the track expressed themselves of the opinion that the judges had made a mistake. In the fourth heat Osito still ruled favorite, but was very weary. Palermo jogged home as he pleased, and then the race was postponed.

FRIDAY, OCTOBER 1.

There was but one race at Oakland to-day which might be called a contest. Both of the others on the card were practically walk-overs and even the unfinished race in which Palermo, Osita, and Columbus S. were left proved to be the the easiest sort of a thing for Palermo.

The start in the unfinished trot was a trifle unfortunate. Mr. Covey was not in the stand and presiding Judge Cohen sent Osita away running. This destroyed whatever chance the little horse had, although he finished a strong second. Mr. Durfee made some very disrespectful remarks to the judges after he had alighted from his sulky, for which he was fined $25.

Searchlight, three-year-old pacer, that made such a successful campaign in Montana, had only Telephone to beat in the Pacific stakes for three-year olds. He had such an easy thing that there was no betting. In each heat he jogged in first in slow time.

Eight accepted in the 2:17, for which a purse of $800 was hung up. The first betting indicated that Antrima should win. After her Margaret Worth was the next best fancied. Pasonte surprised everybody by attending strictly to business in the first heat and winning after Margaret Worth and Jeffe had cut out the pace. Antrima finished second. Although beaten by Pasonte the black mare was a hotter favorite than ever. She sold for $10 as against $7 for the field. The winner of the next heat turned up in old Clay S. Pasonte acted very badly and did well to get inside the flag. Antrima also was very unsteady in this heat, finishing fourth.

The field was now made favorite against Antrima. In the third heat Pasonte steadied down again and won easily from Antrima. She did the same in the fourth, winning the race. The only good heat which Clay S. trotted was the one he won, but this was sufficient to give him second money. Margaret Worth and Jeffe were always close up, but the latter left his feet at the critical stages of the journey.

SATURDAY, OCTOBER 2.

After pacing a sensational first heat Joe Wheeler, the wonder of the year, collapsed in the fourth mile of his race with Anaconda, and could not get inside the distance flag.

Wheeler should have won the race. He was the best horse before he started, but Anaconda was judiciously driven and well taken care of. Joe Wheeler was not. He started in with a bad ankle, and it was this that finally caused his downfall. Owens shot him off in the lead in the first heat, opened up a big gap, going to the half in 1:01½, and down back stretch in 0:29¼. Of course, that sort of gait caused him to back up some, and he came home in 2:07½, Anaconda closing him very fast, notwithstanding a break on the turn. Besides his bad judgment in cutting loose in the first half, Owens turned into the stretch close to the rail, where the going was heavy, permitting Keating to sail along on the hard, smooth ridge in the middle of the track.

The two horses opened about even choices in the betting, Wheeler bringing $20 as against $20 for the field, in which were only Blue Bells and Captain Hackett, beside Anaconda. The first two were shut out the first heat. After Wheeler had won Anaconda was made the favorite at $10 to $8, because people thought the former was pumped out by his fast half mile.

In the second trial Owens kept the side-wheeler well in hand, and maintained a more even rate of speed. He picked out the best-going, too, and won decisively in 2:08¾.

The third mile was exciting. Wheeler has a smooth way of going which makes those watching him believe he is not extending himself. Even when he flew down the back stretch at less than a two-minute gait in the heat nobody, except those who were holding watches on him, realized how fast he was pacing. And so it was in the third heat. He seemed to be jogging the first half. Once when Anaconda went to him to feel him out Owens let out a link and drew away as he pleased. Into the stretch the black fellow fell back a trifle, so that Anaconda's head was at his sulky wheel. Then Keating gathered his horse up for a drive. He did not spare the gad, and the son of Knight never made a bobble. Wheeler was going along level and true, but Owens became anxious as he saw the other horse drawing up, and commenced to fiddle with his whip. He flicked Wheeler a couple of times. At the paddock his nervousness overcame him, and he began slashing the colt that was already fully extended and doing his best. There was a hot struggle for a furlong, and then Anaconda's number was hung out. He had won by a long neck in the comparatively slow time of 2:11¼. Perhaps Owens drove all right, but there are those who will always believe that he could have sat still and won. In the next heat the two paced along within half a length of each other for half a mile. Then it became a procession, Adaconda shooting away out in front. Wheeler stopped almost to a walk despite punishment. The flag fell on him. Wheeler pulled up very lame and was bleeding at the nose.

There was not very much interest in the other events on the card. Dr. Leek was always the hot favorite in the 2:40 trot, and after he had dropped two heats to Uncle Johnny and one to Eureka through his bad acting, won the next three easily.

Arthur L. was plunged on to win the special 2:13 pace. Our Boy took three straight heats.

SAN J SE MEETING.

Opened Under Favorable Auspices — Joe Wheeler Wins in Good Time the First Day.

MONDAY, OCTOBER 4.

The first day of the meeting of the Santa Clara Valley Agricultural Society was a great success from a racing standpoint. True, there was only one race on the card, but it was of superior quality and the time made was close to the track record. Joe Wheeler having everything his own way, the crowd found a chance to enthuse in the game struggle between Fitz Lee and Floricita for second money.

There was not a large attendance to day, but there will be be a big card of fine races every pay for the rest of the week this attraction will undoubtedly draw large crowds. The management have spared no efforts to furnish amusement for the public, and is deserving of the liberal patronage of the people of San Jose and vicinity.

The race officials were: Judges, Edward Topham, G. K. Hostetter and W. A. Parkhurst; timers, John Gordan, James Boyd and John Morehead.

Five horses came upon the track to compete in the 2:25 pace. Visalia was scratched. The starters were C. A. Owens' Joe Wheeler, Park Henshaw's Fitz Lee, E. F. Armstrong's Captain Hackett, Nick Jessen's Frank Murphy and John Baker's Floracita. In the betting Joe Wheeler was a hot favorite, selling at $10 against $3 for the field. Frank Murphy had the pole, but broke soon after the get away and lost the position. Fitz Lee was leading at the half, with Joe Wheeler a head behind, but shortly after passing this point an accident occurred. Joe Wheeler passed Fitz Lee, and then the latter broke, and fell while making an attempt to recover his gait. Horse and driver disappeared as suddenly as if the ground had swallowed them, and the spectators, half a mile away, grew greatly excited, fearing that the driver, Jimmy Sullivan, had been seriously hurt. Floracita narrowly escaped being involved in a wreck, for the wheel of her sulky passed over Fitz Lee as he lay on the track. Joe Wheeler jogged home an easy winner in 2:15½. Floracita was second, Captain Hackett third and Frank Murphy fourth.

On investigatton it was found that Driver Sullivan had received a heavy fall. Dr. Grissim and Curnow were called to his aid and it was found that Sullivan's most serious injury was a bad shock to his nervous system. The physicians could find no broken bones, and were of the opinion that he was not injured internally. Fitz Lee was not hurt and the judges allowed him to start again in the next heat, This decision gave general satisfaction, as the accident to Fitz Lee was unavoidable.

Joe Wheeler was a prohibitive favorite for the second heat. He started off in the lead, and although Floracita made a game effort to head him she was beaten off at the half. Then Fitz Lee began to come up, and the order of parade as the horses passed under the wire was Joe Wheeler first, Lee Fitz second and Floracita third. The time was considerably faster than the first heat, being 2:12¼. Frank Murphy was outside the distance flag, but was allowed to start again, as he was sent away on the run in the second heat.

The third heat was a lively one. Wheeler led the going and stepped along as if he were trying to beat a field full of Star Pointers. He reached the half in 1:02 and the three-quarters in 1:34. Fitz Lee was second, Floracita having lost numerous lengths by breaking early in the heat. Joe Wheeler won by several lengths. Fitz Lee being second and Floracita third. The time, 2:11¼, caused enthusiasm among the horsemen, as it is within a second and a quarter of the track record. H. Hogomoom drove the winner. Dick Havey drove Fitz Lee in the last two heats.

The money was divided as follows: Joe Wheeler first, Fitz Lee second, Floracita third, Captain Hackett fourth, Frank Murphy fifth.

TUESDAY, OCTOBER 5.

Ten trotting heats and two running races were given today at Agricultural Park, and the increased crowd in attendance was enthusiastic over the day's sport.

It was a bad day for favorites, and the talent was wrong three times out of four, Masoero being the exception.

The first track event of the day was the sending of G. B. McAneny's trotting mare Alahma to beat 2:30. This feat was easily accomplished, the mare going the mile in 2:26½.

The 2:30 trot was next called. There were four starters: Leonel, George W. McKinney, Joe and Osita. The latter was the favorite, selling at $10 to $3 for the field. Osita got a bad start and broke while going around the first turn. Leonel then began to draw away and despite a break at the quarter kept in the lead and won out in a bunched finish. Osito was a second, Joe third and McKinney fourth. The time for the mile was 2:17½.

Osita was still a pronounced favorite and her supporters cheerfully put up $20 against $5 for the field on the betting preceding the second heat. Leonel went out in the lead and was still in the lead when the half was reached. From that point Osito moved along lively, passing Leonel in the stretch and winning by a sulky length in 2:15½. Leonel was second, Joe third and McKinney fourth.

The third heat saw another horse come to the front. W. S. Maben's bay horse Joe went out in the lead and was never headed, winning in a whipping finish from Osito. Leonel was third. Time, 2:17½.

Joe was not regarded as very dangerous, but he did the trick once more in the fourth heat, leading all the way. Osito was second and Leonel third. McKinney retained his mortgage on fourth and last position. Time, 2:17¾.

It was apparent by this time that Osito had raced himself out, and Joe was installed as favorite, selling at $10 to $6 for the field. Joe again made a runaway race of it, but Osito closed fast on him in the stretch and they passed under the wire heads apart. Joe's was the front head, and he was awarded the heat and race. Leonel was third. Time, 2:18.

Six horses qualified for the 2:19 trot, which resulted in one of the most hotly contested races ever seen at Agricultural Park. Palermo sold favorite at $15 against $7 for Our Jack and $5 for the field. Jimmy Sullivan, who was thrown from a sulky Monday, had recovered sufficiently to drive a horse in this race.

Iran Alto went out in the lead and kept in front until the half was reached. Then Palermo moved up and led the procession around the far turn. Geo. W. Foley, of Santa Ana, who was driving Neernut, sent his horse past Iran Alto and then set sail for Palermo. The effort was a game one, but the favorite had enough speed left to win out. Neernut was a good second. Iran Alto was third. The time of the heat was 2:18½. Jeffe, who finished fifth, was withdrawn from the race.

Foley turned Neernut lose on the second heat and the bay stallion proved himself too fast for the rest of the company in that mile. He won the heat in 2:15, Palermo being second and Our Jack third.

For the third heat the field sold favorite for $10 against $6 for Palermo. Neernut repeated his performances. Palermo was again second and Our Jack third. The time was the same, 2:15.

There was an unexpected turn of affairs in the fourth heat. Neernut broke badly and trotted along in the rear nearly all of the way. Our Jack, Palermo and Columbus S. were the principals in a hot finish, Our Jack winning. Palermo was second and Columbus S third. Time, 2:17¼. At the close of this beat Columbus S ran into the fence, but did nothing more serious than creating a litte excitement.

The fifth heat was the last. Iran Alto went off in the lead and raced his head off. Columbus S., Neernut and Palermo fought it out, Neernut winning the heat and race. Columbus S was second. Second money went to Palermo, third to Our Jack and fourth to Columbus S. The running races were both over the inside course. In the first race, which was for five furlongs, the entries and the betting were as follows: Masoero, even; Elsie Smith, 8 to 5; Nervoro, 2 to 1; Dertia 6 to 1; Sir Philip, Sleepy Jane and Sands Forman, 25 to 1 each. Masoero was well played and the race showed the talent did well in selecting him to carry their money. Elsie Smith led most of the way. Masoero began to move up when the stretch was reached and won handily by a length. Elsie Smith was second and Nervoso third. Time, 1:02.

The second race was once around the inside course, a distance quite a little short of a mile. The betting on the four starters was as follows: Palomacita, 7 to 10; Nebula, 6 to 5; imp. Ivy, 2½ to 1; Elmer F., 12 to 1. It was a pretty race from start to finish. All came up the stretch in a bunch. There was a blood-quickening finish. Palomacita and Ivy passing under the wire together, with Elmer F. just behind. The men with money on Palomacita bet a little more on the side while waiting for the decision of the judges. Those who were on the line with the wire said that Ivy's nose showed in front, and the judges so decided. The time consumed in making the circuit was 1:38½.

WEDNESDAY, OCT. 6.

The third day of the race meeting was made notable by four fine races. Trotters and runners worked hard for first money, and every event was interesting. It was a good day for favorites, and the talent cashed in tickets on three winners. There was a largely increased attendance, showing that the meeting is steadily growing in popular favor. The day had been set apart for ladies, and the fair sex was well represented in the crowd in the grand stand.

A mile trot against 2:30 was the first event on the card, G. B. McAneny taking his bay mare Fannie L around the circuit in 2:26½.

The 2:40 trot was then called. Four horses qualified for the race. The talent immediately picked out Etta Wilkes for a winner, and bought her at $10 to four for the field. Etta started out well and seemed a sure winner, but a bad break on the far turn put her back several lengths, while Fanadma kept up a steady jog, passing under the wire first in 2:23¼.

The talent still played Etta Wilkes and found few takers at $10 to $5. In the second heat Fanadma went out in the lead, but Etta Wilkes passed her near the half and coming on fast won easily in 2:21½. Fanadma was second.

Etta Wilkes opened at $10 to $7 for the field in the betting that preceded the third, but soon there was a sudden change and the field sold favorite at $10 to $5 for Etta Wilkes. This heat went to Fanadma, as Wilkes acted badly and broke on the first turn. The time of the heat was 2:20, Wilkes finishing second.

Fanadma was installed favorite after the third heat, bringing $10 to $4 for the field. Etta Wilkes still had many admirers and the short end was well played. Fanadma was not as good as she looked. She went away in front, but Wilkes reached her side at the half, raced with her through the stretch and in a close finish beat her by a head. Time, 2:21½.

Wilkes once more became favorite and sold at $10 to $4 for the field. The driver of Wilkes took no chances in the fifth heat. He took her to the front early in the circuit and kept her there. A break destroyed Fanadma's chances and Wilkes won the heat and race in 2:22½. Ned Thorn was second and Fanadma third.

The second event on the card was a running race, five furlongs, over the inside course. Four horses were entered and the closing odds offered by the bookmakers were as follows: Elsmore, even; Duke of York II., 2 to 1; Eroica, 3 to 1; Oneka Maid, 8 to 1. The horses were given a fine start, but Elsmore, the favorite, was never in the running. Oneka Maid, the long shot, made a runaway race, and won handily in 1:02¾. Duke of York was second.

Six horses were brought out for the next run, which was for a distance a trifle short of six furlongs. Masoero, and the strength of his win Tuesday, was made favorite at 4 to 5. There was a hot tip on Mollie R. and the bookies, who gave odds of 3 to 1 on her at the opening, soon cut her price to 7 to 5. The money continued to come at that figure, and when the race was over there was enough bits of Mollie R tickets scattered around to make a stage snowstorm. Meadow Lark found supporters at odds of 3 to 1. McFarlane was quoted at 6 to 1 and Sir Philip at 20 to 1, but the long-shot fiends found nothing to their liking in this collection.

Mollie R. got away well, and her jockey, Ed Jones, tried to make a runaway race of it, but the little mare was not equal to the task. Up the stretch she began to show signs of distress, and soon the orange and purple of Masoero flashed in front. In an exciting finish Masoero won. Meadow Lark came fast at the close, and beat Mollie R. out for the pace by a head. Time, 1:14¾.

Park Henshaw's Fitz Lee, John Baker's Floracita and Agnew Stock Farm's Lynette were the contestants in the 2:20 pace. Fitz Lee was the favorite at $10 to $3 for the geld. The first heat was a surprise, Fitz Lee breaking badly in the stretch and finishing third. Floracita won the heat in 2 23¾.

Fitz Lee was still the favorite, and he justified the confidence of his backers by winning the second heat in 2:14¼. Floracita was second.

This closed the betting of the day, as it was conceded that Fitz Lee had the race. Fitz took the third heat, finishing several lengths ahead of Floracita. Time, 2:16½.

The fourth and final heat was run in the twilight, the horses looking like dim shadows as they paced down the far side of the track. Fitz Lee again finished ahead of Floracita. Time, 2:20¾.

THE FRESNO MEETING.

Opened Under Unfavorable Weather Conditions—The Events in Detail.

TUESDAY, OCTOBER 5.

The Fresno Agricultural Fair opened to-day under very unfavorable conditions. The day was cloudy and frequent showers kept people away, but in spite of the inclement weather quite a few visited the fair grounds. The touts and regular followers of the circuit were very much in evidence. Frank Maley and John Humphreys have the betting privilege. Only one book was on, and the odds were very "cinchy." The racing was only fair and the "talent" received a dump, as not one of the original favorites won. The track was very slippery and time made very slow.

The first race was a mixed affair, for horses eligible to the 2:40 trot. After a few preliminaries the book chalked up 4 to 5 against Baby Meade, 2 to 1 Bobby J., 3 to 1 Nellie Bly, 6 to 1 Tokalon, 6 to 1 Topsy J. Baby Meade gave her backers a great deal of confidence by going out in the lead, but she could not untrack herself in the slippery going, and after the horses were straightened out for home the second choice came on and won in the fair time of 2:40 (considering the condition of track, etc.).

The second and third heats were repetitions of the preceding one, as Bobby J. won each very easily.

The second race, a selling at a mile, brought out a field of four, of which Grady, with 107 lbs. up, was a prohibitive favorite at 2 to 5. Lena was second choice 6 to 5 (backed from 2 to 1). Walter J. was quoted at 6, while Gold Dust was a rank outsider at 10. Walter J. went out in the lead after the gate went up, but was soon passed by Lena, who held the advantage to the end, winning rather handily by one length and a half, Grady second and Walter J. third. Time, 1:46.

The third and last race was a dash of a quarter of a mile. Lola won in a hard drive by a nose from Lady Kern.

Time—1:46.

Lena won handily by a length and a half, Grady second by six lengths. Gold Dust, 103, also ran.

Third race, purse $150. One quarter of a mile dash.

Lolo, 3 to 1, 119 pounds	J. Jones	1
Lady Kern, 6 to 5, 119	Pinkey	2
King Alp, 5 to 1, 119	F. Glover	3

Time—0:24.

Lolo and Lady Kern had the race to themselves, the former winning in a furious drive by a nose, three lengths separating second and third. Roadwarmer, 119, Buckhorn, 119, and Sontag, 119, also ran.

A FEATURE of the meet has been the appearance of female jockeys on the track, who size up in good shape along with the male riders. It must be galling for a field of male jockeys to see a horse beating them down the stretch to the wire, piloted by a girl, but some of the best jocks have been obliged to do this. Once an attempt was made to crowd Miss Dyson to the rail, and she had her whip out ready to slash the jockey who wanted to do the crowding, and now the riders attempt no familiarities with any horse has she rides as they round the turn. The new women jockey come to stay and will crowd many a male jockey out of employment. The reason of this is that the female jockeys are not dissipated and can be depended on. The male jockey is about town after the race and frequently before loaded to the guards with booze, while the female jockey is indulging in no dissipation and quietly "attending to her knitting."—Carson (Nev.) BARNEY SCHREIBER has purchased Little Minch, by imp. Glenelg—Goldstone, and will be placed in the stud at the Schreiber farm near St. Louis. Mr. Schreiber has also purchased three broodmares, two by imp. Great Tom and the other a full sister to Jacobin.

WE have received a few entry blanks of the Colusa Jockey Club's trotting and pacing races, including the Colusa Futurity Trotting Race and Pearl's Yearling Stake. They will be decided next May and entries close Nov. 1, 1897.

FALL MEETING P. C. T. H. B A. } With the limited attend-
REVIVAL OF HARNESS RACING. } ance at the late meeting of the Breeders at Emeryville it would seem that one who predicted a corresponding revival here, to that which has prevailed in the East, was endowed with an immense amount of credulity, or so thoroughly imbued with "the true and amicable philosophy of optimism" that common sense was not a part of his qualities. Whatever the verdict, however often the iteration that "harness-racing has played out in California," I am constrained to enter upon the record book that before the close of this century there will be a general revival, and that the year 1899 will sustain the prophecy.

The mere assertion is likely to incite ridicule, the attempt to sustain the vaticination by argument be called a futile effort to support a "lost cause," and yet I engage in the contention with the utmost confidence that "The Whirligig of Time" will bring consummation.

Notwithstanding that seven meetings, with nearly the same horses, preceded the Emeryville meeting, the racing was far above the average.

Close contests the rule, some of them very close and exciting. Even those who are disposed to run down all pertaining to harness racing, to claim that everything connected therewith is of little account, from a sporting standpoint, had to admit that the racing was of a high character. And also acknowledge that every effort was made by the presiding judge to insure honest racing, and that he was successful in carrying out his determination. The closest scrutiny failed to establish that a single race was fraudulent, and when there were reasons for suspicion prompt measures were taken to thwart vicious intentions, should such exist. Therefore, whatever misgivings there might remain from the out-and-in performances of horses that participated in the summer meeting, these have been thoroughly removed, and this is one of the main reasons I have for what some people may call fanciful predictions, rose-colored prophesies of the future.

Confidence in "the stand," that is, full reliance on the integrity of those who occupy the position of arbitors, is the only solid foundation for true sport. Apart from speculators, aside from those who desire to place their money on a fair contest, spectators, who do not speculate, are not pleased when they think they have been juggled, their time wasted in witnessing races that were not races, but merely the eidolon of a contest, when fully assured that those whose duty it is to guard are watchful of the interests dependent upon a careful performance of the duties their positions impose, are not only faithful but competent, mistrust gives way to appreciation, the past is accepted as a guarantee for the future, and they become enthusiastic patrons in place of determined opponents. Only one instance where there was a chance for animadversion, and for that there was an explanation that exculpated the person who appeared to be at fault.

Therefore the races and the handling of the races establish the first proposition on which revival depends, and the only thing in the way of rehabilitation is to overcome the supineness of the public and induce attendance commensurate with the attractions presented.

"Only about fifty or sixty thousand people turned out here last week to see a horse race—a harness-horse race," That is one sentence from an editorial in the Western Horseman, Indianapolis, Indiana, and the same story has been told in a great many other places, scores of them, with the modification of from ten thousand spectators at minor harness meetings up to the above limit.

At Indianapolis the magnet was Star Pointer and Joe Patchen, at least that was the most highly charged with magnetism, a huge piece of loadstone, a "true magnet," though others have exerted a potent influence in attracting the attention of large masses of people. And the chief drawing power was the fact that the champions raced.

The simple story—there was to be a contest—and though for a time it seemed to be so one-sided that the bay might have been accompanied by a galloped, so far as an actual race went, there were reversals, and the black won at Columbus and Milwaukee, in every race showed capacity that warranted the expectation of a victory to be gained by either.

This season has presented a valuable object lesson to managers of harness-racing meetings. It opened by a huge theatrical pageant. Previous to the opening, for months before, full page advertisements in all the Eastern horse papers, highly colored stories, barnumized tales, "wonders-of-the-world," the prince of showmen outdone at every point.

Before the season was fairly under way the bubble collapsed, the whole glory gained a quarter of a second taken from the record of a pair of mares that were far from ranking at the top of the ladder.

Genuine races, not hippodromes, honest endeavor to gain honest renown in place of a strife after tin-cup honors, every heat of every race contested by every horse engaged, are what spectators demand, and when these are granted there will be a hearty response in the shape of increased attendance.

While sensational performers will "draw" the largest assemblages, with a fair representation of good horses there will be "paying crowds." From the racing at the various points in the circuit it is well within bounds to say that there are at this time in California so many of them of sterling merit that with anything like a fair prospect for remunerative engagements there will be no lack of material to furnish good sport. Not at all unlikely that some of the good horses of 1897 may rank very high the coming year, one of them, at least, can be credited with the possession of speed sufficient to make him good company for the stars, and there are others that are also likely to develop into a grade very close to extra—superior. Joe Wheeler is a sure enough "phenom" and Anaconda's victory over the black gives him pretentions for a very high niche in the hippic temple. As has been proved so many times, pacers are faster, come to their speed quicker, than trotters, and are racehorses in the highest sense of the term. They have proved to be kingpins of the tracks this year, overshadowing the trotters when time is the standard of comparison. A good many seconds the best of it East, some seven and-a-half (race records), while here the trotting mark is within three-and-a-half seconds of the pacing. Both marks are likely to be lowered before the season closes, the pacing nearly sure to be when the champions come together in the South. There is another good prospect for next year in the colts that have shown since the opening of the circuit. Trotters and pacers of a promising kind, so that it is sure that colt-racing in 1898 will be animated contests.

In fact, a retrospect, from the opening of the circuit until now, will give good cause for the belief that, so far as numbers and qualities of entries are concerned, there is no doubt of there being plenty of support from owners of horses to insure good meetings, and with better times than have prevailed for the last four years—the advance agent of which has already appeared—the main desideratum, public support, can be fairly relied upon.

AN IMPORTANT QUESTION.—"It is claimed that the rules permit starters in a race that have been cut down to return to the post without going the course and start in the succeeding heat if they were not in fault. Also, that if a driver is thrown out by collision or interference after the word go has been given, and his horse gallops around without weight, the judges have authority, if he was not at fault, to permit him to start in succeeding heats on equal terms with the horses that have trotted the preceding heat according to rule."

The above have been presented to me with a request for my opinion, and I have no hesitation in returning an affirmative answer and present the following reasons:

RULE 35. Sec. 1 (Collision or Interference), last sentence. "If any horse impeded thereby comes in behind the distance flag, the judges shall allow him to start again."

Sec. 2. "No horse but the offending one shall be ruled out in such a heat, except for foul driving."

That exception clearly establishes that any other infraction of the rules does not disqualify, and hence the lack of weight is not a bar to starting again when the deficiency was clearly beyond the control of the driver; "behind the flag" is expressly provided for.

The complication which has arisen from the combination of Rules 29 and 35 is readily unraveled. The concluding sentence of Rule 29, viz., "In all cases the starters must go the course," has particular reference to when the word go has been given, and subsequently thereto the judges have given the signal of recall. The practice in some instances, probably in a majority of cases, when both commands were pronounced, were for those who were in the rear of the starters to jog back, and it was a mooted question, under the old rule, whether disqualification followed or not. Quite a number of instances when that question came up, and judges have decided it both ways. Nothing analagous in the situation and therefore the provisions of Rule 29 are not appropriate. The amendment to Rule 29 provided a remedy, and makes it clear that the course must be made, the course meaning the length of the heat, and thus protect those who have been misled, but whether it should be applied to Rule 35 or not is another question.

Should a horse go the course, and not bring in his proper weight, owing to an unavoidable accident, nothing clearer than that he would be entitled to start in a subsequent heat, and if a deciding heat retain the place he had secured before the accident. If the course was not covered he would not be disqualified.

Rule 29 provides for one kind of an accident, Rule 35 for an entirely different condition. For instance the word is given to a straggling start, drivers in the lead do not hear the recall and struggle for the heat, the rear division are better informed, pull up at once, do not even jog the distance, and there is a bitter controversy over the situation. Equity demanded a remedy, and the addition: "It all cases the starters must go the course," covered the point so that it could not be misunderstood.

"Equity, justice, impartiality, the giving, or desiring to give to each man his due * * distinguished from justice in requiring a more perfect standard than any positive enactment or custom; the equity of being equal-handed or just; even-handed action."

That is the Websterian definition of equity, and the interpetation of the word by the great legal authorities is nearly the same: "Supplemental to law, properly so called and complemental of it—the objects of which is to supply the deficiencies of the courts of law, and render the administration of justice more complete." That the intention of the framers of the rules was to protect an innocent person is too plain to require argument, and if the code of the N. T. A. was insufficient to guard, then "even-handed justice" would afford relief. When the rules, however, are separated, Rule 29 to govern when starting signal and recall are both announced, and Rule 35 when "collisions or interference" occur, it is plain that Sec. 2, "no horse but the offending one shall be ruled out in such a heat, except for foul driving," emphatically ends the dispute. Without a chance for misconstruction, the only bar foul driving, therefore all other reasons for disqualifying are subordinate to the express mandate embodied in that sentence. When there is nothing to interfere, when a race can be conducted and carried through under normal conditions there must be a full compliance with all the rules, a strict observance of the law. When a start is ordered and afterwards countermanded, the horse that gets to the winning score first wins the heat, all of the other contestants are absolved from one single penalty, the distance flag, but must go the course.

When "collision or interference" mar the harmony of the race all penalties are waived, save for foul driving, and surely the contention that all the requirements of the rules shall be enforced when there is specific absolution can not be supported by logic, and is also contrary to equity and common sense.

LUCK HAS CHANGED—That Dame Fortune has set her face against Hickok for a few years past has been so palpably the case that no one can dispute the point, with any chance to prove his position. But now with the Futurity won, after six hard heats, it may be said that he he compelled the fickle jade to shamable out of the way, so luck had less to do with the result than sterling merit. While hugely pleased on my old friend's account, there is another reason for exultation. In the BREEDER AND SPORTSMAN of May 15th I had this to say in regard to the horses at work at Pleasanton. "Directs, Diablos, Directums, and some of Eastern breeding which are sure to earn brackets, and again I will risk the assertion that if there are no visitations of bad luck the winner of the Kentucky Futurity is now in the famous valley of Livermore. First and second, perhaps, the placing in the big three-year-old event, and there is no breach of confidence in stating that the tutor of one of them is confident that if his colt is beaten the record for that age will be beaten. The filly now known as Thorne was one of those referred to in the article, and Rect the other. I saw the filly move and finish so fast the last two hundred yards that it was evident she would prove troublesome to the best, and Rect was thought to be still faster.

While the gratification would have been great had a California-bred carried off the big prize, the good fortune of Hickok makes full amends, and then the filly was wintered in California.

The account of race appears in another part of this paper, and that will show that the Kentucky record was beaten.

TEHERAN. A fine-looking big bay stallion, the one with the Persian name, and I am not in the least surprised when his driver, P. Farrell, claims that he will drive him inside of 2:20, if given a chance, before the season closes. Each succeeding heat in his race on Saturday was a decided improvement on its predecessor, and the last, which was made in 2:24, was considerably fastest of the three, and what was of fully as great importance, his action was decidedly better. Had his competitor been able to keep closer the mile would have surely been faster, as he is one of the kind that likes company.

Take him to Alameda, "Pat," and if the good weather holds for ten days after you reach that famous track, and Teheran does not get well inside '20, I will be greatly mistaken. Ten days work on that—the best training ground for trotters in the world—will work wonders with him, if my estimate is correct, viz., that he is one of the improving sort.

JOS. CAIRN SIMPSON.

GEN. W. H. JACKSON'S recent purchases for Belle Meade have arrived at that noted establishment. One is the five-year-old from stallion Tithonus, 16 hands and half an inch in height, by St. Simon—Immortelle, by Paul Jones. He was in training when General Jackson bought him. The other was the two-year-old bay colt by Madison, by Hampton—Democracy, by St. Simon. Persimmon was by St. Simon from a Hampton mare. "Uncle Bob" waxes enthusiasm over Madison.

LAST Saturday at Carson, Nev. (Ormsby Park), The Drummer, Christine and Peril were neck and neck on the homestretch when Stell, on Peril, crowded Jockey Hobart, mounted on Christine, into the fence. Horse and rider both fell, Hobart sustaining serious cuts on the hip and breaking his leg. The trotting horse Peggy was over-drugged this afternoon and died. A full investigation will be made by the directors.

SALEM, OR., October 6th.—At the State Fair grounds this afternoon, the Oregonian pacing champion Chehalis eclipsed all the two-mile pacing records, by going the two miles in 4:19¼. The best previous record was 4:22¾, made by W. W. P. at Lincoln, Neb., October 31, 1895. The time by quarters was: First mile—0:32½, 1:05¼, 1:37, 2:09; second mile—2:39, 3:14, 3:45, 4:19¼.

AN Albany, N. Y., dispatch of last Tuesday was as follows: "The Court of Appeals has decided against Riley Grannan in his case against the Westchester Racing Association, appealing from disbarment from the track by the Board of Managers."

DR. H. CLAY GLOVER, CINCINNATI, O.

Dear Sir—I have used your Mange Cure for several years, and find it entirely satisfactory; have not had a case of mange in my kennels which your remedy has failed to cure in a short time. Yours truly,

W. B. SHUTTUC.

TURF AND TRACK.

THE SULKY.

Klamath will appear at the Los Angeles meeting.

It is not probable that Arion, 2:07¾, may be trained again next season.

Anteoman, a bay stallion by Anteeo, got a record of 2:30 trotting, at Rochester, N. Y., Sept. 16th.

Martha Wilkes, 2:08, the ex-queen of the turf, is now said to be safely in foal to Sable Wilkes.

Alcantara's 2:30 list now numbers 113. It has received eight additions this season, seven of which are trotters.

Wayland W. has a new performer in the good trotter Leland W., 2:29¼, made at Medford, Oregon, last week.

Ed. A. Tipton says that Chehalis 2:07¼ can pace any "parlor track" in 2:04 and three times better than 2:06.

Javelin, 2:08¼, is pacing again. She got second money in a race at Rigby Park, Portland, Maine, September 22d.

Delmar, by Electioneer, sired Delmar Wilkes, a new performer, who got a record of 2:28¼ at Nassau, N. R., September 23rd.

Lord Sultan a bay gelding by Sultan won a good race at Covington, Indiana, getting a mark of 2:24¼ pacing in the fourth heat.

Trimmer is the name of a bay gelding by Sultan, 2:24, that won a race at Poughkeepsie, N. Y., Sept. 22d. Best time, 2:27½.

Joe Wheeler's record, 2:07½, is only one-quarter of a second short of the champion record for geldings, King of Diamonds.

Wyreka, a bay stallion by Albert W., is a pacer tha earned a record of 2:26¼ in a race he won at Orangeburg, N. Y., Sept. 21st.

Russell T., a bay gelding by Albert W., is a new-comer to the list. He won a race at Mineola, L. I., September 24th, fastest mile 2:25.

The attention of our horsemen is called to the advertisement of the great speed sale to be held at Cleveland next month by Wm. B. Fasig & Co.

Directum, 2:05¼, is now a sire. His four-year-old daughter Jummye won a five-heat race at Pittsfield, Mass., Sept. 15th, and trotted to a record of 2:27½.

Tropic, a bay stallion, was entered in the 2:40 class trotting race at Sac City, Iowa, September 10th, and got second money winning the fourth heat in 2:24¼.

The stallion, Baron Rose, 2:20½, for which John H. Shults paid $8,500 several years ago, died last week. He was the property of R. A. Fairbairn, of New York.

It is asserted on good authority that every horse taken into the Klondike country will never return alive. The road over both trials is strewn with dead horses.

Three horses went in the list in one race at Medford, Leland W., 2:29¼, by Wayland W., Volo, 2:23, by Ante Echo and Hioc, 2:30, by Clatawa, son of Daly, 2:15.

A two-year-old pacer called Fitzsimmons sired by Judge Norval (son of Norval) won a pacing race at Des Moines, Iowa, September 15th. Time, 2:33½ and 2:27½.

Vigney, a brown mare by Sidney, 2:19¾, won a race at Poughkeepsie, N. Y., September 22d. Time, 2:27¾, 2:27¾ and 2:27½. The Sidneys are doing well this year.

The bay mare Gardenia, who took a record of 2:17¾ in the 2:28 trot, at Milwaukee, last week, is by Candidate, son of Electioneer, dam by Belmont, and is a new performer.

The handsome trotting mare Iora, 2:12½, owned by Noble of Eureka, Humboldt county, was sold for $3,000 on Monday last to a member of the firm of Levi, Strauss & Co., this city.

Walter Maben has been retained to drive Sky Pointer next season. He is to be campaigned in California. Sky Pointer enjoys the distinction of being a full brother to Star Pointer, the fastest horse in the world.

When hand organs take the place of pianos in the drawing rooms of the wealthy and refined connoisseurs of music, then the horseless carriage may prove a rival to the family horse and gentleman's roadster, but not before.

Thos. Keating has been suffering more or less from pulmonary troubles all year, and on the advice of his physician has decided to spend the winter in Arizona. He will leave for that dry climate directly after the Los Angeles meeting ends.

Geo. H. Fox, owner of Silver Bow, 2:16, was in this city last Monday and reported the good son of Robert McGregor recovering rapidly from his serious injuries. The death of Silver Bow would be a serious blow to the trotting interests of this State.

Next year Harry Stinson will be out with the three-year-old colt Gauduar, by Guy Wilkes. Gauduar is one of the best colts that has been seen in Cleveland in a long time. A mile in 2:23¾ and a quarter in 33 seconds was easy work for him not long ago.

Star Pointer now holds all the records; best mile against time, 1:59¼; best mile in a race, 2:00½; best three heats in a race, 2:02½, 2:03½, 2:03¾. But there are a good many people in this part of the globe who think they are calling on the big horse too often.

Three trotters have beaten 2:10 this season—Grace Hastings 2:08, Derby Princess 2:08½ and William Penn 2:08¾. Of the three Grace Hastings' previous record was 2:12 and Derby Princess' was 2:11¼. William Penn has not beaten his old mark of 2:07¼.

There is a brown mare called Searchlight trotting in the Long Island trotting races which should have her named changed, for she is by Darknight, the sire of the great pacing three-year-old Searchlight, 2:08¼. A law should be strictly enforced regarding this kind of nomenclature.

W. Crellin, of Pleasanton, arrived for a European trip last Monday. He stopped at Hartford, Connecticut, on his way home to see Monroe Salisbury and says the great Kingmaker will have many a good win to the credit of his stable ere he returns to California; his horses are "rounding to" very rapidly.

The two-year-old colt, G. W. W., that got a record at Willows in 2:23 and was started in a stake race at Sacramento. After the meeting there he was sent home and was turned out with some horses, which ran him in a snag along the fence injuring him so badly that he died the next day. He was sired by Alex Button out of Clarabell by Privateer, second dam Mahaska Bell by Flaxtail.

It must seem strange to those who contend that a near thoroughbred cross makes a trotter rattleheaded to read that Azmon, by Azmoor (son of Electioneer, out of a thoroughbred dam), beat the intensely trotting-bred Col. Kuser in a race in Austria, and that Col. Kuser was distanced for running. No doubt it was the thoroughbred element in Azmon which is responsible for Col. Kuser's running.

The number of 2:30 performers now credited to Red Wilkes is 141. Within five years he will undoubtedly stand at the head of the list of producing sires. Onward, 2:25¼, now has 133, which just equals the number that Red Wilkes had at the close of last season. The race for honors between these two renowned sons of George Wilkes is very close and even. Red Wilkes has one year the advantage of Onward in age.

C. X. Larrabee has bought the well-bred mare Canemah, 2:19¾, by Altamont 3600, dam Ophilea (dam of Wallula, 2:23¾), by Almont 33. She has a filly by her side sired by Scarlet Letter, and they will be shipped to Mr. Larrabee's Brook Nook Stock Farm in Montana. This makes the eighth Attamont mare Mr. Larrabee has bought in Oregon, which indicates that he has great faith in this strain as broodmares.

A. N. Kingsley of Ashuelot, N. H., took first premium on his stallion Almaboul at the late fair at Keene, N. H. This horse is by the elegant Stamboul, 2:07½, and his dam is the renowned Alma Mater, dam of eight trotters in the list, including the famous stallions Allandorf, 2:19½; Alcantara, 2:23; and Alcyone, 2:27. Mr. Kingsley took second premium in his class, with the stallion Ashuelot, by Guy Wilkes, 2:15½; dam Blanche.

Anyone wishing to secure one of the handsomest mares in California at a price far lower than she is worth, can do so by addressing "M." this office. This mare Silver Bell is six years old sired by the great Silver Bow 2:16, out of Young Fanny Wickham by Arthurton, second dam Fanny Wickham (grandam of Katie G. dam of Chas. Derby 2:20 and four others in the list) by Imported Herald etc. Silver Bell has never been developed for speed but would get a record of 2:20 with very little work.

The races at the meeting at Ventura which were advertised in order to get entries from owners who were on the Northern circuit did not fill, consequently these races were declared off and the Directors decided to give races to those which were in and around the Southern part of this State. The programme came after our last edition was sent to press. It reflects credit on the wideawake Board of Directors and the live Secretary, J. F. Newby. Next year this meeting will be advertised earlier and will be the opening one on the great Southern circuit.

It is gratifying to learn that Oregon range horses are again beginning valuable for something besides the hide, bone and meat, to which the butchers at the Portland abattoir have been reducing them. James Lackey of Ontario, Malheur county, Oregon, has just contracted with Nebraska parties for the delivery of 1025 mares weighing from 1100 pounds up. The mares are for a government contract and will be delivered at the Sioux agency in South Dakota next June. Four hundred animals were secured from one band and the balance were picked up in small lots from other bands.

J. A. Middleton & Son. of Shelbyville, Ky., who bred the black stallion Alrich, 2:13¾, writes us that the horse was sired by Altus 6602, record 2:25½, out of Namona (dam of Dick Richmond, 2:20½), by A. W. Richmond, second dam Barbara by Stevens' Bald Chief, third dam Abdallah Pet by Spalding's Abdallah, fourth dam by Woodpecker, fifth dam by Bertrand. At the Hartford Old Glory Meeting, on September 4th, Alrich won the $2,000 purse for 2.21 trotters in five heats, taking a mark of 2:13¾ in the fifth heat, stepping the first half of this heat in 1:04 and finishing in a jog. He is now seven years old.

Mr. John S. Phippen has retired from the Palo Alto Stock Farm, his resignation taking effect last night. His tenure of continuous employment there amounted to just seventeen years and seven months, and could have continued indefinitely had Mr. Phippen so desired. His long service is a handsome compliment to a most deserving gentleman. He held the important position of trainer and brought out such well-known horses as Arion, Advertiser, Abdel, Bell Bird and Sunol, some of which he drove when they got their records of speed. He retires from the stock farm with the good will of all connected with it, and good wishes for his prosperity are indulged by his numerous friends all over the country.

Secretary Charles M. Jewett, of the New England Breeders Association, has signified his willingness to offer a purse of $10,000 for a race in which all of the great pacers start. By this is meant presumably a race in which Star Pointer, Joe Patchen, John R. Gentry, Robert J. and any other pacers whose owners care to enter them against these cracks. It is likewise alleged that if this race is arranged Fleetwood will offer as large a purse for a similar contest, and that the Belmont Club in Philadelphia and the Washington Park Club in Chicago would follow suit—the last named probably with the largest purse of all. Such a series of races would make a fitting windup for the season in which the 2:00 line was crossed for the first time. It is by no means likely that Messrs. Marks & Murphy would object to Mr. Tewkesbury starting both Gentry and Robert.

C. A. Wilson, driver of The Bishop, the horse that finished second in the 2:30 pace at Springfield, October 3rd, protested against the first money being given to Little Joker, the winner, alleging that the horse was not eligible to the 2:30 class and that he was started under an assumed name. Phillips who claimed to own Little Joker, claims to have purchased the horse at Cambridge City, Ind., last March of, a man named Anderson, whose initials and address he did not know. The Postmaster of Bourbon, Ind., where Phillips claimed to reside, answered a telegraphic inquiry of Superintendent Madden and says that no such man lives in Bourbon. Evidence has been secured and the case promises to become a celebrated one in turf annals. It is probable that Phillips is not the only one concerned in what looks like an attempt to perpetrate a fraud.

One of the best bred young stallions in California is owned by Will Robinson, of Merced county. He is the four-year-old stallion, Sidney Alan 29116, by Sidney dam Variation, by Alandorf, second dam Variety, by Orange Blossom (son of Middleton and daughter of American Eclipse), third dam by Middleton, sire of the dam of Flying Jib, fourth dam by Latourette Bellfounder. This youngster is a natural side-wheeler and a very smooth clear-gaited one, and although not having been worked for speed has shown that it is there, and as he has several "near infusions" from such as Alma Mater, Orange Blossom, the dam of Variation, Middleton and is several times inbred to Hambletonian through some of our best families, he is a candidate for the two-minute mark. He may be seen on the circuit in '98.

Dr. Isaac W. O'Rourke, city veterinary of San Francisco, has discovered a new disease among horses. It appeared only recently, but in spreading over the State with remarkable rapidity, particularly on the lands adjoining the San Joaquin and Sacramento rivers. Dr. O'Rourke went to Tubbs island, on the San Joaquin river, last Wednesday, to inspect 200 horses belonging to William Tubbs, the San Francisco cordage manufacturer. He found fifty of the animals suffering from the mysterious disease. It manifests itself in the form of abscessed swellings on different parts of the body. Some of these attain an enormous size. So far the number of deaths resulting from malady has been small. It is Dr. O'Rourke's opinion thas the disease grows out of fly-bites, and was introduced here by foreign stock of the poisonous fly, which is a stranger in California, is smaller than the common housefly and yellow in color. For the treatment of the disease the veterinarian recommends compound camphor liniment.

Starters in the Transylvania stake have been named, and the race promises to be of very high class, quite on a par, indeed, with any of its predecessors, and some of the very best trotters have been returned the winners of this event since its institution. The following trotters have been named: Oakland Baron, 2:09½; Rilma, 2:10; The Monk, 2:10; Tommy Briton, 2:10¾; Louis Victor, 2:10¾; Bush, 2:10½; Pat Watson, 2:12½; King Warlock, 2:14½; Legene, 2:14½ Rose Turner, 2:18½ Wilbur, 2:13½; Janie Shelton, 2:13½; Tuna, 2:12½; Black Seth, 2.15½, and Henry Barrett, 2:18½. That this field will furnish a contest there is no doubt, and that if it is to be won off the reel, 2:10 must be badly beaten. Oakland Baron, Rilma, The Monk, Tommy Britton, Louis Victor and Bush are all credited with the ability to beat 2:10, and undoubtedly the owners of the others consider that their horses can do likewise, though hitherto some of them have not shown so great a degree of speed. Anyhow, it will be a great race.

Derby Princess, 2:08½, is the way it reads. Two years ago the Chicago "Horseman" offered competition in articles to be written in which a mare strong in Pilot Jr. blood was to be united with any stallion then doing stud duty. I chose for such a mare Charles Derby, 2:20, by Steinway, 2:25¾, by Strathmore, one of the most prepotent sons of the old "Hero of Chester." The dam of Charles Derby was by Electioneer, 2d dam by Niagara. At the time I selected Charles Derby, Diablo (4) out of Bertha by Alcantara, 2d dam Barcena by Bayard, 3d dam Blandina by Mambrino Chief. He has just captured the four-year-old stallion record and scored a record of 2:09½, a second and a quarter slower than the Missouri colt has placed the same record for the year 1897. At 12 years of age Charles Derby is credited with two trotters and four pacers, one trotter and one pacer in the 2:10 list. Derby Princess carries the blood of four of the great sons of Hambletonian: Strathmore, Electioneer, Administrator and Volunteer, and is one of the fastest five-year-old mares yet foaled. —L. E. Clement.

Three bids were received by the State Board of Agriculture Monday for the lease of the park grounds and buildings for the ensuing year. A. J. Stemler offered $1,812, Willard Gardner $2,500 and John F. Farley, of San Francisco $3,250. The latter was awarded the lease. Mr. Farley says he intends fixing up the refreshment room in fine style, and that the place will be conducted in a thoroughly up-to-date manner. If the society should get its new track in running order before the expiration of the lease, Mr. Farley will remove thereto, this being in the terms of the lease. Secretary Smith stated last evening that the enterprise of Colonel D. M. Burns and Thomas H. Williams, in arranging for spring and fall running meetings, has had the effect of increasing the revenues of the society about $2,500 from this source.—Sacramento Record Union, Oct. 2. Mr. Farley will expend about $2,000 in fitting up the place, and will make it a very handsome resort. The San Franciscan's bid was a most liberal one, and shows that he has enterprise and pluck. He is certainly worthy of success.

Jeremiah Murphy, of New York, started a bay mare named Rose in the slow classes at Waverly, N. J. and Lynbrook, N. Y. At Lynbrook she made a record of 2:19¼. She was protested and on being asked to identify the mare, Murphy stated that she was by Jerome Eddy, dam by Lysander. He also stated that she was purchased from H. Howe, Adams Centre, N. Y. Rose has now been identified as Charter, 2:24, by Onward. In June she was started at Syracuse, N. Y. and Rome, N. Y. in her proper class by Ed. de Cernea of New York. All of Rose's unlawful winnings have been recovered by The National Trotting Association and will be redistributed. This mare has been purchased by R. A. Fairbairn, New York. He provided for her winnings, paid the recording fee, and changed her name to Margin. From now on, she will appear as Margin formerly Rose, formerly Charter b m, foaled in 1888, by Onward, dam Hecla by Strathmore grandam by Clar Chief.

THE SADDLE.

Late last Saturday night Sam C. Hildreth, the well-known trainer-turfman, accompanied by his wife, arrived on the overland from Chicago. His big string came a couple of days later.

Paul Ridley, the much liked bookmaker, was taken so sick recently that he stopped booking and went to Hot Springs, Ark., to recuperate. He is about $5,000 ahead on the season say those that seem to know.

Templemore, the nine-year-old Tom Ochiltree gelding owned by John Brenock, beat Col. Weightman half a length in a mile and a quarter hurdle race at Harlem last week. He was in receipt of twenty-four pounds' weight from Blakely's gelding.

Perseus, of Ed Purser's string, won a mile selling race at odds of 6 to 1 last Tuesday at Aqueduct, "Skeets" Martin up. Yankee Doodle, of the same stable, ran second to Ben Ronald at a mile and a sixteenth. The Doodle horse was an even-money favorite.

Among the jockeys who will be seen during the Los Angeles race meeting are: Snider, Jones, Macklin, Morse, Bergen, Ames, H. Brown. Steeplechase riders Martinus, McMahon, Swift and Peters will also be here. Peters and Martinus are both Southern California Boys.

Go to Bed, a bay colt by imp. St. Andrew—Termagent (latter Ira Ramsdell's Great Tom mare) won a five and one-half furlong race for Atkin & Lottridge at Windsor last week, time 1:08½, and the same day they won a five furlong race with Spunwell, by imp. Duncombe—Spinning Time.

Monroe Johnson is the proud possessor of a brother to the crack Cadmus, the colt being presented to him by Col. Dan Burns, whose trainer thought the youngster would not stand training. "Mon" cured him of a quarter-crack and thinks he has a stake-winner. The colt is a grand looker.

Amongst the leading prizes to be offered at the Ingleside track during the coming season will be a handsome and valuable cup presented by the firm of Shreve & Co., of this city. The Directors of the Pacific Coast Jockey Club will in due course announce the particular race to which the trophy will be appropriated.

James Quinn, one of the popular brothers Quinn, of Kentucky, arrived last Sunday from the far East. He is credited with being a big winner this season. Hugh Jones and Johnny Coleman, his chums, are expected here in a day or two. Jones is said to be $20,000 winner since he left San Francisco last spring.

No less than 325 gallopers will take part in the Los Angeles meeting which begins next Thursday, and a a number are horses that have been racing on the Eastern side of the Rockies. The fact that these gallopers are among the contestants speaks volumes for the enterprise of Directors Androus and others on the board.

David Tenny, by Tenny, last Monday ran a mile in 1:40 over the Harlem track, the second time he has done that trick inside of two weeks. Farley beat Zamar II. at six furlongs, run in 1:14; Candleback by imp. Candlemas, won a five and one-half furlong race in 1:08, and Cavalero, by imp. Cavalier, ran a mile and a furlong in 1:54.

Wm. B. Sink Sr., the well-known turfman, arrived last Saturday night from Chicago, along with Trainer-Owner Sam Hildreth. Mr. Sink says more good horses will be out from the East this fall than ever, and many turfmen new to the Coast will have strings racing here. W. B. Sink Jr. will race Alvarado at the Los Angeles meeting, coming on direct from Chicago.

Cæsar Young, the Western bookmaker-turfman, arrived from the East on the same train with Sam Hildreth and wife last Saturday night, and on the same train came a dozen of his flyers, in the lot being Dick Behan (well-known to our race goers), Charlotte M. and Mamie G. Mr. Young is said to be one of the fastest "block men" in the bookmaking business.

Fireside, the sister to Sweet Faverdale and Preston, won again last Monday. It was a mile, Aqueduct track, time 1:42. Yankee Doodle ran second to Arabian at five and one-half furlongs, Lobengula finished second to King T. at a mile and a sixteenth in 1:48½ and Salvado, by Salvator—imp. Oran, owned by Mat Byrnes, won a mile race in 1:42¾, Nanki Pooh (by imp. Sir Modred) third.

Hugh Penny, once a kingpin knight of the pigskin, is expected here any moment. He has been in correspondence with Joe Harvey, and the popular owner of Wheel of Fortune is likely to have first call on Hughey's services.

Old Maid, the first foal of 1896 to win a race, is by imp. Lord Hartington, a young stallion by Petrarch out of Thoughtless, by Hermit. Lord Hartington is a stable companion of Spendthrift and imp. Esher, belonging to Mr. J.N. Camden Jr. proprietor of the Hartland Stud. Old Maid is out of Cadiga (dam of Carib), by Duke of Montrose, and was bred at Woodburn.—The Thoroughbred Record.

Frank Brunell, of Daily Racing Form, thinks a six-furlong race between Hamburg, at 125 lbs.; Traverser, 110, and Malvolio, 105, would attract national attention, but says Hamburg, on form, should prove the winner. Hamburg has won 12 races, been second 3 times, third once, unplaced, 0. Traverser has won 6 races, been second once, third, 0, unplaced once. Malvolio has won 9 races and been unplaced twice in 11 starts.

About $250,000 has been distributed among the horsemen at the St. Louis fair grounds in stakes and purses during the meeting recently. G. C. Bennett of Memphis, is the leading winner owner, with $20,404 to his credit. Brewer Schorr, also of Memphis, is second, with over $13,000 to his credit. Abe Cahn has over $10,000 to his credit. J. C. Cahn won over $7,000. Barney Schrieber, with the biggest stable at the track, has won about $10,000.

Marcel, one of the thoroughbreds offered at the coming Spreckels sale, at the Occidental Horse Exchange, has won 32 races and $11,020 in stakes and purses. Besides, she is bred in the purple, being by the champion, Luke Blackburn, from the great stud matron, Martica, by Daniel Boone, brother to Kentucky and Gilroy. As Marcel won a good race at the last Sacramento meeting, it shows she is in shape. There will therefore be some lively bidding at the coming sale for this great mare.

It is declared in turf circles that Joe Harvey and Charley Fair will pool interests and purchase a magnificent stable. They have the nucleus of one. Mr. Harvey owns the Wheel of Fortune and several promising colts. Mr. Fair has a couple handy horses. Mr. Harvey had an interview with Charles Boots, and it was reported that he had closed a deal for Installator. He denied that he made the purchase, but added that he would buy him if he could get him at a reasonable figure, or The Roman either.

Napamax, a good colt here in the early spring, won the $2,000 Algeria Stakes, five furlongs, for Burns & Waterhouse last Saturday at Gravesend, while Bliss Rucker, his stable companion, ran third in the race. Estaca, by Emperor of Norfolk, was only beaten a nose by Dutch Skater, while Candelaria ran unplaced in the race.

Imp Eothen, the famous sire of Requital and other cracks, died in Louisville last Saturday morning. He was the property of Colonel J. J. Douglass. He was valued at $30,000. Eothen was by Hampton from Sultana by Oxford, was foaled in 1883 at the Yardley Stud in England and imported as a yearling by the late D. D. Withers. His grandam, Besika, by Beiram, was the dam of Moslem, winner of the 2,000 guineas, and Besika was a half-sister to Flying Duchess, dam of the great Galopin, winner of the Derby.

George Baldwin was in the city yesterday from the Santa Anita ranch. He was at Agricultural Park examining stalls for his string of racers. He will send twelve animals to compete at the meet. Argentina is the best known of the lot, in which are also a number of promising two-year-olds. Rel El Santa Anita, the great "in and outer" of E. J. Baldwin, and which astonished everybody by winning the American Derby at Chicago in 1894, at odds of 30 to 1, is expected almost any day at the Santa Anita ranch.—Los Angeles Express.

The horses in training belonging to C. D. McCoy & Co. were sold at auction by the Easton Company in the paddock at Gravesend track on September 25th, and realized the following prices: Lady Ashley, bay filly, 2, by Patton—Sallie W., H. T. Griffin, $400; Miss Floride, bay filly, 2, by Balston—Refraction, C. T. Patterson, $350; Mr. Stoffel, chestnut colt, 2, by Winfred—Emma B., E. L. Smith, $375; Miss Lynah, chestnut filly, 4, by Faustus—Talla Bena, G. B. Morris, $1,100; Sandowne, chestnut horse, 7, by Spendthrift—Zuleika, H. Connors, $325.

Owners of thoroughbreds consigning horses to the Occidental Horse Exchange sales will have the advantage of the compilations of Wm. Sparling regarding all the sires in California. He has been on this work for several months, and it will help make the catalogues the most complete affairs ever seen on this Coast. The averages of the money-winners got by the various stallions is a brand-new departure, but a good one, determining the average value of foals by those horses—the only correct way to arrive at values. The labor attached to these compilations would have deterred 999 out of every 1,000 men.

Secretary Hopper of the American Turf Congress, last Tuesday, in reply to telegrams from horsemen stating that purses were about to be cut down by the Windsor Association from $300 to $225, wired back that President C. C. Maffit, President of the Turf Congress, has decided that this was against the rule recently passed by that organization and if the Windsor track attempted such a thing it would become outlawed. The idea was to hang up $300 purses, but to deduct $75 for stable room before paying the purse. This was considered a direct evasion of the rule and will not be tolerated by the Turf Congress.

Teddington, the Derby winner, was such a weak, puny foal that he had to be held up to suck for a whole month and his owner almost despaired of being able to rear him. Again, Birmingham, who won the St Leger, beating Priam and twenty-six others (perhaps the largest field that ever ran for that race), when a foal could not stand to feed, and was ordered to be destroyed by his owner, Mr. Beadsworth, and had not Mrs. Beadsworth begged for a reprieve on the condition that she would personally attend to him, his name would never have been mentioned in turf annals. The Australasian says: "Occasionally puny, weak, but well-bred young stock develop into stud animals of the highest excellence."

The galloping string of the genial German, Barney Schreiber, consisting of twelve members, arrived at Ingleside track last Monday in charge of Dick Williams and ex-Jockey Felix Carr. Henry Wendt has taken Mack Burns' place as cashier with Schreiber, and the news is surprising, for Burns has been Barney's right bower for many years and the pleasant penciler used to swear by Mack. Wendt is well-liked, however. He was once George Rose's chief "block man."

It is announced that for the first time in its history the Southern Pacific has made an excursion rate from San Francisco for the Los Angeles fair. The round-trip rate will be $20, and equally reasonable rates will be made for intermediate points. All roads running in to Los Angeles will make round-trip excursion rates for the fair. The work of improving the grounds is going on rapidly, and now that bicycle races are over word on the track will be commenced.

The London Sportsman says: From the inaugural race for the St. Leger, in 1776, two years before it gained its name, which was won by Lord Rockingham's brown filly Allabacula, down to the present day, it has fallen to members of the f ir sex on twenty-seven occasions, the last five victorious fillies being Dutch Oven (1882), Seabreeze (1888), Memoir (1890), La Fleche (1892) and Throstle (1894.) In the Derby, on the other hand, only three fillies have hitherto succeeded in catching the eye of the judges, viz., Eleanor (1801), Blink Bonny (1857) and Shotover (1882), while the other classic events open to animals irrespective of sex, the Two Thousand Guineas, has fallen four times to fillies in Pastille (1822), Crucifix (1840), Pilgrimage (1877) and Shotover (1882).

Mr. Marcus Daly was in Chicago Thursday on his way home to Anaconda. He left last night. While the Montana racing plans for 1898 are not yet rounded out, at least sixty days' action in Anaconda and Butte is probable. The standard of 1897 will not be diminished. The trotters are likely to be pushed into the background in favor of the thoroughbreds, for which local preference is shown. In fifty-eight days racing this season $2,309,651 worth of mutuels and auction pools were sold. This, at 5 per cent, means $1,818 66 per day to the associations. With $318.66 daily expense—a high figure—this means fifteen books to the association that would naturally attract ten at the most. Matt Byrnes will again train for Mr. Daly. Matt has already gone to Montana and will keenly care for the Western string in 1898.—Daily Racing Form.

A curious accident occurred in the first race at Harlem yesterday, says the Inter-Ocean of September 28th. Just as the horses were rounding the far turn a bull dog rushed out from an adjacent stable and pinned the nose of Jennie Cotta, who was leading the main bunch, though some lengths behind the actual leaders. His sudden attack caused the filly to swerve to the rail, Glen Terra and Lady Marie in consequence crashing into her. Curiously enough, these were the two selections, while Treeby, who was directly in their wake, also had her chance destroyed, which must have been a good one, as she beat Lady Cordell, who finished second, very easily the last time they met. The fallen horses soon regained their feet and galloped on riderless after the field. Kittley, one of the riders, escaped unhurt. Lawrence had his hand crushed by some horse treading on it, while Martin who rode Jennie Cotta, had his shoulder crushed and his collar bone broken.

The interest taken in the fall meeting of the Victoria Jockey Club is a sure omen of its success, and nothing but unfavorable weather will prevent it being the banner meeting of the season. Mr. James Wilson, the well-known trainer of Kamloops, will be represented at it by the Flambeau colt and Racine filly, which he purchased at the Palo Alto sale of thoroughbreds at San Francisco in 1896, and two more highly-bred youngsters have never yet raced in Canada. I Don't Know, the great sprinter who has been winning five-furlong races in Montana in 1:02½ and better; Mowitza, the Portland mare with a mile record of 1:41, and Dixieland, who has been making a great name for himself at the Butte and Anaconda tracks at any distance over six furlongs, will most probably try conclusions here before going to San Francisco for the winter races, and as already some twenty other gallopers are in training for one or more of the events on the programme, the fields will be much larger than those usually witnessed at a local meeting.

At the Ferndale Fair meeting Fi Fi won a mile dash in 1:50, September 24th, Nela Sen second, Farewell third. Miss Bertha Samuels won the half-mile saddle horse race in 0:55½. Alfred's Gossip won the free-for-all trot and pace after five heats, his time being 2:30, 2:32½, 2:33, Maud W. winning the first heat in 2:33, Fitz Aymon the third heat in 2:29. Lamb's Beecher won a trotting race in three heats, best time 2:35. Mollie A. won a quarter race in 0:28. September 25th Rondo won the 500 yard dash in 0:27 4-5. Nela Sen captured the five-furlong dash in 1:05 3-5. The first day Rondo won the quarter-mile and repeat race easily in 0:25, 0:25, Lulu S. and Velveteen running a dead heat for the place in the first heat, Velveteen second in the second heat. Annie Rooney won the 3.00 race in 2:37, 2:38½. Fitz Aymon won the first heat in the 2:30 trot and pace in 2:29½, Gossip the second in 2:26¼, Fitz Aymon the next two in 2:30, 2:28½. Rondo won a three-furlong dash in 0:38½ on the 23d. Fi Fi took the half-mile and repeat race after Davy Crockett had won the first heat, time 0:51½, 0:51¾, 1:03.

Over $23,000 is offered in purses for the Los Angeles meeting which begins next Thurday, and in addition over-night races, with purses ranging from $500 to $1,000, will be arranged for famous horses which are not entered in stakes events. Ben Benjamin has about completed arrangements for a two-and-one-quarter-mile race, cup distance, for one day during the fair. He is sure of six starters, and will probably have more. The purse will depend upon the number of entries. At their session last Sunday the directors appointed L. J. Rose Sr. of Los Angeles, J. W. Wilson of Sacramento, and J. W. Brooks of San Francisco judges of both running and harness races. The veteran starter, J. B. Ferguson, will manage the electric gate and will also assist in the harness races. Robert McKibben, announcer for Ingleside and Oakland tracks, was selected for the same duty there. Ben Benjamin was appointed handicapper. Heretofore at Los Angeles fairs the betting privileges have been sold to the highest bidder. This year the association will manage the betting. There will be auction pools and bookmaking. The former the association will handle, and field-book privileges were awarded Monday.

Our New Enterprise.

The foundation for the amphitheatre, to be known as the Occidental Horse Exchange, was laid on Thursday and the building will be completed about November 1st. Since the announcement was made that such an enterprise was started we have received applications for catalogues from people in all parts of California, Arizona, Oregon and Nevada. Owners of thoroughbreds who are desirous of disposing of them have shown their appreciation of our efforts of having not only a first-class auctioneer, but a splendid new building worthy of holding such sales and in every way fitted us to make all who attend comfortable, and are booking their horses for these sales.

The comfort of stock will also be looked after. Plenty of box stalls will be built and strict attention will be paid to the care of every horse consigned. In response to inquiries, we wish to state that the sales ring will be thirty-five feet in diameter and there will be twelve tiers of chairs at the back part of the ring, opposite the auctioneer's stand, and there will be four tiers on each side of the circle, so that everyone will have a perfect view of the horses as they are brought in. Six large arc lights will illuminate the place, which will be seventy feet wide by ninety feet long and thirty-one feet high at the highest point. Everything about the place will be neat and orderly.

Catalogues for the Sprecke ls sale will be issued by October 16th. We venture the assertion that neater or more complete ones were never issued in the United States. As these catalogues will contain the names, pedigrees, descriptions and performances of some of the best horses in California, they will, we believe, be worthy of such stock.

Owners of horses who desire to consign their horses to these sales, where they know they will get the very highest prices for them, should send the registration certificates at once to this office, so that the catalogues can be placed before the pospective buyers at an early date.

THE attention of our readers is called to the great Fasig sale of trotters which is to take place at Cleveland next month. F. W. Covey will have charge of all the horses to be sent and we have it on good authority that a faster or more uniform lot never left Palo Alto. The blood of Electioneer still holds the highest position in the estimation of all devotees of the light harness horse division everywhere. The Dexter Prince family needs no praise here. In California it is known and and esteemed most highly. A more extended notice of this great sale will appear in our next issue.

AFTER not a little discussion, the Salinas Association directors have concluded to hold a meeting after all, the dates claimed being October 12th to 16th inclusive. The meeting will consist of over-night events (trotting, pacing and running), and the association give as liberal purses as circumstances will permit.

THE entries for the race meeting at Salinas which will commence next Tuesday, October 12th, and end October 16th, will close the night before each day's racing. A number of horses have been shipped there and a good meeting is assured.

The Racing Outlook in California.

"Where there is so much smoke there must be a fir e," is an old saying, and it applies to the racing situation in California. Every returned pilgrim who has been East declares that we shall be called upon to chronicle the arrival of by far the longest list of race horses from across the Rockies on record. And, say those pilgrims, we shall have quality as well as quantity. We have had good gallopers racing here owned by turfmen of the East and Middle West, but the class of those coming is very high, and from present indications it will take a pretty fair horse to win a cheap selling race and a Hindoo to finish in front in a stake event.

Strings are arriving every day at one or the other of the big tracks, and there seems to be no d earth of money or race horses. The list of entries to the C. J. C. which we print this week shows the great interest Eastern turfmen as well as our own are taking in California racing, and nothing like as large a number of crack racers were ever entered in races on this Coast.

From present indications, when the bell rings at Ingleside there will be 1,000 horses quartered at the track, at least twenty-five bookmakers transacting business in the big ring, big fields of horses contesting in every race and lively speculation. All the "plungers" will again be on hand, bar perhaps Pittsburg Phil. It is not at all certain he will not change his mind and make the trip. Riley Grannan will be here before the meeting begins, also the brothers Quinn, Ed Purser, Joe Ullman, Ed and Tom Ryan, George Wheelock, Jack Newman, Johnny Coleman, Hugh Jones, Abe Levy, George Rose, Sam Summerfield, Barney Schreiber, Eugene Leigh, Ed Gaines, Tom Hurlick, Joe Rose, Elie Perles, the Maloney boys of New York, Charley Dwyer, "Plunger" McManus—in fact, all the "high-rollers" that often make the pencilers rub off their odds. Caesar Young, a big bookmaker, new to Californians, is already on the ground with a big bank roll and fourteen gallopers, most of them winners.

The official appointments have not as yet been announced, but probably will in a few days. It is rumored that J. F. Caldwell will be the starter at Ingleside, at least the Eastern turf scribes say he will. J. B. Ferguson will again officiate at Emeryville on the starter's platform. Capt. Rees will again be found in the stand at Ingleside, and an Eastern paper printed an article to the effect that he would also be at Emeryville, along with Joe Murphy. J. W. Brooks will again be handicapper, clerk of the scales and third judge at the C. J. C. meetings and Harry Kuhl will probable act as clerk of the scales and third judge at Ingleside. As we do not hear anything of Judge J. J. Burke coming out, it is presumed this very capable official will not be seen in the stand at Oakland at the next meeting. It would not surprise us much to hear that Charles F. Price, the popular Secretary of the new Louisville Jockey Club, who was presiding judge recently at Oakley (Cincinnati), was asked to accept a position on the stand at one of the tracks here. Hon. J. W. Wilson of Sacramento is quite likely to be seen in the Ingleside stand again, giving California representation.

As everything looks now the Coast metropolis will have such meetings next winter and spring as will cause her to be regarded as the best racing point west of New York, if indeed she does not outstrip that great city within the next five years. It is certainly among the possibilities, with the good management of the past continued.

The Great Brookdale Sale.

We this week received a number of catalogues of the Brookdale Stud and stable, booked for October 21, 22 and 23, 1897, at Morris Park race track. The catalogue, a beautifully gotten up affair, shows that seventy head are to be disposed of, including the famous stallions Faverdale, imp. Juvenal, Uncas and Kinglike (latter sire of The Futurity winner of 1897, L'Alouette). Among the broodmares we notice such celebrated ones as imp. Abundance, Auricoma, imp. Born Fool, Cadence, Chemise, imp. Cyclone, imp. Essayez II., Fan Fan, imp. Favonia, Golden Rod, Juliette (dam of L'Alouette), Necromancy, Retribution (dam of Requital), Stately, imp. Sweet Home (dam of Sweet Faverdale, Preston and Fireside), Trill, Uproar, Wyandotte and imp. One I Love (a great race mare).

Among the horses in training to be sold are Requital (the great winner of The Futurity and The Realization), Fireside (sister to Preston and Sweet Faverdale), Gibraltar, La Sagesse (sister to Stonenell), Colonial Dame, Attainment, Eurydice and the famous Futurity winner, L'Alouette. Just think of it—two Futurity winners in one sale!

P. C. J. C. Stakes to Close Next Friday.

In another column will be found advertised the conditions to the ten good stakes of the Pacific Coast Jockey Club, open until next Friday night at 12 o'clock. The distances are calculated to suit all sorts of horses, ranging from six furlongs to about three and one-quarter miles the latter being the distance in the Palace Hotel Stakes, full course steeplechase. Following are the events now open:

The University Stakes, 1 mile	$1,000	The Rancho del Paso Stakes 1¾ miles	$1,500
The San Francisco Stakes, 6 furlongs	1,200	The Palace Hotel Stakes, steeplechase, full course	1,000

The Presidio Stakes, 1⅛ miles	1,200	The New Year Handicap, 2 miles	1,500

The Ocean View Stakes	$1,000	The San Rafael Stakes, 1⅜ miles	$1,000
The Malowansky Stakes	1,000	The Lakeside Stakes, 1¼ miles	1,000

The California Derby, 1¼ miles	5,000
The Tarpey Handicap, 1⅛ miles	1,000

Louisville's Rich Stakes.

To owners of promising yearlings October 15th is an important date. On that day the Kentucky Derby, one mile and a quarter, for three-year-olds, value $6,000; the Clark Stakes, for three-year-olds, one mile and a furlong, value $4,000, and the Kentucky Oaks, for three-year-old fillies, one mile and a sixteenth, value $3,000 all close. The stakes will be run at the Spring meeting of the New Louisville Jockey Club in 1899. The Louisville track is one of the best and safest in the country for racing as well as for winter work and early spring training, and the liberality of the New Louisville Jockey Club in offering such valuable stakes richly deserves the fullest recognition of horsemen. Charles F. Price, Louisville, Ky., is the Secretary, and the number of entries in the above stakes should beat the record. We will send blanks upon application. Read the conditions, advertised in this issue.

AL LEACH, of Leach & Co., says we did the firm an injustice in stating that it was said they would not have had a sufficient number of mutuel machines to transact the ring business of the State Fair meeting—that they had secured four from Montaua and two in this State, or six in all. This ought to have been a large enough number, he declares.

THE sales of the grand thoroughbreds of Charles Kerr of Bakersfield, and the Messrs. Boots, of Milpitas, at the Occidental Horse Exchange, will probably take place the same night. The horses in these consignments are pronounced magnificent individuals.

ETHEL DOWNS broke the San Jose record last Thursday when she trotted one of the heats in a race in 2:10. This was very pleasing to the San Jose folks, for Ethel is a home production.

THE pool rooms in Sausalito will be closed before the meeting at Ingleside opens. The bookmakers have made money there.

THERE will be a revival of racing in New Jersey in 1898, as the anti-pool law was killed in the Legislature.

PRESBYTERIAN, a Rancho del Paso-bred colt by imp. Prestonpans, won the Youngster Stakes, five and one-half furlongs, at Harlem last Thursday, beating Official, Napamax, the noted Traverser and others, time 1:07½, weight on winner 110 lbs.

BUCKWA carried 115 lbs. to Lobengula's 104 and beat him a nose in a mile and a sixteenth race on Wednesday at Aqueduct, time 1:48. Gypceiver, also of Green Morris' stable, ran second to Nearest at five furlongs.

BARNEY SCHRIEBER has bought Little Minch, Laura Agnes, sister to Jacobin and Robespierre, and the dam of Laura Cotta, and two other broodmares, with a weanling by Candlemas, from B. J. Johnston.

THE CALIFORNIA JOCKEY CLUB has a new and commodious stand for the use of trainers at the end of the saddling paddock. This is about the best place on the track from which to see what is going on at a race.

MARCUS DALY sells all his thoroughbreds in training and a number of brood mares in New York shortly. He has some of the greatest mares in America and paid more for them than any breeder in the land.

IOLA, by imp. Midlothian—Mlefortune, after a long rest, made her reappearance at Windsor on Wednesday of last week and won a seven-furlong race by five lengths.

Coming Sale of A. B. Spreckels' Racers.

On the 17th of next month there will be a notable sale of race horses in California. There will be thirty-four of them, in all, and they are the property of A. B. Spreckels, one of the most liberal turfmen and buyers of thoroughbreds Americans have ever known. He had collected a splendid string of fivers, but his business affairs became so large and took up so much of his time that he could not often see his much-beloved equines contest in races, hence his retirement. Hereafter he will breed thoroughbreds (a majority of those to be sold at this sale were bred on his Napa farm), but will not race. At the sale on November 17th at the Occidental Horse Exchange, the horses will positively be sold to the highest bidder, regardless of what they will bring, and there will be no by bidding or "boosting." Catalogues will be out in less than a week, and the first one in the catalogue is Marcel.

Marcel has won 32 races, been second 22 times and third on 20 occasions. Her winnings amount to $11,020. She has run a mile and a quarter in 2:07¼, mile and a half in 2:36¾ with 107 lbs. up, two miles (eased up) in 3:32½ (very fast), 105 lbs., and, well-ridden would have been first instead of second in the Ingleside Stakes, four miles, won by Little Bob in 7:24½. She is by the champion race horse, Luke Blackburn, and from the dam's family came Miss Ford, Princess Lorraine, Bettina, Reporter, Conner, Surinam, Narcola and Panic, among others of note. Marcel's recent win at Sacramento, one and one sixteenth miles in 1:48½, shows that she has rounded into good form again, and she is "ready money," especially when going a long route.

Gallant, the next one on the list, has won $6,241 in a little over three seasons on the turf, and has defeated Lissak, Magnet, Wheel of Fortune, Libertine, Ferrier, Ed Kearney and many other cracks in his day. He is in fine shape at present, and will be heard from. Gallant is almost invincible in the mud, and has been well schooled over the sticks. He would therefore be a good acquisition for any turfman's string.

Foremost, who did so well at the meetings here last spring, is also up for sale. He was seldom out of the money, and will be hard to beat in races of a mile and a sixteenth and upward. Like good wine, he seems to improve with age. His brother, Nero, has been winning some good races of late at Windsor, and Nero is a nine-year-old.

Olive, the heroine of many a grand turf contest, winner of 27 races and $9,110, is No. 4 on the catalogue, but is very likely to be No. 1 in regard to price secured, if Marcel or Gallant do not bring a larger price. Olive is one of the handsomest mares in the country, and as game and fast as she is good-looking. As a three-year old she ran seven furlongs in 1:26½, and again 1:27 and 1:28, and besides ran a mile in 1:42 at that age. She also ran some remarkable races at five, six and six and one-half furlongs. Olive (who is a better racer to-day than ever), from her conformation and breeding, should make a great broodmare when her racing days are over. She was sired by Apache (who got Mobalasca, Lorena II., J. O. C., Lena, Castake and other good winners), while her dam, Virgie, by Virgil, comes from the family that gave us Lexington the Great, Blue Eyes, Baden Baden, Umpire and other celebrities.

Pat Murphy, the consistent brother to good old Tim, a winner of fifteen races and $5,720, is to be sold November 17th also. He has won some wonderfully fast races (including four and one-half furlongs in 0:54¼ and six furlongs in 1:14½, latter at Ingleside) He is in good shape and will make the best hustle to beat him up to six furlongs. His brother Tim Murphy, twelve years of age, has won a number of good races this season, and Pat Murphy bids fair to race just as long as Tim and win fully as many sensational races.

Torsion, a four-year-old son of Torso and Ricardo (dam of the crack Tiger) will elicit some lively bidding, for he ran two clinking races at the Sacramento meeting winning one and in another forcing February to run six furlongs in 1:13½ to beat him. He is in grand form and it will take a real clinker to down him. Torsion is also a well-schooled jumper.

Frank James, who started in but one race and won it in fine style, will be disposed of. He is a brother to The Sculptor, and it will take a "warm one" to beat him, as those who witnessed his recent Sacramento race will testify.

Then there is the two-year-old Aluminum, who won races at Ingleside and at the late Sacramento meeting. He is a fast one by imp. Idalium from the good race mare Glitter, and his recent excellent performances show that he is improving right along—a good sign.

Little T. G, the Idalium—Nellie Bell filly, is one of the best two-year-olds in California, and defeated Salabar, The Cheat, Thorpe, La Maroma and many other high-class youngsters. She won at four furlongs in 0.49¾ and ran Rey Salazar to half a length in a three and one-half furlong race. Little T. G. comes from the family that gave us Falsetto, Fortuna, Joe Murphy, Susie S. and a host of other cracks.

Then there are a number of maiden two-year-olds from mares of royal breeding, highly tried, promising in the extreme and in fine shape to go out and earn laurels and coin for their purchasers.

Attached to the overland train leaving here yesterday noon were cars containing about fifty thoroughbred yearling colts and fillies from the Rancho del Paso, which are to be sold in New York. These colts are the progeny of the best sires and dams on the Haggin breeding farm. They are strictly of the gilt-edge quality, and some of them will be heard from on the turf a year or two hence. John Mackey, Superintendent of the Rancho del Paso, with several assistants, including Veterinary Surgeon McCullom, went along in charge of the youngsters and will remain until they are disposed of.—Sacramento Record Union, Oct. 4th.

At the sale of Lazarus & Hanley horses in Chicago recently, T. A. Cook paid the best price of the sale, $1,325, for the three-year-old black colt, Colonel Gay, by Tom Paxton—Lillian V. Tom Nepper, who trains for G. C. Bennett, gave $775 for Gustave Cook, while T. A. Cook got Flo Honeydew, a two-year-old chestnut filly, by Fonso—Mabel Duffy, for $1,000. Roy Walton bought Travis for $625; R. D. Miller gave $150 for Metaire and C. Crums $150 for Hot Stuff.

The offices of the P. C. J. C. in the Palace Hotel have been rearranged, the main office railing being where the folding doors formerly were and the old private office is done away with. The stable room question is bothering the new Secretary. He has room for about 800 horses, but already has applications for over that number of stalls.

Rey Salazar is now owned by Pat Dunne and won last week in his colors.

Hickok Wins With Thorne.

Lexington, Ky., Oct. 5.—The twenty-fifth annual meeting of the Kentucky Horse Breeders' Association began today. The crowd was large, every State being represented by leading breeders and track managers. The track was good without being especially fast. The $15,000 Kentucky Futurity for the three-year-olds was hotly contested in every heat except the last.

The eight young trotters were called for the Futurity at 2:30 o'clock. They were sent off on the first score and Kinney took China Silk to the front at once, closely pressed by Miss Della Fox. She kept tha lead all the way and won the heat easily in 2:10, with Miss Della Fox second and Preston third.

In the next heat China Silk again took the lead and kept it into the stretch, where Preston came with a rush, and trotting the last quarter in 31 seconds, won handily in 2:13½, the fastest heat ever trotted in this State.

In the third heat the Montana mare went to the front as usual. On the turn Hickok took Thorpe up to second place, thereby putting Preston into a pocket, from which he was unable to get out until the far turn was reached. He came fast through the stretch and won in a hard drive from Thorne, with China Silk third.

The fourth heat was a facer for the talent, as Thorne won by a head in 2:14½, with Philippe third.

In the fifth neat Fuller started to lay Preston up, but changed his mind and drove his colt the last quarter in 30½ seconds, but was beaten by Thorne.

Only the three heat winners started in the sixth, and Thorne led all the way and won handily by a length. China Silk was favorite before and after the first heat. As Preston had won two heats, he became first choice. The betting shifted after Thorne had won the fourth heat.

The winner is a bay mare by Wilkes Boy, dam Kincora by Mambrino Patchen, and was bred by T. C. Anglin of Lexington, Ky., who received $300 as a nominator of the dam. First money was $7,000, second $2,000 and third $500.

Kentucky Futurity, value $15,000, for three-year-olds, Thorne, b f, by Wilkes Boy, dam Kincora (Hickok) won fourth, fifth and sixth heats. Time, 2:14, 2:15½, 2:16½. Preston won second and third heats. Time, 2:13½, 2:17½. China Silk won first heat in 2:19. Phillippe, Timbret, Rect, Miss Della Fox and Silver Lock also started.

The Tennessee, 2:09 class, pacing, $4,000, Bumps won in straight heats. Time, 2:06½, 2:07, 2:06½. Ananias second, Planet third.

2:16 class' trotting, purse $1,000, Little Edgar won in straight heats. Time, 2:12½, 2:14½, 2:13. Woodford second, Guy third.

Lexington, Ky., October 6.—Another large crowd witnessed the second day's sport at the meeting of the Kentucky Horse Breeders Association. The weather was perfect and the track fast. The event of the day was the $5,000 Futurity for two-year-olds, won in record-breaking time by Janie T. Summary:

The Wilson Stake, 2:20 class, pacing, purse $2,000—Sallie Toler won, Satin Slippers second, Nora L. third. Best time, 2:08¼.

"Hidalgo" in the Los Angeles Meeting.

Los Angeles, October 5, 1897.

Everything now points to a very successful meeting and all we want is good weather. The days are warm from 10 A. M. to 4 P. M., but the nights are cloudy and cool. What we want is about three days' rain, to begin about Friday and end up on Sunday night. That will give us perfect weather overhead and a perfect track underfoot.

The facilities for getting to the track are much improved over former years. The old horse railroad on Main street is a thing of the past and they have on a big lot of electric cars that will go at twelve miles per hour as soon as they get out of the business part of the city. They carry forty passengers comfortably and will each have on "trailers" capable of seating twenty-five more. The University line has cars of forty-eight seating capacity and trailers that will seat thirty. Add to this the fact that the Fraction Co.'s line stops three blocks from the track and you will see how easily the three companies will dispose of 5,000 people after the races are over. By sidetracking five cars and as many "trailers" about the time the races are to terminate, so as to meet the rush, they can get away with 1,200 on the first rush and 300 more at every five minutes afterwards. It is quite probable that the Southern Pacific will put on a train between River Station and the track, carrying passengers for 10 cents from the northeast end of the city, a distance of seven miles. I don't anticipate any trouble about people getting back and forth from the track.

The hotel accomodations have also greatly increased since last year and I will volunteer my services in securing rooms for any of my San Francisco friends who want them ready for their arrival. I have requested that, as I don't expect any compensation for such services, my friends notify me between now and next Tuesday afternoon, as I shall be kept pretty busy after that and not able to attend to their requests. All telegrams to that end should be addressed to one in care of Louis Thorne, Secretary of the Association.

The Souther nPacific's excursion train, which leaves San Francisco on the 12th, will carry passengers for the round trip at $20, the lowest fare ever given between the two cities and good until the 24th, which gives the people two days to go around and visit the surrounding towns after the fair is over. This is by far the best turn the Southern Pacific has ever done for the people of this section and sensible people will appreciate it, as the regular fare is $15 one way. Horsemen all over the State should take advantage of this low rate. The train will be given the right of way over all other trains and stop only at Martinez, Tracy, Lathrop, Modesto, Merced, Fresno and Bakersfield, making the trip in nineteen hours. I expect to see that train pool into the Arcade depot with the biggest crowd that ever came here on any one train. I trust that this is the beginning of liberal inducements for travel and that the Southern Pacific Company will make money out of it.

My idea is that the great feature of the meeting will be the free-for-all pacing race with Joe Wheeler, Silkwood, Anaconda and Searchlight among the candidates. There will be a good deal better running races than were ever given here before, nor do I expect to see these controlled by local stables, as they have been in the past. Eastern horses are arriving here by the carload and, as they will have had ample time to rest up before the Fair begins, I do not look for any startling victories for home stables. We have no such local horses as Gladiola or Alvarado this year and therefore I look for most of the money to be won by our visitors.

HOOF-BEATS.

February and Mollie R. were the winners at San Jose Thursday.

Sam Morton has been doing the starting in Reno and Carson, Nevada.

The Spreckels sale catalogue will be out in about one week, and will be the most complete ever seen on the Coast.

Go to Bed, of Atkin & Lottridge's string, by imp. St. Andrew—Termagent, won another race at Windsor last Wednesday.

E. M. James with Terra Archer by Terra Cotta—Miss Archer, and a two-year old for whom he refused $1,500, is at Ingleside.

W. P. Magrane has arrived at Ingleside with Frank K. Montgomery, Free Lady and Amelia Fonso. He was fairly successful in the East.

Plaudit, the half-brother to Hastings, Handsome and Ferrier, who beat Ben Brush a head at one and one-sixteenth miles in 1:47¼ is only a two-year-old.

Galtee More has been scratched for the Cesarewitch and the American colt, St. Cloud, by Candlemas (now at Rancho del Paso) is thought to have a royal chance.

Yankee Doodle and Perseus, ran second in their races at Aqueduct on Thursday, the former being beaten by a 20 to 1 shot, Tanis, and Salvado won again at a mile.

Judge Joseph J. Burke will not be seen in the Oakland stand this winter. This is authoritative. There is some talk of making Captain Rees presiding judge at both tracks.

The second lot of California Jockey Club stakes are now open. In the list is the $10,000 Burns Handicap, the $3,000 Thornton Stakes and the $2,000 Palace Hotel Handicap.

Burns & Waterhouse's string is in Chicago, where Trainer McCormick has a few stake engagements. The horses will be here when the bell at Ingleside rings the first time.

Buck Massie, who will shortly come to California, won a mile and seventy-yard race on Wednesday last in the very fast time of 1:44½. For a long time 1:44¾ was the record at the distance.

E. S. Gardner & Son have sold Millstream, by imp. Quicklime—Monte Rosa, to a Cincinnati man for $900. Marquise, a half-sister to this youngster, won a race at the recent Sacramento meeting.

Dr. H. E. Rowell's horses, Satsuma and Collins, have arrived at Ingleside track from Chicago in charge of Jimmy Coffee, one of the most careful trainers in the country. The gallopers are looking in fine shape and will be heard from, in all likelihood, before the coming meeting has advanced very far.

Mrs. Hannah C. Williamson, widow of the late Wm. M. Williamson, of San Jose, died in that city last Tuesday, aged sixty-eight years. She came across the plains from Ohio with her husband in 1853, the year she was married. A son is Private Secretary to W. S. Leake, manager of the Call.

The Santa Ana Fair.

At the meeting of the board of directors of the Orange County Fair Company held last Monday a most promising outlook for the October races was developed. The long list of entries presented by Secretary Chas. Riggs and other encouraging signs did much to create and sustain the impression that the approaching races would be the most successful in the history of the track.

At this writing the free-for-all pace gives every evidence of being the leading event of the meet. It is well within the range of possibilities that a special race may be arranged between Silkwood and Klamath, in which event interest would be divided. Frazier's Chehalis will not be here, a circumstance greatly regretted by those who had hoped to see him go against Silkwood.

For the free-for-all there are entered Silkwood, Searchlight, Our Boy and Colonel Benton. The Santa Ana stallion is expected to sustain his reputation of former years. As has been frequently told in these columns of late, he is under the training of J. H. Williams and has been put in the best possible form. It will be a good one who throws dust in his face this year. Searchlight paced a mile in 2:08 on a Montana track and the horsemen say he can go here in 2:05 if he comes feeling well. Our Boy is evidently much faster than he has been shown and would not have been entered and his owners not had some hope of winning. Of Colonel Benton but little is known here, being figuratively a dark horse. The quartet will make a race worth dropping business to see.

Here are the entries to the several events which take place at the track October 25–30:

The Woodland Futurity Stakes Trouble.

A decision has been rendered by the trotting horse Board of Appeals that is of great interest to horsemen. In 1894 the Yolo County Agricultural society or district fair association offered a futurity stake to come off this year. There were thirty-four nominations on which first payments were made, and on five the payments were made in full. Last July however, the directors declared the stake off, returning to the five owners who had made final payments their entrance money. Four of them accepted the money, but one of them would not, keeping the colt in training. When the Woodland meeting was held this colt showed up ready to trot. The judges were duly notified that the animal, Fraulein Dexter, would be sent over the course. The judges left the stand, but the mare was driven the mile. The owners of the animal made a demand for the money that had been paid in, but it was refused. The owners of the horse laid the matter before the Board of Appeals and the board sustained them. The board, however, decided that as the secretary of the association had failed to notify the other owners that Fraulein Dexter's owners had declined to accept their entrance money resuted in a hardship upon them, and that each who had paid their entrance in full was entitled to a pro rata share in the money.

In commenting upon this decision the Record Union says:

"While this latter part of the decision may be in accordance with the rules, it is manifestly unjust to Buckman & Carragar. They all had the same opportunity to reject their entrance money and to have their colts on the track ready to race for the stake. Every man is presumed to know the law, and the same rule should hold good in racing that is to be conducted honestly. The owners of Fraulein Dexter thought they knew the law (of racing), or knew what it should be, and others should have been equally wide awake if they did not wish to be imposed upon. It is not fair, therefore, that men who were only too glad, perhaps, to get their entrance money back and to avoid having to contend for it in the race, should profit equally with the only owners who had sufficient confidence in their ability to win to prompt them to face the music."

Please find draft for six bottles of your Gombault's Caustic Balsam. I find it to be the best liniment for bunches or blemishes. All my neighbors want it, but they won't send for it. They come to me when they want a bottle.

Reno (Nev.) Races.

The fourth day of the State Fair opened under the most favorable circumstances. The weather was just right and it was apparent that the number of visitors had been substantially increased by the arrivals of the day and evening before.

The first race on the programme was running, five-eighths of a mile Jessie O, Grover C, Stormy, Los Banos Kid and Iron Heart were starters. Pools sold Jessie O, favorite at $10, Stormy $5, field $8, when suddenly there was a chop and and Stormy brought $10, field $5, Jessie O. $3. Jessie O. won the race without great effort in 0:36, Kid second, Iron Heart third.

The next race was a five-eighths-mile dash between Fannie E., Gold Cloud, Lucky Dan, Christine, Peril and Rapido. Christine was favorite in the pools at $10, Rapido second choice at $5, field $5. A killing was made by the short-enders, as Lucky Dan won in a gallop in 1:03, Fannie second and Peril third.

Race No. 3, running, seven-eighths of a mile, was now called, with Tom B., Regal, Silver State, The Drummer, Alliance, and Kit Carson as the entries. Silver State was favorite at $10, The Drummer second choice at $6, and field $2 The Drummer won in 1:31, Silver State second, Regal third.

FRIDAY, SEPTEMBER 24.

This was Reno day at the fair and the banks as well as many of the business places closed at 11 o'clock for the day. The attendance at the track was larger than the day before and the interest and enthusiasm had not grown less notwithstanding it was the fifth day of the meeting.

The first race was a half mile and repeat, with Grover C, Durango, Iron Heart and Los Banos Kid as starter. Durango was choice in the pools at $10, field $7, but a chop occurred and the field went choice at $10, Durango $8. It took three trials to decide the winner. On the first Iron Heart won in 0:49½, Durango second, Grover third. It was even up then on Iron Heart and Durango and the guessing was lively. Durango took the last heat and race in 0:49½, Iron Heart second.

The next event was the three-quarter-mile running race with lady riders. Rapido, Fannie E. and Nic Nac were the entries, with Miss Dyson, Miss Allen and Miss McIntosh as the mounts. It was a novel and pretty race and the ladies showed themselves to be fearless riders. Rapido with Miss Dyson took the race in 1:16¾, Fannie second and Nic Nac third.

Race No. 3 was a one and one-quarter mile, running, handicap between Trix, Silver State and Onti Ora. Silver State was choice at $10, Onti Ora $5 and field $5. The favorite took the race in 1:44, Onti Ora second and Trix third.

The trot and pacing race for 2:20 class closed the racing events, with Peggy, Cameo L. and Lottie G. as entries. Lottie was favorite in the pools at $10, Peggy second choice at $7 and Cameo $3. Only one heat was trotted, Cameo being the winner in 2:24, Lottie G. second and Peggy third. Darkness coming on the remaining heats were postponed.

SATURDAY, SEPTEMBER 25.

This was last day of the State Fair and many of the visitors took the early trains so as to reach home before Sunday.

The first race was the conclusion of the 2:20 trot of the day before between Lottie G., Cameo and Peggy. Lottie G. won the race in three straight heats, time, 2:22, 2:22½ and 2:23½. Lottie was the favorite in the pools at $10 clear through and the field $7.

The next race was running, three-eighths mile dash, for non-winners. Racemore, Stormy, Iron Heart and Los Banos Kid came to the scratch. Iron Heart was favorite at $10, field $6. The favorite won the dash in 0:36½, Kid second and Stormy third.

Race No. 3 was running, five-eighths mile, non-winners, between Baleric, Iron Heart, Gold Cloud and Regal. The field was choice at $10, Regal selling at $6. Iron Heart was again winner in 1:03, Baleric second, Gold Cloud third.

The fourth race was running, seven eighths mile, owners' handicap; three moneys. Fannie E, Nic Nac, Peril, Alliance and Trix were entered. Nic Nac and Peril (Dennison's stable) sold favorite at $10, Fannie $5, field $2. Fannie won in 1: 0, beating the track record for seven-eighths mile, Peril second, Nic Nac third.

A trotting race for 2:35 class was added to the program with Maxwell, Grover C, Princess Wilkes and Bell Madison as starters. Grover took the first heat in 2:35, Maxwell second, Bell third, Wilkes fourth.

The second heat was won by Belle, Wilkes second, Grover C. third and Maxwell shut out, time 2:34. Two more heats were trotted before the race was decided, Belle Madison taking both.

A three fourth mile race for lady riders was a feature, with Manzanillo, mounted by Miss Dyson, and Rapido by Miss Allen. Manzanillo took the race in 1:18.

Medford (Or.) Races.

At Medford, Or., the racing the last three days of the fair were very well contested.

THURSDAY, SEPT. 23.

Trotting and pacing race for 3-year-olds; purse $125. Won by C. W. Kahler's Volo; Klamath Maid 2d; Twilight 3d. Time 2:45.

Novelty race, one mile; purse $120, divided in parts of $30. Jubilum, Endymion, Rubberneck and Dollie V. were entered. Jubilum was first at the quarter and half and Rubberneck at the three quarters and end. Time, 0:26, 0:51, 1:19 2-5, 1:47 2 5.

Pathmont paced a mile against Wm. Bates on a bicycle, winning easily in 2:30.

The mule race was the feature of the day and productive of a great deal of amusement. Eight mules contested and the event was won by Jack, Little Kate second. Neither one of them would have been in it had not the leaders bolted at a gate near the last turn.

FRIDAY, SEPTEMBER 24.

Trotting race, 2:40 class, 3 in 5, purse $125. Won by Hiac in the sixth heat. Time, 2:30, 2:33, 2:29, 2:28, 2:29, 2:30. After the first heat Leland W.'s driver was taken down and Wm. McMullen substituted. Afterward the judges became suspicious and declared all pools and bets off. Hiac won the three last heats, Leland W. the third and fifth, Volo the fourth and fastest.

The mile and a quarter dash was won by Tanner, Free Coinage second, Hot Stuff Bessie third. Time, 2.15.

The special pace was won by Belleair in two straight heats, Sleepy Tom second. Time 3:07.

SATURDAY, SEPTEMBER 25.

A half-mile hurdle race, which is something new in Southern Oregon, was one of the features of this day's sport. It was won in straight heats by Geo. Davis' Hazel D., Sleepy Jim second. Time, 1:02, 1:01.

In the free-for-all race for a purse of $300, Pathmont and Mollie Nurse competed. It was handsomely won by the stallion without a skip in three straight heats in 2:27, 2:20, 2:23. The second heat is the fastest ever trotted or paced in Southern Oregon, and the time is remarkably good, everything considered.

The three-quarter dash was won by Tanner, Rubberneck second, Jubilum third, Philip Fair fourth. Time, 1:17 2-5.

The trotting race for mules, one mile, was won by John W. Dyar's long-eared representative from Jacksonville, beating three others in 4:22 1-5.

The Opening of the Season.

The first day of the duck shooting proved a reversal of the usual result. Suisun provided only fair shooting and Alvarada and Alviso were much better than is usually the case on the first of the season. Quite a number of birds were killed at Suisun, but not nearly as many as last year and less than half as many as two years ago. There are several causes for this scarcity of birds. First, the season opened earlier and the birds were entirely home bred. Second, it was not good duck weather, fair, warm and very little wind. Third, the carp have eaten up the duck food in both ponds and sloughs and the ducks are going into the San Joaquin Valley more than formerly.

A noticeable feature of the flight was the absence of widgeon, usually the most plentiful of all. Mallards were unusually plentiful and teal, sprig, spoonbills and gadwell made up the balance of the bags. All of them were in the finest possible condition.

J. B. Ellison killed about 60 birds, F. R. Webster, 30; Alex Hamilton and Herman Oelrichs, 32, on the Tulle Belle preserve.

At the Teal preserve Edwin Goodall killed 60, W. R. Whittier, 32; W. and H. Gerber, 32; J. B. Stetson and W. F. Whittier, 24; A. Borel and Isaac Upham, 20.

Col. R. A. Eddy and H. Fortman killed about 60 at Cordelia.

The upper end of the marsh toward Suisun proved nearly as good as the portion that has been more carefully preserved. The Suisun Shooting Club opened the season with a banquet to the members at the new club house. This is a new club, limited to twenty-five members, with a full membership. P. J. Perkins is President, Fred Robben, Vice-President, J. A. Wilson, Treasurer, and T. L. Robinson, Secretary. The grounds consist of 2,000 acres of marsh land adjoining the Cordelia and Teal Club on the north and extend to Suisun on the west side of the railroad. The Pringle ponds and the ponds of the Tomassini tract are on this preserve. The shooting is limited to three days in the week and shooting at night is prohibited. The San Francisco members are Harry Corbett, R. J. Boyer, M. Hoytema and W. J. Golcher.

Among the sportsmen on the upper Suisun marsh were T. L. Bradley and J. T. Landregan of Oakland, J. L. Blackman, William T. O'Donnell, Joseph P. Tompkinson, William J. Adams, Jack Boyer and Andy Piersy.

The largest bag made by the Suisun sportsmen was that of J. A. Wilson, who killed 38 ducks, 3 geese and 12 English snipe.

At the Willow Lodge Club, Alvarado, W. W. Foote, Wm. Henshaw, Victor Metcalf, Walter Matthews, Everett Grimes and Emil Nusbaumer killed about sixty ducks but on Saturday and Sunday the shooting was better, 170 birds falling to the same guns.

Jas. McDonald, Oscar Emerle, W. Dodson and Jack Hackmier, of the Limited Gun Club, did not have much shooting on Friday but on Sunday they killed about 50 birds.

William Barrett and A. Truthbeter were at Mount Eden Sunday and bagged three dozen plump sprigs.

James McDonald, Michael McDonald, Richard Stien, Arthur Friese, David Shultz, C. J. Feeney, J. Price, L. Thiebault, William Lawson, W. A. Shultz, and Frank Mastil were among the successful hunters who brought back big bags of game from the Mount Eden marshes Sunday.

At Alvarado, C. Radovich, Edward Broderick and Charles Smith shot sixty teal and sprig.

The Alviso marshes promise to furnish good sport this season, both for rail and ducks. Jules Lorenzen spent Saturday and Sunday there hunting rail and brought home a big string.

Joseph Pisini, George Ehrenwerth, Peter Smith, and Charles Renolds were among the successful ones at Alviso. They bagged from twenty to forty ducks apiece.

The bags made at the Empire Gun Club, Olympic Gun Club and other preserves on Petaluma creek were very light. F. L. Judd, the well-known sportsman, returned the first of the week from a two weeks' trip down the San Joaquin and Sacramento valleys. He reports an abundance of birds in the irrigated districts of Los Banos and vicinity but at Rio Vista, Clarksburg and the Sacramento river district the ponds are all dry and ducks are scarce.

Good duck shooting cannot be expected in this section until after the first heavy storm.

Game in Maine.

The open season in Maine begins October 1 also, and reports from Augusta are that big game is plentiful. Deer are more numerous than usual, a result for which the Maine Game Commissioners have been working for years. It is very gratifying to the friends of the game laws to be able to say that there has been less summer shooting this year than ever before. For this improved condition of things the guide registration law can be given the credit, says the Turf, Field and Farm.

In an interview with Commissioner Stanley he said:

"Twenty-five years ago there were very few deer in Maine especially in Franklin and Oxford counties. They were there unknown. In fact, I never saw a deer track in the State till about 1880. Since that time they have increased very fast. I have no fear for deer in the future. They are to-day in every county in the State. Indeed I may safely say, I am sure that there are more deer than sheep in this State today. And that this is so is due, in my opinion, to protection afforded them.

"Caribou have also increased, but they are a migratory animal, unsafe to reckon upon. They are here to-day and miles away to-morrow, and the hunter can never plan for their capture with any likelihood of success. It is pure luck if he meets with one. They, too, have prospered under the protective laws which have fostered them.

"But with moose it is another story. In 1872 moose were quite plenty. I have often seen them at that time on the shores of the Rangeley Lakes, and their tracks were plenty along the shores of those waters. The sand bars there bore abundant signs of them, and in several counties of the State one could be reasonably sure of finding moose without much difficulty.

"But since that time moose have gradually decreased in number and in the more thickly settled counties they are seen no more. They are, in fact, confined to the Eastern part of the State, and owing to the steadily increasing number of hunters, who set great value upon the moose heads, they are rapidly being depleted in number, and I predict their early extinction if more stringent laws and more certain enforcement are not carried out for the protection of moose. Only the protection we have been able to give them has saved them till this time.

"The sentiment in Maine is becoming more pronounced for protection each year, and the past year has, I think, doubled the understanding and the sympathy which the people of the State have for the game laws. I look to the immediate future to do great things for the game interest of the State. The knowledge gained this past year of the immense benefit the game is to the State, coupled with the discovery that nearly 1,100 men in the State gain their livelihood by guiding sporting parties to the forests of Maine, is going to do good work in furthering the plans of the commissioners and the lawmakers, I am certain."

C. E. James killed two more bucks last week, one weighed 120 and the other 105 pounds. The one we mentioned last week weighed 145 instead of 130 lbs. as stated. On Sunday last he tried his hand on quail and killed forty-five and 13 cotton tails.

At the shooting tournament held at Farmington, Maine, the early part of the month, Mr. J. C. Corson, of Wilton, won the Franklin county championship, breaking 46 bluerocks out of a possible 49. Two of the three missed were broken before leaving the trap, while the third was perforated with shot but did not break. Mr. Corson uses a Winchester "pump" and is shooting "Gold Dust" powder.

Max and Ed Berges, Ed Daiss, I. Phillipson and Harry Baum made the Shellville Gun Club House, at Shellville, their headquarters on Friday, Saturday and Sunday last. They were after their quarry for three days "up hill and down dale" over the Arroyo Moche country back of Cedar Mountain around the head of Corral Hollow down into the Arroyo Vigi, back nearly to the starting point. The extreme heat killed the chase, the ground being so hot and dry the dogs wore their feet out. Prather says the track was the largest he ever saw.

4. The senior class shall be for all dogs having won four or more first prizes at any recognized show; wins in the puppy and novice class excepted. 5. The free-for-all class shall be for all dogs of any age over six months. No prize-winner shall be debarred from competing.

6. All shows offering cash prizes for three of the above classes, from any one breed, one of which must be the free-for-all class, shall be empowered to provide for that breed a winners' class for the dogs which have won the first prizes in said classes, and the winner of the three first prizes in such winners' class will thereby become a champion of record, and be so registered by the American Kennel Club. No class winner can be withdrawn from competition in the winners' class. No entry fee shall be charged for exhibits in the winners' class.

"A dog that has already won one or more firsts in the challenge class shall retain these wins to his credit toward becoming champion of record, the remaining qualifying wins to be gained in the winners' class.

7. The miscellaneous class shall be open to all dogs of established breeds for which no regular class has been provided in the premium list. Entries in this class must specify the breed of the exhibit. Failure to provide with this condition shall disqualify the dog and cancel the award.

XIII. In estimating the number of prizes a dog has won, no award received by it, on or after the date of closing the entries shall be counted.

XXII. The Secretary of the American Kennel Club must cancel all wins, when he has satisfied himself that these rules have been violated by the exhibitor, in the following instances:

At the recent meeting of the A. K. C. it was decided that where a dog is disqualified for not complying with the conditions of the class in which he is shown, that does not disqualify him from competing for specials offered in its breed, to which it may be eligible.

At the late show in Victoria, N. S. W. there was 989 entries, of which 162 were fox terriers, the latter were judged by Mr. H. Moses who was lately in England. His decisions were received with universal satisfaction. Most of the winners in aged classes were English bred.

The Victoria Kennel Club has been elected a member of the A. K. C. and the recent break between the C. K. C. and the A. K. C. does not effect them at all. They are entitled to representation on the Pacific Advisory Board and it is rumored that J. G. Barker has been nominated for that position.

Merritt's foxhound Happy, H. T. Payne's English setter Harold, and a fox terrier pup for J. B. Martin. Had the fanciers known earlier that a handler would take up a string there would have been three times as many entries from this section.

She was a splendid brood bitch, being the dam of Beau Brummel, 2d Puppy Los Angeles 1893; Lomita Patch, 1st Puppy Los Angeles and San Francisco 1893, and 3d Open Los Angeles 1894, Lomita Nettie, 3d Los Angeles 1897, and Lomita Venio, 2d Novice Los Angeles 1897. Of all his original stock the only one left to Mr. Mitchell is the bitch Lomita Nettie. Mr. Mitchell reports that he has a dog puppy by Lomita Patch out of Maggie May that is the most promising one he has yet reared and expects that he will be a great dog, able to give the best here a run for the ribbon.

Mr. Payne says that prominent Eastern fanciers, whom he studiously refrains from naming, assure him he has done more solid service to kennel interests than all the other kennel journals have done in a dozen years, and he is invited to bring his journal East. Well! Well! We have heard of the rarified and elevated atmospheric conditions which circulate through the Golden State, but we never dreamed they could have such an altitudinous effect as this. The Eastern kennel journalists are stigmatized as "truckling time servers" because they prefer to judge Mr. Mortimer through his record during many years of public life in our kennel world, rather than accept the ipse dixit of a disgruntled exhibitor, editor, unsupported by any evidence from him to substantiate his charges when given the opportunity to do so. So let it be.—Am. Stock-keeper.

NOTICE TO ANGLERS.

Every angler is invited to drop us a line occasionally, telling us of the condition of the streams they have visited and the killing lure; of the number and size of the fish caught, or any other item of interest to anglers.

Black bass are still biting in Russian River.

Royal steelhead fishing is still the order on Eel river in Humboldt county.

I. Phillipson caught forty trout in tide water at Embarcadero last Monday.

W. A. Cooper stole a march on the boys and caught the big steelhead at Pt. Reyes last Sunday.

O. H. Campbell is credited with having caught 150 trout in the Feather river last Sunday week.

Immense strings of rock cod are caught every Sunday at California City and other points in the bay.

Four citizens of Blacks caught 500 pounds of catfish in four hours near Knights Landing last Sunday week.

Trout are again biting well in the McCloud and in a short while good sport will again be the order in the Upper Sacramento.

Up to the present time, through the efforts of under-Sheriff Robinson, 65,000 trout have been put in above the dam in Green Valley reservoir.

Geo. E. Springer, H. H. Taber and Frank Scoggins, of Oroville, had some extraordinary fine fishing at the old Burnham Mills recently.

The annual open-to-the-world tournament of the San Francisco Fly Casting Club will take place at Stow Lake, Golden Gate Park to-day commencing at 10:30 A. M. Constants should remember that the delicacy and accuracy const is the first on the programme, and entries positively ose ten min utes before the events are called.

The big three, John Gallagher, John Benn and John Butler, are fishing the Eel river. C. G. Young was one of the party, but we expect to see him to-day at the Fly Casting tournament.

The carp nuisance has spread to Washington. The Walla Walla Union speaks of them as a "valuable acquisition to the Snake river." If the editor don't change his mind in the course of a year or two then we are mistaken. If the inhabitants don't start a dynamite factory soon and exterminate them, these famous "water hogs" will eat not only all the other fish and duck food but the marsh land as well.

The Supervisors of Santa Cruz held an adjourned meeting Friday. It was stated that the directors of the Southern Pacific Co. are disposed towards maintaining a fish hatchery at Boulder Creek, the estimated cost being $3,000 annually. From 500,000 to 1,00,000 trout per year could be placed in the streams of the county if the hatchery be properly built. The cost of the hatchery was estimated at $1,500. Supervisor Rambo said that only $500 would be asked from the county, the balance to be raised by private subscription.

That there is quite a demand in California for well-bred trotting stock was evidenced at the auction sale of the private stable of Milo M. Potter, of Los Angeles, conducted by E. W. Noyes at Agricultural Park, that city, last Tuesday. The details were as follows: Saccharine, ch g, foaled 1892, by Woolsey, dam Nellie Reynolds, by Inca, $470; My Lucky, ch h, foaled 1894 (full brother to Saccharine), $260; Sister, br m, foaled 1892, by Raymon, dam Mollie Clay, by Ferral's Clay, $380; Rosebud, b m, foaled 1893, by Woolsey, dam Rosa, by Inca Jr., $160; Black Bess, blk m, foaled 1889, by Guide, dam Aldine, by Wissahickon, $185; Sweet Peas, br m, foaled 1894, by Ira Woolsey, dam Frosty Morning, by Tom Hal; second dam, the dam of Storm, 2.08¼, $185; Lee Rose, br g, foaled 1894, by Waldstein, dam Rosa Gold, by Gold Rose, $180; Alica, br m, foaled 1889, by Albion, dam Lady Inca, by Inca, $190; Blanche Conifer, b m, foaled 1895, dam Bonnie Ella, by Bonnie McGregor, $115; Grace Conifer, b f, foaled 1895, by Conifer, dam Pastora, by Judge Salisbury (also dam of Johnny Trouble), $125; Trouble, b g, foaled 1895, by Conifer, dam Del Ela, by Del Sur, $160; Nora Bey, b f. foaled 1896, by Emin Bey, dam Narina, by Clean Cut, $35; Lady Hal, b f, foaled May, 1897, by Bronze Hal, dam Alice, by Albion, second dam Lady Inca, by Inca, $35; Maude, br m (dam of Lady Alice, trial 2:18¼), by Inca, dam by Exile, son of Echo, $80; Maude McKinney, b f, foaled June, 1897, by McKinney, dam Maude, by Inca, $230; You Bet, b g, foaled 1895, by McKinney, dam Gift, by Alban (by General Benton), $335. The Fasig Sale at Cleveland.

Palo Alto, Oct. 5, 1897.

In regard to the great Fasig sale, the consignment will leave here October 26th. Everyone knows the merits of Jasper Ayres (5) 2:11¾ as a race horse, also Visalia 2:12½, Jaspine (4) 2:14¾ and Joe (5) 2:16¼.

The consignment from Palo Alto, as noted in the list, is a fine one, consisting of young horses that come from the best producing lines at Palo Alto. The youngsters by Dexter Prince are a very remarkable lot in size, form, disposition and speed. Mr. Covey remarks, I believe, and can show by the watch, that the development of speed made by the two-year-olds, sons and daughters of Dexter Prince, handled since July, 1897, is without parallel in the history of colt development. As Mr. Lathrop saw some of these colts move last Sunday, I would ask that you see him in regard to their speed qualifications.

The full brother to Palo Alto 2:08¾, called Governor Pacheco, that has been placed in the sale is, in the opinion of many horsemen who have seen him, one of the best looking individuals in America. All of the other sons of Electioneer and Dame Winnie have taken fast records, and Gov. Pacheco should prove no exception to the rule if developed.

The filly Vesper Bells, one year old, is a full sister to the great yearling Abdell, 2:23, holder of the world's record. She is also a half sister to the king of sires, Chimes, whose dam, Beautiful Bells, ranks as queen of broodmares. And the value of the blood of Electioneer and Beautiful Bells has become one of the most important factors in producing the fast harness horse of America. Vesper Bells will probably be the last of the produce of Beautiful Bells sold at auction from Palo Alto until the place itself finally is disposed of.

The fast young pacer, Betonica, three-year-old, by Azmoor, 2:20½, dam Nadine by Wildidle, is also placed in the sale list. His mile second to Searchlight, at Sacramento, when he was officially timed as second horse in 2:13¼, is evidence that he is a fast young stallion. His breeding is excellent and he gives promise of making a very fast performer.

Alla 2:21½, 5 years old, by Palo Alto 2:08¾, dam Lula Wilkes (dam of Advertiser 2:15¼, Welbeck 2:22¼) is a grand looking mare and capable of reducing her record several seconds.

Great brood mares such as Beautiful Bells, Dame Winnie, Lula Wilkes, Columbine, Rebecca, Laura C., Miss Maude, Lady Ellen and Mamie are represented in this sale.

Dexter Prince, that great sire of extreme speed, is represented by sons and daughters out of Electioneer mares, whose superiority as brood mares is an unquestionable fact.

All horses except yearlings will be shown in harness.

There is also in this consignment a lot consisting of eight head of two-year-olds by Charles Derby and Steinway from the Oakwood Park Stock Farm which cannot be surpassed. The Derbys and Steinways are "on top" in California and are among the most eagerly sought after here.

Great November, December and January Sales of

THOROUGHBREDS

YEARLINGS, TWO-YEAR-OLDS AND HORSES IN TRAINING.

TO THE PUBLIC.

Having engaged in the business of selling live stock, horses and cattle in this city, we deem it necessary to call your attention to a few facts which may be of interest:

First.—We will have erected a large building at the above place, which is about three blocks from the Palace Hotel, Call, Chronicle and Examiner Buildings, and will fit it exclusively for the holding of auction sales. The seating capacity of this amphitheater is to be 1,200, so that all who attend may be seated and have an excellent view of each animal offered. The sales ring will be 35 feet in diameter, and elevated so that the view will be unobstructed. The building will be lighted by electricity, and well ventilated.

Second.—Ample box stalls will be provided for the horses in adjoining buildings, and the passage way from these to the sales building will be covered and lighted, so there will be no danger of the stock catching cold or injuring themselves.

Third.—These sales will be advertised at once, so that not only our local buyers but any who are in Japan, Honolulu, British Columbia as well as the Pacific Coast States and Territories will be informed of the date of the sales, the class of horses, their pedigrees, performances (if they have any) and detailed descriptions of each and every one will be plainly given.

Fourth.—We have all the facilities for tabulating pedigrees, as our turf library is considered the most complete in California. On its shelves may be found all the English, Australian and American Stud Books and Guides, and our collection of sale catalogues, covering a period of twenty years in California, is unsurpassed.

We believe in advertising where it will do the most good, and besides the large subscription list of the BREEDER AND SPORTSMAN, we have lists of all the leading horsemen in the United States, Canada, Mexico, Hawaiian Islands, Australia and New Zealand, to whom we shall send catalogues, which, for completeness and authenticity, have never been equaled on this Coast.

The BREEDER AND SPORTSMAN will be made an auxiliary advertising medium, through which we shall show the advantages of attending these sales and purchasing horses.

We shall take the very best care of horses sent; see that they are led by competent men to our stables from trains or boats, and after they get there, will have personal supervision of their feeding, watering, bedding and care. The well-known horseman, A. F. ROOKER, will attend to this department.

WM. FITCH, the auctioneer engaged for these sales, has a national reputation. He sold this season over $1,000,000 worth of auction pools in Montana, and disposed of Marcus Daly's thoroughbreds at auction, to the great satisfaction of the multi-millionaire. Competent judges declare him to have no peer as a salesman and his work is spoken of as thorough in every way. He is a horseman of ability, and thoroughly conversant with the points and pedigrees of our thoroughbreds.

The demand for first-class thoroughbreds will never be supplied, but we believe that at our sales we shall be able to show as fine a lot as ever were offered, and with the addition in our midst of the most prominent horsemen of the far East and Middle West, we have no hesitancy in assuring owners that the prices they will receive (if the stock is in fine condition) will be much higher than those heretofore obtained for similarly bred ones.

The interest in thoroughbreds and racing is increasing throughout the world, and especially in California, where so many opportunities are now offered owners to make money with their horses.

The following have already agreed to consign their horses to these great sales:

A. B. SPRECKELS, WM. & CHAS. BOOTS,
CHAS. KERR, GASTON M. ASHE,
W. S. HOBART, J. B. CHASE,

THE FRESNO RACES.

Good Sport Witnessed by Goodly Audiences—How the Races Were Won.

WEDNESDAY, OCTOBER 6.

The second day's races of the Fresno Fair opened under much more favorable condltions than existed yesterday. It was a very fine day and the sun had dried up the track, leaving it a little lumpy in places. The card consisted of four runs, and the talent picked but one winner. The first race on the programme was five-eighths of a mile, purse $150, for two-year-olds. St. Calatine, on the strength of her good race at Sacramento, was made a prohibitive favorite at odds of 1 to 3, closing at 2 to 5. After a delay of about ten minutes the barrier flew up to a fair start, the favorite getting a shade the worst of it. Ray Heath, in Farrar's string, jumped off in the lead, but was immediately passed by Queen May, who opened up a gap of a couple of lengths. The favorite stumbled after the gate flew up, which militated against her chances. In the bend for home the positions were about the same, Queen May still leading, with Amasa second and St. Calatine third. Glover, on Kylee, saw an opening and immediately rushed through, winning very easily by five lengths. The favorite managed to get up, and in a drive secured second place by a nose from Queen May. Time, 1:04.

The second race on the card was for three-year-olds and upward and eight sported silk. Roadwarmer and Polish opened equal favorites at even money, but the bulk of the money was played on the former and he went to the post at 1 to 2. Polish receded in the betting to 3 to 1, while quite a few wise ones pinned their faith to Jim Bozeman at 4 to 1. The others were from 6 to 10 to 1. To a good start Captain Coster jumped off in front, closely attended by the favorite. The order was not materially changed till after they had gone a half, when the Captain gave it up. Roadwarmer then had things his own way and was never caught, passing the stand a length from Jim Bozeman, with Polish, Kitty Brady, Captain Coster and Myrtle H about two lengths back. Time, 1:03. Jim Bozeman was disqualified for being three pounds short weight.

The next race was for maiden three-three-year-olds, at three-quarters of a mile. Pleasanton, the much-touted colt belonging to L. Rockman, was made an even-money chance, with Gibbettiflibbet at 7 to 5, Shirdy at 2, Minta Owens and Major S at 5. After the barrier was raised Major S rushed to the front, and before he had gone half a mile he had the rest in trouble, winning rather handily by two lengths, Pleasanton second and Gibbettiflibbett third. Time, 1:17.

The concluding race of the day, a selling affair at three-quarters of a mile, brought out the best sprinters quartered here. The talent did not know which of the lot to make favorite. Emma D was finally pounced upon by the "wise division," but after leading by a couple of lengths into the stretch she was passed by Lena and Howard, and in a furious drive the former won by a nose, the favorite finishing third, about three lengths off. Time, 1:15½.

THURSDAY, OCTOBER 7.

Old Phœbus smiled his sweetest smile this afternoon and in consequence the largest crowd of the week attended the races. A number of the merchants closed their stores, which enabled clerks and attaches to visit the fair grounds. The stock parade was the finest held in this part of the country for years, and the races were very exciting with the exception of a match race for $100 between Pomona and Worm wood This race needs no description, as Pomona, who was 2 to 5 in the betting, won in straight heats, Wormwood being near the quarter pole in each heat. The fastest heat was 2:41.

The second race on the card was a three-eighths heat race in which quite a few good quarter horses went to the barrier. Lo Lo, on her impressive win from the same crowd Tuesday, was installed favorite at evens, Lady Kern 2 to 1, Sontag 3, Buckhorn 3, Tucollotte 4, King Alp 4, Chauncey T. 5. After a delay of nearly forty minutes the field was dispatched to a poor start, with Sontag three lengths in front and King Alp left standing; the rest were strung out somewhat. Sontag maintained the advantage given him until within about twenty feet of the wire, when Lady Kern came up and in a furious drive Cole lifted her a winner by a nose. On returning to the scales Tom Glover, rider of King Alp, went into the stand and made a great "spell" to the judges about his horse throwing a shoe. He was allowed to start again.

In the second heat, after a few minutes' delay to a straggling start, Sontag was again sent off in the lead, but he was quickly passed by King Alp (who was fresh), also Lady Kern, and in a driving finish Alp won by a length, with Lady Kern second, Lo Lo third, one length away. Time, 0:35½. According to the rule all the horses went to the stable with the exception of King Alp and Lady Kern. There was no betting, as almost everyone conceded the race to the "monarch," and in the concluding heat he passed under the wire a handy winner by three lengths.

The next race was a mile and one-quarter hurdle race, in which the "wise money" was played on Gov. Budd. Mestor was strongly played at 2's. Tom Clark received considerable support from the pikers at 5's, while Gold Dust was favored by a few knowing ones. To a good start Gold Dust assumed command over the first jump, with Tom Clark second and Gov. Budd third. The order waa not materially changed until the field struck the third jump, when Gold Dust fell, precipitating his rider under the horse. Quite a cry went up from the grand stand, but it was soon hushed when "Capt. Jack" (the rider of Gold Dust) got up. The horses continued on their course without any other accident and amid great excitement Tom Clark won by a nose with Mestor second and Gov. Budd third, who beat Viking about five lengths, the balance strung out for an eighth of a mile. Time, 2:19.

FRIDAY, OCTOBER 8.

This was Fresno's gala day, and judging by the crowd and enthusiasm showr, it was certainly the most successful held so far at the fair. Besides the races, the judging of babies and passing on the relative merits of the horses, poultry, etc., the day was certainly fraught with excitement enough to satisfy the most exacting. John Daly, W. D. Foote, A. C. Williams were in a dilemena as to which was the prettiest baby on exhibition, but after a long consultation the gentlemen decided to award first premiam to Harold Simmons and George Alexander, second. The decision was very satisfactory to all (excepting the mothers of the other candidates), as the same baby won the prize last year in the six months old exhibition. The stock display was unusually fine and the exhibits of Mr. Wickersham took first prize, he showing Junio, by Electioneer. The races, four in number, were of a very high order and the finishes were close, so that all present went home feeling highly elated over the days sport. The first race on the card 2:28 class mixed race brought out Bolinas, Baby Meade, Lottie Lilac, Topsy J, Nellie Bly. Baby Meade and Bolinas were even favorites and after scoring a couple of times Starter Sweet gave them the word with Bolinas in front. Dan McCarthy, driver of Baby Meade, immediately set after the field, and passing the half had assumed a lead of five lengths. This she increased until she had the field about distanced, when she came to grief, leaving her feet at the head of the stretch, and when she had again regained her equanimity all the horses had passed her. The Babe's driver made a bold drive for the heat, but could do no better than finish fourth, Bolinas winning in 2:28½. James Kerwin, owner of Baby Meade, drove her the second heat, but he could not get her going at all, and when the field finished he was up at the head of the stretch sighing "Why should the spirit of mortal be proud?" Bolinas again winning in 2:28. After this the betting was very one-sided, every one conceding the race to Bolinas; but the unexpected happened for Lottie Lilac driven by C. Clark won the third heat in 2:26½. The wise people began hedging, but in the fourth the mare with the flowery name was very unsteady and Bolinas won very easily by six lengths in 2:30.

The second race, at a mile and a quarter, brought out a field of four, viz: Grady 112, Marquise 109, Lorena 101, Pleasanton 88. The former opened favorite at 4 to 5, but the strong play on the Eastern mare made him recede in price until at post time 3 to 2 was being offered, while Marquise was backed from 3 to 2 to 3 to 5. After a short delay Starter Sommers dispatched the field with Pleasanton in front. The order was not materially changed until coming into the stretch, when both the favorites came through and in a whipping finish the mare with the titled name managed to cross the wire winner by a nose, with Grady second and Lorena third, Pleasanton about two lengths off. Time, 2:09. The first mile was run in 1:42, with Pleasanton swinging. A great many people thought Grady had won and it was some minutes before the judges announced their decision, but after a few minutes the above decision was rendered. Charles Owens, owner of Grady and T. Tuberville owner of Marquise, made a match, under same conditions, to be run tomorrow, Saturday. The match is for $500 a side, and opinion is evenly divided as to which is the better animal at the weights, and from the present outlook the affair should make a great betting race.

The third race was at six furlongs and brought out a field of six, of which Emma D was made a red-hot favorite, being backed from 3 to 2 to 1 to 2. She justified the confidence placed in her by winning very easily in 1:16½, with Major S, second one length in front of Wallace S., Bernardo, Gold Bug, Christine bunched, a couple of lengths back.

The last race was three-eighths mile heats, for saddle horses. Darkey won first heat, Fox second, Susie third. Time 0:37¾. Owing to the lateness of the hour the second heat was postponed until tomorrow.

SATURDAY, OCTOBER 9.

This being Saturday, a large crowd journeyed to the track this afternoon, and as the three favorites won, the public held their own and returned home well satisfied with the day's sport. The feature of the afternoon's racing was of course the match race for $500 between Grady and Marquise, being the outcome of the mile and a quarter handicap, run yesterday. Opinion was evenly divided as to the merits of the two horses, but by the time they went into the starter's hands the mare was favorite at 3 to 5, while evens could always be obtained against the Fresno horse. On the first attempt Starter Summer dispatched the two candidates to a most beautiful start, neither horse having any advantage. Passing the stand Grady assumed command and "Chile" Cole hustled him along. He led by a half length. At the half he was still in front, now by a length, and it looked then like a foregone conclusion that he would win, as even the uninitiated could see that the pace was terrific (they ran the first three quarters in 1:15), and the mare was seen to falter. But young Cole did not take any chances with Owens' flyer, and kept on going, and as they reached the stretch he looked like an easy winner. Amid the greatest enthusiasm he passed under the wire winner (all out) by four lengths, in 2:09, and considering the hard race of yesterday this run stamps Grady as nearly first-class, for the track was at least a second slow, and, having to set his own pace, the race was without a doubt one of the finest seen in California in many a day, and the cheering that awarded "Chile" Cole and Grady for the great feat was only exceeded by the crowd that witnessed the Salvator–Tenny match many years ago. Owens Bros. were the recipients of congratulations on all sides, and judging by the enthusiasm shown, the victory was a most popular one, as the horse is a product of this raisin country and Owens Bros. have farmed here for many years.

The other races were only fair. The first race on the card was a special trot arranged by the Secretary between local horses, and afforded one very close finish. The starters were Tokalon, Topsy J., Nellie Bly and Bolinas. Tokalon was an odds-on favorite for the first heat, and he won very easily in 2:27 from Topsy J. For some unaccountable reason Nellie Bly, in Owens' stable, was an odds-on favorite for the second heat, but after she had led to the stretch was collared by Tokalon, and in a furious drive Clark brought the pacer with the odd name up with a great rush and landed him a winner by a head in 2:25

The fourth event was the match race, and considerable money was played on both starters, as the distance, weights, etc, were identically the same as yesterday. Tokalon was then a prohibitive favorite and won the third heat jogging in 2:26½.

The unfinished three-eight heat race for saddle horse was the first on the card and Darkey again won in 0:37¼.

The third race, a selling affair at five eighths, brought out six starters, of which Decision was a 1 to 2 favorite. She justified the confidence placed in her by winning handily in 1:02, with Howard second and Polish third. The fractional time was: One quarter, 0:25½; one-half, 0:50; three-quarters, 1:15; mile, 1:41¾, and one and one-quarter in 2:09. This was certainly a great performance, when it is considered the uniform rate the first three-quarters was run. "Chili" Cole shows that he is the making of one of the best light boys in the country, as he can ride as light as 85 pounds. Grady is a heavy headed horse, and the boy deserves as much credit as does the son of Three Cheers, now the "hero of the hour" in Fresno.

The closing event of the day was the hurdle handicap, at a mile and a half over six hurdles. Gov. Budd opened favorite at 4 to 5, but the strong play on Mestor made him recede in price until he went to 2's, then a heavy play come from somewhere, and his price was driven down to even. At post time both Mestor and the Governor were at evens, Tom Clark 3 (opened at 2), Gold Dust 5 (opened at 2), Viking 4. To a perfect start, Tom Clark assumed the lead, but ran out and dropped back five or six lengths behind the last horse. Then Mestor went out in front, closely attended by the Governor and Gold Dust. The order was not materially changed until about three eighths from home, when Gold Dust and Budd drew away, and at the last jump they were head and head. In a drive Gold Dust won by one half a length, Gov. Budd a length in front of Mestor the others strung out. Tom Clark broke down and in all probabilities has faced the flag for the last time.

THE Iowa man who owned the guideless wonder, Pacing Johnny, that killed himself at Napoleon, O., last summer, is out with a real novelty. He has educated a pacing horse that he calls Pacing Johnny, Jr., and a trotting horse called Black Prince, to race against one another without sulky or driver. The trotter goes without hobbles, and the horses race as if they meant it—go their miles close to 2:30, score for the word as if driven, and answer the recall bell without coaching.

San Jose Race Meeting.

THURSDAY, OCTOBER 7.

The race meeting has "caught on." The splendid races which have been given, the promptness with which the horses have been started, the excellent display of judgment in the judges stand, the "fastness" of the surface of both tracks and the lovely weather, all combined to attract the public. The lovely Santa Clara valley was the first to feel the influence of the wave of prosperity, and, judging by the long trains of heavily-laden cars waiting to be sent across the continent with the products of the orchards and the vineyards, its effects will not pass away until long after Thanksgiving Day.

Working against heavy odds the association labored night and day and the crowded grandstands and betting ring to-day caused the directors to "smile their happiest." Besides, the voice of the auctioneer was heard giving out the odds while his clerks were busy exchanging tickets for coin of the realm. The bookmaking was a farce while the Paris Mutuel machines did a land office business.

There was a coursing match each morning, but instead of the shifty jackass rabbit of the plains a mechanical substitute was used which, fastened by a long wire to a wheel about 500 yards from the starting point, was sent on its bounding journey at such a pace that the sleek greyhounds could never catch it. As a test of speed it was excellent, but as an exciting chase it could not be called an Ingleside success.

A mile trot for a record was the first event on the afternoon programme. G. B. Dawson's brown colt Valentine, by Boodle, 2:12½, dam by Carr's Mambrino, was driven around the circle by C. Rodriguez in 2:30.

There were three starters in the 2:40 trot for three-year olds; G. E. Shaw's Uncle Johnny, W. Beck's Cordray and the Palo Alto Stock Farm's Anselor. The talent picked out Uncle Johnny, and in the auction pools he sold at $15 to $5 for Anselor and $3 for Cordray.

Uncle Johnny took first position at the start, and soon several lengths separated him from the second horse. At the three quarters it looked as if Uncle Johnny was leading by a block. He was driven easy up the stretch, and jogged under the wire an easy winner in 2:23½. Cordray was second.

W. Mack, who had driven Corday in the first heat, retired, and Billy Donathan, with thirty-one pounds overweight, took his place.

There was little betting on the second heat. Uncle Johnny was sold a few times at $10 to $3 for the field. The favorite took this heat easily in 2:22. Cordray broke in the stretch, and was passed by Anselor, who finished second.

Uncle Johnny made it three straight, leading all the way around, and winning the heat and race in 2:19¼.

Four horses came to the post for the five-furlong running race for three-year-olds. February was the favorite in the books, and was quoted at 1 to 2. Nebula was second choice at 4 to 5. Santa Lucia opened at 10 to 1, but the price was steadily beaten down until just before the race it reached 4 to 1. The odds on Permante went as high as 12 to 1.

February and Nebula fought out the race, the favorite winning by half a length in an interesting finish. Santa Lucia was third. Time, 1:02¾.

The mile and a sixteenth running race also had four starters. All were to carry 99 pounds, but Thelma, the favorite, had an extra pound, and Mollie R., the second choice, four pounds over-weight. The closing betting was: Thelma, 7 to 10; Mollie R, 6 to 5; Two Cheers, 2½ to 1; Sir Phillip, 25 to 1.

Enos, who piloted Masoero to victory in two races at this meeting, again distinguished himself. He kept Mollie R. under a wrap until the stretch was reached and then let her out, the little chestnut mare winning by half a length. Thelma beat Two Cheers for the place by a short head. Time, 1:49½.

Five horses came out to contest in the great 2:13 class trot. They were J. O. Perkins' Jasper Ayres, Hostetter & Co.'s Ethel Downs, B. Erkenbrecher's Galette, Park Henshaw's Mamie Griffin and A. Cormack's Wayland W. Jasper Ayres was the favorite, bringing $20 to $6 for the field.

C. F. Bunch drove Ethel Downs, and in the first heat he took the famous black mare through the race of her life. Ethel went out in the lead, never skipping a step, while Galette and Jasper Ayres broke before they got around the first time. Bunch kept Ethel at a rattling gait, and the horsemen who were watching the race grew enthusiastic when the quarter was reached in 0:33. Ethel was at her best, and the half was reeled off in 1:04½. The black mare was still leading at the three-quarters, which was reached in 1:37. Jasper Ayres, despite several breaks, was not far behind, and in the stretch he came up with his old-time swiftness, but he could not catch Ethel, who won in a whipping finish by a head, Bunch showing that he could drive this mare better than anyone who ever held a line over her before. Galette was third. Ethel Downs' time for the mile was 2:10, breaking the track record of 2:13½, made by Adenia, driven by Andy McDowell, three years ago. When the announcement was made that Ethel Downs had won there was a great burst of applause from the spectators.

There was little or no change in the betting after the first heat, Jasper Ayres still selling favorite.

Mamie Griffin led off in the second heat, but Ethel passed her at the first turn. This was another fast mile and Jasper Ayres ruined all his chances of winning by breaking four times. This was of advantage to him as far as speed was concerned, as he is one of those peculiar horses who gain by their breaks, but the rules say that a horse making as many as four breaks shall be set back by the judges. Ethel went to the quarter in 0:32, passed the half in 1:04½ and reached the three-quarter pole in 1:37¼. Then Jasper Ayres came and in a hard drive beat her to the wire by a head. The time was 2:10½, only half a second slower than the first heat. The judges set Jasper Ayres back for breaking and gave the heat to Ethel Downs. The decision was received with great applause.

Wayland W was withdrawn after the second heat because of lameness.

There was a change in the betting, field money going in the box at $10 to $9 for Jasper Ayres. A few minutes later the field and Jasper Ayres sold at even money. Just before the heat the betting changed again, Jasper Ayers selling at $10 to $7 for the field.

Ethel went out in the lead and seemed a sure winner until the three quarters was reached. Then Perkins began to let Jasper Ayres out. Down the stretch the favorite gained steadily, and in a heart-breaking finish Ethel Downs was beaten by half a length. The time for the heat was 2:11¾

There was practically no betting after the third heat, horsemen generally being of the opinion that Ethel Downs had gone too fast in the first two heats to be able to hold enough speed in reserve to win another heat.

Ethel led into the stretch again in the fourth heat and Jasper Ayers once more performed his old trick of finishing like a belated special train and won by a length in 2:12¾. Ethel Downs was second.

The fifth heat was trotted in the gathering darkness as the management did not desire to have any unfinished races. Ethel led off once more. Jasper broke soon after the start but he recovered in an instant and at the half he was within whispering distance of the leader. When the stretch was reached he passed her and came in winner in 2:13 flat. This gave him the race and also the honor of being the winner of the five fastest consecutive heats ever trotted in California.

But Ethel Downs in these cracking five heats never made a skip nor a break but trotted as honest a race as ever was seen on a race course in California. Every heat was a race for her and her happy owners should feel as proud as the owners of her game sire Boodle 2:12½, the horse that is destined to be the sire of the gamest horses ever bred in California, if not the gamest.

FRIDAY, OCTOBER 8.

Everyone in the city and county was talking about the great Jasper Ayres–Ethel Downs race. The San Jose Mercury, which is one of the best papers published in California, devoted three columns to the race meeting, and the good work in behalf of the association had an excellent effect in bringing everybody to the splendid course at Agricultural Park.

The first event scheduled was the 2:16 trot, three in five, for a purse of $500, Pasonte (Havey), Daisy Wood (Maben), Dr. Leek (Sullivan), Lady O. (Marchand), Margaret Worth (Franklin) and Letter B. (Van Bokkelen) as starters. Dr. Leek was favorite at $10, with $8 for Pasonte and $8 for the field.

After the usual preliminaries in bringing the horses up to the proper position a start was made with Lady O. at the pole. Dr. Leek made a spurt for the lead, but failed ingloriously, and before the half was reached he was hugging the rear with the tenacity that promised a shut-out at the close. Pasonte was to the fore at the half, with Margaret Worth a close second. These positions were unchanged, Pasonte winning by half a length in the prettiest kind of a drive in 2:14½, Margaret Worth second, Lady O. third, Daisy Wood fourth, Letter B. fifth and Dr. Leek sixth. Time for quarter, 0:34; half, 1:06½.

The scoring was long and tedious, Dr. Leek acting as if he disliked to start in such company, so Starter Covey finally sent him away after giving the horse every possible change to do better. Pasonte won the heat in 2:13 flat. Daisy Wood was second, Margaret Worth third, Lady O. fourth, Letter B. fifth and Dr. Leek distanced.

The start was a good one, but Pasonte broke at the first quarter and fell back to the rear place. Margaret Worth moved up to the front, with Lady O. and Daisy Wood hanging to her as close as possible. It was one of the prettiest races ever seen on the track, the three were so closely matched. Margaret won the heat from Lady O. by two lengths in 2:15½. Daisy Wood was third. Pasonte captured the fourth place from Letter B.

Hi Hogoboom showed that he is "master of the lines," for the way he handled Lady O. in the next heat and snatched victory out of the teeth of defeat elicited the applause of all. He laid behind Margaret Worth until the homestretch was reached, and as Franklin behind Margaret Worth began to use the whip Hogoboom lifted his little mare and carried her to the front, winning by half a length in 2:15. Pasonte was third, Daisy Wood was fourth and Letter B. fifth.

Pasonte was sold as favorite at $10 to $8. Margaret Worth acted badly after the word was given, but she showed that her speed was with her, for at the half she was leading by a length, with Pasonte second and Lady O. third. Pasonte broke and fell back, so the battle rested between the two mares. Margaret won the heat by a nose from her game antagonist in 2:17 and the people who backed Pasonte rallied around the pool box to "hedge."

Only three came out for the sixth heat, Pasonte, Margaret Worth and Lady O., all cracking good mares. Margaret Worth led to the half, then Lady O. passed her, and as the former regained her lost position the two moved like a team to the seven-eighths pole. Pasonte made an ineffectual effort to get to the front and broke, and Lady O., forging ahead, won the heat by a length in 2:16½.

"Two heats apiece, Lady O. favorite!" was the way the judges observed the situation. Messrs. Havey, Hogoboom and Franklin thought each of their mares would win, so no time was lost in scoring. Lady O. won it fairly from Margaret Worth in 2:16½. Pasonte third. This was acknowl-

The Palo Alto of To-day.

The opinion that prevails through the Eastern country, at least the eastern and, perhaps, the foreign horse world, is that the famous farm no longer is the home of fast harness horses of so high a type as to be rated the very best of the race. Quite a number of people entertain the idea that the great establishment has been broken up, so far as regards the production of horses, and that if there are a few left they are inferior, far below those who gained such high renown in the past as to hold championship honors in all the classes, from yearlings to three-year-olds and also the "top notch" in the aged list, that the comparison was altogether in favor of those of earlier days. Not at all surprising that the brilliant records obtained before the advent of the "bike" led to such a belief. At the close of the season of 1892 the three-year-old record was Sunol 2:10½, the two-year-old Arion, 2:10¾, and one of the most remarkable features is that in the two-year-old class, from November 20, 1890, when Fred Crocker trotted in 2:25½, Palo Alto has held the trophy, four champions to its credit. In the year 1892 the fastest of any age or sex was Sunol, 2:08¼, the fastest stallion Palo Alto, 2:08¾. The performances of Sunol and Palo Alto have never been equaled with "high wheels;" the bike has not enabled a two-year-old to emulate that of Arion when handicapped with a vehicle that is admitted to be from three to six seconds slower than the sulkies of the present era.

That the fame of Palo Alto was world-wide is not at all surprising when there was a constant succession of prodigies, and when these were cut down to Adbell, yearling, 2:23, and Azote, gelding, 2:04¾, in 1894 and 1885 respectively, the conclusion would naturally be reached that there must be some great falling off and the one cause given the most weight, deterioration of the breeding stock.

While it is well known that education is equally as essential as natural adaptability to acquire fast trotting action, when the development of speed and endurance are the aim people are prone to overlook that material point when not fully conversant with the state of affairs.

While it is well known in California that training has been cut down to small proportions, not only small when compared with that branch before the death of Governor Stanford, but also more limited than on places where the horses do not number one-fifth as many. Away from home there are two erroneous estimates; the prevailing idea, perhaps, that the breeding of horses has been discontinued, the other that it has lost its prestige, not through want of opportunity, but lack of merit.

From the the time that the "Hoag rancho" was purchased and the few horses belonging to the buyer were transferred from Sacramento, until the death of Governor Stanford, I was a frequent visitor. Almost as familiar with the stock and their management as those who had them in charge, watched the foals in the paddocks when following their dams, spent hours at a time in the kindergarten when the weanlings were taking their first lessons, and every step thereafter scrutinized. Safe to assert that never before in the history of fast trotting horses so thorough an education. Novel in nearly every respect. Never a curriculum so well adapted to bring out latent qualifications, a course of instruction that could not be bettered.

After the death of Governor Stanford there was an overpowering dread, an almost uncontrollable disinclination to resume the visits. Weakly sentimentalism it may be termed, but until the feeling of intense regret was, in a measure, overcome, there was a reluctance to make the trip, an aversion to scenes which brought remembrances that intensified the sorrow. This year, on three different occasions, I have spent a few hours at Palo Alto. Friday last the morning train for San Jose landed me at the "Garden City." Always a source of pleasure to attend the fair there I was also anxious to see Pasonte in her race with Dr. Leek who, so far, had captured nearly all the slow classes in the circuit. She won at Oakland, getting a record of 2:17. Her sire, Palo Alto, was my beau ideal of a trotter, and had he been one of the lucky division would have secured like estimates from all who were not governed by prejudice or favortism.

For his opportunities the foremost son of Electioneer in the stud. Forty odd sons and daughters, eleven of them inside of 2:25, seven of them better than 2:20. Two two-year-olds, 2:16, 2:19½; five three-year olds, 2:16½, 2:18¾, 2:18, 2:19½, 2:19½, and a four-year old, 2:13½. His "full" brothers, Altivo and Gov. Pacheco, are likely to be worthy of the relationship.

There were six starters in the race. Pasonte won the first heat; an argument whether Dr. Leek was inside or not. She won the second heat in 2:13½, Dr. Leek far outside. The third heat Pasonte broke soon after the start, fell away behind so far that it seemed hopeless to win the heat, but the gap was rapidly diminished as she came down the homestretch, and the cry was Pasonte wins! She was amongst them 150 yards from home; where the carriages cross to the infield she broke again. Margaret Worth got the heat. Lady O. won the fourth heat, Margaret Worth the fifth. Nearly 5 P. M. We could not wait for the finish, as the train left the depot, nearly a couple of miles away, at 5:35.

The grandam of Pasonte was Dixie, by Billy Townes, a son of imp. Fylde, and her second dam, by Sir Charles, so that so many near infusions may be charged with causing the breaks, but inasmuch as Dr. Leek was decidedly worse and he is far from the "pernicious influence," that reasoning is scarcely logical.

The fogs from the ocean hung heavily on the crests of the Coast range as we neared Palo Alto. A dark blue mass, and but for the lighter streaks which dropped in festoons adown the sides of the hills, a person who was unaccustomed to the country would have thought that in place of vapor it was a portion of the high barrier which separates the bay from the ocean. An admonition, however, that the morning would not be bright, and surely enough the water was dripping from the live oak trees that adorn the stable yard at Palo Alto. The track had been profusely watered the night before, and without sunshine the colts would have small opportunity to show their speed.

A drive to the thoroughbred department in the interim, and if one had been led away with the idea that the breeding of this class of horses had been given up, a glance at the fields and paddocks would correct the erroneous impression. Thirty-three yearlings in preparation for the sale in November, and a grand lot they are, well grown, of high form and of such breeding that the combination can scarcely fail to make race horses.

Going back, we stopped for a moment to look at sixty trotting bred weanlings in one field, and never a better looking lot or those in better keeping when the place was in its highest glory. Stabled and grain fed at night, the alfalfa in these balmy autumnal days is a great adjunct to health and growth.

There is a marked difference, however, in the old methods and those which now prevail.

In place of cropping the succulent alfalfa they would be taking their turns at exercising in the kindergarten, and in lieu of rambling, gamboling and racing with each other across the eighty-acre pasture field, acquiring the proper action to secure championships thereafter. And now it will be well to relate the main purpose of this visit.

A few days before the racing department of the stable departed for Oakland, the trainer who had been stationed at Vina, William Howser, was summoned to Palo Alto.

July 20th he "took up" a lot of colts, mostly two-year olds, to prepare them for sale in Cleveland, in November. The majority of them by Dexter Prince with representatives of Advertiser, Monaco, Lent and Altivo in the string. Breeding, form and near kinship to celebrities were the guide, all of them untutored further than a short stay in the breaking barn.

I was at Palo Alto Sept. 3d, six weeks after Howser had them in hand, and while there was plenty of promise it did not appear at all probable that any great rate of speed could be developed in so short a space as thirty-six days, including Sundays, which are strictly observed as days of rest at Palo Alto.

As stated before, the track was wet and slippery, the fog not breaking until nearly noon, and even after the sunshine had partially removed the moisture, emphatically slow.

Mr. Howser weighs over 190 pounds, the vehicle used a compromise between an old-fashioned sulky and carts weighing about 80 pounds, high wheels and grasshopper springs.

The weight to haul was aggravated by the condition of the track, and worse than that the colts which were first driven had to contend against slippery footing. Notwithstanding that Arient, by Lent, from Arianae, negotiated the quarter in 38½ seconds. He was the only three-year-old driven and his form and action mark him for a racehorse. He ought to be, his sire, record 2:26 a brother to Ah There, 2:18¾, and his dam, also in the 2:26 notch, and her dam, Rebecca, with five in the list. And the Ansels are likely to be great producers, the dam of the crack California two year old, Prince Ansel, being one of the clan. Rebasser, by Altivo, from Rebecca, made a good showing, and Lorigado, by Dexter Prince, from Loraneer, went through the mud in 38½ seconds proof of the correctness of Howser's statement that 36 seconds or better was his rate.

An engagement compelled me to take the train that leaves Palo Alto at 3:11 P. M., and at the "short hour ayont the twal" there was little hope of seeing any great flight of speed

Surprised when Carvallo, by Dexter Prince, from Carrie C., jogged the backstretch in 40 seconds, turned and came through the homestretch in 35¾ seconds. Astonished! when Conlan, by Dexter Prince, from Coral (sister to Anteeo, Antivolo, Anteros and my namesake) "did the trick" in 34½ seconds, and when compared with all the great performances I have witnessed on the same track, will bear the comparison without detriment. The stretch at least one second slow, the heavy cart with high wheels, driver forty odd pounds over-weight, only sixty-eight days of training, one is abundantly justified in placing a very high estimate on the performance.

That speaks for itself; when I add that his action is perfect, a stride of eighteen feet, his motion so easy that at the highest flight it looks as though he was going well within his rate; 15¾ hands, nearly a model in form, and that I would take him in preference to any trotting gelding I have seen this year, allowance must be made for my favoritism for the "old stock."

I was prepared to see a fine-looking lot of colts from the mares that have been bred to Dexter Prince at Palo Alto, and was not disappointed. Will be hugely at fault if they do not prove high-class racehorses, "away up" in the calendar, when the Palo Alto-bred ones score for the word

The racing contingent has done very well. There were two three-year-old trotters and one two year-old in the string Nordeau won three races, two of them good stakes; Anselor one; the two-year-old, a colt of great promise by Whips, went wrong and was sent home. The three-year-old pacer Betonica was a close second to Searchlight at the State Fair, "officially timed" as such in 2:13¼, when the track could be rated as very slow.

Helena, after bearing two colts, reduced her record from 2:12½ to 2:11¼, and Peko, with three offspring, won two races and shortened her record, 2:24, when two years old, to 2:11¼. With engagements at Los Angeles and Santa Ana yet to fill there is a strong probability of further victories.

Betonica is an especial favorite of mine, bred as he is, by Azmoor, 2:20½, from Nadine, by Wildidle, speed and stamina will be a legitimate inheritance.

The dam of Azmoor, Mamie C., by imp. Hercules, her dam by Langford, both of these strains figuring in fast harness horses, and when reinforced by Australian and Lexington, a grand blending of blood. Then, too, Azmoor has six in the list. His son, Azmont, 2:13¼, the largest European winner of the year; Mamie C. has two in the list, Nadine two, and her daughter, Miss Naude, 2:29½, is the dam of the great filly Nordeau, one of the "speediest" of the Palo Alto string. Not at all singular that among the eleven Dexter Princes which will journey to Cleveland there should be a pacer and the two-year-old filly, My Love, from Ladywell, 2:16½ is likely to gain high distinction among that popular class of racehorses. The muddy track did not suit her, though she went a quarter in forty seconds, and in spots set a pace far below that mark. A truly wonderful band of colts that can show so much for so short a time in training. Apt pupils and in addition to the remarkable facility for acquiring fast-trotting action, size and form that will please the eye of an expert.

One of the Drawbacks to harness racing is the tediousness, the interminable, in many cases, delays in obtaining a start for the heat. Spectators, a large majority of them at least, regard protracted scoring as the worst feature of the sport, and, next to suspicions of rascality, the most serious obstacle in the way of popularizing track contests.

Various methods have been proposed to lessen the evil, quite a number of them tried, and yet there are abundant reasons for claiming that small progress has been made. An emphatic rule is needed to bring about reformation, and it may be that a law which would compel the starter to send them off after a specified number of scores will afford relief. For instance, when there are not more than four competitors three scores the limit, from five to eight starters not more than five scores, seven the maximum, however large the field.

Then, of course, the starter would have to be capable and determined, prompt to punish when punishment was necessary to enforce compliance with the rule

Under such a rule the position of stater would be far less harassing. He could inform the drivers that refusals to come up as well as efforts to "beat the flag" would not be tolerated, and if their horses required work to "settle them" that must be given before they were called upon to score. With a law of that description, inexorably enforced, horses would be taught steadiness in scoring, and those found incorrigible would not be allowed to prejudice the chances of all the others.

At Sacramento three quarters of an hour were taken up in scoring for a start, one horse being the chief cause of the delay, at least ten or a dozen good starts had he been out of the race. Finally the start was given with him on a break, and far behind, the starter was taken to task, in fact abused, whereas if he had been compelled to send them off after a stipulated number of scores there would be no chance to find fault, simply doing his duty.

Again at San Jose there was a repitition of the scene, not so long drawn out as the starter did not give them so much latitude and there was a smaller field, but of six starters two were the only trouble, and when sent off on breaks again there was condemnation of the starter.

Five scores, irrespective of the number of starters, should be sufficient to ensure a fair start, and when people are assured that there is a law to shorten the time of scoring, and the law enforced, the wonder will be that it had not been inaugurated years ago.

Good Work.—"Aye ready," always efficient, never neglecting work which will advance harness racing and the interest thereon depending, Major P. P. Johnston, President of the National Trotting Association, and also President of the Kentucky Trotting Horse Breeders Association, gained additional honors by fining Hickok, driver of Thorn, and Fuller the driver of Preston $100 each for laying-up the first heat of the Futurity Stake, which Thorn won, Preston getting second money. Commenting on this the Western Horseman states: "In the next deal Judge Johnston cut the cards and there was no more laying up" Colonel William Russell Allen, owner of Kremlin and Major H. C. McDowell of famous Ashland farm were associate judges, and the prominent positions these gentlemen occupy as breeders of harness horses gave additional emphasis to the verdict. Last year Major McDowell, presided in the stand and a notice was posted that laying up heats would not be tolerated, but that was partially modified by an added clause.

In all probability if these noted knights of the sulky had repeated the offense five hundred dollars would have been the figure. Cards shuffled as well as cut, and a third offense brought the extent of the law.

Many of those who favor the rule against laying up heats, and fully recognize its importance, think it cannot be enforced. That it is not enforced is beyond any question, but if men of the stamp of Major Johnston occupied the same position on the main tracks of the country that estimate would soon be overcome.

Timberlake, a bay gelding by Alfred G., is a new one to the credit of this son of Anteeo. His record is 2:21¼.

Satin Slippers is a world's champion. She has a pacing record of 2:09 and a trotting record of 2:13, both to hopples.

Sam Casto, who has been sojourning in California the past few years, has returned to Oregon and will likely relocate here.

Billy Andrews, by Bow Bells, the fast two-year-old pacer, in the stable of Joe Thayer, has been sold to Mr. Dinehart for $3,000.

Arlene Wilkes, by Hambletonian Wilkes, won a good pacing race at Terra Haute, Ind., Sept. 28th getting a record of 2:13½ in the fifth heat.

Countess Eve, by Norval, is quite a trotter. She lowered her record to 2:09¾ in the fourth heat of a record, September 30th, at Terre Haute, Ind.

Dress Goods, by Confusion, son of Electioneer, is a smooth article. She won a race at Baltimore, Md., October 1st, in 2:18¼, 2:16¾, and 2:16¼.

A large crowd of horsemen visited the Green Meadow Stock Farm, Santa Clara, last week and were delighted with the place and condition of the horses.

Lady Moyra by Saccharine, son of Director 2:17, is quite a good two-year-old pacer. She won a race at Terre Haute Sept. 29th, in two heats 2:20¼ and 2:22.

Princess D., by Duroc Prince, went a wonderful mile for a three-year-old in her first race, when she paced her second heat in 2:18 flat at Salem, Or., this week.

Nico, 2:16¾, by Arion, 2:07¾, is a pretty fair three-year-old. His dam, Maggie Sultan, has a record of 2:29, so this fellow is from developed ancestors on both sides.

The four-year-old colt Nico, 2:16¾, by the great Arion that won at Readville, Mass., October 1st, is out of Maggie Sultan by Sultan—the famous Electioneer-Moor cross again.

Ethel Downs 2:10 is the first one sired by the great stallion Boodle. She is improving all the time. Her race at San Jose was one of the best seen in California.

With the completion of the speedway and its opening for the use of road drivers, the market for trotting horses of good road qualities will be materially enhanced in New York.

Owners of thoroughbreds and trotters who sent their horses to the Brentwood farm for pasturage last spring are delighted with the appearance of all that have been returned to them.

American Belle, the three-year-old that won at Readville, Mass., Sept. 28th, was sired by Rex Americus, out of Beautiful Chimes, by Chimes. She trotted the three heats in 2:16½, 2:17¼ and 2:12¼.

Matuska, the three-year-old chestnut filly by Robert McGregor—Morea, by Electioneer, which took a mark of 2:24½, at Readville last week, will be bred next year and raced in her five-year-old form.

The performance of Gracie P., 2:17¼, by Altamont, is very fast when taking into consideration the fact that she has been driven on the road all summer to a buggy and has not been given any any track work.

Sandy Boy, by Sphinx, recently reduced the Libertyville Ill., track record from 2:17 to 2:15½. Sandy Boy is owned at Oakwood Farm, property of W. P. Dickinson, and shares stud honors with Gamaleon.

Warlock, the son of Belmont and Waterwitch, is showing up wonderfully well as a sire this year. The three trotters, Ackerland, 2:13¾, King Warlock, 2:14¼, and Wert, 2:15¼, and the pacer Valerine, 2:16½, are all by him.

Dress Goods, winner of two races at Baltimore last week, and a record of 2:16¼, is by Confusion, a son of Electioneer. She was bred by Chas. Nolan, Round Wood Farm, Center Square, Pa., and is now owned by E. M. McFarland, a resident of Philadelphia.

The prospects for a lively sale season for trotting-bred stock are better than have been the case for several years. The scarcity of desirable horses makes it certain that those having such will secure very satisfactory prices for all they care to dispose of.

At the Indianapolis State Fair meeting the crowd on the Pointer-Patchen day was so great and encroached so much on the track that the guideless pacer, Lady Anderson, was not started, there not being sufficient room for her to make the circuit of the course.

For halter-pulling, take a small rope (we use a cotton rope about the size of one's little finger) 15 or 16 feet long. Tie a common hame ring in end of rope; pass it through the ring (below the belly) and forward between the forelegs, on up through ring in halter, and tie to the manger.

Eleven trotters have entered the 2:10 list this season, as follows; Grace Hastings, 2:08; Derby Princess, 2:08½; Mosul, 2:09½; Oakland Baron, 2:09¼; Elloree, 2:09¼; Baron Rogers, 2:09¾; Dick Hubbard, 2:09¾; Que Allen, 2:09¾; Bouncer, 2:10; Athanio, 2:10, and Rilma, 2:10.

The race meeting at San Jose was more successful from every point of view than any held there during the past five years. The attendance was excellent and the racing first class in every respect. Next year the management will present a programme second to no other in California.

Belmont, 64, has sired 58 standard performers, while 63 sons have produced 484 with standard records, and 48 of his daughters have produced 71 performers. Nutwood, 2:18¾, with 136 in the list, and Wedgewood, 2:19, are his two greatest sons. Belmont, 64, stands about even with Almont, 33 as the two greatest sons of their sire, Alexander's Abdallah, 15.

Suffering from an ulcerated tooth which was causing him continued pain, the noble pacer Star Pointer went a mile in 2.00½ at Terre Haute, the third quarter being officially timed in 28 seconds, a 1:52 gait, the fastest official quarter ever timed in a public mile. Little less in importance was the mile of Joe Patchen in 2:01¼, the last half being in 0.59½ and the third quarter in 29 seconds.

Countess Eve, the bay mare who trotted into the 2:10 list at Terre Haute last Thursday, is six years old, about 15.2 hands and weights about 1050 lbs. in racing condition. She was bought by her present owner, M. B. Cottrell of Clarence, Iowa, when a yearling from R. G. Evans of Danville, Ky., who bred her. She is intensely trotting bred, being by Norval, dam by Lord Russell; the second, third and fourth dams are by Princeps, Hamlet and Brignoli. She took a record of 2:22¾ last year on the Monticello, Iowa, half-mile track, and this year trotted on the same track in 2:19.

Leo Wilkes 2:29½, brother to Sable Wilkes 2:18, got his first performer in Leonel, who won the first heat of the 2:30 trot at San Jose October 6th in 2:17½ and was at Osito's sulky wheel the second heat in 2:15½ and a close third the following heats in 2:17½, 2:17¾, 2:18. Leonel had received only 30 days' slow work previous to the race, being laid up all season with a troublesome splint. He had had but three miles as fast as 2:25, but one-half better than 1:10 and but one-quarter better than 0:34. It was the first time he ever started, but he never made a break nor skip during the entire race, scoring with all the steadiness of a reliable old campaigner. His dam is inbred to Whipple's Hambletonian being by Magic (sire of Keno R 2:20½), dam by Whipple's Hambletonian, second dam by Algerine, son of Captain Fisher, 2:29½, third dam by Easton's Dave Hill. Magic was by Elmo 2:27, dam by Whipple's Hambletonian.

Tommy Britton, who trotted at Lexington, October 17, 1895, to a two-year-old record of 2:15½, gave the old horses at Rigby Park a taste of his quality. The race, begun September 22nd and ended September 23rd, brought out a field of 12, including Oakland Baron and Valance, and the first and second heats were won by Louis Victor in 2:13½, 2:12½, and the third, fourth and fifth heats by Tommy Britton in 2:14¾, 2:14, 2:15½. Weather and track were slower on Thursday. Oakland Baron was badly beaten. He will have to improve upon his Rigby form to win the Transylvania. Tommy Britton is a brown horse four years old by Liberty Bell (son of Bell Boy and Prefix, by Pancoast), dam Keepsake, by Pancoast, and second dam Dainty, by Contractor. His breeding is rich, and he trots up to his breeding. The fear that his two-year-old development had impaired his ability to train on and fight hard races seems to be unfounded.

"Hooray" for New Jersey! Bigotry and despotism, as well as puritanical fanaticism, were buried under such a shower of ballots September 28th as will proclaim to the world that at last the little State has broken the chains of ignorance and its liberty-loving citizens have gained their freedom. The constitutional amendment demanded by the "holier than thou" element was defeated by such an unmistakable majority as will force the next legislature to give consideration to a bill legalizing the legitimate sport of horse racing. In order to suppress the three racing organizations in the State which were conducting running races for gambling purposes only the present law was passed, and its effect was to bankrupt legitimate associations and horsemen, besides banishing from the State the light harness horse and its owner, thus taking from the farmer and business man millions of dollars which were not returned to him through any other source. Selfishness and ignorance have combined to injure New Jersey in many ways, but the recent special election indicates a return of reason and with it come reasonable laws and merited freedom.

The marked success of the trotting mares, Elloree, 2:09¼, Town Lady, 2:13½, and Emily, 2:13½, will encourage breeders to raise foals from their young mares before developing their speed and campaigning them. All three of these mares have produced foals. Elloree, who holds the world's trotting record to wagon, was bred as a two-year-old, and produced a foal the following season.

No less than six different concerns are advertising in Chicago for horses to kill—at least, six different addresses are given in the advertisements. Tommelin, 316 West Lake, wants good horses, and will pay the highest prices, will buy or trade and will call. The party doing business at 81 Grand avenue wants 500 for killing, highest prices paid, and he will also call; 427 Austin avenue will likewise call and pay highest prices; 876 Erie street pays $2 up to $10 for horses for killing, and 550 Austin avenue merely states that he wants horses to kill, and will call. Frank Werner, 2819 State, likewise pays the highest price, and has the additional qualification of doing his business in a coal office. The trade in horse steaks, chops and roasts must be brisk at home and abroad.

Buffalo has always had a large number of crack drivers, but George L. Lattimer's recent performance put him at the head of the list, for last week at the Buffalo track he drove his chestnut stallion Cracksman, 2:14¼, a mile in 2:09½. The half was reached in 1:05, and he came the last half in 1:04½, an excellent piece of rating for an amateur. The mile was timed by nearly twenty horsemen, including C. F. Dunbar, Billy Shinners, C. B. Zimmer and others, none making it slower than 2:09½. The performance is the most remarkable from the fact that Mr. Lattimer removed the hobbles from Cracksman and the horse also paced the mile on his courage, with no pacemaker or prompter. C. F. Dunbar once drove Johnson a mile in 2:09¾, but he awarded the palm to Mr. Lattimer after Cracksman's mile, and also said he thought the performance equal to a mile in 2:08 under more favorable track and weather conditions. A few minutes after driving Cracksman, Mr. Lattimer drove his black mare Kitty B. a mile in 2:21¾.

A Western exchange sagely remarks that "the year 1897 is the most remarkable in the history of sport and athletics that America has ever seen. Records have been broken and laurels wrested until we are not in the least surprised to pick up a paper and read that a middle weight has won the heavy weight championship of the world; that Star Pointer has put the mile in harness record down to 1:59¼; that the bicyclist has finally equalled the fastest mile ever run by a horse, and that records in almost every branch of sport and athletics have been equalled or beaten by a half score of performers. Why is it? Was the year 1897 destined to be a year for new records, and will the new ones stand as long as the old ones have endured?" The more the question of record-smashing is considered the more wonderful does the year 1897 become, for in addition to the feats mentioned above, the harness race record average for three heats has been lowered below 2:03; the team record has been lowered; several other world's harness records have been smashed and the runners have gone extraordinarily fast, much faster indeed than the average of former seasons. But why should this all have happened in 1897? Is it on account of the planet's peculiar positions, or is it simply because the "world do move"?

Robert McGregor has added two new 2:13 trotters to his list this season, and there are several more of them knocking at the gate. At the close of last season he had more trotters in the 2:15 list than any other sire, and nothing would please me better than to see him keep up the clip. I have always believed in this family of horses, and have been waiting and watching for a descendant of the "Monarch of the Home Stretch" that would be a champion of champions When many good judges pronounced Cresceus the greatest trotter ever foaled, I thought he must be the one I was looking for, and, although his defeat at the hands of American Belle has aroused my doubts, I am still hoping that it will prove to have been an accident due to his lack of condition. He certainly was not the horse he was a few weeks ago, when he showed himself to be even a greater colt than Directum was at the same age, and it looks as if he has had too much racing for his constitution. Cresceus is pronounced "Creshshus." The original Cresceus was a celebrated Roman charioteer whose horses won all kinds of glory in the days when Cæsar was the "whole thing" It is said of Cresceus that he was a personal friend of Cæsar's, and was a man of great wealth. Robert McGregor's 2:15 list includes the following trotters to date: Cresceus 2:11¼, Nyanza 2:12¾, Roxane 2:12¾, Miss McGregor 2:13, Wynema 2:13¼, Bonnie McGregor 2:13½. Count Robert 2:13½, Katie Mac 2:13¾, Nellie McGregor 2:14, Sacaza 2:14, Dollikins 2:14½, Corinne 2:14½ and Roslyn 2:15.

The Oregon horsemen have drifted back from the Montana meeting, some of them taking in the pumpkin show circuit as they went, and all of them vowing like the man in the song "they will never go there any more," says an exchange. The Montana air, as well as the expense, is too high for the Oregonian. None of the horses were in shape to race during the Anaconda meeting, and they had not become thoroughly acclimated when the Butte meeting closed, but they were then coming round into racing form. Chehalis made the best showing of any of them. He was useless at Anaconda, but got into such form at Butte that he won three good races and reduced his record to 2:07¼ on a slow track. His daughter, Umahallis, who had shown some very fast miles on Oregon tracks, started once and finished outside the money. Bessie Rankin, one of Altamont's "96" performers, won a couple of races and took a record of 2:16½. Deceiver, another Altamont, reduced his record to 2:17¾, but could not get nearer the money than third. Mollie Nurse, a "back-woode" mare from southern Oregon, won one race and took a record of 2:14½. Walter H., a son of Del Norte, stepped way inside of the list by taking a heat in 2:18¾, but third money was all that he earned in the two starts that he made. Altas, 2:25, from whom great things were expected, "blew up" every time he has worked and was not started. Bill Frazier, 2:14, the most promising horse of the lot, stepped on a rolling stone soon after reaching Anaconda, and gathered no moss for his owners. His leg is better now, and he will start in California this month. King Altamont, who was working trial heats in 2:15 or better last fall, could not do better than 2:20, and finished second in two races. Pathmont, in the face of long odds, won a good race early in the Anaconda meeting, but failed to repeat the performance at Butte.

THE SADDLE.

Zamar II. beat Diggs, Newsgatherer and others six furlongs in 1:14¾ last Saturday at Harlem.

Hugh Jones arrived in the city last Monday from the East. He is a snug sum ahead of the game.

White Frost, the Oaks winner, won the Latonia Prize last Saturday in 1:48½ for the mile and a sixteenth.

Tea Rose III., now run in Atkin & Lottridge's colors, won a five and one-half-furlong race at Windsor last Saturday.

The Harlem Jockey Club's programme arrived last Monday, as usual, and it shows the marks of up-to-date-ness of its maker.

Al Smith, cashier for Frank Eckert, is home. He says Eckert was the biggest winner of any bookmaker on the New York track during the past season.

Ed Purser will bring to the Coast, besides his own horses, one or two belonging to the Bromley confederation, including Domitor, a very useful plater.

The field book privilege at Los Angeles was awarded to John Humphrey, of San Francisco. With him are associated Harry Corbett and Bart Cavanaugh.

Hazel Dean and Mordecai, horses owned by the McGuigans that are likely to be seen racing in California shortly, won at Harlem on the 7th inst.

Abuse carried 112 pounds to May W.'s 104 and beat the Northwest Territory filly three lengths at Harlem on the 6th, the five furlongs being run in 1:00 flat.

Harry Brown, the featherweight jockey, came along with the Ezell stable to Los Angeles. He can ride at 70 pounds. Guy Neal is the stable's heavyweight rider.

Marquise (half-sister to Quicklime) must be a good mare when she can defeat Grady and Lorena II. at a mile and a quarter. This she did at Fresno October 8th, running the distance in 2:09.

A Chicago, Ill, dispatch of October 9th was as follows: Ed Corrigan will ship his stable to San Francisco next Tuesday. Burns & Waterhouse's string will be sent on the latter part of the week.

We acknowledge the receipt of the monthly edition of the Chicago Racing Form, edited by F. H. Brunell. It is gotten up in its usual good style, and race-players all over the country look for it.

The Burns & Waterhouse horses that took part in the recent San Jose meeting are at Green Meadow Stock Farm, Santa Clara. There were twelve of them, including Palomacita and Elsie Smith.

Mr. Corrigan is here planning for the departure of his and other horses to California. The idea is to take out a special express train of ten cars to the coast.—Daily Racing Form, Chicago, October 6th.

Jockey Joe Piggott, who has been riding for Ed Corrigan all summer, is back from the East. Piggott was fairly successful on the tracks across the Rockies. He will be in saddle at the Los Angeles meeting.

Tommy Griffin, the game little Texan, will bring Tom Cromwell with him to California this winter. He took him out of a selling race recently from M. F. Dwyer, who retaliated by claiming Ben Ronald.

Libertine, with 122 pounds up, was beaten a length by Gath (119 pounds) at Harlem October 8th, Mary Kinzella a half a length further away, time 1:07 for the five and one-half furlongs. Libertine is still pretty speedy.

Parthemax, of the Burns & Waterhouse string, won a seven-furlong race in 1:59¼ at Harlem October 8th, beating Boanerges, Arrezzo and others. The California colt was at odds of 4 to 1. O'Donnell, their new jockey, was up.

W. D. Randall, the popular Montana turfman, arrived at Ingleside with 'Ostler Joe, Salvation, Salmera and two others last Sunday morning. 'Ostler Joe looks very fine. Mr. Randall's horses are entered in the Los Angeles stakes.

At the first day's racing of the Nottingham autumn meeting Meta II., owned by the Lorillard-Beresford stables, won the Bestwood Nursery Plate, a handicap of 200 sovereigns, for 2-year olds; distance five furlongs straight. Eleven horses ran.

Buckwa, trained for Ed Purser by W. M. Murry, won a mile and a sixteenth handicap in 1:43¼ last Saturday at Aqueduct Willie Martin rode the winner, who carried 119 pounds Rey del Tierra and Perseus ran second in mile races.

W. L. Appleby rode two good races in San Jose last week, winning one on imp. Ivy and coming second in the other. Billy has not forgotten his old trick of putting his mounts first over the plate, notwithstanding he has been out of the saddle for seven or eight years.

It is a peculiar fact that Evening Star, by Touchstone, is the third dam of the English mare, Fairy Rose by Kisber (now at Palo Alto), the fourth dam of the Australian stallion Darebin, (now at Rancho del Paso), also the fourth dam of the famous American horse Lamplighter.

Lieber Karl, a two-year-old, carried 108 pounds and ran a mile in 1:40 last Saturday. This is the best run on record for a two-year-old. A few days before this colt ran the distance in 1:40½. Lieber Karl is by Forester—Daisy Woodruff, and owned by J. W. Schorr & Co., the Memphis brewers.

Pat Dunne recently purchased Rey Salazar from E. J. Baldwin at Gravesend for $1,200. Two days afterward the Emperor of Norfolk colt ran a fast five-furlong race, defeating a big field of two-year olds in such an impressive manner that horsemen more than ever marvel at Dunne's shrewd judgment.

A Sausalito item in last Sunday's Call was as follows: Zeke Abraham's poolroom closed to-day, after a continuous run of nearly five months. Glynn & Broyer have withdrawn from the other room, and after barricading the place Harrison will endeavor to run up to the commencement of the local racing season as a "club."

On the steamer Queen, which sailed for San Diego last Monday, went a hundred or more of the local horsemen and race-goers. A number will leave to-day by train to attend the big meeting at Los Angeles, which opened Thursday. John Humphreys is one of the latter. He has the field book privilege and will have charge of the betting ring.

At Salem, Or., October 5th, the winners were: P. J. Williams' Gussie (mile in 1:43½), St Apollo (five furlongs in 1:02½), Princess D, the 3:00 pace, and Atlas, the 2:20 pace. On the 6th Joe D won at three furlongs in 0:35½, and Addie M, six furlongs in 1:19. Staccato won the 2:30 trot (best time 2:25) and Leland W the special trot (best time 2:28).

The report telegraphed from London that Galtee More had been sold to the Austrian Government for £20,000 must be erroneous, in view of the fact that his owner is known to have refused an offer of £30,000 and half the horse's winnings early last summer, and besides, Mr. J. R. Gubbins is a millionaire several times over, and has declared: "The colt is not for sale at any price."

The Pacific Coast Jockey Club has spent over $12,000 in improvements during the summer and fall. A steeplechase course has been built on the infield. Another entrance has been constructed for the use of those who go to the track by train. At Oakland, too, there have been many improvements. New lawns have been put down and an observation stand for the especial use of the trainers has been erected.

At Waverly, Ia., on the morning of October 6th, the livery barn of George Martin, at Allison, burned Nine horses perished. They included several valuable trotters and runners owned by E. C. Hurd, of Nashua, who was on his way with them to the races at Hampton. Miss Mamie, Sound Currency, Howard Lee and Sid Regan, all well known, were among the animals burned. The fire is supposed to be of incendiary origin.

The Chicago Inter Ocean's racing man has no love for featherweights, judging by the following: "B. J. Johnston started Dave Tenny, with 48 pounds on his back, as since the previous Wednesday, when he rode at 55 pounds, his employer has succeeded in reducing the midget's weight seven pounds. Tenny finished just where he should have under such circumstances—last!" This (48 pounds) is about as light a weight as we have heard of being placed on a horse in America.

Captain James Rees, of Memphis, will not be seen in his old position of presiding judge at the Ingleside track before the 1st of January, if then. He quit the stand at Oakley by reason of the illness of his wife, who had gone on to New York, and he had just arrived there when he was called to Memphis by the death of his father-in-law, of whose estate he was made executor, by the terms of the will.

There will be some lively bidding for Torsion at the sale of A. B. Spreckels' gallopers the 17th of November. The half brother to Tiger has rounded to and his Sacramento win at six furlongs with 117 lbs. up stamped him a warm article. Frank James, brother to The Sculptor, will also elicit some red-hot bidding. He only started once and won in true race horse fashion. It is thought he is even a better race horse than his brother, who has won over $8,000 in stakes and purses.

Maj. S. N. Androus, President of the P. C. J. C., was interviewed by a Los Angeles reporter regarding his recent Eastern trip, and among other things said: "The starting gates on the Eastern track are very crude when compared with the Australian gates used in California. August Belmont, who was in California last year and inspected the tracks out here, freely admitted that this State was far ahead of the East in regard to equipments." He was much pleased with the annunciators he saw used in San Francisco and Oakland.

Richard Clawson, the Woodland jockey, had phenomenal luck in Detroit. He rode three winners on September 29th, five on the day following and three more on the 1st of October. He expects to be home soon and in a letter to his mother, says: "I am having good luck now. I will be home soon and will not send you any more money. When I get home I will have enough to last you a long time and will buy you that new home in Alameda." All the Detroit papers announced the result of young Clawson's phenomenal riding under such scare heads as "Clawson's Day" and "Clawson is Good."—Yolo Democrat.

Imp. Islington, brother to Isinglass and sire of Michael III., went East on the train with the Rancho del Paso yearlings on the 3d, as did Mr. Macdonough's three Ormonde yearlings. On the arrival of Islington at New York he will be shipped to his breeder, Captain McCalmont, M. P., to share the duties of the stud with Isinglass. The return of this horse to his native land is a loss to American breeding, as such stock as he has got here, that have had any chance at all, promise well. Captain McCalmont is pleased with the Islington youngsters that were shipped over to him, and will be glad to have the horse back.

Last Monday morning we received the certificates of registration of the Antrim Stock Farm yearlings bred by Charles Kerr, of Bakersfield, twenty-one in number, and those bred by Hon. Theodore Winters at his Rancho del Sierras, near Washoe, Nevada, fourteen in all. In the Antrim Stock Farm consignment there will be three by the great race horse Nomad, three by Orizaba, five by the successful Apache, six by imp. Calvados, one by Herald or imp. Calvados and three by the beautiful Sir Modred horse, Rio Bravo. In the Winters consignment there will be twelve by the unbeaten El Rio Rey and two by Joe Hooker, the last of the get of the famous sire of C. H. Todd and Yo Tambien.

The order of events of the Los Angeles nine days' meet was arranged as follows: On Thursday, October 14, opening day, there was the 2:12 trot, 2:12 pace, the Citrus handicap and the maiden plate; Friday, 2:30 trot, Santa Catalina slide; Saturday free-for-all pace, 2:20 trot, Los Angeles Derby, Los Angeles Futurity; Monday there was to be the 2:17 trot, Western Spirit, Santa Monica scramble; Tuesday 2:30 pace; Blue Ribbon hurdle, Main-street and Agricultural Park Railroad handicap; Wednesday 2:24 trot; Thursday 2:15 trot Southern California stake; Friday, 2:17 pace, Van Nuys Hotel handicap; Saturday, free-for-all trot, 2:20 trot, Pasadena handicap. Over-night races will be arranged from day to day.

The dates of three of the Occidental Horse Exchange sales have been set as follows: Wednesday, November 17th, the first Spreckels sale of horses in training (34 head), Monday, November 22d, the Antrim Stock Farm sale of yearlings, 21 head, and on Monday, November 29th, the Rancho del Sierras yearling sale, (14 head.) In the the first Spreckels sale are a large number of high-class and well-known performers. In the Antrim sale are colts or fillies by Apache, imp. Calvados, Nomad, Orizaba and Rio Bravo. The Rancho del Sierra youngsters are by El Rio Rey and Joe Hooker—the last of the latter's get. Monday is a good day, for on Sunday prospective buyers can look over the bunch nicely.

J. S. Curtis, the South African turfman, has registered with Messrs. Weatherby, in England, names for American-bred yearlings, as follows: Method, for brown colt (brother to Ornament), by imp. Order, dam Victorine; Knight of the Rose, for chestnut colt (brother to Henry of Navarre), by Knight of Ellerslie, dam Moss Ross; Indian Chief II., for chestnut colt by Knight of Ellerslie, dam Pocahontas; Muggins II., for bay colt by Knight of Ellerslie, dam Belle Day; Belle of the Choir, for chestnut filly by Chorister, dam imp. Belle Rose; Web of Fate, for brown filly by Tournament, dam imp. Distaff. For foals of 1897; Star of Hanover, for chestnut colt by Hanover, dam imp. Star Actress, and Lammas, for brown colt by imp. Candlemas, dam Pride of Kingston.

The stewards of the Brooklyn Jockey Club on Saturday, September 25, decided that the horse Howard Mann, jointly claimed out of a recent selling race by Roy Carruthers and "Lucky" Baldwin's agent, has been properly awarded to the latter on the score that the finishing second of a Baldwin horse in the race in question gave the Baldwin agent priority in the right of claiming, and that there was no collusion in the claim between "Pittsburg Phil," former owner of Howard Mann, and the Baldwin agent. Carruthers appealed to The Jockey Club on the score that Taylor, trainer for Baldwin, who claimed the horse, had not been acknowledged by E. J. Baldwin as an authorized agent. The Jockey Club sustained the appeal, and ordered that the horse be surrendered by Taylor and Carruthers. Howard Mann has now cost Carruthers $2,600.

About all of the stock which has been quartered at Elmendorf has now been dispersed to other stud farms, nearly of them going to Beaumont and Hartland. The stock belonging to Mr. L. O. Appleby of the Silverbrook Stud, were taken to Beaumont this week. They comprise the young stallion imp. Victory and sixteen mares, as follows: Gladaga, Ursuline Nun, Elsinore, Lupa, Bunch, Midget, Cherokee, Scotia, Shuffle, Pearl Glenn, Florence Bell, Douphine, Almy filly, Looram mare, Sailor Prince mare, Ellerdie. There were also eight foals by such horses as Knight of Ellerslie, imp. Order, Hanover, etc. The Lioness and weanling by imp. Candlemas, both the property of Mr. R. Roche of New York, were also taken to Beaumont. The mares belonging to Mr. B. J. Johnson were taken from Elmendorf to Beaumont last week. The stallions St. Saviour and Owas and about twenty mares, belonging to Mr. F. Gibhard of New York, went to Hartland, as did the mares belonging to Mr. W. Astor Chandler. Three or four mares belonging to W. Lakeland were taken to Dr. Norwood's. Elmendorf, it will be observed in this issue, is advertised to be sold publicly at the Brookdale sale in New York on October 23d.—The Thoroughbred Record.

Col. Bob Harlan, one of the old-time turfmen, died early in the week at his home in this city, says "Broad Church" in the Cincinnati correspondence of the New York Spirit of the Times. There was no particular ailment to bring about his demise, but as he was eighty-two, he simply succumbed to the feebleness of old age. He was probably the best known colored man in the United States, for he was prominent in politics, on the turf, and in potent efforts for the elevation of his race. He was well-known in Europe, having spent a dozen years over there, figuring conspicuously on the English turf. He was tall and well built, his complexion was swarthy, not black; there was no kink in his hair, and his ample black mustache (it was always black) helped to make him a note-worthy looking personage. For many decades he had hobnobbed with men prominent in national politics, and had held office himself, so that he was a man of good address and good manners. Twenty years ago he was among the most conspicuous figures of the Western turf, and his passion for the racing game remained to the last. He was at Oakley few times during the Summer meeting there. His funeral took place from St. Paul's Episcopal Church, and many prominent white people were among the large crowd present

General Jackson, of Tennessee, says Mr. Richard Croker's English breeding estalishment is a model. He saw Dobbins there and several of his get. He declares Dobbins is really a grand looking horse, and that his get show up as well as any youngsters he saw. Mr. Croker has sixteen mares, all stinted to Dobbins. The New Yorker is ambitious to win the Derby, and he has a hope that he will be able to do it with a son of Dobbins. There is a Belle Meade filly at Mr. Croker's place, by imp. Loyalist, out of Wander, that the English trainers say is one of the best doers in that country. The General says the English stallions rank as follows: St. Simon, first; Hampton, second, and Kendal third. The latter's rank is almost entirely due to Galtee More, winner of the Derby and St. Leger. St. Simon carries a life insurance of $500,000. He has already earned that amount in the stud and has his book full for three years at $2,500 for each mare. His book each season is limited to about forty mares. Matthew Dawson, one of the most celebrated trainers in England, does not hesitate to pronounce St. Simon the greatest stallion living, ranking him above all others. General Jackson thinks St. Simon's son, St. Serf, one of the greatest looking horses he saw in England. He bears a striking resemblance to St. Simon. He saw Bend Or. and says the old horse (he is now 20 years of age) is very well preserved. The best mare he saw in England is Ornament, sister to Ormonde.

California Race Horses and Registration.

"The coming meetings will be the greatest ever held in California. There will be more horses, a larger number of owners new to Pacific Coasters than ever, and all the old guard as well." This is the feeling regarding the racing situation in and around San Francisco, and intelligence from the East bears out the assertion.

The California-bred horses have this season, as usual, more than held their own on tracks east of the Rockies. We have been called upon to chronicle more of their victories this year than previously. As the season wore on, our equine representatives seemed to improve wonderfully. Only last Tuesday Burns & Waterhouse's Maxim filly, Napamax, bred at Rancho del Paso, won the Aspirant Stakes at Harlem (Chicago). During the previous week their Salvator colt, Bliss Rucker, won the Holly Handicap at Gravesend from a grand field of youngsters. A few days before that Salvable, by Salvator, won a stake there, and was victorious Thursday in the Autumn. Tea Rose established a track record of 1:06¼ for five and a half furlongs at Windsor, Ontario. Geyser ran a mile and a sixteenth in 1:46½ at Fort Erie, a track record also. Many other grand achievements of the Golden State gallopers might be spoken of, but any one with any knowledge of thoroughbred racers knows their merits.

The prospect for eight months of good racing in California next year is also excellent. That will cause a demand for more race horses and will make a market for thoroughbreds. The Japanese Government, too, has representatives in this country instructed to buy a large number of fashionably-bred thoroughbreds for the imperial stud. Then several wealthy men have announced their intention of enlisting in the grand army of race horse owners. This is gratifying news to the men who have thousands of dollars at stake in the business of breeding blue-blooded members of the equine race, and who desire good returns on their investments as well as a semblance of appreciation of true merit.

There is no market here for the short-bred gallopers, that is, those not having the required five uncontaminated crosses of running blood on both sides of the house, the unregistered and unregisterable flyers. The man who has never registered his stock nor tried to verify the pedigree of his horses is a very busy person about now, for the races are coming on at Ingleside, and he has one or two in his string that showed great speed, and he thinks they might win a stake or so, if he could just find five crosses on both sides, so as to get them registered. We have had many calls during the past week from owners of unhappy, unregistered gallopers. The officials of the P. C. J. C., too, have been kept busy throwing out the careless breeders' horses, and if certificates of registration are not held by breeders of young thoroughbreds (for the market) the owners of such animals might as well save time and expense and keep their colts and fillies at home, for turfmen will simply pay nothing for unregistered gallopers of unknown ability.

With additional attention paid to registration will come a better knowledge of blood lines and more intelligent breeding, and in a few years the effect of all this will be seen in a better class of horses appearing on race tracks all over the country. Then, too, there will be a search in old garrets for yellow-looking documents covered with dust, and the pedigree of many supposedly short bred horses will prove to be first-class and fashionable, all of which will be gratifying to a host of owners interested in horses from those particular families. Let the good work go on.

The San Jose Fair.

The meeting which closed last Saturday at the Garden City was the most successful held there in years. There were many reasons assigned for this. In the first place it was advertised extensively throughout San Mateo and Santa Clara counties, and the local newspapers gave full accounts of the weekly meetings held by the Board of Directors at which suggestions were offered (and many adopted) by people interested in the success of the meeting which they thought might attract an audience each day. Then, again, liberal purses were offered, and as the racing commenced with coursing matches at eleven in the morning, ending at noon, and the running and trotting events began at 1:30, those who attended would be sure of having a day's enjoyment. The judges performed their duties well and throughout the entire meeting their decisions met with the approval of all present. The starting was excellent, while the drivers did their very best to win with their horses, as a glance at the summaries in another portion of this journal will show. Every heat a race and every driver trying his best was the idea followed each day, to the delight of the thousands assembled.

The two grand stands, with the exception of the opening day, were filled to overflowing, while the carriages in the infield were four rows deep and the line extended for over a quarter of a mile, and the roads leading through Agricultural Park to the race course were also lined with lighter vehicles of every description.

The weather was delightful, the track perfect, and everything in connection with meeting was conducted in a systematic manner, so much so, in fact, that congratulations were showered upon the Board of Directors and the Secretary from all sides.

There seemed to be plenty of money in sight for speculative purposes, and as this is only the beginning of the season when the golden twenties are rolling back from the East in exchange for the thousands of tons of fruit and cases of wine, what will the speculation at the track be next season when a meeting will be given at this place which will almost rival the one at Los Angeles? The lighter harness horse industry received an impetus at every meeting in California this year, and although there were only three places on the circuit where the attendance fell off, it was not the fault of the owners or drivers of the contending horses. They did their best to please and give those who attended full value for their money. The business is on a better basis than ever and prices of good horses are returning to better figures. Many offerings were made for campaigners at San Jose, but were refused, for next season, if there is to be no racing in Montana, there will be a circuit in California that will make every horse-owner a money-winner. At Marysville, Woodland, Sacramento, Stockton, San Jose, Fresno, Ventura, Salinas, Los Angeles and Santa Ana meetings will be held while the P. C. T. H. B. Association will also be in line with at least two good meetings, and it would not surprise us if Napa and Santa Rosa would fall in line. The meeting in Los Angeles, now in progress, will be the best ever held in that city and will be a fitting climax to the racing season of 1897.

Retirement of A. R. Crowell.

Mr. A. R. Crowell, who has been editing the Rod, Gun and Kennel departments of this journal for over four years, has resigned his position to take charge of a copper mine at South Riverside. While regretting to lose the services of an associate, nevertheless we congratulate him upon his prospects. A more conscientious, earnest and enthusiastic writer was never connected with this journal, and in this new line of work we know he will do his very best to honestly achieve success. He has the best wishes of every sportsman on this coast, among whom he has made many true friends.

John X. De Witt, a well known devote of the gun and rod and an ardent lover of sports in general on this coast, will assume the editorship of this department and endeavor to give the very latest and best news in this department in as concise a form as possible. Mr. De Witt is perhaps as well known as any young man in California, and we believe his work will meet with the approval of all.

The Coming Brookdale Sale.

The sale of the Brookdale horses in training, stallions and brood mares, bids fair to be one of the best in American history. There are seventy head in all.

The stallions are Kinglike (sire of L'Alouette, winner of The Futurity this year), imp. Juvenal, Uncas and Faverdale (latter sire of Sweet Faverdale, Preston, etc.).

Among the horses in training are Requital (winner of the The Futurity, Realization and many other rich stakes), Fireside (sister to Sweet Faverdale), La Sagesse, Gibraltar, Boy Orator, L'Alouette, Colonial Dame and Attainment.

In the last of brood mares we note such celebrities as imp. Abundance (dam of Gregory), Auricoma, imp. Born Fool, Chemise, imp. Essayez II., Fan Fan, imp. Favonia, Juliette (dam of L'Alouette), Golden Rod, Necromancy, Retribution (dam of Requital, Contribution, Nick, etc.), Stately, imp. Sweet Home (dam of Sweet Faverdale, Preston and Fireside), Uproar, Wyandotte and the great racer, imp. One I Love. The dates of this great sale are October 21, 22 and 23, 1897, at Morris Park track.

Marcus Daly, in a recent interview, declares that he will quit racing for awhile, that is all. He will keep up his breeding establishment, but not on so extensive a scale as heretofore. Among other things, Mr. Daly said: "Matt Byrnes, who has been with me several years, is still with me, and will train and handle the colts, possibly racing a little." The multi-millionaire further declared there would be plenty of good racing in Montana and he might enter some two-year-olds there next year. He is pleased with Mr. Tipton's management of the Butte and Anaconda tracks. In regard to putting down "jobs" the popular mining man says that some of the best citizens of Butte encourage crookedness instead of denouncing it; that many of them are ever on the lookout for a "sure thing." However, jobbery will be stopped in Montana, he declares, for there will be horses owned by Easterners there next season, making the chances of carrying out nefarious schemes exceedingly slim. Mr. Daly wound up the interview relating to racing by saying: "There will be more running races and fewer harness races hereafter."

A scheme proposed by an Eastern turfman to do away with the entering of a stake or handicap horse in a selling race with low-class platers is a good one. The idea, as we understand it, is to have the official handicapper classify the selling platers in four classes, and when an owner enters his horse he leaves it to the handicapper to decide what particular selling race the horse shall go into. The handicapper is also to fix the price the animal entered is to be sold for. It strikes us that the plan would work nicely if competent handicappers were secured by the various clubs, and these selling races could be made very satisfactory affairs, the contests close and the betting lively. But would the owners take to the scheme? There's the rub. But if the clubs combined on the proposition and said it must "go" wouldn't there be more horses entered in stakes and handicaps than at present, a fewer number in selling races? And is that not preferable to seeing horses running in races every day where they completely outclass their fields?

The list of horses that have entered the 2:30 list in California or elsewhere, or have lowered their records, is one which will prove interesting reading for all who have light harness horses on this Coast. Last year we published a similar list and it did not fill a column and three-quarters, but this year another column has been added and the sons and daughters of our old California sires are keeping up the reputations of our horses. The list, long as it appears, is not complete. There are many additions to be made to it, and no doubt there are some errors. We earnestly hope all who detect any will drop us a line so that we can make the necessary changes. However, we are gratified at the magnificent showing made by the light harness horses of this great State and challenge any State, or any two States, in the Union to produce its equal.

The attention of light-harness horse owners is called to the stakes offered by the Colusa Jockey Club, advertisted in this issue. Entries close November 1st.

The San Jose Race Meeting.

edged to be one of the best contested races ever seen in California and almost equalled the seven-heat race which Mamie Griffin won at Chico.

The second race was for trotters of the 2:24 class, purse $400, with Osito (Durfee), Nancy W. (Wise), Palermo (Keating), Claudius (Bunch) and Winnella (Van Bokkelen) as the starters. Claudius was the favorite and he had it all his own way for the three straight heats, none of the other horses, with the exception of Osito, being in it for a picayune.

In the first heat Claudius went ahead with such velocity and maintained his speed with such ease that no doubt existed in the minds of any of the onlookers that he could have shut out all of the others if his driver had so willed. Each heat was a repetition of the other, and therefore the interest was not keen nor the betting fast and furious. In fact there were but few bets made on this race after the first heat, the superiority of the Vendome stallion being so obvious that no one cared to venture a nickel against his chances. Time for the heats, 2:19, 2:15 and 2:15½. Osito got second money, Palermo third and Winnella fourth.

The running race of six furlongs, single dash, was joy for the sports, for it was believed, in spite of the betting which made Macfarlane the fourth, that Riot would win, for the good and sufficient reason that Enos was his rider—Enos, the plucky winner of three preceding races of the Fair, two with Masoero and one with Mollie R. The result proved the confidence of Enos' admirers, for Riot won easily in 1:15, with Macfarlaae second and Sleepy Jane third. The other starters were Silas, Sands Forman and Sir Philip.

LAST DAY, SATURDAY, OCTOBER 9.

The same good judges who officiated so well all week were at their post early and the recalls were dispatched with a promptness that was commendable. Directors Partridge and Hostetter assisted President Topham, while starter Covey showed a great improvement over his work this season. Secretary F. J. Brandon acted as Clerk.

The first event of the racing card was the match pacing race, heats, best two in three, between the Palo Alto Farm's Dictatus and the Agnew Stock Farm's Lynette. Dictatus was in poor condition and did not show up any better than he looked. Lynette won the first heat handily in 2:20. In the second heat Dictatus lost all chance of winning by a bad break and Lynette jogged in, taking the heat and race. The time for the second heat was 2:21¼.

There were five horses entered in the 2:15 trot. Andy McDowell's Carlyle Carne, Palo Alto Farm's Peko, O. Marchand's Lady O. and Park Henshaw's Chico. The talent played Carlyle Carne as a sure thing, and McDowell's gray gelding brought $10 to $7 for the field. In the Paris Mutules there was a big play on the favorite, but those who played him to win the heat were not as wise as the men who bought him in the auction pools.

Peko went out in the lead, closely followed by Carne. The positions remained the same until the three-quarters was reached. Then Carne got his head in front. Lady O. was third, apparently suffering from the effects of her great effort Friday, when she won a seven-heat race. Down the stretch Carne and Peko raced side by side. The bay mare made a noble finish, and passed under the wire a winner in 2:11¼. Carlyle Carne was second and Lady O third. The mutuals paid $6 20 on this heat.

Peko again led off and kept ahead of the gray gelding through the back stretch. Then Carne took the lead and maintained it to the finish, the bay mare breaking in the stretch, but managed to finish second. Carlyle Carne's time for the mile was 2:12¼.

The field brought $8 against $10 for Carne just before the third heat, but this was the last of the betting on the race, as the backers of the field soon found they had made a mistake. Carne took the lead for the second heat, and all the way around it was a procession. Peko broke soon after passing the half, and Lady O. then made an effort to catch the flying gray. The attempt was far from successful, Carne winning by several lengths. Lady O. was second and Peko third. Time, 2:12½.

Carlyle Carne showed what a good thing he was by leading all the way around in the fourth heat and winning easily. Peko was second. Time 2:15½.

In the race between the pacer, Our Boy, and the local bicyclist, Wing, the horse won the first heat in 2:13½, but Wing won the next in the remarkably good time of 2:08¼ and then repeated this victory by winning again in 2:10½ and 2:13½. Wing was favorite in the betting at $10 to $5 and hundreds of dollars were wagered on the result.

In the first running race, a mile and 100 yards, there were five horses—Masoero, Two Cheers, Mollie R., Coda, Meadow Lark. The betting was spirited, there being warm tips out on Coda and Meadow Lark. Masoero opened favorite at 2 to 3, but there was not much play on him and at post time he was at even money. Coda opened at 4 to 1, but was backed down to even money, rising again, however, to 2 to 1. Meadow Lark was 3 to 2 in the first quotations, but soon found many backers at 8 to 5. Two Cheers was not popular and as good as 6 to 1 could be obtained on him. Mollie R. remained stationary at 4 to 1, but quite a number of place tickets were sold on her at even money.

Coda led passing the wire, with Meadow Lark second. At the quarter Meadow Lark was in front, with Coda second. Then Enos brought Masoero to the front and kept him there into the stretch Masoero was first. Mollie R. came fast and finished behind Masoero, Meadow Lark being third. Time, 1:48.

P. Enos, who rode Masoero, is the star jockey of the meet. He had five mounts and won all of them, riding Masoero to victory three times, Mollie R. once and Riot once.

The six-furlong running race was also well played. Nebula was heavily backed by the plungers at 1 to 3. At post time the price was a little better, 2 to 5. The small money men as a rule played Duke of York II, whose price oscillated from even money to 2 to 1. Elmer F. was quoted at 4 to 1 and Sir Philip at 12 to 1. A large number of tickets were sold on the field against Nebula, even money being wagered.

Nebula and Duke of York made the running to the three-quarters. Entering the stretch Duke of York had the favorite beaten. Morse on Nebula was using the whip, while Ward on the Duke was sitting still, keeping his mount in front without any apparent effort. McNichols began to bring Elmer F. up on the outside, and then little Ward got down to hard riding. It was a sensational finish, Duke of York beating out Elmer F. by half a head. Nebula third. Time, 1:14¾.

Trotting, 2:15 class; $500.

This ended one of the most successful meetings ever held in the Garden City. Great credit is reflected upon the enterprising association for the manner in which they conducted it. Everything passed off smoothly and harmoniously as if this kind of sport was an every-day occurrence. When the gates closed at 5 o'clock the people said: "We are sorry the week's sport is at an end."

THE FIRST GREAT SPRECKELS SALE.

Thirty-Four Thoroughbred Racers to Pass Under the Hammer November 17th at the Occidental Horse Exchange.

The night of Wednesday, November 17, 1897, is the date set for the first Spreckels sale—that is, the racers two years old and upward that comprise his entire racing string. It will be the first sale held at the new Occidental Horse Exchange at 37 Tehama street, and keen interest is felt in this particular sale, not only because several high-class race horses are in the Spreckels consignment, and nearly every animal is bred in the purple and from racing families well known to all turfmen, but because William Fitch, the famous auctioneer, has never appeared before a California audience. His reputation has preceded him, however, and those well qualified to judge such matters pronounce Mr. Fitch one of the most magnetic, convincing and thorough men in the business.

The Spreckels sale catalogues are well under way, and if nothing unforeseen happens will be out to-day and ready for distribution to prospective buyers by Monday next.

From present indications, there will be some lively bidding on these animals, especially for Marcel, the Luke Blackburn mare, which has won 32 races and over $11,000; for Gallant, a stake winner, victor over Lissak, Magnet and many other celebrities and a good winner from his two-year-old form up; for Torsion, who won in such gallant style at the last Sacramento meeting with 117 pounds up; for Frank James, who won his only start recently, and with a "green" stable lad in the saddle; for Foremost, who, like good wine, seems to improve as the years roll around; for the beautiful Olive, winner of 27 races in less than three seasons on the turf and incidentally over $9,100; for Florimel, winner and a sister in blood to Lorena II., who captured the Capital City Stake at the recent Sacramento meet, beating Installator and others; for the excellent winning two-year-olds, Little T. G. and Aluminum, and for the handsome Imperious, the speedy Kummel (half-sister to Chartreuse II, the record-breaker), and the maiden two-year-olds by imp. Idalium (the already successful black brother to Sir Modred and Cheviot), the record breaker Racine, imp. Cyrus (sire of Kylo), John A. (sire of Oakland, Emma Nevada, etc.), St. Saviour (sire of De Bracey, Gilead, etc.), imp. Maxim (sire of Fleur-de-Lis, Napamax, Rowena B.), Prince of Norfolk (sire of Rey Alfonso, Tigress, etc.), and the peerless Salvator (sire of Salvable, Salvation, San Mateo, etc.)

The horses in this sale will go to the highest bidder, there is no reserve on them, and there will be no by-betting, either.

The Spreckels horses will be kept in active training up to the day of their coming to the Occidental Horse Exchange, and hence most of them will be "ready money." They are almost without exception entered in the stakes of the C. J. C. and P. C. J. C., and a list of their engagements will be given in the catalogues to be sent out next week.

THE attention of our readers is called to the advertisement of McAfee Bros., the well known real estate dealers and auctioneers of San Francisco, who are to sell at auction Saturday, Nov. 6th, ten thousand acres of the finest land in San Joaquin Valley. It is situated near Atwater and is suitable for agricultural or stock raising purposes. Here is an opportunity that should not be overlooked by seekers after first-class land. A special excursion train will leave San Francisco for Atwater on the day of sale.

PAT DUNNE will bring with him to do his light riding a boy named Maher.

MCLIGHT and Lucky Dog are being schooled over the jumps at Ingleside. Both take to the timbers nicely.

"BILLY" BEVERLY is quite a heavy loser at Harlem. Beverly has always won in California, but has been less successful at the East.

THE winners at Los Angeles Thursday, the first day, were Elmer F., Alvarado, Ostler Joe (the Citrus Belt Handicap) and Roxey Murphy.

TRAINER Jimmy McCormick shipped from Harlem to California Thursday. His horses are right on edge and ought to win frequently at the opening of the season here.

W. B. SINK has bought of L. Legg two two-year-olds, The Ace and Dr. Sharp. Both have several brackets to their credit. Mr. Sink paid $2,500 for them, and horsemen say they are bargains at this figure.

POKOMOKO, by Barney Schrieber's Foul Shot, won two hurdle races at Marton, N. Z., on the afternoon of September 12th, both at one and one half miles. His picture in consequence appeared in the Auckland Sporting Review.

THE CHEAT, quite a fair 2-year-old, in the Ezell string, which arrived last week from the Harlem track, died of lung fever yesterday morning. He was by Deceiver and had several winning brackets to his credit.—Los Angeles Herald, Oct. 12th.

A CHICAGO dispatch of last Thursday was as follows: "Virginia" Bradley has leased to Burns & Waterhouse the cracking colt Traverser, probably the best two-year-old, excepting Hamburg, that the West has produced this year. Traverser will be raced on the San Francisco tracks.

ED CORRIGAN'S horses reached here yesterday and went direct to Ingleside. Among them are The Bachelor, Mirth, Truth, Hurly Burly, Indio and several that have not been seen on this Coast. Part of Mr. Corrigan's string, including Moylan, spent the summer on Charles Kerr's ranch at Bakersfield.

W. B. SINK wired H. ("Skeets") Martin Thursday asking him if he would ride for the Sink-Hildreth stable this winter and offered $2 500 for his services this season. Martin was with Daggie Smith last year, and it is likely he will make a bid, or has already, for the jockey. Smith gave Martin his opportunity to make a name for himself.

MRS. LANGTRY'S Merman won the Cesarewitch Stakes with Merman and something like $200,000 on Wednesday at Newmarket, England. Mr. DeBell's The Rush was second and J. T Dugdale's Carlton Grange third. Merman is a five-year-old Australian horse by Grand Flaneur—Seaweed. Tod Sloan was on St. Cloud, who did not show. Mrs. Langtry won the Liverpool Cup with Clwyd this year. The distance in the Cesarewitch is two miles, 2 furlongs and thirty-five yards.

THE sale of Rancho del Paso yearlings was begun in the sales paddock at the Morris Park track on Thursday. The bidding was slow and prices very small. Only nine of the lot of fifty were offered, and one was returned without a bid. The best prices were: Brown colt, by Tenny—Judith, W. H. Karrick, $1,700; chestnut colt, by Islington—Temescal, W. C. Rollins, $500. A lot of the youngsters, before they left, were suffering with the peculiar disease that broke out first in the San Joaquin valley, and that in all likelihood accounted for the lack of bidders.

FRANK H. BURKE, one of the most prominent breeders of light harness horses in California, has retired from the business. Mr. Burke owned the La Siesta Stock Farm and for many years his horses won money and honors on our race tracks. He had for a number of years the Electioneer stallion Eros, 2:29¾, as the premier sire. His selection of brood mares was of the best and he received high prices for all he had and raised. His business affairs in San Francisco have reached such a position that he finds it impossible to devote any of his time to his stock farm. Everyone who knows Mr. Burke will regret to hear of his retirement.

California's 2:30 List.

Following is a list of all 2:30 performers which trace to sires that were bred or owned in California as well as those that have won heats this year throughout the United States. We would be pleased if any of our readers would forward any additions to it we may have omitted or send us any corrections they may deem fit to make. We would also be pleased to receive the breeding on the dam's side of all those that have entered the list this year. It is corrected to Oct. 6th :

Chehalis a Record-Breaker.

Salem, Or., October 6.—Chehalis to-day lowered the world's record 3½ seconds for the two-mile pace at the State Fair track, in the presence of 10,000 people.

Chehalis, driven by his owner, Frank Frazier, appeared on track with his full brother, Del Norte, who has a record of 2:08. Both horses were loudly cheered. After scoring through the stretch a few times, Del Norte withdrew. After scoring once, Frazier announced that he was ready to start, and hundreds of watches were held in readiness to record his attempt to make a world's record.

Like a flash the black stallion was down to the wire, and almost before the spectators could realize it, was on his way making the first turn, moving very easily. At the first three quarter pole the runner Bonbonniere, ridden by Galbraith, jumped in, but the Oregon pacer needed no prompter. He reeled off the first mile in 2:09 flat.

"Too fast; he'll never make it," was on many tongues as the first mile was finished. But his well-wishers breathed easier when 3:14 was called at the mile and a half.

Thirty-one seconds more saw him at the mile and three-quarters, and in the face of a strong southwestern wind he strode home gamely, creating a fresh record by passing under the wire in 4:19¼.

When the time was announced, amid prolonged cheers, Chehalis was crowned with wreaths of flowers, and led off the track, looking but little worse for his world-beating two-mile pace.

Chehalis' record by quarters was:

First mile	0:32½, 1:05¼, 1:37, 2:09
Second mile	2:39, 3:14, 3:45, 4:19½

The best previous time for the two-mile pace was made by W. W. P. against time at Lincoln, Neb., October 31, 1895. W. W. P. made the distance in 4:22¾.

Denver, Col., June 12, 1897.

Cracked heels, hopple chafed, cuts and wounds of all kinds are of very short duration when De Hoy's "Balmoline" is properly applied. I have given it a thorough trial and know whereof I speak. Dick Filen.

A Rifle for Big Game.

Had the idea of a 30 caliber rifle for big game been suggested a few years ago, it would have been received with ridicule. Now, however, conditions have changed and instead of the hunter going after the larger animals with a heavy gun, he takes one of the smallest calibers that is made. Experiments have proved its practicability, and the arts of gunmaking and hunting have experienced a revolution. It was inaugurated by the '95 model of Winchester rifle. This shoots the 30 caliber soft-point cartridge, with smokeless powder. It was contended from the first that such cartridges would prove popular for big game hunting on account of their high velocity, extremely flat trajectory and great penetration, and therefore, they conveyed tremendous killing power. Experiments made have shown that the effect of these bullets upon the largest game is something terrible, as the lead flattens into the form of a mushroom, and, in addition to the big wound, helps by this process toward "shocking" the animal struck.

The Winchester people recently issued a special catalogue dealing with this new model, and giving the results of some of the experiments. W. E. Carlin, a contributor to Recreation, shot a large grizzly in the Rocky Mountains, using the 30-caliber soft-point cartridge. Only three shots were fired into this giant of force and vitality. The one which struck the skull shattered the bone into small pieces; another shot had smashed both shoulders into atoms. Hon. Theo. Roosevelt experimented with the weapon, and says that he would without hesitation use it for any game in America. T. S. Van Dyke, the writer on game, has experimented with the weapon, and pronounces it to be a splendid gun.

Some Bags.

In the course of last year there appeared in a sporting contemporary Lord de Grey's wonderful record of game killed from 1867 to 1895. In yet another journal the present Kaiser William's record up to May, 1896, was published. Comparison, of course, is out of the question, but in placing the Emperor's figures by the side of the Earl's, we realize what a marvelous shot the latter gentleman is; for the Emperor is no mean sportsman, and yet his figures look very mean when placed side by side with those of the heir to the Marquisate of Ripon.

Of pheasants the Kaiser has disposed of 7,387, to the Earl's 111,190; 407 partridges are all the Emperor can put forward, while the earl's score is 89,401; the imperial record of grouse has apparently not been kept, 47,468 are Lord de Grey's figures: of rabbits the Kaiser has shot 638; Lord de Grey killed 300 more in the course of 1893 alone; during his career he has disposed of 26,747. Hares are the Emperor's strong point. He has shot 11,466, and even Lord de Gray can only point to two and a half times as many; 2,735 snipe have fallen to the unerring aim of the Earl, and he has shot 2,077 woodcock to the Kaiser's two. The fifty-six wild ducks shot by the Emperor compare but poorly with the 1,393 that the Earl has killed; but the Imperial record of red deer is 738, while that of the Earl is 381. One thousand five hundred and twenty-four large wild boars and 181 small boars appear in the Emperor's list, against ninety-seven pigs in the Earl's; but while the latter can point to twelve buffalo, eleven tigers, two rhinoceros and 8,424 various beasts, the Emperor can quote but one whale and 559 different sorts of game—at least in this country, but at home he can boast of seventeen foxes. Altogether the Imperial bag shows 25,376 head of game, while the Earl de Grey's contains 316,699.

The King of Naples in a sporting tour through Austria disposed of 51,058 head of game in the year 1793 alone—shooting twenty times as many foxes as the Emperor has done in all his sporting career. Exactly 100 years later Earl de Grey disposed of 19,135 head of game but no foxes, in the same time. In view of the fact that some 3,000 head of game were bagged in one day at the Marquees of Ripon's moor at Sutton last year, the great record of the Duke of Rutland, who one day in the October of Waterloo year killed 125 head of game, does not look a very formidable bag for five hours' shooting, although early in the century it was considered to be a prodigiously fine achievement and worthy to be quoted with the forty-one and one-half brace of partridges that Lord Kingston shot at Heydon on Sept. 1, 1810, between sunrise and sunset, thereby winning a considerable wager. For wagers to be made on "bags" was quite a common thing early in the century. In 1811, for instance, a Mr. Clark, of Wollingham, Suffolk, made a bet of 50 guineas that he would kill and bag 47 shots out of 50; as a matter of fact, he killed 59 birds in 60 shots. It is also recorded about this time that a gamekeeper in the employ of Sir H. Mildmay, for a considerable wager, "hit a cricket ball, with common shot, twelve times successively, between the wickets, bowled by Harris, one of the sharpest bowlers of the Hambledon Club." Can it be possible that the expression "bagging a brace" when a batsman retires the second the second time from the wicket with a naught to his discredit arose from this conjunction of gun and cricket-ball?—London Standard.

Virginia Quail Law.

A recent game decision in Virginia is noted by our eastern exchanges and justly criticised as being of a nature adverse to the protection and propagation of game. The principle is the same whether it is applied to quail or any kind of game, large or small. By reason of the destruction of quail during a severe winter, 1895 6, the Virginia legislature in 1896 enacted a law forbidding entirely the killing of quail for two years, which period includes the present autumn. It is reported that for the purpose of testing this statute, a citizen recently shot and killed a partridge (bob-white). Being duly arrested and tried, he made the defense, on prosecution that the two years close time was an unwarrantable restriction of his rights and privileges as a citizen and land owner. The Court sustained him in this contention. As the commonwealth was a party to the case, it was not appealable to a higher court, thus on a technicality the decision will stand. This apparently leaves the State without a quail law, though it may be properly assumed the next Legislature will take measures to meet the situation. This may be good law on technical points, but the principal, "That a State has the right to legislate for the protection of game and to exercise its jurisdiction even to the point of absolute prohibition of the taking of game (or fish) for any period it may be judicious to prescribe is one that is firmly established. It is more than probable, under the precedents already founded that that if this case could be reviewed by a higher court that the decision would be reversed.

Foot Wear.

Every autumn in recent years has seen a further advancement in the quality of the footwear that is manufactured especially for sportsmen. Indeed, looking at some of the superb boots and shoes now to be seen in every first-class sportsmens' goods store, one ponders on the question of how further improvement could be made. Time was, and not many years ago at that, when a really good, comfortable hunting shoe, made of first-class leather, could not be purchased in any shop, and must, perforce, be made to order. Then followed a variety of so-called hunting boots which caused untold misery to fall to the lot of many sportsmen who found themselves, far from civilization, shod in what proved to be implements of torture. The experience of the makers and the demand created by sportsmen and anglers have brought about the change, and now one can purchase shoes which certainly represent all that is comfortable and serviceable Prices have been lowered, too, until now one need not pay two prices for a pair of shoes simply because he has said "hunting shoes," instead of the latter word, to the salesman. The days for special prices for sportsmen's goods are passing away, since the great demand has made standards of these articles which once were only made to order.—Shooting and Fishing.

Portland, Or., sportsmen now favor the Klamath lakes and marshes for ducks. Ten grain bags, 400 head in all, mostly mallards, with a few sprig tail, teal and widgeon were sent in on the 2nd inst. It is claimed the carp is responsible for the lack of feed in the localities hunted over by Portland men.

Despite the rules of the various gun clubs and the universal sentiment against night shooting it is reported that unscrupulous hunters (particularly on the other side of the bay) are indulging in night raids. The birds can't stand the game night and day and new feeding grounds will be found by them unless they have some rest.

It is claimed that much open and good hunting ground can be found between Mowry's and Alviso. Few hunters have been there so far this season, excepting those shooting on the preserves. There should be plenty of ducks in the grounds after the first storm. As for curlew, plover and snipe this section has always been good.

Patti Croxteth T.

Our readers will regret to learn the loss by A. B. Truman of this celebrated pointer. She died last Tuesday morning, the cause being internal abscesses and complications produced by failure to whelp. The bitch was one of the last daughters of old ch Croxteth and besides being a great bench and field trial winner had the record of being the only bitch, who whilst living, was the dam, grand dam and great grand dam of bench champions and field trial winners. Most of the noted pointers on the Pacific Coast can trace back to Patti. Mr. Truman recently refused a liberal offer for her from C. M. Munhall. of Cleveland, Ohio. The following summary of her record is an interesting one:

Champion Patti Croxteth T. (10128) whelped Dec.,28,1886; breeder, C. Munhall. Sire Ch Croxteth, dam Ch Patti M. Winnings, 1st and specials, San Francisco, 1888; first and Special for best pointer in the show, Los Angeles 1889; 1st and Special for best pointer in the show, San Francisco, 1889; 1st and Special as best pointer in the show, Los Angeles, 1890; 1st, Challenge and Special as best lightweight pointer bitch, Special for best pointer bitch on exhibition in the show, and Special for best pointer brood bitch, San Francisco, 1891; 1st and Special, Challenge for best field trial record, Special for having best record, San Francisco, 1892; 2d, Challenge, Special for best lightweight pointer with a field trial record; Special for best pointer or setter in show with field trial record, Los Angeles, 1894; 1st, Challenge, Oakland, 1894; 1st, Challenge and Special, San Francisco, 1895; 1st, Challenge, San Francisco, 1895; 1st, Challenge and Special for heavy weight pointer, Oakland, 1896; 1st, Challenge, Stockton, 1896; 2d, All Ages, Pacific Coast field trials, Bakersfield, 1890; 1st, All Ages, Pacific Coast field trials, Bakersfield, 1891. 1st, Challenge, Special, for best record as a bench winner, field performance and producer for two generations, San Francisco, 1897.

A. Stone, Dr. A. F. Webster, A. Boultbee and J. G. Kent, Toronto; A. E. Gault and J. A. Pitts Montreal; Thos. Georghegan, Hamilton; T. A. Carson, Kingston; F. M. Gowans, Coburg; Dr. J. S. Niven, London; R. G. Steacy, Brockville, and H. P. Thomas, Belleville.

Under date of September 28th the club has issued the following circular:

"As you are doubtless aware, the Canadian Kennel Club, at its annual meeting held on September 9th last, decided to annul, at the end of the required six months, the agreement lately made with the American Kennel Club. The A. K. C. has waived its claim to this six months' notice and has agreed to cancel the agreement immediately. This being the case, the business of the Canadian Kennel Club will be at once resumed and registrations accepted from this date.

The club looks for your support and trusts that the future will see the Canadian Kennel Club a strong national organization, combining the kennel interests of the whole wide Dominion."

The Victoria Bench Show.

The show held this week (Oct. 14th, 15th, 16th) by the Victoria Kennel Club, will doubtless prove to be a great success in every respect, The interest taken in the exhibition by the Victoria fanciers and their friends is very strong; particularly so among the ladies, in fact it bids fair to take on a brilliant social aspect. Many entries have been made and it it stated the classes generally will be large and of good quality. The show will be under the direct management of Mr. S. H. Matson. D. J. Sinclair is mentioned by the Victoria Colonist as having been of material assistance to the different committees.

DOINGS IN DOGDOM.

The Chicago Fox Terrier Club propose to have a specialty show soon.

The first meeting of the Modesto Coursing Club will be held October 17th.

The Butte Coursing Club have arranged to run coursing meets every Sunday for the season.

J. Reidy's Galtee More and M. Welch's Tipperary entered last week for the Ingleside meeting, were it is claimed, poisoned by some miscreant who doped them at Port Costa. Both dogs died at the track.

Have you ever used Spratt's Patent Dog Cakes? If not, why not? They contain meat, vegetable matter, bone meal and cereals. They are made from wholesome materials and are really the cheapest food one can purchase for dogs.

The attendance at Ingleside Saturday and Sunday last was unprecedented. Great sport was anticipated and the results were of a nature to satisfy all concerned, saving the "short-enders." The entries and stakes on Saturday, it is believed, were the largest ever made and offered for beaten dogs. Sunday's entries and runs were as prolific of sport and excitement as the previous day's meeting.

The regular monthly meeting of the St. Bernard Club was held on Monday evening, October 11th, at the office of Dr. Cluness, 406 Post street, the members present were, Thos. H. Broune, in the chair and Messrs. Bushnell, Cluness, Cutten, Kirkpatrick, White, Luttrell, Stutz, Mudgett, McCracken, Terry, Dickson and Taber. Mr. W. J. Spotteswood (owner of Major McKinley) was elected a member of the club. The new classification rules of the A. K. C. were the subject of considerable discussion, but the general verdict was one of satisfaction and a decided belief that none but the best dogs would receive awards under these new rules.

The second annual tournament of the San Francisco Fly Casting Club was held last Saturday at Stow Lake. W. D. Mansfield again broke his own record and established a new one in "long-distance casting," 113 feet. He also broke the world's record in "distance and accuracy," his score being 95½ per cent., which has never been equaled in public competition. Dr. E. N. Lowry's cast of 109 feet in the long distance casting is next to Mansfield's, six feet better than previous records, and his score of 94 1-6 per cent. in "distance and accuracy" is also ahead of past achievements. The judges were: A. E. Lovett and F. S. Butler; Referee, A. S. Carmen; Clerk, E. A. Mocker.

DISTANCE AND ACCURACY.

On the cast-off of the tie between Messrs. Haight and Skinner; the former won with a score of 93 1-3 per cent.

W. E. Bachelier	100

A. T. Vogelsang	92
H. E. Skinner	87½
C. G. Young	79

The tournament was attended by an interested gathering of ladies and gentlemen.

The regular meeting of the Fly Casting Club was held on Tuesday evening, a large number of members being present. The prizes won at the tournament were presented to the winners by President Mansfield, with remarks appropriate to the occasion. (The list of prizes for the tournament were published in our last issue) The successful competitors were W. D. Mansfield, Dr. E. N. Lowry, H. C. Golcher, W. D. Bachelier, A. E. Lovett, A. T. Vogelsang, G. C. Young, H. E. Skinner, E. A. Mocker, F. M. Haight and H. Battu.

Preliminary arrangements were made for an open-to-the-world tournament to be held next year. In next season's club contests the competitors will be classified. These matters are now in consideration by the Executive Committee. A comparison of the scores made at Chicago and the San Francisco tournaments show that in a majority of the events the Fly Casting Club outclasses the Chicago Club.

The Fishery Congress.

The Fish Commission at Washington, D C., is very much interested in the National Fishery Congress which convenes at Tampa, Fla., in January, 1898. The congress will, it is believed, prove one of the most noteworthy gatherings of the kind ever held in the country. A large attendance of representatives of the various State Fish Commissions, angling and fishing associations, and the National Fish Commission is expected, and all persons interested in fishing, angling and fish culture will be welcomed. The United States Government has extended invitations to the Governments of Great Britian Germany, Russia, France, Italy, Spain, Portugal, Sweden and Norway, Denmark, Belgium, Austria, Hungary, Greece, the Netherlands, Japan, China, Mexico, Brazil, Venezuela and other countries. It is proposed to organize an international fishery association at the congress.

The season for trout closes Nov. 1 in Washington.

FIVE thousand trout were placed in Vichy Creek on October 5th.

Bay fishing is reported to be good now at Sausalito—along shore and from the wharves.

Plenty of fish in the Eel river, just below Robinson's, they are waiting for a rise to go above.

Jno. Gallagher sent down from Fortuna a fine mess of steelhead to Lloyd Eaton on Tuesday last.

Smelt and perch have been caught in large numbers recently from the Olympic pier at the Cliff House beach.

On October 15th a catch is anticipated at Fortuna. Seining will be in order. Salmon are big and numerous.

Dr. Wave Clark, Chas. Guscetti and A. Marabdale were among those who made good catches at Sausalito last Sunday.

The Baker Lake hatchery, Washington, turned out 5,000 000 salmon fry last year. It is proposed to place a new hatchery on the Chehalis river this fall. It will be stocked with steel-head.

Messrs. Butler, Young and Van Slack sent down 200 steel head from Eel river last Friday. They averaged a pound to a pound and a half in weight. Mr. Butler reports the finest fly fishing he ever had. They are in the vicinity of Ferndale this week.

Mr. Van Slyke returned to the city on the "Cremona" Tuesday morning. He reports the fishing on the Eel river above Fortuna as being unexceptionably fine. Salmon, steelhead and trout plentiful and full of fight. The party, Benn. Butler, Young, Gallagher, and Van Slyke are unanimous in claiming that the fly-fishing has been of the very finest.

The Capazoni Club, were at Rodeo Cove, near Pt. Bonita on last Sunday. The outing was the final one for the season. T. J. Craig, Dr. E N. Short, Billy Short, Dick Ballinger, Billy McCord, Mel Vaughn, Tom Judd and Billy Arnold comprised the party. The day was all that could be desired for outing and fishing. The catch of fish was good, sea trout perch, porgie and capazoni. Dr. E. N. Short, the chef par excellence of the club, prepared a fine chowder. "Jasper" was the "hewer of wood and drawer of water." A big bon fire of drift wood on the beach brought the day and season to a close for the club.

The experiment of stocking the Penobscot River with the Quinnat or California salmon, will be thoroughly tried, and if it is not a success it will not be the fault of the United States fish commission. Last spring over 2,000,000 of the fry were distributed all along the Penobscot above the dam by a car of the commission sent expressly for that purpose. These fry were hatched from a large lot of eggs sent from California to the East Orland hatchery. Such of the fish as were not distributed have been growing since then at the hatchery and are now five and a half months old and about two inches or more in length.—Field, Forest and Shore.

Ventura (Cal.) Races.

VENTURA, October 5.

The Ventura races opened to-day with an attendance of less than a thousand. It threatened rain during the forenoon, and the bean harvest lessened the gate receipts. There was fair weather at 12:30, with no wind and a good track. Pools were slow and no favorites were backed by strong bettors. Three events were witnessed. The three-quarter mile dash was a pretty neck and neck contest for first money. Summaries:

Trotting, three to start, one mile, three in five, Nellie D. (Longworth), Mack driver, won. Time, 2:35, 2:34½, 2:34. Ray W. second. Purse $150.

Half-mile dash, five to enter, Highland Ball won. Time, 0:49½. Yule second, Caroline Lemon third. Purse $150.

Three quarters of a mile, four entries, Los Prietos won, Lady Hurst second, Lee Spray third, Pescador fourth. Time, 1:14. Purse $150.

VENTURA, Oct. 6.—The second day's races opened with fair weather, but a high west wind interfered with good record making, and the track was slow. Summaries:

Five-eighths of a mile dash, purse $150, Idle Bell won, J O C second, El Barbareno third. Time, 1:06½.

Trot, 2:30 class, purse $225—Leader (Tierly) won, Helen J (Shaner) second, Roy W (Hanford) third. Time, 2:29, 2:32½, 2:31½.

Mile and seventy yards, running, purse $125—Lady Hurst won, Sea Spray second, Little Cripple third. Time, 1:49.

Special, running, five furlongs, purse $150—Selkirk won, Castellar second, Highland Ball third. Time, 1:02½.

VENTURA, October 7.—A large crowd witnessed the races to-day, the weather being fine and the sport of an excellent character. Summary:

Trotting, purse $150—Belle Russell (Longworth) won, M. Coy second. Ferndale Queen third. Time, 2:42, 2:34½, 2:43

VENTURA, Oct. 8.—The races were largely attended today, the interesting features being a two-mile handicap and a mile novice bicycle race.

The novice bicycle race was won by Guy Owen of Santa Paula in 2:43½.

One mile trotting, Adjutant won, Leader second, Keno third. Time—2:23¼, 2:24½, 2:26¼.

Three-quarters of a mile, handicap, running, Lady Hurst won, Los Prietos second, Pescador third. No time taken.

VENTURA, October 9.—The races closed to day with the largest attendance and the best attractions of the meeting. The bicycle races proved a good drawing card and passed off with sharp competion.

Half mile—Santa Paula won, Detective second, Yule third Time—0:49¾.

The S linas Fair.

The annual fair for this, the seventh, Agricultural district, opened Tuesday in this city, says the Salinas Journal. The day was cloudy and threatened rain which no doubt caused the attendance to be smaller than it would otherwise have been. There was a noticeable absence of the sporting element that usually play the races, and hence the auction and the mutuel boxes found themselves with very little to do. The races will become livelier.

The judges were O. Marchand, presiding, and C. Z. Hebert and J. J. Conner. Mr. Marchand got the fields off without any tedious scoring, and as all the races were won in straight heats the crowds got home in time for their 5 o'clock dinner.

Two-year-old stake—Of the twenty-one original nominations in this stake only two answered to the tap of the bell. They were Charles B Dawson's brown colt Valentine 2:30 by Boodle, dame Kate by Carr's Mambrino, and J. D. Carr's black filly Sibyl S. by Hambletonian Wilkes, dam Bertha by Carr's Mambrino. Valentine so far outclassed the filly as to distance her in the first heat. Time, 2:33. The stake was worth $250 to the winner.

Three-year-old stake—The starters in this race were J. B. Iverson's Ivaneer, b. f. by Eugeneer—Salinas Belle; R. I. Orr's Samuel D., br. g. by Sable Wilkes—by Arthurton; Loma Alto Farm's Sylvion, b. g. by Electricity—Lucky Girl by Carr's Mambrino Ivaneer won in three straight heats, Sylvion second and Samuel D. third. Distance being waived, Vet Kent sent Ivaneer for a record, and succeeded in getting her into the list. Time—2:28, 2:43 and 2:45.

Ivaneer makes the third one of Salinas Belle's colts to enter the 2:30 list. A fourth of her fools is the two-year-old pacer Dictatress by Dictatus, that was timely separated in a losing heat.

The value of this stake was $265.

Trotting, 2:24 class—There were five starters in this race: C. Z. Hebert's Lara D., b. m. by Altoona 8850—Dolly; H. Hellman's Ned Thorn, b. g. by Billy Thornhill—by Nutwood; E. K. Wise's Mabel W., b m by Prince Red—Miss Smith; R. I. Orr's Winella, b. m. by Altago—by Oregon Pathfinder; J. C. Dorm's Lady G., s. m. by Silver Bow—by Sidney.

Lara D. won in straight heats, Ned Thorn second in each heat. Mabel W. took third money and finished 3-4-3 Winella fourth money finishing 4-3-5. Lady G. finished 5 6 4. Time—2:28½, 2:25, 2:25.

ANTRIM STOCK FARM YEARLINGS.

Youngsters by Apache, Calvados, Rio Bravo, Nomad and Orizaba to Be Sold November 22d.

The date set for the selling of the Antrim Stock Farm yearlings, twenty-one in all, is Monday, November 22d. The stallions represented are Apache, Nomad, Orizaba, imp. Calvados and Rio Bravo, and among the mothers of the youngsters are some of the best-known stud matrons in the country.

Apache, sire of five of the yearlings, was wonderfully successful, his progeny winning $40,890 to July 1, 1897, since which time Lorena II. won the Capital City Stakes at Sacramento and Castake was also victorious. The horse died when but nine years of age, which makes his showing all the more wonderful. Olive, Mobalasca, Crawford and J. O. C., by Apache, have won fully $30,000 between them, and before the season is over we would not be surprised to hear that they had made it $40,000. Apache was bred right to be a great sire, too, being by the great French horse. Mortemer (winner of the Ascot Gold Cup with 131 pounds, the Prix des Pavilions, 2 miles, 151 pounds up; Prix de la Seine, 1½ miles, 145 pounds; Prix de'L Empereur, 1 1-8 miles, 153 pounds, and 18 other great races), his dam the champion race mare, The Banshee, by Lexington, who was from another champion racer, Balloon, by imp. Yorkshire. The latter, at a meeting in Lexington, Ky., in 1857, won at mile heats, two mile heats, three-mile heats and four mile heats, a feat never accomplished by any other racer in the annals of racing. Apache was from the same family as Bright Phœbus, Modesty, True Blue, Parachute, Heraldry and other celebrities.

Nomad, sire of three of the yearlings in the Antrim Stock Farm sale, is one of the best sons of Wildidle and, in the colors of M. F. Dwyer, defeated the best horses in training in the East a few years ago, winning over $$31,0000 in stakes and purses. Nomad's dam, imp. Amelia, by Lowlander, is one of the most noted stud matrons, being also the mother of Rinfax, Vivace and imp. Janet N., latter the dam of the great Crescendo and other winners.

Orizaba, another sire represented in the sale, is by imp. Cyrus from imp. Lælia, a stake-winner in England (by Carnelion). Orizaba was a good winner and a dead game one, and in addition is a horse of fine finish and good size.

Imp. Calvados, sire of several in this consignment, is by the Derby-winner Galopin, who sired the unbeaten St. Simon, for years the leading sire in England, while the dam is Turn of the Tide, by Mandrake, a classic stake-winner in England. Calvados is the sire of several winners and gets good lookers.

Rio Bravo, the last stallion on the list, is a son of the best sire in America (Sir Modred) and Mollie Walton (a half-sister to Hindoo) by imp. Mortemer (sire of Exile, Apache, Cambyse, etc.).

Charles Kerr has bred many superb performers at Antrim, including Olive, Mobalasca, J. O C., Lorena II., Castake, Herald and San Emegdio, but we suspect that he never brought a better-looking nor a more fashionable lot to a sales ring than those that are now being catalogued.

MR. S. K. P. FLEMING, prominent horseman of Freeport, remarks: "I have used Quinn's Ointment in my stable and find it does all you advertise. I can highly recommend it.' For curbs, splints, spavins, windpuffs and all bunches it has no equal. Price $1 50 per package. For sale in San Francisco by Messrs. J. A McKerron and J. O'Kane. If you cannot obtain from druggist or dealer, address W. B. Eddy & Co., Whitehall, N. Y.—Illinois Echo.

HOOF-BEATS.

IN the Grand Prize of Paris for 1899 W. K. Vanderbilt has made 12 entries, A. Belmont two, J. S. Curtis six, J. R. Keene two and P. Lorillard one.

J. C. CAHN, former owner of Typhoon II., has purchased of D. M. Hogan, at St. Luis, bay colt The Professor, 2, by imp. Darebin, dam Teacher, for $1,000.

SIR VASSAR won a mile race in the mud at Latonia last Tuesday. He has been jumping in the far East this season. Rey Del Tierra ran third to James Monroe and Dalgretti at a mile and a sixteenth.

R. CROKER has registered with Messrs. Weatherby the following names for yearlings: Richfield Bell for chestnut filly, by Hanover, dam Spinaway, and Wantage Belle, for bay filly, by imp. Loyalist, dam Wanda.

THE Daily Racing Form of Chicago says Joe Murphy will, in the absence of Capt. Rees, act as presiding judge at Ingleside and that either Dick Dwyer or J. F. Caldwell will do the starting there; that there is harmony of the keenest sort between the two clubs.

HUGH PENNY, once a bright star jockey, arrived this week from Chicago, and will pilot the horses of Charles Fair and Joe Harvey next winter. If the scale of weights were raised five or six pounds Hughey would still be "in it," say those who ought to know.

NAPAMAX, by bay Maxim filly of the Burns & Waterhouse stable, won the Aspirants' stake at Harlem, six furlongs, by by three lengths on Tuesday last. The track was heavy. Daily Racing Form was second. Zamar II., by St. Carlo, won a six-furlong race by two lengths.

IT was at Newmarket, October 2d, in the Welter Handicap, that the Australian starting gate was used for the first time in England. Great interested was manifested and the result was most satisfactory. The Prince of Wales and Lord Rosebery observed its workings keenly.

THE Harrison & Co. pool-room in Sausalito was raided by Marshal Creede and posse after the first race at Aqueduct had been run last Tuesday. Ten men were arrested and released on bonds, the first six at $100 each the remaining four at $250 each. Jacob Schnell and William Harrison became sureties in the sum of $1,600. The cases came up Thursday at 10 A. M.

RICHARD CROKER has recently purchased of H. Stanhope, South Elkhorn, Ky., the bay mare Margerine, by Algerine, dam imp. Sweet Songstress, by Doncaster, out of Melodius, by Forester or Peppermint, and she was shipped from Lexington to New York, on September 28, en route to England. Mr. Cocker also purchased her filly foal by Hanover, the full sister of The Commoner, which also goes to England.

THE owner of some two-year-olds that somehow or other had got to be considered of no account owns the dams of the youngsters too, and they are thought to have much less merit than the fillies. "What shall I do with those broodmares?" said he to an intimate friend the other day. "Feed 'em to the hogs," snapped his friend. "But I haven't any hogs," whined the possessor of property of which he was not proud. "Buy some!" was the final piece of advice tendered.

THE ground on which the new steel building at the southeast corner of Main and Granite streets is being erected has been deeded to Marcus Daly by J. A. Lewis, the agent employed to make the purchase. The total amount named in the deed is $98,000. The document was executed June 5, 1897, and filed for record last evening. W. L. Hoge, F. E. Sargeant, M. B. Brownlee and R. C. Chambers have also deeded Mr. Daly their interest in the race track ground, which makes him the sole owner of that piece of ground. The amount involved is $17,078 21. The deed was executed May 5th of this year.—Butte Miner.

AT a meeting of the stockholders of the Coney Island Jockey Club on Monday, October 4, the following directors were elected for the ensuing year: J. Harry Alexandre, James Gorden Bennett, J. H. Bradford, Gen. Daniel Butterfield, John M. Bowers, Cornelius Fellowes, Robert Goelet, F. Gray Griswold, John G. Heckscher, Thomas Hitchcock Jr., H. B. Hollins, Lawrence Kip; C. H. Kerner, H. K. Knapp, P. Lorillard, A. Newbold Morris, H. Nicholas, Herbet C. Pell, Schuyler L. Parsons, F. Augustus Schermerhorn, William H. Taylor, James P. Scott, William K. Vanderbilt, J. W. Wadsworth and George Peabody Wetmore.

ALF. STANFORD, the well known steeplechase rider, returned from Chicago last Wednesday night looking well. He won on Templemore a week ago last Wednesday. Stanford says the sport at Harlem in first class—better even than the far East; the class of the horses is high; the discipline and managment of the best. Judge M. Lewis Clark is looked upon as a fearless and just judge and is much liked by racegoers. Ornament was undoubtedly the best horse of any age in the West. The two-year-olds around Chicago were very good, he says. Our Gertie, by Salvator, was a most consistent filly, but Flora Louise was perhaps of a little higher class. The jumping races were very popular, but would be extremely so if the bandits were banished. They could be run to earth, too, he says, without much trouble being experienced. Bill Brien and B. J. Johnson are almost certain to bring strings to California shortly. Stanford declares Willie Caywood (who will likely ride in California this winter) is undoubtedly the best jockey in the West and it is doubtful if he has a superior in the whole country, while he is as honest as the day is long and thoroughly incorruptible.

NEW ULM, Minn., Oct., 29, 1896.

Regarding the merits of your Balsam I purchased I can say my pacing mare strained her suspensory ligament so badly that she could hardly walk. This was in the middle of June and every horseman expressed his fear that she would not be able to race again this season. I gave her a stiff blister with Caustic Balsam, repeated it 10 hours later, and left her in the barn for two weeks July 4th I started her in a half mile race and won, best time 1:20. From August 28th to Sept. 18th, I started her five times and never was behind the money, being second four times and third once. FRED SPOERHASE.

THOROUGHBREDS

YEARLINGS, TWO-YEAR-OLDS AND HORSES IN TRAINING.

TO THE PUBLIC.

Having engaged in the business of selling live stock, horses and cattle in this city, we deem it necessary to call your attention to a few facts which may be of interest:

FIRST.—We will have erected a large building at the above place, which is about three blocks from the Palace Hotel, Call, Chronicle and Examiner Buildings, and will fit it exclusively for the holding of auction sales. The seating capacity of this amphitheater is to be 1,200, so that all who attend may be seated and have an excellent view of each animal offered. The sales ring will be 35 feet in diameter, and elevated so that the view will be unobstructed. The building will be lighted by electricity, and well ventilated.

SECOND.—Ample box stalls will be provided for the horses in adjoining buildings, and the passage way from these to the sales building will be covered and lighted, so there will be no danger of the stock catching cold or injuring themselves.

THIRD.—These sales will be advertised at once, so that not only our local buyers but any who are in Japan, Honolulu, British Columbia as well as the Pacific Coast States and Territories will be informed of the date of the sales, the class of horses, their pedigrees, performances (if they have any) and detailed descriptions of each and every one will be plainly given.

FOURTH.—We have all the facilities for tabulating pedigrees, as our turf library is considered the most complete in California. On its shelves may be found all the English, Australian and American Stud Books and Guides, and our collection of sale catalogues, covering a period of twenty years in California, is unsurpassed.

We believe in advertising where it will do the most good, and besides the large subscription list of the BREEDER AND SPORTSMAN, we have lists of all the leading horsemen in the United States, Canada, Mexico, Hawaiian Islands, Australia and New Zealand, to whom we shall send catalogues, which, for completeness and authenticity, have never been equaled on this Coast.

The BREEDER AND SPORTSMAN will be made an auxiliary advertising medium, through which we shall show the advantages of attending these sales and purchasing horses.

We shall take the very best care of horses sent; see that they are led by competent men to our stables from trains or boats, and after they get there, will have personal supervision of their feeding, watering, bedding and care. The well-known horseman, A. F. ROOKER, will attend to this department.

WM. FITCH, the auctioneer engaged for these sales, has a national reputation. He sold this season over $1,000,000 worth of auction pools in Montana, and disposed of Marcus Daly's thoroughbreds at auction, to the great satisfaction of the multi-millionaire. Competent judges declare him to have no peer as a salesman and his work is spoken of as thorough in every way. He is a horseman of ability, and thoroughly conversant with the points and pedigrees of our thoroughbreds.

The demand for first-class thoroughbreds will never be supplied, but we believe that at our sales we shall be able to show as fine a lot as ever were offered, and with the addition in our midst of the most prominent horsemen of the far East and Middle West, we have no hesitancy in assuring owners that the prices they will receive (if the stock is in fine condition) will be much higher than those heretofore obtained for similarly bred ones.

The interest in thoroughbreds and racing is increasing throughout the world, and especially in California, where, so many opportunities are now offered owners to make money with their horses.

THE LOS ANGELES FAIR.

One Rainy Day and Everything Else a Picnic.

DEVIL'S DREAM WINS THE DERBY.

St. Calatine Carries Off the Futurity and Jim Bozeman at 8 to 1 Annexes the Santa Catalina Slide.

[WRITTEN BY "HIDALGO."]

"The morning dawned full darkly,
The rain came plashing down,
And the| ugged streak of the levin bolt
Lit up the gloomy town."

AYTOWN.

So wrote the gifted Scotchman who penned the "Execution of Montrose" that old Charles Kean used to recite with touching pathos. Walter Montgomery used to recite it also in John McCullough's days at the old California. And the man who saw Los Angeles on the night of the 13th saw such a downpour as made rivulets of the street car tracks and angry torrents of the gutters. By noon of Thursday, the opening day of the fair, the rain was over and the sky as blue as a baby's eye. But there were great puddles of mud and water on the track and the Directors were in doubt about the races for the day. The harness races—the 2:12 trot and the 2:20 pace—were postponed and two special running events substituted for them. One of these was at six furlongs with five starters and the other at seven furlongs with six candidates. The regular races set for the day were the Citrus Belt Handicap with nine starters out of twenty nominations and the Maiden Plate for two-year-olds with twelve starters out of the twenty-six originally named.

The day's racing was an agreeable disappointment to everybody and the history of the Burns Handicap of 1896 was repeated right here. Had that been run as the first race of the day Lovdal would have been bracketed as the winner, and had the Citrus Belt Handicap been run as the first race a great many think it would have gone to honest little Grady, rather than to the black whirlwind that bears the name of Sims' rude Lancashire hero. But just before noon a strong northwest wind breeze began to blow and the track began to dry out rapidly. Still it was very muddy for a width of ten feet from the pole and every horse ran at least fifteen yards over a mile.

Everybody had picked Devil's Dream to win the handicap and she opened at evens and went to 4 to 5, while Grady and 'Ostler Joe opened at 3's and the latter receded to 5's which was about in keeping with the auction pools. In them the Dream brought $40 against $15 for Grady, $10 for 'Ostler Joe and $8 for the field, which included Lady Hurst, in the very pink of condition. The two improvised races were run first and then came the Citrus Belt Handicap. There was never a chance to win money like this. Finally they came to the post with "the old nigger with the specs" on the outside, ridden by little H. Brown, who had eighteen pounds of lead in his pad. A good deal of trouble was experienced through the fractiousness of Jetrudes and Little Cripple, the latter of whom had a comparatively green boy up. Finally the barrier flew up and away went George Snider on old Nomad and led the field into the back stretch, when 'Ostler Joe got in front of him and then came a struggle which lasted to the half-mile, where the old horse broke down and Grady came out like "a fighter from Guadalajaro." The crowd began to yell for Grady, for the Owens boys are very popular here, but the "black and all black"—horse and rider alike—was still in hand. Suddenly the green jacket of By Holly flashed out of the ruck at the head of the stretch and here came Devil's Dream, followed by Lady Hurst. The Dream had five pounds overweight, but Hennessy's fine horsemanship fully atoned for that. On came the three, and Joe got the verdict by a length, with the English filly lapped upon Grady. Lady Hurst was well up and, considering that she was the last off, ran a very creditable race.

SECOND DAY.

Every vestige of the storm had disappeared and the only minder of it was a broad belt of snow on the crest of the Sierra Madre. Everything else was bright and fair as Spring itself. Judge Brooks, of Emeryville, stood beside me as I weighed out the riders for the first race and remarked as he looked at the mountains and their white crests: "No other race track in American can show a back-ground like this. This is a picture that one does not readily forget."

The track was drying out fast, but the directors did not like to risk more than one harness race on it, so they gave the 2:30 class trot as the wind-up of the day. The three races preceding it were two specials and a stake race called the Santa Catalina slide at 5½ furlongs, with selling conditions. For this race Chartreuse was a scorching hot favorite, but I had a talk with one or two who seemed to think the public confidence misplaced. Holly said "Jim Bozeman was coming very fast at the finish yesterday and he is a dangerous horse in any such race." Another veteran said, "Polish will about win this race today." "How about the foxtailed mare?" I asked. "She didn't move right to my eye yesterday. I look for Polish to beat her sure and perhaps Jim Bozeman. Indeed I would not be surprised to see Howard take her measure."

Starter Ferguson said to me: "I wonder whatever I have done to Sink that he sends me out Alvarado twice in two days." The big sorrel gelding made no end of trouble, but finally got off last in a field of six, including Marquise, and she was fourth away. Masoero led to the quart r and then to the half, where Marquise put on the steam, and after a desperate finish through the stretch, won by the shortest of heads in 1:41½ on a track that was far from being fast. Alvarado was third.

Then came the "slide" of Catalina island, for which there were 9 starters out of the original nominations. The public would have nothing but Chartreuse though a few nibbled at Polish and Howard. Jim Bozeman, who had finished strong on Thursday after an indifferent start, went utterly begging at 10s straight and 3s for place. When the flag fell he and Polish went out like rockets, with Selkirk and Captain Coster in close attendance. The start was a poor one for Howard, but he made up a lot of ground at the finish and got third place after a fine battle.

Then came the 2:30 trot, for which Dr. Leek was an emphatic favorite at $10 against $8 for the field and the short end had shrunk to $6 before Starter Ferguson had called them.

THIRD DAY.

If the clerk of the weather had been tempted to soil his hands with filthy bribes to give us the first day in all the glad year he could not have given out any fairer or balmier day than Saturday. Long before the noon hour over a hundred vehicles had lined up on the rail of the infield, and they were not town vehicles either. There was was an agricultural halo, a delicate bucolic nimbus, so to speak, about the heads of their occupants that told of the broad fields of green alfalfa and golden pumpkins in the delta between the Santa Ana and San Gabriel rivers.

Given a two-mile dash at weight for age between Abercorn, as the representative of Australia; Carbine to do battle for New Zealand, Salvator for California, Henry of Navarre for Kentucky, Ormonde for England, Verneuil for France, and Galtee More for Ireland—and the whole seven of them could not have drawn the crowd that came to see the worst-trained and worst-driven horse that ever tramped a California track—brave old Silkwood. They came astride of horses too lean for the abbattoirs of Oregon, and some of them in old bone-setters that had lit out for California when Pop Price's army disbanded in Missouri. And they all came to see Silkwood.

Charley Crittenden had never seen him before, and when the old horse came out to warm up, he said to me, "I don't wonder at what you told me about him five years ago. He certainly does go with the least friction of any horse I ever saw."

Never has there been a great horse so completely trashed away. There is no good reason why that old black stud should not have a record of 2:03 at least but for the obstinacy of a conceited old man that could neither train nor drive, and yet thought he could do both. I never saw Silkwood that he was not trained down into a hollow form, at least eighty pounds too low to keep him at the best of his speed; and I never saw him pace less than thirty yards over a mile unless he got off in the lead.

By 1:30 the track was a sea of heads and W. Wright consulted the other directors, who agreed with him that it was unsafe to sell any more tickets into the grand stand. The old stand down at the saddling paddock had already a thousand, while at least one hundred were perched on the roof of the new betting ring. Nine books were doing a full hand business, while the dulcet voice of the auctioneer, Don Nicolas Covarrubias, whose pools were as soothing as the pools of Bethesda were to the weary Hebrew pilgrims of old, could be heard ever and anon, more anon than ever.

The start for the 2:20 pace were made at 1:30 promptly and Fitz Lee had brought $10 against a like amount for the other three. Just as they got the word something sounded like an explosion in the direction of the half-mile pole. It was the collapse of an old 300 gallon water tank, which deluged an otherwise perfect track. When Fitz Lee and Betonica came into it they stopped perfectly still, while Floracita and Bell R waddled through and got home first.

In the next heat both Fitz Lee and Floracita upset their sulkies and dumped their riders out out on the track. Sullivan is hurt the worst to my notion. Betonica then went on and won the race, pacing the fifth heat in 2:10½, a great triumph for old Palo Alto farm as this is the first pacer it has ever sent out to do battle in "the brave old colors that never were struck."

It had got to be so late and the scoring had been so long protracted that the free-for-all was sandwiched into the slower race. Just before the start the driver of Silkwood came to the stand and asked to draw his horse. This the judges refused, but allowed all bets and pools made prior to the race to be declared off! Just where they found a precedent for such action I cannot imagine. The horse had never been sold singly in the over-night auctions, the rate being Searchlight $20, Joe Wheeler $16 to $17, and the field, including Our Boy and Silkwood, $14 to $16. With Our Boy alone in the race and Silkwood drawn, the bets should have been made to stand. I do not question the good faith of the gentlemen making this ruling, for they are all personal friends. I merely say that I could not have acquiesced in such a decision and should certainly have made a minority report.

Joe Wheeler made a great fight but tired badly after the second heat, so Charly Owens got Andrew McDonald to handle him in the last throw. But Andy could do no better than Charley and Searchlight won the race, the fourth heat being paced in 2:10½ over a track at least two seconds slow by reason of a muddy backstretch. I do not believe that any American race track ever saw two such three-year-old exponents of the sidewheel gait in one day as Betonica and Searchlight.

The Derby was won by imp. Devil's Dream by a head from that good filly Lady Hurst, and the winner pulled up dead lame. The Futurity was won cleverly by St. Cataline, whose rider looked to have at least 5 lbs up his sleeve. I append the summaries:

SALINAS RACES.

Closely Contested Events Furnish Excellent Sport.

THURSDAY, OCTOBER 14.

The crowd was larger than on Tuesday, but was still far smaller than the merits of the racing and the efforts of the directors to give a day of great sport deserved.

The day was raw and cold and the track rather heavy, still the horses went about up to their records.

The judges were R. I. Orr of Hollister (presiding), M. Lynn of San Jose and James C. Storm.

Yearling Colt Stake—This race was won by J. Morris' Gen. Benton, by Colonel Benton-Maude. After J. B. Iverson's Dr. Richmond had taken the first heat, Gen. Benton trotted a dead heat with the winner of the first heat. The Colonel Benton colt then went on and won the third and fourth heats. Charles B. Dawson's Maude F. finished second in the first and third in the next two. Best time for half mile, 1:44.

Special Trotting—Purse $200—James B. Iverson's three-year old filly Ivaneer, by Eugeneer—Salinas Belle, won in straight heats in 2:32, 2:28¾ and 2:27. O. Marchand's Woodmark, took second money; W. Parson's Albert third money; H. Hellman's J. S. C. fourth money. Black Bart and Horseshoe Boy also started.

Running—Half-mile and Repeat—Peek-a Boo was an even money favorite over the field, but was beaten by a neck in straight heats by Sands Foreman with Rowane up in 0:52 and 0:53. In the first heat Xopos got the show, but in the last Kent showed with Captain Spence.

FRIDAY, OCTOBER 15.

Yesterday was an ideal day for racing and this fact was apparent at the track when by far the largest crowd of the week was present. The racing was hardly up to the standard of excellence of last year, but still some close finishes were furnished, and speculation was brisker than at any other time during the season.

The judges were O. Marchand, presiding, L. M. Ladd and C. Z. Hebert.

The first race was mixed trotting and pacing for a purse of $150. The starters were Frank Murphy (p), Winella, May B. and Monogram (p). Frank Murphy was installed favorite at $5 against $4 for the field. He won the first and second heats in 2:24½ and 2:24¼. In the third heat Murphy broke when turning into the stretch and Winella coming up on the inside made a bid with Monogram for the heat. Murphy got into a pocket and the two leaders would not let him through and he finished third, Monogram taking the heat, Winella second, May B. last. Time, 2:24½.

In the next heat Murphy broke on the first turn but soon settled and was closing up fast when he stumbled and almost fell, breaking his check. He trailed the others and after repeated breaks just managed to get inside the flag. Winella finished second and May B. third. Time 2:25½.

In the fifth heat Monogram and Murphy fought it out the whole way around, the former winning by a length in 2:24½, though some of the outside watches caught it as good as 2:20. Monogram took first money, Murphy second, Winella third and May B. fourth money.

The next race was a roadster trotting race for a purse of $150. The four starters were S. D. Kalar's Geneva by Bruno, S. B. Iverson's Wilhelma by Whips, James Dwain's Sylvion by Electricity and R. I. Orr's Samuel D. by Sable Wilkes. Geneva, piloted by Gus Kassling, won first money, taking the first, second and fifth heats in 2:40½, 2:40 and 2:40, Sylvion took the third heat in 2:41 and Wilhelm the fourth in 2:39½. Second and third moneys were divided between Sylvion and Wilhelm. Samuel D. got fourth money.

The final race was running, five furlongs, for a purse of $100. In the pools Sans Forman bought $5, Xopos $2, and the other four as a field $2. Very little money went into the box at these odds. On the third attempt the field was sent away to a good start. Peek-a-Boo made the running until well into the homestretch when Rowan brought Sans Forman up with a rush and won by a short length with the greatest of ease, Oliver Mills nipped Peek-a-Boo out for the place in the last few strides. Time 1:05. Xopos, Captain Spence and Dolly S. also ran.

SATURDAY, OCTOBER 16.

Yesterday was the closing day of the fair, and while the crowd was the largest of the week, it was far smaller than on the closing day of any previous meeting. The weather was excellent and the racing the best of the meeting.

During the afternoon the judges were O. H. Willoughby, presiding, O. H. Cayer and H. S. Ball. Besides the regular events, Worthington Parsons' black mare Alberta, by Altoona 8850, dam Gypsy by Erwin Davis 5558, went for a record and entered the list, trotting the mile in 2:29¾. C. Z. Hebert's Black Bart, by Junio-Dolly, also went for a record and made the mile in 2:29½, thus making four of Dolly's foals to enter the charmed circle.

J. B. Iverson's two-year-old filly Dictatress walked over for the pacing stake, making the mile in 2:40, the last quarter in 34 seconds, a 2:16 gait.

Of the regular card, in the first race, trotting, Nancy W. took the third, fourth and fifth heats in 2:30½, 2:30 and 2:29½, after Woodmark had taken the first and second heats in 2:30 and 2:34½. Lady G. took third money, A. J. Treseony's Robin, 2:22 finished third in the first heat but was withdrawn on account of lameness. Nancy W.'s win put another of Jim Mulvenna's get into the 2:30 list.

The free for-all trot for a purse of $300 was a hotly contested race from start to finish between Marchand's Lady O. and J. B. Iverson's Prince Gift. It took five heats to finish the race and each heat was for blood.

Lady O. took the first in 2:18. Prince Gift came back and beat her the next two in 2:17¼ and 2:20, but the mare took the fourth and fifth heats in 2:21 and 2:23½. Ned Thorn took third money and Letter B. fourth money.

The half-mile running race was won hands down by Iron Packer in 51 seconds, Captain Spence finishing second and Oliver Mills third. Henry Delaney acted as starter and sent them off to a good start on the first attempt.

The final race of the meeting was trotting for a purse of $150. This race had five starters. Only two heats were trotted, Laura D. winning the first heat in 2:30, and Mabel W. the second in 2:27. It was now getting dark and as the rules provide that "any purse race that has been started and remains unfinished on the last day of the week to which the association has limited its meeting, shall be declared ended and the money divided according to summary."

Hence the judges declared the race ended, and as Lara D. and Mabel W. ranked equal in the summary, first and second money were divided equally between them. J. S. C. got third money and Winella fourth money. Horshoe Boy also started.—Salinas Daily Journal.

Death of Dave Eiseman.

Every one who has visited the race tracks on the Pacific Coast during the past ten years will read with regret the following regarding "everybody's favorite:"

David Eiseman, the best-known pool-seller in the West, died Monday at his mother's residence, 1813 Sutter street, after a painful illness extending over many months. Eiseman, though only 38 years old, was for many years a familiar figure in this city and had the friendship of a great many prominent men. Since 1895 he has held the position of pool-seller with the firm of Killip & Co., and during that time has made a number of trips to Oregon, Nevada and Montana conducting large horse sales regularly in all of those States.

Eiseman was always an enthusiastic patron of athletics and boxed as a representative of the Olympic Club for several seasons, meeting Mike Cleary and fighting a draw with him in Morosco's Grand Opera-house twelve years ago. He also held the long-distance walking championship of the club for several years.

F. W. Loeber is completing arrangements to return to his birthplace, Baltimore, Md., where he will remain for at least two years, and, as he has only a few weeks to remain here he has determined to dispose of all his horses, cattle and household effects at once. Mr. Loeber is one of the best known horse breeders in California and made a success of the business. He has owned the sires Naubuc (sire of dam of Directly, 2:07¾, etc.), Whippleton, Alcona, Grandissimo, 2:23¾, out of the latter's first crop, six colts, Myrtle Thorne, 2:18¾, Altissimo (3), 2:25¾ and Topsy (3) 2:26¼. He has about thirty head of mares, colts and fillies from weanlings to four-year-olds. All but the weanlings are broken to harness and a finer lot would be difficult to find anywhere. He will sell them all at a very low figure, either as a whole or singly.

THE YOUNGSTERS FROM ANTRIM FARM.

Sons and Daughters of Apache, Rio Bravo, Imp. Calvados, Orizuba and the Great Racer, Nomad—What Apache Has Done.

Charles Kerr, the Bakersfield breeder, believes there is considerable in the old saying, "As the twig is bent, so will the tree incline." He is also a firm believer in giving baby race horses plenty of good, nourishing food. The result is that he always brings into the sales ring as good-looking a lot of yearlings as a lover of a thoroughbred horse could wish to set eyes upon. They are also as good as they look, and no wonder, when one looks into the breeding of his stallions and mares.

Apache, who died in 1895, when he was but ten years of age, was, opportunities considered, one of the best sires that ever stood in the Golden State. He was by the grand French horse, Mortemer, who won 22 great races, carried 131 pounds and won the Ascot Gold Cup in England, and in France won the Prix des Pavilions, two miles, with 151 pounds up, the Prix de L'Empereur, one and one-eighth miles, with 153 pounds in the saddle. The dam of Apache was The Banshee, by Lexington, the best race mare of her day, an own sister to the great True Blue. Her dam, Balloon, by imp. Yorkshire, was not only the champion racer of her time, but won at the Lexington (Ky.) meeting of 1857 races of mile heats, two-mile heats, three-mile heats and four-mile heats, a wonderful showing, truly, and unparalleled in racing annals.

Apache's sons and daughters, up to July 1, 1897, had won $42,090 in five and one-half seasons, and the average of the race-winners was $2,776. Olive won $9,110, Mohabasca, $8,795, Crawford, $6,040. J. O. C., $5,455, Semele, $3,070, San Emegdio, $4,350 in two seasons on the turf. Since this compilation was made Lena won several good races in Montana and California, Lorena II. won the Capital City Stakes at Sacramento and the Railroad Stakes at Los Angeles last Tuesday, Castake won a good race at Sacramento and William O'B. also proved victorious at Glenbrook Park. This would run the average of the Apaches up to about $3,000, and as few have been engaged in the stakes, it proves that Apache was a wonderful sire of speedy race horses. Lorena II. defeated Installator and others for the Capital City Stake at Sacramento, mile and a furlong in 1:56, and last Tuesday, at Los Angeles, the filly won the Railroad Stake, six furlongs, in 1:14 flat, showing that she can sprint as well as stay.

Imp. Calvados, who is sire of six of the Antrim Farm yearlings, cost $1,350 as a yearling in England, and is by Galopin (the Derby winner) from Turn of the Tide, by Mandrake. Last season St. Simon (the unbeaten racer) stood at the head of the list of winning sires of Great Britain, Galopin was second and St. Serf (son of St. Simon) third. Verily this is a great showing for the Galopin tribe. Calvados comes from the same family as The Ill Used (sire of Badge, His Highness, etc.) and Epigram, the great sire in Australia.

Nomad is the sire of three of the youngsters in the approaching sale. He won $31,655 in three seasons on the turf—$12,795 as a two-year-old and $13,300 as a three-year-old, his wins including the Harlem and Anticipation Stakes at Morris Park, the Zephyr Stakes at Coney Island, the Williamsburg Handicap and Union Point Handicap at Morris Park and the Seabreeze Stakes, mile and a sixteenth in 1:48¼. Nomad ran Dr. Hasbrouck to a head at a mile in 1:39¾ when he was a three-year-old and won at a mile and five-sixteenths in 2:15 with 119 pounds up. The world's record is 2:14¼, made by Sir John with 116 pounds up.

Several of the youngsters are by the exceedingly handsome and royally-bred Rio Bravo, a young son of imp. Sir Modred and Mollie Walton, latter a stake-winner and half-sister to the mighty Hindoo, best American race horse of his generation.

A few are by Orizaba, a dead game race horse by imp. Cyrus by imp. Lælia, a stake-winner in England, and one is thought to be by Herald, sire of Viking, who won the Blue Ribbon Hurdle race, mile and a half in 2:47, last Tuesday at Los Angeles. This time has not been beaten half a dozen times in the history of the turf.

The Antrim Farm mares are without exception from great racing and producing families, and, with the youngsters in the best of shape and ready for breaking, the coming sale of Mr. Kerr's horses should be the best he ever held.

Harry Wise's good mare Nancy W. trotted to a record of 2:25 at the Hollister races and was close up in each of the succeeding heats. Mr. Wise has driven this mare for years on the road and only lately thought of having her handled for speed.

The accomplished and popular race horse trainer, Jimmy McCormick, who for months hovered around death's door, has returned to California, and safely housed the big Burns & Waterhouse string at the firm's large private stable near the Emeryville track. In the lot brought along was Napamax, Altamax, Recreation, (who was very sick on the way out), Bliss Rucker, Shasta Water and Traverser. The last named, perhaps the best two-year-old colt racing in the Middle West this season, has been leased by Burns & Waterhouse from R. Bradley, of Blitzen fame. Charley Thorpe will do most of the riding of the B. & W. horses at the coming meeting in and around San Francisco.

"Danny Maher, who shares honors with O'Connor as a light weight jockey, will next season ride for the well-known turfman, David Gideon," says the New York Spirit of the Times. Maher, who was brought up under the tutelage of W. C. Daly, is 18 years old, and can ride at eighty-five pounds. Though he has not had the same chances as O'Connor, he has held his own well. Maher is a stronger finisher than O'Connor, though the latter is a better all around jockey. O'Connor will probably remain with Daly, though several offers have been made the "Sage of Hartford" for this promising lightweight. These two jockeys display marvelous skill and their clever work has gained for them many admirers.

I have used De Huy's Balmoline to my entire satisfacteon. As a healing salve for cracked heels, hopple chafes, cuts and wounds of all kinds, it is the first under the wire "in a jog." F. B. Loomis.

ARGENTINE REPUBLIC AND CHILE.

The Racing and Racers of the South American Republics—Senor Bocau, Former Owner of Ormonde—California Bred Horses Famous in Chile.

The other day a horseman friend of ours who had spent a couple of years in the Argentine Republic and Chile allowed himself to be interviewed by a representative of this paper, the principal subject he spoke upon being the method of conducting race meetings in those countries. He also told us of the best horses and of the leading Argentinian breeder, Senor Bocau, of whom W. O'B. Macdonough, of California' purchased Ormonde, "the horse of a century." As few of our readers know of the scale of magnificence on which racing is conducted in the Argentine Republic, especially around Buenos Ayres, the interview will probably prove interesting.

The principal tracks of the Argentine Republic are the Palermo and Belgrano, the former situated two miles out of Buenos Ayres, the metropolis of the country. Our informant states that he has traveled over a large portion of the world, and is of the opinion that it is the grandest racing establishment on the globe. The grand stands, building of mile track, club house and betting quarters cost $1,500,000 as they stand, the ground of the Palermo track being owned by the Government. Trains from Buenos Ayres run right into the grounds. The choicest portion of the grand stand is reserved for the President, the members of the Cabinet and their families.

The only way the Argentinians have of wagering money on races is by the Paris mutual plan, and the Government conducts everything in connection with the racing at Palermo. Five per cent. commission is charged. Every ten minutes before a race there is a halt in the betting, and every five minutes while the speculation is going on four large blackboards are hoisted to let the public know the sum that has been wagered on the various contestants. When the betting on a race is finally stopped three blackboards are set before the grand stands, with the total number of tickets sold chalked up, and the amount each horse should pay can be figured by anyone that understands the plan. After the race is over the dividends on the first and second horses is figured by the Government clerks. The building where the betting is done is a very long one, partitioned into about 150 booths, somewhat like our election booths. The ordinary price for tickets is $2, but there are booths for the heavy players, with different bunches of tickets made up, so that any sum can be quickly wagered.

The horseman says that on one Sunday in November 80,000 people paid to attend the races, 30,000 of the tickets ranging in price from $1 to $10, according to location of seats. The poorer classes occupy the infield and upper part of the homestretch, and admittance cost 20 cents. On seven races about $4,500,000 was wagered (paper money worth 20 cents on the dollar). The money had depreciated in value through the great failure of the Baring Bros.

American owners would not like the Argentinian tracks, which are of turf, but very flinty. Breakdowns are common. American and English riders would not fancy the treatment they would receive there. The native riders combine against jockeys from this and "the old country" and "put them over the fence" every time an opportunity presents itself.

The Belgrano is much like the Palermo establishment, though it is conducted by a syndicate and not the Government. The course is four miles out of Buenos Ayres, which is a city of about 800,000 inhabitants. The ladies of that country are pronounced by our turfman friend the handsomest, as a class, he ever set eyes upon. Paris only outrivals Buenos Ayres in its turnouts, he declares, and the way they attend the races would astonish North Americans. There is racing at the two big courses on alternative days during the regular season.

The "boom" in racing began in the '80's, when Valentine, an American, got the Rothschilds and Barings into the great scheme for reclaiming the pampas. When the bubble burst the great bankers were the chief sufferers, and while Argentinian money was depreciated, the people of the Argentine Republic had a large amount of the gold of the foreigners, and thousands of them were basking on the sunny side of Easy street.

Senor Bocau, about the wealthiest man in that country, paid 16 000 guineas for Ormonde and 9,000 guineas for the French horse, Athos II In all he had about twenty-five horses in training and 100 in his stud.

Athos II was the best horse in the South American republic when our turfman friend was there, and an idea of his worth can be had when it is known that he ran a mile in 1:39¼ with 127 lbs. (or 58 kilos) up. The mile record in the Argentine Republic was 1:38¼, made with 115 lbs. up. Athos II., took up 150 lbs., he says, and ran a mile and seven furlongs in 3:12¾, which is about the best performance on record. Our best-on-record is 3:20, made with 90 lbs. in the saddle. Athos II. was a chestnut horse that looked a great deal like El Rio Rey. He was perhaps a little more compact in build, with a back that looked strong enough to carry a house A really first-class stake horse three years old or over could win $200,000 in stakes and purses there in a season, so rich are the prizes hung up.

The Argentine racing season opens on April 1st, and continues every Sunday and church holiday until January 1st. After the horses come out on the course no one is allowed on the track except the assistant starter. As the riders weigh out they receive a little slip from the automatic scale and the check must be returned as the jockeys weigh in. The management is very particular about the paddock and scale-room, and considerable influence must be brought to bear if a person enters the latter Paddock tickets sell for $5 The jockeys, a poorly paid lot, are treated as so many slaves. They come from the lower classes and are only allowed to mingle with the "scum." All the stables are situated outside the courses and are separated by quite a distance.

The trainers are the most suspicious persons on the earth, says our traveling friend, and they work horses with either very light or very heavy weights up, in order to fool outsiders. Scattered over Buenos Ayres are hundreds of betting places, all licensed by the Government, and, in view of this, the attendance on races is truly wonderful.

In Chile the conditions are altogether different. The people are not as fond of racing as in Argentine Republic—at least they have not shown as much interest in the sport up to this time, while their stakes and purses will not compare with those of the country where Ormonde once made his home.

The best race horse in Chile for years was Lottery, a well-known California bred horse by Monday—Virginia. He swept everything before him in that country in the '80's. The best brood mare there by long odds was Lady Washington, a sister to Ironclad and Cousin Peggy, latter the dam of Geraldine. She belongs to a Chilean millionaire, and produced Jenourous, Swell and six other good winners. Several of her foals by imp. By-the-Sea sold for $15,000, while $20,000 was refused for a yearling from her. Imp. By the-Sea, a son of Thormanby and Bernice, by Stockwell, foaled in America in 1·68, made the mile record of Chile, 1:43¾, and proved the best sire they ever had in the republic. August Belmont Sr. owned Bernice, the dam of Fy-the-Sea, and she threw many good winners, including the stake horse Bertram, and was a valuable piece of property. Our friend and informant says that Chile is a prosperous country, and if a number of really good horses were brought into the country and racing conducted in an "up to-date" way the sport would soon "catch on" there and become just as popular as it is in the sister republic of Argentine, over on the eastern side of the great Andes range.

The Coming Reis Sale of Thoroughbreds.

On the same evening the Winters yearlings are to be disposed of by auction at the Occidental Horse Exchange in this city—that is, November 29, 1897—there will be fifteen head of J. O'N. Reis' grandly bred thoroughbreds disposed of. There are yearlings, two-year-olds and several famous brood mares, and a finer lot was never offered in San Francisco.

In the list of yearlings are three by the great Morello (sire of Recreation, Richard J., Morellito, Cherry Bounce, Morea and six other two-year-old winners) and one by Sir Reel, a two-year-old by Morello and two and three year-olds by imp. Martenhurst (latter sire of Challenger, Greyhurst, Lumina, Fig Leaf, Lady Hurst, Coupon and other good winners).

Charmion is in this consignment. All our race-goers remember this great daughter of Tyrant and Unit. During her turf career she won $18,405, and among her performances were six furlongs as a two-year-old in 1:13 over Bay District track, 106 lbs. up, the best run ever made over that time-honored course; six furlongs in 1:14, 115 lbs. up; five furlongs in 1:01½, 115 lbs. up, and seven furlongs in 1:27¾, 91 lbs., all as a two-year-old. Her third in the $10,000 Spreckels Handicap to Lissak and Cadmus is also fresh in our minds, her win of the Elizabeth stakes at Monmouth Park, too, also her seven furlongs in 1:27 flat, 104½ lbs., at Monmouth. In short she was about the best two and three-year-old filly in America, and is as handsome as she was good.

Another prize in the Reis sale is Sunlit, by Monday (dam of El Rayo and Don Carillo), in foal to the great Musket horse, Artillery.

Catalogues of this sale will be issued in a week or ten days' time, and when lovers of good thoroughbreds see the list of animals to be offered they will surely enthuse and go hunting for their check-books.

The Winters Sale of Yearlings.

On the night of the 29th of November, 1897, there will be sold at the Occidental Horse Exchange, this city, fifteen yearlings from the Rancho del Sierras of Theodore Winters, Washoe, Nevada. But two are by Joe Hooker, and these will be the last of the get of that great horse to be offered for sale by auction. The rest of the yearlings are by the great unbeaten El Rio Rey, who won the White Plains Handicap, six furlongs, 126 lbs. up, in 1:11, track not nearly as fast as it is now. At Washington Park El Rio Rey fell to his knees, yet got up and beat such a good one as Lord Peyton by a length in 1:08 for the five and one-half furlongs. Besides the White Plains handicap he won the great Eclipse stakes (worth $23,750 to the winner), the St. Louis Brewers' Stallion Stakes, Kenwood Stakes and Dunmow Handicap. His turf winnings amounted to $46,865.

At the stud El Rio Rey got Scarborough (winner of the California Derby, etc.), Mandolina (winner of 14 races to July 1, 1897), Bell Boyd (winner of 16 races in two seasons on the turf), Caliente (winner of ten races in two and one-half seasons), Uncle Giles (7 races), Soon Enough and several other good ones.

Mr. Winters has bred such celebrities as El Rio Rey, Emperor of Norfolk, Yo Tambien, Rey del Reys, Scarborough, Mandolina, Don Jose, Ed Corrigan, Alta, Narcola, Conner, Surinam, Ballot Box. The Czar (never beaten), Tormentor, Jim Renwick, Fred Collier, Coloma, Callie Smart, Dolly McCone—in fact more grand racers than any man in the world—and the colts and fillies he will sell November 29th are closely related to the celebrities mentioned. Catalogues of this sale will be out in about ten days.

We wish to call attention to the advertisement of the horses offered for sale by Mr. Frank H. Burke. As he is to retire from the business, this is the only reason that can be assigned for such low prices being asked. These are bargains and should attract the attention of all who desire to get first-class horses. Rossie Moore is without doubt one of the finest-looking, gentlest and speediest mares in California and is the cheapest mare ever offered.

HOOF-BEATS.

Frank Jaubert and Braxey, of Aleck Shields' stable, won races at a mile and a furlong last Monday at Windsor.

Millard F. Sanders has engaged with the well-known horseman, George Hammond, of Detroit, Mich., to train the get of Simmicolon.

John Olive, one of the leading as well as the oldest horsemen on the Coast, died on Monday from the effects of a kick from a horse at his ranch in Contra Costa county.

Bernardillo and Estaca, sons of Emperor of Norfolk, ran one-two in a mile and a furlong race at Morris Park last Thursday. Good Times won a mile race there the same day in 1:42, 118 lbs. up.

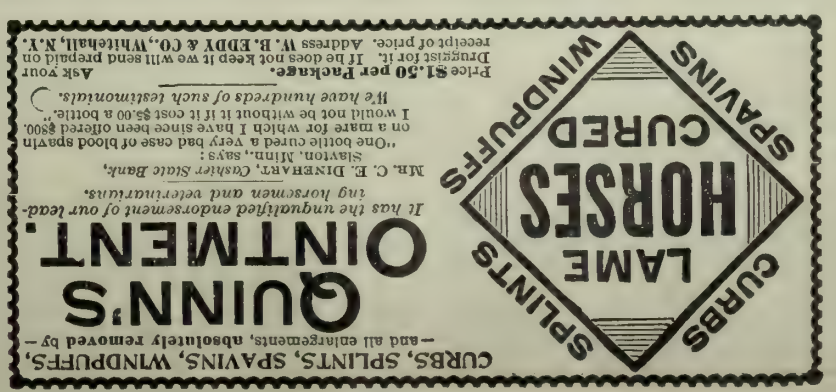
Louis Ezell arrived at Ingleside last Monday with his string, including Babe Murphy and several others. His horses did not make the journey in very good shape. Nearly all of them are completely worn out. A good rest, however, will set them right.

In consequence of ill-health Major B. G. Thomas, owner of the famous Dixiana Stud, Ky., has decided to retire from breeding and has consigned his entire stud, including Himyar, imp. Masetto, brood mares and weanlings, to the Easton Company's Lexington sale, from November 27th to 29th.

Andy Blakely, with three jumpers, including Captain Piersoll, arrived on Monday last from Chicago. In the same car came Covington & Kent's trio, among them The Swain and Cavalry. C. P. Fink also brought three, the best of which is Newsgatherer. B. Brandon's Contgo was also in the party.

The well-known campaigner and game race horse Ferrier, by Falsetto, dam imp. Cinderella, who has been racing in the East this season in the colors of H. H. Hunn, bowed in front and broke down at Fort Erie, Canada, recently, and has been shipped to his owner, Mr. W. S. Hobart in California.—N. Y. Spirit of the Times.

At the Tattersalls, 721 Howard street, a consignment of double teams, heavy horses, was received this week which are of a far better class than any heretofore received in this city. Mr. A. J. Rooker, the well-known horseman, will take pleasure in showing them to all in need of such splendid individuals. They will be sold remarkably cheap.



Ed Ames rode the winners in both the Derby and Futurity at Los Angeles. This was his first appearance since he was injured at Sacramento. This jockey had his first real opportunity this season given him by B. C. Holly, and he certainly made the most of it. Ames has probably "come to stay" as a crack rider, for he is a man in years and a boy in avordupois.

At Los Angeles on Thursday last E. J. Baldwin's bay filly El Salado, by Emperor of Norfolk from Aloha, dam of Rey El Santa Anita, won the two-year-old maiden race of four and one-half furlongs. Other winners were Polish, five and one-half furlongs in 1:07½), Grady (Southern California Stake, mile and a furlong in 1:55¼, 108 lbs.) and Howard (seven furlongs in 1:28). Visalia and Caryle Carne won the trotting races.

Charles Kerr, the Bakersfield breeder, must have been a happy man when he heard the result of the Los Angeles racing of last Tuesday. There were only two of his breeding entered in the races there, and both won—Lorena II. (by Apache—Rill) the Railroad Handicap, six furlongs, in 1:14 flat, value $700, and Viking (by Herald—Eileena) the mile and a half hurdle race (Blue Ribbon Handicap, value $550) in 2:47. The time made on the last-named race has been beaten very few times in hurdle races. Mr. Kerr has yearlings in his coming sale from the dams of these runners.

J. N. Nelson will sell among other things at his great speed sale Monday, November 15th, at the Alameda race track, Daylight, 2:22½, Calaveras (trial), 2:26; Silvery Bells (by Silvery Bow, 2:16, out of a sister in blood to Iago, 2:11¾, and Leap Year, 2:26); An adore, another four-year-old by this great sire, out of Grape, by Park 1711. Three fine ones from the Rosedale Stock Farm, that have shown trials from 2:16 to 2:27. Turein, a brother to the great Chehalis, 2:07½, Dolly Madison (timed in a race in 2:19), Queen of Night, by Knight, 2:22, Gladys Hale, by Dictatus, 2:21, and Rosie Woodburn, by Easter Wilkes. Mr. Nelson is making every effort to make this sale a success. The very best talent will be engaged, the best care taken of horses consigned and everything done to get horsemen to attend. This will be a speed sale. All horses will be shown to harness and buyers will have a splendid opportunity to judge for themselves of the merits of the various trotters and pacers offered.

Spohn's Distemper and Cough Cure, advertised elsewhere in the Breeder and Sportsman by the Spohn Medical Co., Goshen, Indiana, is declared to be an absolute specific for distemper, influenza, pink eye, epizootic and catarrhal fever, or any affection of the throat. Furthermore it will keep sound animals in the same stable with the diseased ones, entirely safe from attack. Not a powder. Easily administered. Absolutely safe at any age or condition. Three to six doses often cure. One dose a preventative. Given universal satisiaction in the best stables in the world. 50c a bottle, $5 a dozen. See ad for names of dealers for California

TURF AND TRACK.

Sablehurst, son of Sable Wilkes, is the sire of Dark Secret, 2:27¼.

Sidney 2:19¾, has had eleven additions to his 2:30 list and leads all California-bred sires.

Arthur W., 2:14½, and his brother and sister have been sent to Scotia, Humboldt county.

Subscribe for the Breeder and Sportsman and keep posted on all matters pertaining to the horse.

There is considerable talk of a half-mile race track being made near Antioch, Contra Costa county, next spring.

The the three-year-old filly Directina, by Direct, 2:05½, out of the dam of Directum, 2:05¼, has reduced her record to 2:16¾.

Cœur d'Alene, the handsome stallion belonging to the estate of Simeon G. Reed, won the first premium at the State Fair in Oregon.

A number of horses shipped to Honolulu during the past three months remain unsold. There seems to be an over supply there at present.

The sale of trotting stock to be held at the Alameda speed track by J. N. Nelson, November 15th, promises to be one of the best ever seen in California.

R. Volmer, of Decoto, Alameda county, is the owner of some very promising trotters. One, in particular, by Soudan will be seen on the circuit next year.

H. W. Crabb of Oakville writes: "Please discontinue my advertisement of the carriage team Tokalon and Tokio, as I sold them last week." It pays to advertise.

Ben Kenney has sold for Marcus Daly to ex-Mayor Grant, of New York, the four-year-old trotter Wilderness by Prodigal, out of Fannie Witherspoon, 2:16¼.

Does any of our readers know of a 2:30 performer that we have omitted from our California list? If so, they would be conferring a favor by sending us the name at once.

Lou Mitchell, a brown filly by Direct, owned by F. T. Steinway, of New York City, won a race to wagon at Fleetwood Park, October 9th. Time, 2:20½, 2:25 and 2:23.

F. W. Loeber, of St. Helena arrived home last week. He was called to Baltimore, a few months ago, to be present at the bedside of his father who shortly after passed away.

Beulah, dam of Beuzetta, 2:06¾, and Early Bird, 2:10, although sixteen years old and blind, was cheap at $2,000. She joins her famous daughter at Patchen Wilkes Farm.

The colts and fillies to be sent from the Oakwood Park Stock Farm to the Cleveland sale are as fine-looking and, in fact, are more promising than any ever bred on this famous farm.

Wm. Corbitt is arranging to send a consignment of mares and colts to New York City, after January 1st. That prince among auctioneers, Peter C. Kellogg, will have charge of this sale.

The bay mare Countess Eve, winner of the 2:16 trot at Lexington last week, was sold to Schlessenger & Son, Vienna, Austria, for $3,000. She is by Norval, dam by Lord Russell.

The colt Prince Ansel, 2:20½, that holds the record for two-year-olds for 1897, is out of an Ansel mare, and the champion two-year-old filly Janie T., 2:15½, is by a son of Electioneer.

Seventy-nine new 2:30 performers are accredited to sons and grandsons of the immortal Electioneer in 1897, while forty-eight of his descendants have lowered their records. A remarkable showing.

Jasper Ayres, 2:11¾, was too much for the best horses in Los Angeles this year. How fast will he trot in 1898 is a question which will be decided in the East if he falls into the right trainer's hands.

One week ago last Thursday 42,000 men, women and children paid their way into the Hillsdale, Mich., fair grounds. This number exceeded the best previous single day's attendance at this fair by 8,000.

Owners of brood mares have been quite busy lately booking to McKinney, 2:11¼, Diablo, 2:09¼, Silver Bow, 2:16, Chas. Derby, 2:20 and Altamont, 2:26¾. They know there is a splendid prospect for good prices next season.

Demonio (brother to Diablo, 2:09½) will be handled for speed next year. His owner, Sheriff Rush of Solano county, believes he will be as fast as Diablo, and so does every one who has seen him speeding along under Det Bigelow's guidance.

Debutante, who won a mark of 2:21½ in the 2:30 class at Rome, N. Y., is by Director, and is a typical member of that celebrated family. Her dam is by Guy Wilkes. She is a pure gaited pacer, three years old, and owned by the Summit View Farm.

At Huntington, L. I., Oct. 5, Highland Lassie won the 2:18 class for trotters and pacers in straight heats in 2:17½, 2:17½, 2:19. The black mare Jummye, by Directum, 2:05¼, won the 2:38 class for trotters, reducing her record to 2:23¼ in the third heat.

Chimes now holds the honor of siring the fastest three-year-old trotter, Fantasy, 2:08¾, and the fastest four-year-old trotting gelding, The Monk, 2:08¼, that have yet been produced. Fantasy also holds the world's record for four-year-old trotting mares, 2:06.

At Brockton, Mass., on October 8th, the three-year-old, Parthia by Patron, out of Watersprite by Belmont, won the second, third and fourth heats of the three-year-old stake in 2:24½, 2:25½ and 2:28½. This gives Patron his seventh 2:30 performer for the year.

J. Malcom Forbes, of Boston, Mass., has bought of George H. Ketchum, of Toledo, O, the three-year-old filly, Mastuska, 2:24½, by Robert McGregor, dam Morea, by Electioneer. The filly will raise a foal by Arion, 2:07¾, after which she will be raced.

The Monk's heat in 2:08¼ at Lexington broke several records. It was the fastest mile ever trotted in the Transylvania, the fastest ever trotted by a four-year-old gelding, the fastest trotted by a gelding this year and the fastest record ever scored by a performer in his first public season.

Martin Carter's handsome Guy Wilkes-Nutwood stallion, Nutwood Wilkes, 2:19½, will take the place of Guy Wilkes as a sire in California if his progeny is developed. He has many sons and daughters at the Nutwood Stock Farm that will be in the front rank again next year.

Pat Farrell, the old-time driver, is jogging J. C. Kirkpatrick's fine roadster Harvey Mac, 2:14¾. Mr. Kirkpatrick is the manager of the Palace Hotel, the acknowledged headquarters of all visiting horsemen, and is as devoted a lover of a fine trotter or pacer as any one on the Pacific Coast.

Of the five fastest pacers—Star Pointer, 1:59½, John R. Gentry, 2:00½, Joe Patchen, 2:01½, Robert J., 2:01½, and Frank Agan, 2:03¾—and the five fastest pacers—Bessie Bonehill and Lottie Loraine, 2:05¾, Pearl C. and Pearl Onward, 2:06½, and Angle D., 2:07—not one wears hobbles.

"The editors of agricultural papers," says the "Horse World," who are prating about the decline of interest in harness-racing, should express an opinion on the causes that led between 40,000 and 50,000 people to attend the Indiana State Fair the day Star Pointer and Joe Patchen raced."

C. Needham of Bellota, Cal., has nearly eighty head of the finest looking roadsters to be found in California. The much-prized Morgan and Black Hawk blood predominates in these stylish horses. Mr. Needham is a careful, industrious horseman and believes in feeding his colts and fillies well.

Betting on the Transylvania stake was heavier in Lexington prior to the decision of the race than it ever was before. About $100,000 went into the pool box the night before the race alone, some pools aggregating $7,500. The most notable of the individual pools sold was $5,000 on the field and $2,500 on the Rilma.

The low prices obtained for the Haggin thoroughbred yearlings in New York is partly accounted for by their appearance; they were all recovering from the effects of that disease which has effected nearly every horse on our stock farms this year, and while not necessarily fatal, nevertheless it leaves the patient dull and weakly.

Mr. W. E. D. Stokes, in a letter from Newport, to the "Rider and Driver" says: "I have just got a long account from the other side regarding motor carriages. We had an idea here that it was thought on the other side that they might supersede the horse, but there are not half as many used to-day as there were two years ago."

In the 2:25 trot at the Oregon state Fair meeting, Salem, October 2, all three of the starters were by Altamont. Two of the entries were green mares, and both stepped neatly into the 2:20 list. Island Lass took the first and second heats in 2:22, 2:20. Gracie P. got the next two in 2:19½, 2:20, and then the stallion Atlas took the race in somewhat lower time.

Bookmakers apparently considered the Los Angeles meeting a good thing. Nine of them put up their slates at the outset, and as a consequence the game was very good—for the men on the ground. Prices were hunched all around. On the day the free-for-all pace was decided 12,000 people were in attendance, although on other days the crowds were not so large.

The bay Norval colt, Norvet, owned by J. M. Wilcox, won two races at the Dallas, Pa., fair. In the 3:00 class he took a record of 2:24½. He has been winning second and third money, all that was wanted of him, for two or three years past. Later in the week he won the 2:45 class without having to go anywhere near his record.

Monday, October 4th, at Dallas, Texas, the bay horse Electrite, owned by Colonel Henry Exall, of the Lomo Alto farm, and by Electioneer—Sprite, by Belmont, won the 2:25 trot in 2:20½, 2:28½. This gives Electioneer another trotter and adds one more name to old Sprite's list of performers, her others being Sphinx, 2:20½, Egotist, 2:22½, and Spry, 2:28¾.

G. B. McAneny, of Lawrence Station, has reason to be proud of his handsome stallion Messenger Almont 2594. He has had two of his progeny enter the list this season, at San Jose on October 5th and 6th, viz.: Almah, 2:26½, out of Diana, by Echo, second dam sister to Dido, by Hambletonian 725 and Fannie L., 2:26½, dam sister to Dido, by Hambletonian 725.

The two parent trotting associations should refuse to accept any reports of secretaries unless the pedigrees of the heat winners are filled out by the Secretaries. The daily newspapers which devote a few inches of their space to trotting events and columns to the running races should also have the names of dams of the heat-winners as well as the sires in the summaries.

Athanio, the young stallion bred by George L. Warlow and sold to the multi millionaire, C. J. Hamlin of Buffalo, N. Y., recently won the 2:12 trotting race at Lexington, Ky., winning the first, third and fifth heats in 2:10½, 2:10 and 2:12. He was bred at Fresno and sired by F. P. Wickersham's king of stallions, Junio, and his dam is Mr. Warlow's great brood mare, Athalie, dam also of Athadon, 2:27, who at one time held the world's record for yearling stallions, and Athanio, record 2:18½. Mr. Warlow owns a full brother to Athanio, and also a colt out of Athalie, sired by Diablo, 2:09½. Both of these last named colts are king-pins.

Charles De Laossa ("Spanish Charlie," as he is known among the craft who care for noted harness horses) has had the care of Thorn, the Futurity winner, since and during her sick spell at Council Bluffs, Iowa. De Laossa has been with Hickok for many years, and "rubbed" during that time such great winners as Hulda, 2:08¾; Directum, 2:05¼; Adonis, Our Dick and Miss Rita, 2:08¾.

Wm. G. Layng, editor and proprietor of the Breeder and Sportsman, has opened up a horse exchange in San Francisco. He has engaged the well known and able auctioneer, Wm. Fitch, who conducted the auction pools on the Montana circuit this season, as auctioneer. The first sale will be held in November. There is a wide field for this line of business on the Pacific Coast and we wish Brother Layng success in his new enterprise.—North Pacific Rural Spirit.

The Chicago Horseman of October, in its last issue, pays a glowing tribute to Silver Bow 2:16, for the gameness he displayed in the race in which he was so terribly injured at the State Fair. Silver Bow, under the skillful attendance of Dr. Masoero of San Francisco and Dr. McCallum of Sacramento, has recovered his strength and will be sent to the Mokelumne Stock Farm this week. The death of Silver Bow would be a serious blow to the horse-breeding interests of California.

Miss Margaret's mile in 2:11½ at Rigby two weeks ago is the best credited to a three-year-old pacing filly this season. This young mare would undoubtedly have taken a much faster mark had she been more decently campaigned. She was started, for instance, in three different races at the Fort Wayne Grand Circuit meeting last August. No immature filly, and mighty few in their prime, can stand such work as that. Miss Margaret is by Direct, 2:05½, out of a mare by Algona.

R. B. Ludwig, of Portland, has bought from W. D. Larsen, of Vancouver, Wash., the four-year-old stallion sired by McKinney, 2:11¼, first dam, Umatilla, by Altamont 3600; second dam, Timosa, by Almont Ratler; third dam, by Mambrino Patchen. This fellow's breeding would attract the attention of any student of pedigrees, and being a good individual, Mr. Ludwig feels a great pride in him. This makes three McKinneys Mr. Ludwig owns and he thinks he will get a Zombro out of some from them.

Game little handsome Abbotsford, whose blood is so highly valued in California, is proving that the judgment of his owner, genial Chris Smith, was not far wrong, for this season three of his progeny have entered the list and two others have lowered their records. C. S. Neal's broodmare Emma Abbott 2:17¼, A. B. Patrick's speedy pacer Catinka 2:20¼, and another aged horse, Jim Crow, 2:18¼, were the new ones while Walter Hobart's little She lowered her record to 2:12½ and Dohrman, a good campaigner, also reduced his record to 2:20½.

F. P. Wickersham of Fresno writes: "At the Fair (from Oct. 5th to Oct. 11th) I received first premium on Junio 2:22, best standard-bred trotter; 2nd premium on Bolinas 19,397 by Juno 2:22; best mare of colt, Lightly by Daybreak 6,405, second premium by El Capitan by Nutwood; best colt by Junio; 2nd premium Comme by Apex, dam by Nordale; best filly by Junio. In the last race of the meeting on October 11th, between Bolinas 2:28, Topsy J. and Bolinas for $200, Bolinas won in three straight heats. Time, 2:25½, 2:28, 2:24½. Bolinas No. 19,397, is by Junio—dam Maude Whippleton, by Whippleton.

The great three-year-old Crescius has gone lame. It is an odd fact that a man with the knowledge of racing possessed by Mr. George Ketchum, of Toledo, O., should do what a few other men have done before him and which is a matter of such prominent history as should have warned him against the hard racing given this remarkable three-year-old. Mr. Ketchum had been warned by friendly horsemen that the continuous campaign would break the colt down, but it stated that when the matter was broached to him he always insisted that the colt had not been asked to go anywhere near his speed limit and that he could stand miles in something better than 2:12 for a whole season. But the evidence is in the colt; he is lame and possibly knocked out for the balance of the season, if not for a lifetime.

Thomas Buckman, of Newtown, Bucks county, Pa., showed a pair of two-year-old Bellman fillies at the Trenton tri-state fair that were universally pronounced by the judges and horsemen present the finest of their age ever passed upon in that section. Union Belle is out of Ometta, a full sister to Kentucky Union, 2:07½, and May Atkinson is out of Mabel S., by Abbottsford, grandam Montrose, dam of Muta Wilkes, 2:11, Mary Best, 2:12½, Fred S. Moody (3), 2:14, etc. Ometta is a pony built chestnut, 15¼ hands high, and Mabel S., a brown mare, 15½ hands, while both fillies are colored precisely like Bellman, being rich mahogany bays with all black points, stand now full 15½ hands high, with their sire's superb form, finish and gait. Both are great speed prospects and Mr. Buckman will probably have both in the coming Madison Square horse show, New York City.

The number of horses campaigned by Palo Alto Stock Farm this year is six. They have been trained and driven in their races by Mr. R. J. Havey, and the showing made by them is a very creditable one. The only non-winner of first money in the stable is the bay mare, 9 years old, by Electioneer. This mare showed her ability to trot fast, as she reduced her record from 2:12½ to 2:11¼, but unfortunately went wrong in her first race. Peko, bay mare, 8 years old by Electioneer, has won several races and has been second and third several times, reducing her record from 2:24 to 2:11¼. Pasonte, green filly, 4 years old, by Palo Alto, has been a winner of first money, also inside the money in several races. Her record is 2:13. Betonica, brown colt pacer, 3 years old, has won first, second and fourth money, and at Los Angeles paced the fifth heat in 2:10½. He is by Azmoor, 2:20½, a half thoroughbred sire out of Nadine, (dam of Amigo 2:16¾) by Wildidle, son of imp. Australian. Nordeau, bay filly, 3 years old, by Norris, dam Miss Naude, by Electioneer, has won all of her starts, including The Occident Stake, value $2,160 and the Stanford, value $970. Her record at present is 2:21½. Anselor, bay colt, 3 years old, by Electricity, dam Anselina, by Ansel, has won two out of three starts, including the State Fair Futurity, guaranteed $3,000. His record at present is 2:21½. The average speed of the six starters is 2:14—two aged horses and four colts and fillies.

THE SADDLE.

Charley Thorpe will ride for Burns & Waterhouse again next winter.

G. T. Ferguson has ten horses stabled just outside the C. J. C. track at Emeryville.

May W. went seven furlongs in great shape last Tuesday, at Harlem, doing the distance in 1:27.

John Cochran is at the Everyville track with Earl Cochran, Joan and a dozen or so others.

Galen Brown got in from the far East Monday with his good horse Libertine, and is stabling at Ingleside.

Tony Small has a string of six horses at the Emeryville track, amongst them May R. and a fine-looking Morello colt.

St. Rupert, a recent Harlem winner, is by imp. St. Blaise from the fine race mare, Ruperta. She belongs to "Pa" Bradley.

Had Malvolio won the Kimball stakes at Latonia last week Charles Fleischmann would have purchased him for $10,000.

Tod Sloan (whom the English do not like as a rider and say so) gets $12,000 as a retainer from the Fleishmanns next season.

May W., ridden by Joe Narvaez's brother, won the Speed Stakes at Harlem last Saturday, running the six furlongs in 1:13¼ with 102 lbs. up.

J. S. Curtis, the South African turfman, recently bought Archduke, Clifford's brother, from R. L. Rose. J. W. Rogers will train for Mr. Curtis.

Tommy Burns, the grand lightweight rider, was on four was on four winners at Harlem last Saturday—Ace, Milwaukee, Sir Dilke and Berclair.

Alleviate, by the California-bred horse, Argyle (son of Monday and Cuba), took up 118 lbs. and ran five and one-half furlongs at Latonia, October 14th, in 1:08¾.

Martin Feeny, Chris Smith's old trainer of Yo Tambien fame, arrived Monday night from Chicago with three head belonging to Andy Blakely, for whom he is now training.

There will be two trains run on race days to the Ingleside track. Though the matter has not been settled, the first train will probably start at 12:45 P. M., the last one at 1:20.

James Murphy, who will race Buck Massie, Souffle and Carnero in California, this winter, was at Latonia recently looking for a couple of useful horses to bring out, but did not find them.

Flora Louise, the two-year-old filly which ran six furlongs in 1:12¼ at Harlem, is closely related to Grady, Oro and Polaski. The grandam of Flora Louise, Buttercup, by Glen Athol, is the grandam of Grady and the others mentioned.

The very old mare, Fanny D., sister to Cousin Peggy, Ironclad, Lady Washington, etc., and dam of The Drummer, was destroyed recently at Gaston M. Ashe's place near Tres Pinos, Cal.

The Los Angeles Derby was a hotly contested race, imp. Devil's Dream beating Lady Hurst a nose in 2:08¼—an excellent performance at one and a quarter miles for a three-year-old with 112 lbs. up.

Buck Massie, in an owners' handicap at Harlem October 5th, ran seven furlongs in 1:26 flat, the track being a trifle slow. He will be here shortly if his owner, J. M. Murphy, does not change his mind.

In the A. J. C. Derby, run September 11th at Sydney, sons of Carbine (Amberite, Clarion and Patriot) ran one, two, three, in the order named. The winner is owned by W. Duggan and is from Duenna.

A very good performance in Sydney, N. S. W., September 14th, was that by Vivian, a four-year-old by Abercorn, in running six furlongs in The Short's Hhandicap in 1:15, carrying 134 lbs., over a turf track.

Hastings ran a mighty good race last Saturday, at Morris Park—five furlongs in 0:59¼ with 130 lbs. up. Scotch Plaid, by imp. Midlothian—Mottle, won a six and one-half furlong race for two-year-olds at the same place.

Barnum, the iron horse, hero of 200 fights, etc., has in his twentieth year been presented to a young lady in Cincinnati, who will drive him to a buggy in that city. The old chap was broken to harness many years ago.

Presbyterian, a Rancho del Paso colt by imp. Prestonpans—Dareka, finished first in La Grange Stakes at Harlem, last Tuesday, but was disqualified and the race given to Mordecai, a 10 to 1 shot. Presbyterian was the favorite.

"Uncle Jack" Batchelor, who died at Sacramento some time ago, was better known at the East than in this State, though he was here in "early days." He had gold mines in Princess and Woodcutter, and many years ago used to drive the quite noted trotter, Mattie Graham.

In the Eclipse Stakes of 1897 (worth $47,000 to the Prince of Wales, owner of the winner, Persimmon) the time for the mile and a quarter was 2:09 3-5. Persimmon carried 142 lbs. and won by two lengths from Valesquez, a three-year-old with 130 lbs. in the saddle.

The thought of postponing the opening of the New Orleans winter meeting beyond the advertised date, November 13th, has never occurred to the Crescent City Jockey Club. The club sees nothing in the yellow fever scare to keep horsemen away, and are confident when it comes time to ship the embargo will have been raised and the last trace of the fever, which has been the mildest form of the disease, obliterated. Hugh E. Keough has daily assurances from Secretary Clark, J. Barker Harrison and other members of the Crescent City Jockey Club.—Chicago Inter Ocean.

The "intelligent compositor" or the horse editor of the Los Angeles Express (it hard to say which) made a funny blunder in its "Horse Talk" in the issue of October 15th when it spoke of the stallion Nomad as follows: "Nomad strained one of her tandems in the Citrus Belt handicap and pulled up lame."

Atkins & Lotridge, accompanied by their great jockey, Dick Clawson, arrived at Oakland, Monday last from Windsor, Ont., with a carload of horses. In the lot was Tea Rose III., Double Quick, Spunwell, Brier Hill and Gotobed, all good winners this season. The firm had a fair measure of success, and at Windsor did extra well.

The catalogues of the initial sale of A. B. Spreckels' horses (those in training) are out. There are thirty-four animals to be disposed of on Wednesday night, November 17, 1897, at the Occidental Horse Exchange, 225 Tehama street. A list of the horses in this great consignment will be found advertised in this issue, together with their stake engagements.

Reports from St. Louis are to the effect that a new race-track equal in proportions and appointments to the Fair Grounds race track is under way at that place. John Scullin, a millionaire railroad man, is said to be the backer of the enterprise, and it is expected that the new track will be ready for a spring meeting. Tho laws of Missouri are now very favorable to racing.

Preston, a fair performer on local tracks, was shot this morning, his medical attendant having pronounced his recovery impossible.—Chicago Inter-Ocean, Oct. 16th. Preston was more than a fair winner here last winter and spring, winning eleven races and $3,695. He was an own brother to Sweet Faverdale and Fireside, and a half-brother to the grand race horse Major Domo.

In addition to Little Minch, Barney Schreiber recently bought of B. J. Johnston Laura Agnes, the dam of Laura Cotta. She is a full sister to Danton, Robespierre and Macbeth II and in foal to Little Minch. Cornet by Leonatus—Trumpetta, in foal of Monaco, and Wetumka by Leonatus, in foal to St. Saviour or Victory, were also added to the band of Woodlands matrons.—Daily Racing Form.

A recent issue of the New York Spirit of the Times contains some excellent pictures, those of Tod Sloan and his employer, Mr. Fleischmann, of Col. Simmons, Clarence McDowell, C. J. Fitzgerald, the Gravesend stand, James R. Keene, his farm (Castleton) and the dead turf hero, Domino, being especially fine. The one of Kingston, now in Mr. Keene's stud, was most worthy of the famous racer.

The condition of Ed. Purser's string reflects great credit upon trainer Bill Murray, who, while in the East, has maintained his California reputation of being one of the best men in his business. "Purser's horses always look fit, and they are in the money oftener than those running in the colors of any other owner," was the remark made by one of the stewards at Aqueduct on Saturday.—N. Y. Press.

So brilliant are the prospects of a successful autumn meeting, which begins to-morrow, that the Westchester Racing Association has leased the track for another term of years. The entries for to-morrow promise to be exceptionally heavy. The features are to be the Nursery Hendicap, for two-year-olds; the Jerome Handicap, for three-year-olds, and the autumn all aged selling race over the Withers mile. —"Centaur" in N. Y. Commercial Advertiser.

Cousin Peggy, mother of the idolized Geraldine and the good Queen Alta, dam of Ruinart, is thought to be safely in foal to Dr. Garnett, son of imp. The Ill Used and Feu-Follet, therefore half-brother to the great St. Florian. If nothing happens to the old mare this colt or filly should be worth a small-sized fortune. Gaston M. Ashe, owner of Cousin Peggy, has about twenty brood mares on his place near Tres Pinos, and many of them from the family that gave us Geraldine, Queen Alta, Ruinart, etc.

Abuse, the fast sprinter, who ran five furlongs last week at Harlem in a minute flat, is by Plevna, by imp. Warminster, by Newminster. His dam, Abukru, was bred by the Duke of Beaufort in 1885. She is by Ben Battle, by Rataplan, a full brother to Stockwell, her dam Oatmeal, by Wild Oats, out of Miss Ahna, by Blair Athol. Abukru, in foal to Torpedo, was purchased at the sale of the Duke's stud by Messrs. J. H. and A. G. Morris, and by them shipped to their Westchester (N. Y.) farm, where she now is, in August, 1889.

The programme book for the first two weeks at Ingleside has been issued. On Monday, the first day, the University stakes, $1,000 for three-year-olds, will be run. On the following, Wednesday, Ladies' day, the San Francisco stakes, $1,200, for two-year-old fillies, will be decided. On the following Saturday the Golden West stakes, $1,000, for three-year-olds, and upwards, is on the card, making three stakes within a week. Five races are carded on Tuesday, Thursday and Friday the first week, six races the remaining days. The following week there are six races on Wednesday and Saturday.

"Skeets" Martin, the jockey, was justly criticised for his lethargic riding of Perseus and Percy F. at Aqueduct on Tuesday, but not until Wednesday did he show that he paid any attention whatever to criticism. He engaged himself on Tuesday to ride six horses in Wednesday's races, which was the last day of Queens County Jockey Club's meeting, but he failed to put in an appearance. Martin's refusal to fulfill his contracts may cost him a lot of money before the season closes, for the owners for the owners who had engaged him to ride will probably band together to refuse him a mount.—N. Y. Times.

We are in receipt of a letter from New York, in which the arrival of the three Ormonde yearlings from W. O'B. Macdonough's Menlo Stock Farm is noted. They were in fine shape, and were quartered at Morris Park in charge of James McDonnell, the Menlo Farm Superintendent. An immense amount of attention is accorded them. On the 26th of this month (next Tuesday) the Ormonde—Dizzy Blonde filly and Ormonde—Jongleuse colt will be sold at auction. They will undoubtedly bring good prices. Mr. Macdonough has refused an offer of $8,000 for the Countess Langden colt, and turned the youngster over to J. W. Rogers, who will handle him. The young owner of this colt expects that he will some day take the place of his illustrious sire, the "horse of the century."

The bill of sale and pedigree of the Australian horse Kelpie, sire of the dam of Peixotto and others, was sent on to The Jockey Club in New York this week. He was sold to Frederick Clay (now deceased) in 1878 for £1,000, and is by imp. Kelpie (son of Weatherbit) from Imagination by Scratch; second dam Ianthe by imp. Cap-a-pie; third dam, Old Ianthe, by imp. Dover; fourth dam imp. Penelope, by by Phantom, etc. The Kelpie brought to this country is now owned by J. T. Davis of Stockton. He was fast enough to run Premium to a head in 0:48¼ for half a mile, and is a handsome individual.

"Can you lend me a pencil?" said a suave tout to the "Widow's Friend." "Course," said "Uncle Dan." The tout then ostentatiously wrote a card with the borrowed pencil and returned it and walked off. Then two other touts rushed up with the inquiry, "What horse was he betting on?" and the "Widow's Friend" combed some hayseed from his hair with his fingers and said, "Say, you fellows had better go down to my place in Visalia and take a job of picking prunes. You are too green for this country." And they went.—Fresno Republican. The "Widow's Friend" referred to is in all likelihood "Uncle Dan" Thomas, a very gallant farmer of Tulare county.

The improvement that a journey to South America made in the race horse King T. is paralled in the case of the two-year-old Traverser in R. Bradley's stable. Whether traveling or nature did it, the colt, a brother to Article, was condemned as a weed, and as a yearling was shipped to Bermuda, where it was thought he might possibly win. He grew and grew and when he attained 17 hands under the measure, he was shipped back to the United States by his owner, and turned over to Bradley. He promptly showed speed and when Bradley began racing him, after a very short preparation, soon earned the reputation of being the best colt in Canada, and some of the trainers thought a real rival for Hamburg.

W. G. Layng, editor of the Breeder and Sportman of San Francisco, an excellent journal, and Ralph Tozer, the workman of its racing department, have entered into the horse sales field. San Francisco needed such a firm. Mr. Layng should be an ideal manager and Tozer a more than good displayer of pedigrees. William Fitch, who has made a sharp reputation as a salesman by his work as an auctioneer of pools at the Montana tracks, is to be the block man of the new firm. It is to sell thirty four thoroughbreds for Mr. A. B. Spreckels first and thirty-eight yearlings later, and has already secured fifteen sales assignments.—Daily Racing Form, Chicago.

On Monday night, December 6th, at the Occidental Horse Exchange in this city, the Simeon G. Reed estate yearlings, ninteen in number, will be sold at auction. They are for the most part by the great Irish horse, Duncombe (by Speculum —Fair Helen by Gen. Peel), who is proving a splendid sire, Spunwell, Brier Hill and others by him winning some good races this season. Other sires of yearlings in this sale are Emperor of Norfolk, Verano, Dariwell and Nomad. The late Simeon G. Reed, a great judge of blood lines and conformation, spared no expense when he liked a brood mare, and paid as high as $8,000 for some of the stud matrons that he sent to his Oneonta Stud, near Pasadena, Cal. He bred, among others, Fig Leaf, Midlo, Midlight, Spunwell and Brier Hill.

The Scully purses, so called after the supposed author of their conditions, should really be named after John Brenock, for several years ago he proposed that a race under similar conditions should be given each day at Hawthorne. Indeed, he went a little further than the Scully conditions do, for he urged that the winner should be branded in some conspicuous place, while the winners of the Scully purses simply take their place with the outlawed division that have run on tracks which do not observe the rules of the Turf Congress. Whether the re-entry of the winner of a Scully purse could be legally refused is a matter of conjecture. Probably it could, under the plea that when the owner made his entry he entered into a contract for a valuable consideration—the chance of winning the purse—that his horse should be perpetually disqualified in event of his obtaining it. There are sadly too many useless brutes now cumbering the turf, so if a Brenock prize was made a feature of each day's programme at Harlem the result would be beneficial. —Chicago Inter-Ocean.

S. Niyama, the Director-General of the Imperial Stud of Japan, has seen and admired the American thoroughbred. He was a spectator at Gravesend, New York, recently, and he and his aids made the most of their time at the track. They did not venture into the betting ring but they watched the races closely, and in the paddock they studied the horses thoroughly and displayed the keenest interest in them. "Since childhood I have been a student of the horse," said Niyama. "I have seen him in many countries, but nowhere have I seen finer types of the thoroughbred than in America." We have racing in Japan, but our horses are undersized, and for years we have been aiming to improve them; if necessary to introduce a new type. My mission here is to look the horses over, and it may be that I will select some of them for the Imperial Stud. I am not interested in the trotting horse. It is the running horse—the warm blood—that we want, and I believe it would cross well with the horses of Japan." The Mikado's stud numbers several thousand horses and Niyama is the director-general of it.

On Monday night, November 29th, fifteen head of yearlings by the famous El Rio Rey and Joe Hooker will be sold at the Occidental Horse Exchange in this city, and the same evening fifteen head consigned by John O'N. Reis will be sold. In the lot will be Morinel, 2 (by Morello-Sunlit), Hertha, 2 (by imp. Islington—Ernestine), three Morellos (two colts) from Viola, Orinda and Kosciulottia; Ipomea, 3 (by imp. Martenhurst), in foal to imp. True Briton (sire of Her Majesty and Walter J.), the famous brood mare Sunlit, by Monday (dam of Don Carillo and El Rayo), in foal to the great Musket horse, Artillery; the grand race mare Charmion and the stud matrons Stephanotis (by Shannon—Lizzie Whips), and Rubina (by Double Cross—Kate Dudley), both stinted to Eppinger, son of Morello and Orinda. The Reis youngsters by Morello are reported to be grand lookers, while the brood mares are for the most part noted. In the Winters lot are colts or fillies from the dams of such celebrities as Scarborough, Caliente, Malo Diablo and Mandolina, amongst others. The two Joe Hookers are the last of the great horse's progeny.

Light Harness Horse Outlook.

From every part of the United States comes the inspiring news to the breeders of light harness horses that a greater interest is being taken in the trotter and pacer than ever. Larger crowds have attended the race meetings, more money has been wagered on the results, less jobbery in the sulky and judges' stands has been noted, a keener demand is noticed and better prices realized for good horses than at any time for the past four years. The bicycle craze is not so prevalent; in fact, since these silent steeds have become so cheap they are almost worthless, for competition in prices has robbed the wheels of their excellence in manufacture, and to keep a "bike" in perfect condition after a few month's service is so costly that owners sell them at a sacrifice in preference to paying for their repair.

The horseless carriage has not made the rapid strides the scribes on the daily papers predicted; in fact, a breakdown on one of these machines entails a heavy financial loss. We do not say these carriages should be relegated to a machine shop or a dime museum, for we believe that there is not an animal on God's footstool that is to be pitied more than a hack horse standing in front of a theater or private residence on a winter's night in any of the cities in the East, where the thermometer is away below zero. To replace these faithful creatures by horseless carriages, whether propelled by steam, gasoline or electricity, would be one of the greatest triumphs of science in behalf of the equine race. The horses these expensive machines would replace is one we can as easily dispense with as we have the poor, jaded, light-waisted car-horse.

The natural decrease by death, accidents, and shipments abroad, of so many of the very choicest-bred trotters and pacers leaves room for others to take their places, but they are not as plentiful as they were a few years ago, and, from present indications, the supply does not begin to meet the demand; hence, prices are sure to rise. In ordinary stock, that is, those which are used in everyday work on our streets and roads, thousands throughout the United States die every day. Many that are old or have proven unworthy to be handled and are known as "scrubs" are sold and slaughtered for chicken feed, and this branch of industry has increased tenfold during the past two years; it is hoped it will continue until every "scrub" is annihilated. Thousands of horses have been shipped to Alaska, and on the opening of the trails in March it is computed that fully 10,000 horses will be marching in, loaded with provisions and mining utensils.

But where is the great supply to come from? Breeding operations have almost ceased. In counties in California where thousands of horses were bred every year the foals of 1897 do not number 400, so statistics show that all who own horses will realize handsomely on them during the next two years. This number includes draft and trotting stock, and the draymen of San Francisco have agents traveling all over this State and Nevada looking for suitable horses, but it is only occasionally they can find any for sale. During the heavy harvest this season carload after carload of mules arrived from Nevada, Oregon and Washington, to work in the harvest fields. It was out of the question to get horses, and to purchase mules, higher prices were paid than at any time in the history of California. There have been very few trotters and pacers "bred in the purple" this year, and stallion owners were at their wits' ends to know how to get enough good mares for their horses. Of course, the owners of these mares are better educated than they were a few years ago, and, if they were determined to breed, used as much, if not more, discrimination in selecting suitable sires than the owners of our largest stock farms, hence in this they are almost certain to have youngsters that will pay them to race and train.

The demand for first-class roadsters is exceedingly brisk. Better roads, more money, and a desire to enjoy life in the most healthful manner possible have created a wish to own the very best. Driving clubs, composed of members with kindred tastes and a love for a good horse, act as incentives. Every good horse advertised in the turf journals, if it is all the advertisement claims for it, is sold at once, and the prices received are, in nine cases out of ten, perfectly satisfactory to the seller.

Hence, taking a retrospective view of the situation, there seems to be enough to warrant us in saying that the prospects for owners and breeders of good horses of every breed are brighter than they have been for the past five years, and everyone interested should feel encouraged.

Improving Racers and Registration.

These are busy times, especially among owners of gallopers. The owners of short-bred or unregistered ones have great beads of blood standing out in bold relief upon their foreheads, due to the rule regarding registration being enforced by the Ingleside folks. It is a case of register stock or secure no stalls. However, the short-bred ones can race "over the sticks," for the registration rule only applies to the "flatters," not to the "leppers." There is a flaw in the rule, too, that should be remedied.

The Jockey Club rule says that "only horses are eligible for registry under this rule which have either five uncontaminated thoroughbred crosses, or which authentically trace through or to animals recorded in the first SIX volumes of the American Stud Book, or in the recognized stud book of another country." The American Turf Congress rule, under whose auspices of the P. C. J. C. is working, is the same, except that it says FIRST FIVE volumes of the American Stud Book, etc. Surely this must be an error, and the Turf Congress folks should rectify it at once. It works a great hardship on owners of horses bred by careless or poorly-posted persons.

The two governing turf bodies of America should work in harmony in the matter of registration as well as in other ways, and if The Jockey Club, the first to demand registration in America, says any horse tracing to animals in the FIRST SIX volumes is satisfactory, it should suit the American Turf Congress officials also. It should be remembered that Volume 5 of the American Stud Boook was issued nearly eight years ago, Volume 6, less than four years ago, and that hundreds of horses are registered in Volume 6 that do not appear in Volume 5. The American Stud Book (now owned by The Jockey Club) is the recognized authority of the American Turf Congress, but The Jockey Club has made rules of its own in regard to time of registering foals and naming them that the American Turf Congress does not recognize. For instance, if a turfman desired to race a horse on any of The Jockey Club tracks, and had not named the animal by March 1st of its two-year-old form, a $50 fine must be paid. It is only necessary, under the Turf Congress rules, to give a horse a name before it races over a Turf Congress track. The day it is to contest is time enough. The name must not be changed, however, after it has appeared in public anywhere. Over The Jockey Club tracks a name must be claimed for a horse at least two days before it starts in a race.

While registration is a good thing, and we would like to see every racer's name and breeding recorded in the American Stud Book, it certainly seems that if the governing turf bodies wanted to improve the breed of racers they ought to pass rules that there should be no races of less than seven furlongs for three-year-olds or upward. Then the short-bred ones would not cut much of a figure. It would not pay to breed them, and they would be rendered invaluable through their inability to cope with the "stayers" that were bred to go a long journey. If a "half-breed" could defeat a thoroughbred at seven urlongs or upward it should certainly be allowed to do so—at least that is our opinion, and we believe we voice the sentiments of nine-tenths of those interested in races and racing when we say so. The stated object of every jockey club or turf organization in the land is "the improvement of the breed of race horses," and it would be interesting to know how the racing of three-year-olds and upwards at four, five and six furlongs "improves the breed." And we also desire to learn how our horses' strength is to be increased by giving race after race where the animals competing can start with a weak lad on its back weighing from 80 to 100 pounds, said youngster having neither knowledge nor power, the horse going to the outside or inside of the track, jostling four or five, or, worse still, throwing one or two either into or over the fence. At the present time the majority of riders, because they weigh over 107 pounds, are forced into retirement—this generally at a time when they are just becoming a little adept in their profession. As matters stand now, there is no demand for jockeys weighing much over 100 pounds, and those that stay in the business must be midgets that are just a shade over the "freak" line.

Merman, the Cesarewich Winner.

The "horse writer" on the Chicago Inter Ocean must have been smoking a poor brand of "dope" when he wrote the following:

"The winner of the Cesarewich (Mr. Jersey's), Merman, is an Australian bred 5-year-old, by Grand Flaneur-Seaweed, who carried just the same impost as Keenan, 103 pounds. His sire, Grand Flaneur, was a son of Saunterer and Miss Digby, who when racing in England in the colors of the late Mr. Bragg could never get a yard beyond five furlongs, though at that distance he won several good races under heavy weights. Merman probably inherits the staying power that enabled him to successfully compass two miles and a quarter on Wednesday from his dam, who was a daughter of Turn of the Tide, by that good stayer Mandrake. Merman is trained at Newmarket by Fred Webb, the famous jockey who rode Doncaster to victory in the Derby as long ago as 1873 and was second, or, as many thought, won, on Highland Chief when St. Blaise took the blue ribbon ten years ago.

Grand Flaneur, sire of Merman, is by Yattendon from First Lady, by St. Albans. Yattendon was by the Australian Sir Hercules from Cassandra, by Tros. Where the Inter Ocean man got the idea that Grand Flaneur was by Saunterer is a mystery, also what made him imagine Grand Flaneur could not go a yard beyond five furlongs, when he won all his races (including the A. J. C. Derby, and Mare's Produce Stakes, V. R. C. Derby and St. Leger, Melbourne Cup, 2 miles, Normandy Stakes, Champion Race (3 miles) and Town Plate). He never saw defeat nor England. Imp. Seaweed, dam of Merman, was by Coltness from imp. Surf, by Lifeboat, so that the Cesarewich winner of 1897 could scarcely be bred on stouter lines.

Coming Occidental Exchange Sales.

The date set for the W. O'B. Macdonough sale of yearlings by the great St. Carlo (sire of Ruinart, Zamar, Joan, Charles Le Bel, etc.), is Monday, December 20th. There will be fifteen head in this consignment, from some of the best bred mares in the country. A. Joseph, of this city, will, in all likelihood, have five well-bred yearlings disposed of the same night by auction.

IT is a pity the judges at the Los Angeles race meeting in progress this week did not rule the jobbers in the light harness events off the track for life. Any man who is caught laying up a heat in order to wilfully rob the public should never be allowed to sit in a sulky again. That is the only way to stop this thriving practice. A jockey caught in the act of pulling a horse in a running race is ruled off for life, and he is not a bit more to blame than the man who drives a trotter or a pacer. The weakest place at most of our trotting meetings is the judges' stand.

REMEMBER entries to the Colusa spring meeting will close November 1st. The programme appears in another column and should be read by everyone. All who own horses eligible to the stakes should make entries at once, for everyone who attended the meeting this spring has naught but praise for the management and the splendid treatment accorded them will never be forgotten. Do not overlook this meeting.

THE well-known and highly esteemed millionaire horse-owner Walter Hobart is rapidly convalescing from the effects of an operation performed on him for the cure of appendicitis by Dr. McMonagle last Tuesday.

WE shall issue our regular daily racing edition of the BREEDER AND SPORTSMAN Monday, November 1st, and will present in its columns many new features.

GOV. BUDD says he wants no more political offices. Hadn't he better wait until he is asked?

SPECIAL DEPARTMENT

EDITED AND CONDUCTED SOLELY BY

JOSEPH CAIRN SIMPSON.

California Jockey Club.—Every week shows progress towards making the C. J. C. grounds and course a model curriculum in every respect. There are improvements that depend upon time to complete, as grass, flowers and shrubbery cannot be grown in a month, though there has been a wonderful addition in that line since the close of the spring meeting. Owners of horses, however, are more interested in stables and course than in the gratification of their aesthetic tastes, and while the stables are known to be first class they will find the course, good as it was, still better. A light coating of sand, incorporated with the top soil, so that it will be better in any kind of weather, and in ordinary rainfalls still good. The inner track, coated with stuff from the mound, disintegrated shells and ashes, will give a chance to gallop, however heavy the downpour, and I am inclined to the belief that races can be decided upon it satisfactorily when the main course would be deep from long continued rains. The trainers stand is now completed;and is so complete, and in just the right place, so that it is quite safe to say that the most captious of the corps cannot find fault with it.

Since the above paragraph was written I have watched horses galloping and am still more favorably impressed with the improvement that has followed the top-dressing of sand. While an authoritative statement cannot be made until there is an actual test of what rains will do, it has already been proved that the course will be better in dry weather, with a certainty of improvement in light rains and a strong probability that the heaviest fall of water will not be as great a drawback as it was.

A comparatively light application of sand will render the stiffest clays quite friable and the black adobe soil of California is greatly modified by a slight mixture of sand.

Not only causing it to dry out much quicker but overcoming the slipperiness to an astonishing degree, therefore even the light coating placed on the Emeryville course could not be otherwise than beneficial.

Occidental Horse Exchange.—The building in which the auction sales of the above firm will be held is now under way and will be in readiness, fully equipped, long before the date fixed for the first sale, November 17th. The building is admirably contrived for the purpose and so arranged as to present the best facilities for selling either during the day or by electric light

Ninety feet by seventy the ground covered. Seats for twelve hundred arranged in tiers so that there will be an unobstructed view for all, and every occupant be in a position to hear every word spoken by the auctioneer. While smaller than some of the metropolitan sales marts, abundant room for the business on this coast, in fact projected for prospective wants.

The auctioneer's stand central and a box exclusively for reporters close by. So far as the facilities for successful sales go there is no risk in stating that they are fully up to the requirements of the day, and arrangements for the comfort and well doing of the horses in keeping. Roomy boxes, stalls, exercising grounds, and what is of great importance to stock from the country, is a quiet location. Though within a short distance of the Palace and Baldwin Hotels, there are no disturbing sounds, away from street railways and thoroughfares resounding with the din of heavy traffic, nearly as free from annoyance as the stables of a farm. Convenient also to the ferry, so that horses which come across the bay can reach the mart with short travel and small obstructions in the way. The Southern Pacific depot, Fourth and Townsend streets, only a few blocks away. so that from every side it is within easy reach of consignments of stock, and whether by rail or boat, the location so central that depot, ferry landings or wharves at which horses are landed, a short trip to the stables.

More important to have these advantages than readiness of access to people who attend the sales, though in that respect nothing is lacking.

Third street cars pass within half a block, Mission and Howard nearly as close, and from the system of transfers prevailing in San Francisco, from whatever section of the city a person may be, one fare will cover the expense, and "rapid transit" economize time.

Buildings constructed for the purpose and on the best plan, locality such as to meet hearty approval, may be called a solid foundation, but there are requisites of equal importance. Cataloguing, advertising, placing before the public the stock to be sold in a way to insure attention and to induce people to attend is manifestly a part of the work that must be done well.

The catalogues of the first sale, that of the horses in training belonging to Mr. A. B. Spreckels, will be an exhibit of the firm's capability on that line, and there is little hazard in stating that it will be found satisfactory.

A succinct history of the families, on both sides, of animals offered.

Tabulated pedigrees and extensions to the furthest necessary sources of blood ; if horses have run races, all connected with them is placed before the reader, and all that important information combined, so that the page presents everything that purchasers desire to learn about blood lines and performances. For instance one page of the Napa Stock Farm sale catalogue presents—Marcel, bay mare foaled 1891, a tabulated pedigree for five generations and under that extended to the twenty-first dam—the famous Layton Barb mare. Then her yearly winnings from 1893 to 1897 inclusive, aggregating $11,000, then the most creditable performances, horses she has defeated, the noted race horses belonging to the maternal side, and what her sire was.

American, English and Australian stud books, racing calendars, an extensive turf library at the command of this Exchange, furnish a fund of valuable information which is of such utility in this kind of work that it could not be done so thoroughly if these records were not available.

The proprietorship of the Breeder and Sportsman gives advantages for advertising which will be an important factor in making these sales successful, and it is supererogatory to state to those who know Mr. Layng that he will do all within his power to further the interest of consignors. The auctioneer is an important figure. However meritorious the animal offered for sale, however well the work has been done in the way of cataloguing and advertising, so much depends on the "orator of the day" that anything but talent of the first order would not suit the promoter of the enterprise. That his choice of Mr. William Fitch was well directed is the unanimous opinion of those who are acquainted with that gentleman and his methods, "the best horse auctioneer I ever heard," the refrain from all who have personal knowledge of the man, and in addition to oral testimony Eastern papers have been lavish in their praise. Natural adaptability for the profession, long experience adding to individual bent, all the testimony bearing on the question so favorable that there can be no doubts as to the right man having been selected.

PATCHEN'S FOUR-WHEEL RECORD.

Nearly Four Seconds Off W. W. P's Mark—A Mighty Test of Speed.

Joliet, Ill, October 20.—Without any preparation for such a trial Joe Patchen, the black pacing stallion, this afternoon reduced the world's pacing record to a four-wheel sulkey by nearly four seconds. The record was established at Ingalls' Park track before 2700 people, who had been attracted by the announcement that Star Pointer would go against both the wagon and high-wheel sulky record and that Joe Patchen would try to beat his own record of 2:01¼.

A few minor races completed the programme, but the attraction was the big pacers, and when it was announced that Star Pointer was lame and that owner Murphy had refused to let him fulfill his engagement there was much dissatisfaction. But Mr. Marks, the owner of Joe Patchen, agreed to let the black hosse take Star Pointer's place and go against the wagon and and high-wheel sulkey records, and this announcement was greeted with great applause.

Previous to this, about 3 o'clock, the great son of Patchen Wilkes had gone a really remarkable mile in attempting to beat his own record of 2:01¼. Driven by Atkinson, he went the circuit in 2:02¾, lowering the track record. The time by quarters was 0:31¾, 1:02, 1:32½, 2:02¾. Several watches caught the time in 2:02½.

The horse was urged a great deal in this heat, but as he did not appear again until 4 o'clock to make his trial wagon or four-wheel sulky record he was probably in well nigh perfect condition for the latter trial. The wind, too, had died down to almost nothing and but for the cold atmosphere and the horse's unfamiliarity with the vehicle, it being the first time he had been hitched to a four-wheel sulky this year, the conditions for a great performance were propitious. Oscar Ames was in the sulky in place of Atkinson, Owner Marks having made a contract with the former owner of Colonel Taylor's horse during the afternoon.

After scoring once, Ames signalled for the word, and away the big black went, with magnificent stride and with the running mate trailing a length or two away. Ames rated his charge splendidly, covering the first quarter in 0:32½, skimming along the back stretch, with the stallion moving easily, in 0:31. Around the far turn the pacer faced the breeze, whatever there was of it, but it was here that Ames first urged him. It was here, too, that the running mate drew along, and, responding to the call, the noble Patchen sped over the third quarter in 0:30½. It was now a foregone conclusion that the record would be broken. and outbursts of applause began before the horse was well straightened out for home. Ames knew the staying power of the horse, and never relinquished urging him by voice and an occasional sharp crack of the whip. The result was the last quarter was made in 0:30¾, the time of the last half mile being 1:01½, and the great pacer finished strong and true, nearly four seconds ahead of the record.

The former record was held by W. W. P., having been made at St. Paul in 1895.

Patchen appeared fairly tired after the trial, but nevertheless was sent, at 5:15 o'clock, against the high-wheel sulky record. The mile was covered in 2:04¾, half a second short of the record. This, however, beats the best efforts made by John R. Gentry this season against the same mark.

During the afternoon Star Pointer was jogged in front of the stand. His leg was injured at Indianapolis some weeks ago and hurt at St. Joseph on October 7th.

The 10,000 acres of splendid land to be sold by McAfee Bros., the well-known auctioneers, on Saturday, November 6th, at the town hall, Atwater, Merced County, comprises the very best fruit and farm lands in California. Alfalfa, sugar beets and all kinds of farm produce yield enormous crops. For stock-raising purposes everything, location and climate and a soil that will produce everything in the way of feed is here. This land was carefully selected by the late J. W. Mitchell and is to be sold in sub-divisions of twenty acres and upwards. An excursion train will leave San Francisco on the day of sale and we advise all who desire a piece of beautiful land that will increase in value every year to attend this sale. It's the opportunity of a life-time.

When Janie T. won the two-year-old division of the Kentucky Futurity at Lexington October 6th, she established a new world's record for fillies of that age in a race at 2:15¼. Janie T. was bred by her owner, trainer and driver, Mr. George A. Fuller, Lincoln, Ill., and was foaled April 6, 1895. As a yearling she trotted a quarter in 38 seconds on July 10th of last year, when she was turned out. She came to her speed very slowly this season and it was some time before Mr. Fuller decided to start her in the Futurity. Her winnings all told for this season amount to over $7,000.

The Condition of the Spreckels Horses in Training to Be Sold November 17th.

Look at the money-winners in this consignment of races. There's

The two-year-olds (for the most part untried in public) are by such sires as :

Salvator (champion race horse of America, holder of the mile record, 1;35½, and sire of Salvation, Salvable, George Kessler, San Mateo, Bliss Rucker and other stake-winners).

John A. (winner of several stake races, over $6,000, and sire of Oakland, Hubert Earl and Emma Nevada).

Imp. Maxim (winner of eight of his ten races, all great stakes) and sire of Napamax, Altamax, Miss Maxim, Rowena B. and Fleur de Lis.

Among the mares with produce represented in this sale are such celebrities as Virgie, Maggie R., Fidelia, Mystery (a triple Derby-winner), imp. Elmina, imp. Atossa, Maria F. (dam of Baggage),Patricia, Nellie Bell, Folly, imp. Yarranabee, Frisa, Annie Race, Helen Scratch, Glitter, imp. Zara (dam of Huguenot and Chartreuse II.), Virjean and Florence B.

A majority of the horses in the Spreckels sale are heavily engaged in stakes, and the first payment has been made by Mr. Spreckels. The horses have been doing so nicely in Jim Garland's hands that it was decided to put them in the various rich stakes, and no doubt purchasers of these animals will pull a number of the rich plums from the racing tree.

It is the greatest consignment of racers ever offered at at auction sale in California. Catalogues are out and will be sent upon application.

Electroplane, a bay horse by Electric, a son of Electioneer, got a record of 2:23½ at Antigo, Wis., September 3d.

Ed. Geers says there is no need to use hobbles in converting a trotter or pacer. It can be done by the use of weights. He finds no excuse for their existence, and says he would not drive a horse that wears them under any conditions or circumstances.

New York, N. Y., Dec., 24, 1895.

I had a mare in training as a four-year-old. She sprained her tendon in front so bad that we blistered her and turned her out. The same thing happened the following year. This spring she broke down again, laid her up, used two bottles of ABSORBINE which removed the fever and the swelling. Won a number of races with her and she never made a lame step since. Your liniment does all you claim for it. No horseman can afford to be without it, it acts so sure and swift.

Yours respectfully

L. B. Knickman, 723 Tenth Ave.

A Great Shot.

The Duke of Malakhoff was at a battue at Strathfieldsays and shot nothing, much to his disgust, and when the day was over it appeared that he would be extremely put out unless he was allowed or enabled to kill something. So in spite of all the gamekeeper could think, feel or say a pheasant was procured, tied by its leg to the top of a post, and Malakhoff was put some 30 yards off with a double barreled gun. It was supposed that he would thereupon and thence take two shots at the bird. Not a bit of it. He loaded both barrels, walked close up to the pheasant, put the muzzle close to him and discharged both barrels into him, with "He coquin." The next day the Duke of Wellington told the keeper that Malakhoff was a great man who had smoked to death 500 Arab men, women and children in a cave, to which the gamekeeper replied: "Like enough, your grace. He'd be capable of anything."—"Letters of Lord Blockford." There are others!

The Winchester Brush Gun.

The Winchester Repeating Arms Co. has just placed a new shotgun on the market, or perhaps it would be nearer correct to call it a new style gun, for it is the 1897 model Winchester repeating shotgun, which will be known as the Brush gun. It is 12 gauge, has a 26-inch barrel, and a shorter magazine than the first issue of the 1897 model, that of the Brush Gun holding five cartridges. The stock is 13 3-8 inches long, with drop of 1 5-8 inches at comb and 2½ at heel. The grip has been reduced slightly and the buttplate is rubber. The gun weighs just under seven pounds.

The San Rafael Journal comments as follows, in regard to hunters (?), who by the way should be compelled to pay a heavy license for the privilege of carrying a shotgun: "The open season for game has its evils. We hear much complaint of trespass, of reckless shooting on private property, and wanton injury to fruit trees and berry bushes by hunters. Considerate men will do none of these things, and the lawless who do them should be taught better by harsh measures."

A writer in the English Stock Keeper notes the English pheasant as follows: It is a curious fact, and one not generally known, that a true-bred pheasant is quite a rarity in the ordinary run of British coverts. As a rule our pheasants are crosses between the Chinese breed and the Colchicus, with occasional crossings of Japanese or P. versicolor. Another cross met with, but somewhat rarely, is between Soemmering's pheasant and the Reeves' pheasant. Of these the Duke of Bedford is about to add some to his coverts. Another which could be much more largely utilised is Elliot's pheasant, a very handsome bird, and very prolific. It stands the English climate very well.

Bear, elk and "mountain whistlers" all fell prey to his rifle and he returned fully determined to spend his next hunting season at the same place.

The Sportsmen's Review has the following in its notes of the State Association Tournament near Passaic, N. J.: "Jack" Fanning of Pacific Coast and Gold Dust fame, makes and retains friends for both himself and his goods. He shot in good form but was one of the unfortunates who lost but one bird in the twenty-five, thereby losing place and coin. This one bird, as it proved, was worth just one hundred and twenty five dollars. "Jack" was a long ways from home and I sincerely wish he had not lost it. Better luck next time.

Coming Events.

Oct. 26—Regular semi-monthly meeting of the San Francisco Fly Casting Club. Office of State Fish Commission, Flood Building, San Francisco.

NOTICE TO ANGLERS.

Every angler is invited to drop us a line occasionally, telling us of the condition of the streams they have visited and the killing lure of the number and size of the fish caught, or any other item of interest to anglers.

Eel River Notes.

Some of the incidents and happenings during the Walton post graduate of those doughty anglers, Butler, Benn, Gallagher, Van Slyke and Young may be of more than passing interest, for instance, Butler's conversion of Ellis Robinson. Robinson, it seems, had been accustomed, when fishing for the market, to use a long, unjointed bamboo pole with stout hook and line attached, a reel was superfluous, when he struck a fish and had him fast he would throw the pole from the boat into the stream and in due course the fish, hampered by the dragging pole would struggle until exhausted, thus making capture easy. In this manner Robinson had taken eighty fine fish. Though the method was effective and the results numerous its crudeness grated on the true sportsman's sensibilities of the angling quartette and between them they resolved to bring about a change of tactics. Van Slyke contributed a four and one-half ounce rod, Butler a reel, Young a line, and Benn the proper flies. Robinson thus armed cap-a-pie betook himself to his boat for a cast and try. After several casts he hooked a royal sized fish. Sculling to the shore with one hand and holding the rod with the other he finally brought the fish on the bank in grand style. His first success added much zest to later triumphs. Mr. Butler says Robinson is an unerring handler of the gaff. Benn's solicitude in improving a riparian farmer in the gentle art of fly casting may be looked upon with a slight tinge of suspicion. Benn, after a few hints and instructions, bade his quondam pupil cast here and there in likely water. When a fish would rise, the ambitious fisherman would make a desperate effort to strike, but the results were nil. Benn would then illustrate, gently, surely and with wondrous cunning and skill his fly would rest on the surface just where that fish would see it and want it, he generally got it and Ben got him. The pupil, of course, saw how it was done and somehow Ben got all the fish! Butler says "it was a mean Irish trick," but the humorous twinkle in his eyes did not vouch for his sincerity.

The day before Butler left the river, Jno. Gallagher, "the champion of Oakland," came down from Grizzly Bluff, where he had been fishing for four weeks. He was on his way to the city, but briefly noting what was going on, and after asking a few hurried but pointed questions, he unpacked his tackle and immediately declared himself a shareholder in the piscatorial Klondyke. He was still there at last advices. A keg of steelhead sent down to Deputy Fish Commissioner Hunt last Monday is a substantial testimonial that John is thoroughly enjoying himself.

The Ukiah Hatchery.

The past season has been a favorable and prolific one at the hatchery of the San Francisco and North Pacific Railway Company located in the Gibson Canyon near Ukiah. The trout fry (principally cutthroat) have been found to be in a most excellent condition for transplanting. At present they are being distributed in the streams of Marin, Sonoma Lake and Mendocino counties contiguous to the line of road operated by the above company. Up to date nearly 1,000,000 young trout have been placed where they will no doubt give account of themselves to anglers in the near future. Local interest in this distribution is very strong and the hearty co-operation of sportsmen along the road is extended the railroad officials who, by the way, propose to be unceasingly vigilant in the protection of fish.

The hatchery now has a capacity of about 300 000 per annum,but additions and improvements will be made shortly so that its facilities will be greatly enhanced. The numerous catches in Mendocino, Sonoma and adjacent counties have already attested the value of the work heretofore accomplished, and under the improved conditions contemplated the section ere long should prove to be a veritable paradise for the sportsman.

Grilse have been caught this week at Powell-street wharf and Oakland mole.

Good catches of sea trout and rock fish were made at Point Cavalho last Sunday.

Trout fishing has been as good at Glen Ellen the past week as any time during the season.

Smelt, sea trout, rock fish and "blue cod" are caught daily at the sea wall, foot of Fillmore street.

Smelt are still running on the Sausalito side. Some good catches were made on Sunday last and during this week.

I. Phillipson, Chas. Guscetti and Ed Daiss caught a goodly number of smelt and rock fish at Sausalitojon Sunday last.

Ten thousand trout were recently placed in the North Fork of the Feather River and 10,000 in Marble Creek, near Oroville. They were sent from the Sissons hatchery.

Game Warden F. D. Mandville of Santa Barbara has stocked Zaca and Guadalupe Lakes with black bass obtained from the State Fish Commission. The fish are doing well. He also has over 10,000 trout in his own ponds in the Santa Cruz Canyon. From these ponds he proposes to stock other places in the county.

Market Inspector Jordan captured over 500 pounds of young shark at Fishermen's wharf Friday a week ago. A number of the fish had been skinned, and would speedily have answered as "sturgeon" or "tenderloin of sole" in the peddlers' wagons and cheap restaurants. When Jordan tried to find an owner for the fish not a fisherman would say a word. After searching for the culprit for an hour Jordan gave it up as a bad job, and threw the young sharks overboard.

Some Suggestions for Horsemen.

EDITOR BREEDER AND SPORTSMAN, San Francisco, Cal.—Dear Sir: As an admirer and lover of the light harness horse I will ask the favor of space in your valuable paper to set forth my views suggesting modern innovations in harness racing that will, in my opinion, be more attractive to the masses, as well as remunerative to associations, and I am sure much less severe on our noble beasts than the old customs and methods now in vogue, and tend to lift it out of the rut into which it has fallen upon this Coast.

In speaking thus, I think the most conservative men in the business will bear me out in saying that harness racing is certainly below par as a drawing card west of the Rockies and certainly needs some radical change to elevate it where it properly belongs—one of the most popular, innocent and invigorating sports of modern times. As a regular attendant of harness racing during my residence in the East and West I have observed quite a difference as to the relative power of attraction of the same there and here. For in the former (the East) you will see from four to five thousand people turn out to a meeting in towns of that many inhabitants, where exhibitions of speed are comparatively poor, and in the larger cities of the size of Sacramento, where the better class of horses come together, will see or read of ten to forty thousand people attending, while here at meetings where equally as good horses compete you will only note from 500 to 2,000 attending, except possibly in Los Angeles (a city populated mostly by people from east of the Rockies), where I know the attendance is always very good.

The reason for this difference is, in my opinion, due generally to the fact that the Easterners are more particularly educated from boyhood for the love and sport connected with the harness horse. While the West has been more of a race horse country from its primitive days, and the youths, particularly the majority of them, have grown to love and cling more to the race horse. The most of them do not seem to enjoy the sport to its full extent without placing a small bet on their choice, which, in my opinion, is no more detrimental, as far as corrupting their morals is concerned, than taking a chance in a church raffle or anything else of that sort. And the small bet seems to lend "eclat" to the sport. As a consequence you see thousands of people attend daily every race meeting, while the trotting races do not draw a "corporal's guard."

And now to suggest a good remedy or change for improvement. In my mind, trotting races should be placed on as near a footing as possible with running methods in management, and one need not antagonize the other for there are plenty of opportunities for both. I confess that I like one as well as the other if placed on the same plan, and there is no use talking about laws being enacted to banish either sport as long as man lives, for the love of the noble animal in the majority of men's hearts, will protect it from ultimate harm.

But I am, like many others, disgusted in attending harness races and witness long drawn-out contests of speed under rules that governed the same a hundred years ago, and in which, in the majority of cases, the relative ability of the drivers in protracting the same by scoring and laying up heats seems to be much more of a factor in winning the race than the relative speed of the horses contesting, for in many instances you see the slower horse in the race win after barely escaping the flag one or two heats, while the speediest and best one of the lot has become fatigued and worn out fighting it out with another. And I say it is absolutely cruel in the extreme oftimes to see such a race (and no one can deny but what it is often seen) where the best horse at the start by long odds is so exhausted by the splitting of heats that it comes in at the end of the race utterly exhausted, quite often bleeding from the lungs and in many cases permanently ruined from such a race; for in its exhausted condition it not only suffers from overdoing the heart and lungs, but also becomes so weakened from exhaustion that the tissues become relaxed and the poor brutes break down or inflict severe injury to their legs by hitting where they were never known to touch before the race.

Besides, when such animals are relegated to the stud or harem, as they usually are, they fail to produce in conformity to their blood lines, but on the contrary often producing nondescripts or cripples, and you need not expect anything else nature has been so overtaxed for racing purposes that it is utterly impossible after sapping her vitality for her to produce in conformity to her laws. And I say we should learn better and treat the most noble servant that God gave man with wiser consideration.

And I would advocate doing away with seven-heat racing entirely and substitute the dash system therefor, with no race less than a mile and from that to a mile and a quarter, a mile and a half and two miles, classifying the horses the same as is done with runners, throwing out those entries in a class that were not deemed capable of competing in a manner to give a good exhibition to the public for a contest, making the purses from $300 to $1,000 or $15,000, according to class, with no entrance fee to small purses and only five per cent. for entrance to larger ones. For in my opinion trotting horse men are taxed too much entrance, and as they often remark, are trotting for their own money, less the dividends to associations, and some of them, if lucky, get it back, while others lose their money and time, and go broke as well.

As you should cater to the public, and as the majority seem to want it, allow book-betting (same as running associations do) and let those bet who wish, and those who do not will not be molested thereby and can see the races just the same. And those who do bet will be a thousand to one in the majority on this Coast, and if you give them quick action and an exciting dash for their money they will swell the gate receipts, so there will be no deficits in the treasury of a live association.

Then there will be no jealousy among trotting horse men against the success of the runner, for when placed under similar management they will draw equally as well in summer, while the runners can furnish us sport for the winter.

Under this system our horses will also be sounder in wind and limb and their earning capacity doubled, for a horse can go a dash four times in a week much easier than he can go two hard gruelling races of the present sort.

I would favor a standing start that will avoid the tedious delays of scoring that becomes very tiresome to the lovers of racing; this would also eliminate bad actors.

Then when harness racing is put on this plan (as I eventually believe it must be to survive), and two such horses as Joe Wheeler and Searchlight come together for a dash race you will see 30,000 instead of 1,000 people in attendance, and they will see the races and return to their homes early, invigorated instead of tired from the sport, and all will want to go again next day.

When horses are so raced it will depend more upon their relative merits in speed as to which one wins than it will in the driver as it does at present, and the farmer will then stand some show if he raises a good colt and wishes to participate in the sport. This will also stimulate his neighbor to breed one better, and if he don't want to train it some one will come along who does and pay him a remunerative price for raising, all of which goes to the stimulation of the harness horse industry.

At any rate such is my views from close observation of the subject, and while they may appear somewhat radical as a whole, I trust some will meet the approval of conservative thinkers in the business, who will add their thoughts and agitate the matter for an improvement and reform in the present system, and if I but add the least mite to its advancement I will feel well repaid for the time and thought I have given the subject. Respectfully yours, G. W. STIMPSON, V. S.

OAKLAND, October 20, 1897.

The Cleveland Sale No. 11 and 12.

On Wednesday Oct. 27th there will be shipped from California to Wm. B. Fasig & Co., three car loads of developed horses and colts to be shown to harness on the day of sale, excepting yearlings, these will be shown leading.

Palo Alto Stock Farm consigns twenty-four head, the Oakwood Stock Farm eight, the others included in the shipment being the great campaigner Jasper Ayers (5) 2:11¾, the fast and reliable race mare Visalia (6) 2:12½, the grand four-year-old filly Jaspine 2:14¾ and the fast and consistent performer Joe (5) 2:16¼.

The records of racing in California up to the present time speak loud in their praise of the performance of the last named horses. They are all winners of hotly contested races, and have shown their ability to trot faster than their records. There cannot be too much written of Jasper Ayres as a race horse; his career since a two-year-old has marked the first-class performer, and game campaigner. A bold, magnificient mover, with a perfct disposition makes him a horse that would suit the most exacting of road drivers. Jaspine is a grand-looking mare and promises to make an extremly fast performer. The gelding Joe has a wonderful burst of speed and can get going so quick that few, if any, horses on the road can out brush him.

Visalia (6) 2:12½ has trotted in races better than her record, is a consistent performer, has a perfect disposition and should be a money winner in her class.

The lot selected by Palo Alto represent the blood lines that have made the place famous. Purchasers of horses from this lot of youngsters will not have to develop speed, they are now developed and with the exception of the yearlings, four in number, can show fast enough to harness to suit the most exacting.

There are a number in the sale by that great sire of speed Dexter Prince, out of the best daughters of Electioneer, that have been handled since July 20th, that show marvelous speed. Of the ten by Dexter Prince in the sale, eight were taken out of pasture July 20th, the slowest one of the eight has shown a quarter in 37 seconds, the other two were taken up later. These have shown quarters in 40 and 41 seconds.

This year the two-year-old colt by Dexter Prince, dam Woodflower by Ansel, 2:20, son of Electioneer, won his third race trotting in 2:22½, the first heat, and repeated in 2:20½. The bay filly Lucrativa, 2:26½, two-year old, by dam Lucyneer, 2:27, by Electioneer, sold in Palo Alto's last sale in New York in March, and was only broke double and single a few weeks prior to sale, was timed the third heat at Rigby, Maine, in 2:18¾, the last half in 106¼, the heat won by janie Tin, 2:16¼. The showing made by Dexter Prince's two-year-olds on the circuit this year, and by those that are now being handled at Palo Alto for the Cleveland sale, I believe is the greatest heat development in numbers of youngsters ever heard of.

Last Saturday the bay gelding, Conlan, 2 years old, by Dexter Prince, dam Coral, 2:18½ (sister to Anteeo), pulling a cart weighing 70 pounds and a driver that weighs close to 200 pounds, stepped around the turn in 40 seconds, and through the stretch in 34¼ seconds. The Dexter Prince two-year-old out of Idlemay has shown a quarter in 34 seconds. The Jessie M. filly in 35, the Liska gelding in 36, the Loraneer filly in 36, the Ladywell filly in 35, the Carrie C. in 36, this development having been made since July 7th.

These youngsters are good size, have nice dispositions, have speed, and are gaited right to make fast performers.

Electioneer is represented in this sale by the beautiful brother to Palo Alto, 2:08¾, the grand young stallion, Governor Pacheco, 2:44.

The queen of brood mares, Beautiful Bells, contributes her yearling filly, Vesper Bells. The performances of the descendants of Belle this year both East and West has been of such a nature as to attract world-wide attention, her sons Chimes, Bow Bells, St. Bel, and her grandson, Liberty Bell, contributing many sensational performers, The Monk, 2:08½, The Abbot, 2:11¼, American Belle (3), 2:12¼, Jamie T. (2), 2:15½, St. Andre, 2:13, Tommy Britton, 2:11½, Dare Devil and Elsinora all carry the blood of Beautiful Bells.

Palo Alto, the great race horse of his day and stallion king, is represented by the handsome mare, Alla, who has a record of 2:12½, made as a four-year-old. Her dam is the great brood mare, Lulu Wilkes, by George Wilkes. Alla has shown miles in 2:18 over the home track, and is every inch a race mare.

Wildnut, a coming young sire, at Palo Alto, has two fillies in the sale yearlings, one out of Lady Ellen, dam of Helena, 2:11¼, the other out of Mamie, dam of Mittera, 2:17¼, Hyperion, 2:21¼, Memento, 2:25¼.

These fillies have stake engagements. Wildnut is sire of El Rami (4), 2:14 Jasper Paulsen (4), 2:16¼, Local (3) 2:19½.

Monaco (3), 2:19½, son of Electioneer, has but one of his get in the sale, the fast three-year-old colt Galena, half-brother to Palon, 2.18¼. Galeno has shown miles better than 2:20, and is a good prospect for a very fast performer. The eight two-year olds from the Oakwood Stock Farm are choice selections and in breeding and speed hard to excel from any stock farm in America. They are by the great sires, Steinway and Chas. Derby, out of mares by Electioneer, Nutwood, Guy Wilkes, Anteeo, Steinway, Woodnut and Liberty Sontag.

The reputation of Oakwood Stock Farm for producing extreme speed, such as Derby Princess, 2:08¼, Diablo, 2:09¾, W. W. Wood, 2:07, and Agitato, 2:09¼, is sufficient guarantee that from the same blood lines, and good individuals others will follow. RIO ALTO.

G. STRAUS, Lexington, Ky., has sold to the Rusicks, of Vienna, Austria, for an archduke whose name is not made public, the brown stallion Fordham, foaled 1895, by Falsetto, dam Semper Vive, by Waverly; second dam Semper Felix, by imp. Phaeton, out of Crucifix, by Lexington, at a price said to be about $4,800. Fordham was a good race horse, and has sired a number of good winners. Mr. Straus has sold Henry Schlessenger, of Vienna, for Baron Schallenger, the thoroughbred mares Giddy Girl, bay, foaled 1897, by Lyttleton, dam Refraction, by James A., out of Nellie McDonald, by Colossus; Debonnair, bay, foaled 1889, by imp. Deceiver, dam Bonairette by Springbok, out of Bonita, by Planet, and California, chestnut, foaled 1888, by Warwick, dam Maid of Stockdale, (now owned by Charles Kerr, of Bakersfield, Cal.) by Shannon, out of Nannie Hubbard, by Hubbard. Terms private.
